HE NEEDS FRIENDS.

Moody Merrill Located at a Summer Resort.

GREATLY IN NEED OF REST.

Bowed Down by Intense Mental Suffering.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—The Post this morning publishes the following story, which, it claims, is the only direct interview that has been had with Moody Merrill since his departure from this city.

After a long, stern chase, Moody Merrill has been unearthed and interviewed by The Post.

This discovery of the once eminent Boston lawyer and magistrate is in no sense the result of accident, but the outcome of well-laid plans, which, under the circumstances, could hardly fail of bearing fruit.

It was one thing to find the man; it was another to induce him to talk. Mr. Merrill was susceptible to argument and consented to an interview, which, while broken and disconnected, is none the less interesting.

Where He Is Located.

About 10 miles from Montreal, along the reaches of the Riviere-des-Prairies, among a region of churches, cabins, mansions and hotel resorts, bordered by the Royal's western brow, lies Sault aux Recllets. It is the very heart of the river country, reached by train over the Canadian Pacific railway, or otherwise along one of the finest turnpikes to be found in the world.

A suburb of Canada's commercial metropolis, presenting the most magnificent cyclorama of doffed plains and misty distances.

It was here a Post reporter yesterday discovered the Hon. Moody Merrill. He was seated in the garden which surrounds one of the best known hostilities in Sault aux Recllets, attired in a dark gray suit and chip straw hat. The big, blond mustache was still his most prominent facial adornment.

To say that he was surprised but half expresses his apparent feeling.

Merrill Has Changed.

Moody Merrill has changed materially since he was a familiar figure along Beacon Hill and Pemberton square. His face and his eyes show anxiety and gloom. He is deeply troubled over his affairs in Boston. He is a sick man. If he is not suffering from hypochondria he certainly looks it.

Twice during the interview he felt of his pulse and asked if he looked sick. His conversation was interrupted at times by a sudden change of subject.

He feels that he has been more sinned against than sinning and that he is entitled to a sympathy which should go down to the depth of his mental suffering and ally itself with his sorrow.

He wants friends, and if they are not forthcoming within a short time unquestionably Moody Merrill will be a fit subject for Verdun or the Longue Pointe asylum.

After a desultory conversation upon general matters, covering about every thing except those personal to himself, Mr. Merrill said, in answer to the query as to why he had left Boston as he did and where he had been since:

"Why I left Boston is, I presume you imagine, a matter of city and country. I am asking me the question solely to give me an opportunity to explain my position. That I am not ready to do at the present time. But the time is not far distant when I shall speak.

"I needed rest and time to think—to collect myself. I had no idea of combining business with pleasure."

Mr. Merrill here stopped and remarked: "If you quote me at all, it must be done correctly. I have been imposed upon so long by those who assumed to be friendly that it is a wonder I stood it so long as I did."

Not in Disguise.

"Are you passing under your own name, Mr. Merrill?"

"I am not aware that I am sailing under false colors."

"I am perfectly frank to say that if I were I would not very likely be seen as I have been about Montreal."

"I have not removed from my present headquarters, except for a day or two, since June 1. I am letting matters take their own course. It was not my fault I came away."

Being pressed for an explanation of the concluding sentence, Mr. Merrill said, seemingly to weigh each word as he uttered it: "I am not well."

If a spider had accidentally dropped down Hon. Moody Merrill's back at this time it would not have caused more of a start or shiver. "I needed a rest, and when they found I was absent from Boston, trouble began. It's all for the best, though, I can see that."

"Will you return to Boston soon?"

Mr. Merrill's face paled noticeably as he remarked: "I like Boston. I presume I shall return there. When, I cannot say. You see I read the papers."

With this he took from a hip pocket a Journal of Aug. 28.

He Has Been Bled.

Of politics in any sense he refused to speak, his declination bringing an expression of disgust.

It is plain that Moody Merrill, to use a slang expression, has been "worked" by the Tom, Dick and Harry of Massachusetts politics, and for the last time, if appearances count for anything, even should he return to active life in Boston.

"I am not sufficiently a philosopher to endure pain, consequently I cannot stand without flinching the leeches who have surrounded me," said Mr. Merrill, as he indicated that the interview was closed.

From the beginning to the end of the interview Mr. Merrill evinced a nervousness which it is hard to understand in any man who has so long been in the public eye.

Whether his interests in Boston are represented by counsel, or looked after by his son or brother, as well as to the truth or falsity of the allegations which have been made against him through the courts and public press, Mr. Merrill refused to say one word.

THE HATHAWAY FAILURE.

Business Men Surprised That His Methods Were So Long Undetected.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 2.—Broker Hathaway had been doing business with the Metacomet and Second National banks, but they became suspicious of his actions some time ago and suspended dealings with him. Now that the story of his transactions is out, it surprises business circles that they could have been carried on so long undetected. Bankers are in a very much disturbed frame of mind.

The two banks in the city that are reported to have some form of legal protection are the B. M. C. Durfee and the First National. They hold warehouse receipts for $11,000 and $10,000 respectively. The authorities have not yet been able to find the cotton that was supposed to be stored, and if it has been proven Hathaway will be amenable to the laws of the state.

His assets are about $40,000. By advice of his counsel neither Mr. Hathaway nor his bookkeeper will talk yet. The outcome of the affair will probably be a revision of the present method of conducting the cotton business.

CHIEF JUSTICE OF SAMOA.

The High Office Tendered a Citizen of the Green Mountain State.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Sept. 2.—Hon. Harry C. Ide of this place has been tendered the position of chief justice of Samoa. This office is one filled by consent of three treaty powers—Germany, England and America—and carries with it great responsibility and demands much legal ability on the part of the incumbent. Mr. Ide's appointment came by the recommendation of Germany during President Harrison's administration, and was recently taken up again by the present administration.

The appointee was at one time United States land commissioner at Samoa and his acquaintance with the people and customs there, together with his recognized ability as a lawyer, would serve him to excellent advantage in the important position offered him.

He Never Came Back.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 2.—Richard F. Cook, secretary of the Lynn Cycle company, started for Boston last Wednesday forenoon, and he said before going that he would be back by noon. He has gone by the train of this morning, and is not expected back until the evening of Monday. This means not only the downfall of an unlucky cycle company, but the abandonment of the project nearly completed of having the best gymnasium in this city.

Endeavors Adjourn.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 2.—At the closing session of the Maine Christian Endeavor meeting there were addresses by Rev. G. D. Lindsay, Mrs. L. M. Stevens and General Neal Dow on temperance; Rev. J. S. Williamson spoke on social problems; Rev. W. S. Ayres spoke on Bible work, and Rev. F. E. Clark conducted a question box. Officers were elected. It was voted to hold the next annual convention in Lewiston.

For the Benefit of the Poor.

WINCHESTER, Mass., Sept. 2.—The town of Winchester is soon to take possession of the income of an estate valued at from $50,000 to $75,000, this income to be applied to the support of the poor. This comes through the will of the late Asa Fletcher, who died about 10 years ago, leaving a will, by the terms of which his wife was to have the use of the estate during her life. Mrs. Fletcher died on Wednesday.

Broke Her Shaft.

MIDDLEBURY, Conn., Sept. 2.—The steamer City of Springfield of the Hartford line broke her shaft when just above Middle Haddam. The break was caused by a flaw in the engine. The tug Smith was called, and the Springfield was towed to a dock. It will require three weeks to repair her.

Seventh Connecticut Reunion.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 2.—The annual reunion of the Seventh Connecticut Volunteer regiment was held at Stony Creek. About 65 members were present. After the banquet addresses were made by John I. Hutchinson and Senator Joseph E. Hawley.

A Reduction of Time.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—The Boston and Maine railroad company has issued a notice ordering eight hours to constitute a day's work in the shops of their entire system, except in the Salem and Lawrence shops, where the old time will be continued.

To Run on Half Time.

DOVER, N. H., Sept. 2.—Notice was posted at the Sawyer woolen mills that the works, which have been stopped since Aug. 12, will start up on Sept. 3 and will run three days a week.

Grand Master Billings Dead.

PLYMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 2.—William C. Billings, grand master of the grand lodge, I. O. F., of New Hampshire, died here, aged 41, of diphtheria.

And Still Another.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Blanche Kent, aged 5, was crossing Tremont street last evening when she was knocked down by an electric car and received a severe cut on the left side of her head.

CHESTER'S HORROR.

Ten More Injured Taken to the Springfield Hospital.

CAUSE OF THE DISASTER

Continues to Remain a Matter of Conjecture.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 2.—Ten injured persons from the Chester wreck on the Boston and Albany railroad were brought to the Springfield hospital yesterday.

They are: Winthrop Wade of Boston, a lawyer; Wesley Porter, Jr., of Chicago, a Wagner car porter, Ralph Deforest of Boston, cook on the dining car; Murray Graves of Boston, cook on the dining car; Lewis Buchanan of Boston, a porter; Sumner Cummings and wife of Worcester, Mrs. E. B. Adams of Holyoke, M. F. Leech of Boulders, Colo.

Almost all those injured have broken hips or legs, except Porter and Deforest, who are severely scalded.

During the night the search for bodies at the Chester wreck was prosecuted without success, and the slow work of removing the debris was carried on by a gang of section hands. Before daybreak scores of persons were assembled at the scene of the catastrophe, and by noon this number was increased by thousands.

Houses Made Into Hospitals.

Early in the forenoon the dismantled engine was lifted from its bed of sand to the rails and pushed down the side tracks several hundred yards. It was stripped bare, like so many of the victims of the wreck, and its usefulness is impaired.

The passengers on the incoming trains were transferred in carriages along the Huntington road to the opposite side of the stream, and no attempt was made to follow schedule time. Nearly every house along the Huntington road was converted into a hospital and many of the victims also found refuge at Wright's hotel. Some 10 or a dozen of the slightly injured patients were permitted to depart for home early in the day.

The injuries to Walter T. Hawkins, the city solicitor of Pittsfield, were found to be more serious than was thought at first. His wife arrived and took charge of him. Besides the gashes in his forehead and lip, one wing of his nose is split open.

Ralph de Forrest of Boston, the cook who was so badly scalded, is falling rapidly, and it is feared his injuries will prove fatal.

Superintendent Gallup of the Boston and Albany railroad was seen by a reporter, but he said that he could not give much additional information to what had already been given. The railroad men have been kept at work continually on the temporary structure of trestle work, and it is expected to have the trains running over it by this afternoon, or at the latest Sunday.

As to the cause of the wreck Mr. Gallup said that he was at a loss to know where to lay the blame. The civil engineer of the road had been working on the matter, but as yet he has been unable to find any cause why the bridge should go down. He said that the company would bear the expense of caring for the injured at the hospital.

Trains from the east were running on time yesterday as far as the wreck, but were from one to two hours late on passing it. The trains from the west were less fortunate, and the train due in this city at 7:30 did not arrive until 9:40, while the other trains were correspondingly late. The mail for places west of Chester was sent around through Greenfield, or south, to New Haven and then up the Housatonic division of the New York and Hartford road.

Statements Are Guarded.

Much interest has been aroused in this city as to the cause of the accident. The question is being freely discussed in railroad circles and by the general public. Was the engine too heavy? Did it leave the track and so cause the bridge to give way? Where was the weak spot in the bridge? Was the train going too fast when it struck the bridge?

Then other similar questions the public would like to have answered, but all inquiries on these points are met by guarded statements from experts on bridge building, who say they will wait for an investigation.

Trust Funds Got Mixed.

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 2.—Samuel Porter, a real estate and insurance agent in Beverly, was before the district court here charged with embezzling $2500 belonging to the estate of the late Benjamin Preston. He was held in $3000 for the higher court. Porter is 70 years of age. The trouble came from mixing up trust funds with his own funds.

Life Saving Stations Reopened.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 2.—The 40 odd life saving stations that lie on the Jersey coast from Sandy Hook to Cape May, which have been closed since June 1 by order of the government, were reopened yesterday. Each station has a captain and seven men.

Another Outdown.

DOVER, N. H., Sept. 2.—The Cocheco Mills company announced that on Wednesday next, when the mills start up, a cut down of from 10 to 15 per cent will take effect. It is understood that the rule spinners will not accept the reduction.

Tinkering on the Navahoe.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Prince of Wales' cutter Britannia has gone to Southampton, where she will receive a new boom preparatory to the races for the Victoria cup. The Navahoe is still in dock refitting.

Died In Church Sheds.

REDBANK, N. J., Sept. 2.—Welsh Pettez, a German, was found hanging in the corner of the church sheds here. The suicide had come from New York on Tuesday to work for a farmer.

SATISFACTORY TRIAL.

Of an Automatic Electric Car Fender on the Quincy Railway.

A most successful trial was had Friday on the electric cars of the Quincy & Boston street railway of a new life-saving device.

The apparatus, which is the invention of George A. Parmenter of Cambridge, consists of a fender and catcher which are arranged on the principle of a pair of scales.

The fender hangs down from the bottom of the car within two inches of the rail.

The catcher, which is some ten inches back of the fender, is connected with it.

When the apparatus is in its nominal position the fender is down and the catcher up. When an obstacle, such as a human being, is on the track, it must strike the fender, which, as it depresses, lifts a catch which drops the catcher within an inch of the rail. As said above, the apparatus is so counter balanced that it works automatically.

There are no springs to get out of order as the apparatus is hung on pivots.

At the trial, Friday, it worked every time. Trials were made with a log of wood weighing 14 pounds, which is less than the weight of a child, and also with a dummy. These were placed on the track in almost every conceivable position and the car run at a speed of from 10 to 12 miles per hour and not once did it fail to pick up the object and land it safely in the catcher.

Those who declare that the earth is gradually drying out and that within a few centuries every drop of water will have disappeared from our planet will find some consolation in the announcement that the water line has risen one foot all around the Gulf of Mexico since 1850.

BRAINTREE.

Mrs. Charles A. Pitkin and the Misses Pitkin have returned from West Campton, N. H.

Rev. A. A. Ellsworth will occupy his own pulpit tomorrow. Services begin in the morning at 10.30 o'clock. All are invited.

George Allen Arnold, A. M., has been elected professor of modern languages at Norwich University, Northfield, Vermont, and leaves for that place on the 21st.

The Universalist Ladies' Aid society spent Wednesday at Poco cottage, Houghs Neck, the guests of Miss Helen W. Arnold. A number remained for the illumination in the evening.

Geo. W. Stevens and W. A. Torrey start Sept. 9th on a ten days' trip to the World's Fair. During the absence of Mr. Torrey, the drug store and post office will be in charge of the postmaster's father, Dr. Noah Torrey, and therefore, in safe hands.

The selectman at their meeting on Monday drew the following jurors to serve in the United States Court at Boston; William B. Merritt, Chester N. Shaw, George S. Boyer, J. Marcus Arnold and J. Francis Whiton. Also, for the Criminal Court at Dedham Edwards P. Allen.

The Knights of Pythias of this town having accepted the challenge of Delphia Lodge of Weymouth, to play base ball on Labor day, the match will take place at the White Park, East Braintree. After which the victors and vanquished, including the ladies, will dine at the Anderson House, Fort Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Artemas S. Pennock, of South Braintree, were aboard the ill fated train that crashed through the bridge on the Boston & Albany railroad, on their way home from the World's Fair. Mr. Pennock escaped uninjured but Mrs. Pennock received several bruises and was terribly shaken up, and no wonder.

Col. W. A. Baneroff of the 5th Regiment M. V. M., and Mayor of Cambridge, was in Braintree yesterday, accompanied by Major W. H. Oakes of the same Regiment, whose residence is in Charlestown, and met with Capt. W. E. Morrison of Co. K., for the purpose of making arrangements and looking over the ground in anticipation of the parade and sham fight to take place in Braintree, Sept. 27.

Mr. J. T. Clarke, our first Superintendent of Schools, was in town one day this week on business. We were pleased to meet him and was particularly gratified to learn from him that F. R. Arnold, son of Mr. Franklin E. Arnold, has been engaged as assistant teacher in the High school at Westborough, the town in which Mr. Clarke is Superintendent of Schools, and has been for seven years.

James F. Glover and wife of Dorchester have taken up their abode with the family of their son-in-law, Dr. J. Q. Hawes, on Middle street. Mr. Glover is a native of this town and lived here forty years ago. A great many changes have taken place since then, both in the experience of Mr. Glover and also in the appearance of the town of Braintree. Mr. Glover has in his possession the Boston Patriot for the years 1815 and '16 bound in book form. A valuable historical relic of a very stirring time in the history of Europe.

A Newspaper Trust.

"The American public are fond of bonds," once remarked Jay Gould. There is no reason to doubt, therefore, that the bonds and stock of the proposed New England newspaper combination will be taken readily. The Journalist is authority for the statement that the newspapers of New England are forming a great combination or trust to increase earnings and reduce operating expenses. The daily papers of the six New England states are entering into the organization, The Journalist writer says. It is only one more extension of the principle of combination or co-operation which has wrought such a revolution in the industries of the day.

Ten million dollars is the sum that it is believed the capitalists will require to purchase the newspapers they want. The plan proposed is to issue 6 per cent bonds to the amount of $5,000,000, then to issue stock—preferred and common—preferred stock bringing 7 per cent dividends and common stock returning dividends of whatever amounts are left over after payment of the preferred dividends. The newspapers will retain their present political and social leanings, but will be under one central financial management. Under this plan newspapers will not cost any more to the public, but will earn more for their owners. With united management, for instance, it is said the Boston Globe and Herald would save $30,000 a year in the one item of newspaper trains.

An important advantage would be that the combination would lease its own telegraph lines and employ its own operators to transmit news dispatches to the journals it controlled. Thus the small papers could get the latest news, and the telegraph expenses of the combination would still be reduced to a much lower figure than the large separate journals now pay for this service.

Twenty-three Years a Republic.

Sept. 4, 1870, imperialism failed France in her hour of direst need, and she shook its imbecile remnants off and proclaimed herself a republic. The fact that France's twenty-third anniversary as a republic falls on our own Labor day this year should make that day in America doubly cheering and interesting, especially to American citizens of French birth.

It will be a day doubly cheering and interesting to the patriots of France. With hearts swelling with thankfulness they may well sing triumphant republican peans, for their country has escaped this year from the deadliest peril that has menaced her since German cannon boomed around the very walls of the beautiful city. The republic of France has survived Boulangerism and destroyed it. She has survived and destroyed monarchy, imperialism, and finally the most grievous danger of all, the Panama scandal, which has shaken her to the center, yet not overthrown her.

One of the leaders of the Radical Republican party today, Charles Floquet, is the man who first raised the cry of the republic 23 years ago and kindled the flame that burned down forever the throne of kings in France. He has stood by the republic ever since, and France has stood by him even through the blackness of the Panama accusations. France has been purified as by fire, and her public men have learned their lesson. It will not need to be repeated.

America stretches out her hand in loving greeting to her beautiful sister of France, but bids her not to be too hot tempered and aggressive in dealing with other nations, especially those weaker than herself.

According to reports, there are now more than 50 abandoned vessels floating wild and stray over the great lines of ocean travel in the Atlantic. At any time they might come in collision with a sailing vessel or passenger steamer and send it to the bottom of the sea. Thus it may have been that the Naronic was lost, by having one of the derelicts drive down upon her in a storm. The commercial nations of Europe and our own government should mutually take in hand the task of finding these half-sunk wrecks and destroying them. Sometimes they ride so low in the water as scarcely to be discernible. The Philadelphia Telegraph suggests that this would be a fitting service for our navy in the present time of peace to "sink, burn and blow up the floating hulks before the stormy season sets in."

At last it has really been found, according to a patent office chemist—the method of extracting aluminium cheaply and thoroughly from its native clay. The man who invented the new process lives in Duluth, and he has succeeded in making chemical combinations hitherto pronounced impossible by the most expert professors. One would think by this time professors would have learned better than to say anything is impossible, but they have not, and the Duluth man has given them one more surprise. The method is a chemical one, quite dissociated from electricity, and by its application we are promised that aluminium will become cheaper than copper. Then we may indeed look for revolutions in metallic manufacturing.

Denver, which has sent thousands of unemployed miners east, has also been thoughtful enough to send something along to feed them. From Denver came eastward to President Gompers of the Labor federation the offer of two carloads of flour and two of potatoes. Colorado is not yet starved out anyhow.

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Has voted an emphatic majority for the repeal of the Sherman Act, but the people of Quincy have decided by a much greater majority that is the gem in its line in the city.

Hearn's New Drug Store

What a pretty store! How beautiful! How well laid out! Does it not light up beautifully at night? and other like expressions voice their verdict.

I thank you all for your kind words of praise, and feel grateful that my efforts to add an attraction to the city have been appreciated.

I am adding every day to my stock and will not stop until I am satisfied that I have a drug store that will compare favorably with any retail store in the state in my line.

I am giving my personal attention to the store, and can assure the people of Quincy that any prescription coming into my store will be filled with the utmost care and accuracy. I have had 14 years' experience in the business, almost five of which I have been in business for myself in West Quincy.

I feel gratified at the confidence imposed in me, judging by the share of patronage I have received thus far, and hope to merit more by strict attention to business and courtesy to all.

THE QUINCY FAMILY.

Whose History has been Identified with that of Massachusetts.

The Boston Journal today in its interesting series of illustrated sketches of "Noted sons and noted fathers," has a sketch of the Quincy family which is of local interest. It is prefaced with the following genealogical tree:

For almost as many generations as are contained in two centuries the name of Quincy has ranked high in public estimation. With an exception or two, every generation to which the name has passed has produced a man who has at least preserved the prominence first attached to it. The name of Massachusetts has been inseparably connected with that of the family, each reflecting honor on the other.

But the living generation has seen a change. With the last male representative of the family the name may pass away and become embalm in historical immortality. Although the Josiah Quincy of today is fast approaching his prime, his life in recent years has been exclusively spent in attaining political positions. It is quite possible that this extinction may be averted. The smileless bachelor, the last of his name, may tire of his loneliness.

Some Family History.

A biographer has connected the Quinys with the Earls of Winchester, who bore that name in the 13th century. What authority there may be to prove this connection is not commonly known.

The first representative of the family in the

The Transformation.

When love was forming, it asked for wings
That it might still be roaming,
And away it sped, by fancy led,
Through dawn and noon and gloaming.
Each dalliance that blooms and blows
It wooed in honeyed meter,
And when it won the sweetest sweet
It flew off to a sweeter--
When love was young.

When love was old, it craved for rest,
For home and hearth and heaven,
For quiet talks round sheltered walks
And long lawns smoothly shaven.
And what love sought at last it found--
A roof, a porch, a garden--
And from a fond questioning heart
Peace, sympathy and pardon-- When love was old.

—Alfred Austin.

The Midway Plaisance Girl.

The Midway girl is attired alike--that is, all of her wear broad, straight brimmed straw hats, with pretty ribbons and a high crown. She has a shirt waist and a pretty tie, sometimes soft silk in a butterfly bow, often in simple sailor knot, with the ends tucked in. Over this is an Eton jacket, simple and sweet, but mightily becoming withal. She has discarded the trailing gown with the great good sense that characterizes her and has on a plain stuff skirt that clears the ground all around. Her boots and gloves are sensible. The plaisance is a mile long, and there are many things to be handled in the bazaars and round the tables near the great bands, so she is comfortably booted and not grieved with things that soil easily.—Chicago Mail.

"The Waggle."

Are you on to the new walk--the new gait--of the fashionable girl? The paragrapher of the summer girl does not appear to have caught it, but it is here. It beats the Grecian bend or anything the girls have ever yet adopted as their own. It can be best described as a swagger. The head is moved from side to side, the shoulders and the whole body sway, giving exactly the motion a person apparently has who is standing sideways in a boat when the waves are rough. It is a foreign notion introduced last season abroad, and the few fashionable women who are trying it on may think it beautiful, but it isn't. It is technically called "the waggle."—Philadelphia Times.

Economical Costumes.

It is very much the custom for girls and young matrons whose purses are not overweighed to have two very well cut skirts, one of some soft serge or like serviceable material, the other of dark silk, plain or figured, and to wear with these four or five pretty waists turn and turn about--cambric, pink or blue linen, victoria lawn, etc., for the morning, and silk for the afternoon, either short, checked, plain or flowered, of surah, china or bengaline silk. With navy blue silk skirts are worn pretty blouses of pale blue or one of the oriental printed silks, which, despite the lightness of texture, are of practically endless wear and always in excellent last.

Behanded by Cars.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 2.—William Farrell, 22 years, was behanded by an Ontario and Western coal train at Solville. He fell under the wheels while trying to board the train while in motion.

Bismarck's Sickness.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—Prince Bismarck's rheumatism is still so acute that he is unable to leave Kissingen. He takes only one short walk daily.

Joseph F. Duffy, 37, of New Haven, was struck by a train near the Union depot. The chances are that he will die.

The Boston and Maine Railroad company has made eight hours a day's work in all its shops, except those at Salem and Lawrence.

The Washington County Christian Endeavor convention was held at Cabot, Vt., with a large attendance of officers and members.

Fred Anderson, aged 10 years, while crossing the tracks in the Maine Central yards in Portland, Me., fell under a moving train and lost a leg.

A man whose name was not obtained, bent by the city of Worcester to the state almshouse, died on the train between Lowell and Tewksbury, Mass. He was unattended.

Otto Ulrich, about 17 years old, was accidentally shot while out fishing on Hampden pond, Holyoke, Mass. He was with companions named Shubach and Gero. He lived about two hours.

The Boston Manufacturing company will start up next Tuesday as expected and run every other week until further notice. The company makes cotton cloth and employs about 3000 hands.

—Two basket mills at Dover, Del., are now turning out 9000 peach baskets per day. The work is done with great ease, rapidly and precision. The fastest basket maker in these mills makes from 250 to 300 baskets per day. He is paid one cent per basket.

THE MONEY MARKETS

Have Been Relieved by the Action at Washington.

CONFIDENCE IS RETURNING.

Industrial Situation, However, Shows Little Change.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—R. G. Dunn & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:
The house has passed the silver bill by a majority astonishing to its friends, and a favorable result in the senate is now believed not to be far distant. Instant improvement in the stock market followed, the average of prices rising over $2 per share, and there was also a rise in wheat, cotton and pork. Money markets throughout the country are more healthy, failures diminishing in number, and resumption by a number of banks and other establishments illustrates the general tendency toward revival of confidence. Manufacturers do not yet feel the upward impulse and exhibit on the whole rather less signs of improvement than a week ago.

Stocks rose a little on Tuesday and sharply on Wednesday, with large transactions. Wheat was affected to some extent by the Vienna report, though it was presently realized that the estimates as to this country were no more reliable than those of the department, and that the estimate as a whole gave no assurance that the heavy surplus of old wheat would be required. Corn yielded a little with more satisfactory crop reports.

In spite of better advices from the more important cotton producing states, the price of that staple was advanced an eighth.

The industrial situation mends but little. The signs of improvement observed a week ago are scarcely sustained, for while 12 textile and 13 iron and steel concerns have resumed after stoppage 53 textile and 21 iron and steel concerns have stopped. In addition 13 others have reduced working time and several have reduced working force, and a large number of the works, including those at Fall River, have reduced wages from 10 to 30 per cent.

The shipments of boots and shoes from Boston show a decrease for the last week of 30 per cent, compared with the corresponding week last year, and although a somewhat better feeling is also reported in this branch of business, failures therein are quite numerous.

The anxiety about money has been somewhat relieved, and scarcely any premium is now paid for currency. The supply of money for commercial use is very scanty here, though at other cities banks are growing more liberal.

If confidence continues to revive the industries will presently be stimulated to greater activity by increasing demand for their products.

The failures are greatly diminished in importance and somewhat in number. The failures for the past week in the United States were 336, against 148 for the same week last year, and in Canada 29, against 28 last year. In the eastern states the failures numbered 149.

Silver Purchases.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The silver purchased by the treasury department during the month of August, 1893, was 3,938,022 fine ounces, costing $2,883,532. The total silver purchased under the act of July 14, 1890, up to Aug. 31, 1893, has been 16,047,064 fine ounces, costing $151,894,170. From the silver bullion purchased $3,087,185 silver dollars have been coined, the bullion therein contained costing $29,562,117.

Hanging Too Good For Them.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 2.—A dispatch from McKinney, Ky., states that six tramps, five of them colored, met the 5-year-old daughter of one of the Upland grove on a lonely road. She was frightfully maltreated. Five of the tramps have been captured, and a wholesale lynching is threatened.

Rob Attacks Premier Flouquet.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Standard's Paris correspondent says that M. Flouquet on leaving a stormy political meeting in the Rue Angoulême, was attacked by a mob of 6000 persons. Two revolver shots were fired into his carriage, but he escaped without injury.

A Youthful Suicide.

BAY HEAD, N. J., Sept. 2.—Artsen, son of Francis Rawle, a Philadelphia lawyer, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head with a revolver in his father's cottage here. The deceased was 19 years of age. No reason can be assigned for the act.

Made a Business of It.

CARLEISLE, Pa., Sept. 2.—Thomas Muma, son of Councilman Muma, was arrested at Mechanicsburg charged with burning $25,000 worth of property within the past few weeks in that town. It is said that he will make a confession.

Illegal Use of the Mails.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—George Samuels, proprietor of the "United Artists' association," charged with using the mails for a scheme to defraud, waived examination before Commissioner Hofso and was held in $1500 bonds.

Gladstone's Triumph.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The home rule bill passed the house of commons last night, the vote on the third reading being 311 to 267. Five minutes later the bill had its first reading in the house of lords.

Schooner Stranded.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Schooner Dora, stranded four miles from Monomoy station, Mass. The cargo was lumber. The crew remained on board.

Fatally Wounded His Bride.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Sept. 2.—While playing with a revolver that he did not know was loaded, Leo Stafford shot and fatally wounded his wife. They had been married but six weeks.

The Yemassee Is Safe.

CHARLESTON, Sept. 2.—The missing Clyde steamer Yemassee, from New York, has arrived here. The vessel is not seriously injured.

Four Days a Week Only.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 2.—Work will be resumed at the Clyde print works at River Point Tuesday, but they will run but four days a week.

CLOUDS ARE BREAKING.

London Capitalists Would Like to Invest in Boston Bonds.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—A firm of London capitalists, through their Boston correspondent, asked the city treasurer of Boston yesterday what part, if any, of $1,000,000 worth of city of Boston bonds they could have and at what premium. They were informed that out of the $1,000,000 loan advertised on July 27, which was a-begging at that time, the city had sold about $600,000, and consequently at the present time the city has only about $400,000 left to sell.

The brokers were told that the city would sell of the London people these $400,000 worth of bonds at the same figure that the city was receiving over the counter; viz., the registered bonds at par and the coupon bonds at a premium of 2 per cent. The Boston brokers, who were Brewster, Cobb & Esterbrook, said that they would cable the reply to their London correspondents.

This call from London will help to lift the cloud of financial depression that has hung over city hall for some months. Acting Mayor Lee wrote Mayor Matthews the full particulars of the "call" from London.

The acting mayor also wrote to inquire whether Mayor Matthews would authorize the issuance of another $1,000,000 loan to provide for divers sums already appropriated.

The city of Boston has been sailing pretty close to the wind lately, for while loans to the amount of $9,786,850 have been authorized, only $1,000,000 have been issued, and but $600,000 actually sold. The city is really in need of another loan, and it must have a million or more at once.

It is probable that Mayor Matthews will immediately order the issuance of another $1,000,000 loan, for the city hospital, for the maintenance of streets, and for street widenings. After these $2,000,000 are disposed of, there will still be $7,000,000 in loans authorized, but not issued.

IN CONGRESS.

Senator Vance Takes the Floor and Speaks Against Repeal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The rules which will govern the proceedings of the present house were again discussed. No change of importance was made in the new code, and without concluding its consideration the house adjourned.

The house bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act was fairly under way in the senate. It was taken up early in order to give an opportunity to Mr. Vance of North Carolina to make a speech against it. Mr. Vance is one of the Democratic minority members of the finance committee, and for nearly two hours he kept his batteries of wit, humor and sarcasm playing upon the measure and upon the members of his own party who support and advocate it.

When he got through his entertaining speech an effort was made to simplify the further parliamentary line of proceeding in the consideration of the bill by having the committee's substitute adopted pro forma, so that all amendments to be offered might be amendments in the first degree instead of the second degree, which would tend to smooth and simplify matters. That proposition did not, however, suit the ideas or plans of Mr. Cockrell (Dem., Mo.), who objected to it, and, as it required unanimous consent, it failed, of course, to be adopted.

From that point on to the point of going into executive session a confused rambling colloquy was carried on between Mr. Cockrell and some Republican senators involving the question of adhesion to or repudiation of the Chicago Democratic platform. The discussion was not ended when the adjournment took place.

WITH RENEWED VIGOR.

The President Once More Resumes His Duties at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The exaggerated statements concerning the president's health rendered his return a subject of the deepest interest. He reached the executive mansion without attracting attention. His private secretary said that Mr. Cleveland never looked better in his life, and if any surgical operation had been performed upon him as alleged there was no trace of it whatever in his appearance.

The president said that his three weeks' absence had been of great benefit to him, and he is now ready to resume the duties of his office as an evidence of his health. He at once summoned his cabinet, and a protracted session was held and the accumulated business disposed of.

The president informed the secretary of state that he was not yet ready to take up the Hawaiian question, as there were some other matters requiring his earlier attention.

Balcony Gave Way.

PANAMA, via Galveston, Sept. 2.—Senator Arango was sworn in as governor of the department by the present high court amid great popular rejoicings. While the ceremony was going on in the governor's palace part of the balcony collapsed and many persons fell into the street and were hurt.

Wreck and Fire.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 2.—A Philadelphia and Reading coal train was wrecked here by the break beam of a car becoming dislodged and catching in the ties. The wreckage covered both tracks and 10 cars were burned. Albert Drexel was badly hurt.

Looking Over the Reading's Books. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—Expert Accountant Stephen Little of New York has begun an examination of the Reading's railroad books in order to confirm the statement of the receivers, which has been completed and placed in his hands.

A Hero in Rags.

NORWICH, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Three children had been tossed from a bridge into the water here and a tramp dived in after them. No one was there to aid him. When he had safely landed the three, he bowed to them and disappeared in the woods.

Fire Extinguished by Flood.

ALTONA, Pa., Sept. 2.—The fire in Eureka coal mine No. 6 at Punxsatawney has been extinguished by the mine being flooded with water. The bodies of Miner Hughes and his two sons have not been recovered.

Lasker's Challenge.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Emanuel Lasker has received a letter to W. Steinitz, the chess champion of the world, challenging him to a set match of 10 games up to the championship of the world.

France's Invitation.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—The Liberte says that the officers of the Russian squadron that is coming to France will be invited to visit Paris, where they will be hospitably entertained.

ONLY SPARODIC CHOLERA.

There Need Be No Cause For Alarm In Jersey City.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The continuation of deaths in Jersey City from cholera disease has caused some astonishment that more vigorous steps were not earlier taken to learn its exact character. Dr. Salmon-stall of the Jersey City board of health said:

"There is really little cause for alarm in the recent cases of so-called sporadic cholera. The four deaths were the result of over eating and drinking. Excessively hot weather always induces extraordinary fermentation during the process of digestion, and in these cases it was sufficient to bring on acute cholera morbus. Of the more recent cases that of Morton exhibited symptoms of cholera, which was aggravated, if not produced, by reckless over-eating. Dr. Cooney, who attended Mrs. Smith, found a complication of symptoms indicating cholera, inflammation of the bowels and gastritis. Dr. Converse made a careful diagnosis of the case of Martin Crowe, who died on Wednesday, and pronounced it gastro-enteritis."

"It will be seen that all the cases have been connected with abnormal exciting causes and have nearly all been the result of unwise indulgence on the part of the patient. It is also noticeable that with the cessation of the hot weather no new cases have been reported, which is the more remarkable when one remembers that in a majority of the cases the authorities were not informed of the facts prior to the death of the patient, and therefore could not take effective measures to prevent contagion."

The officials who were seen admitted that in two of the cases the physicians who were in charge, though of fair standing in the profession, were entirely without experience in cholera cases.

LOW RAILROAD RATES

Expected to Draw a Big Crowd to the Grand Army Encampment.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 2.—The extensive and elaborate arrangements for the meeting of the Grand Army national encampment next week have been completed. The attendance of members is estimated at from 75,000 to 100,000, and free quarters in temporary barracks and school buildings have been provided for 25,000. The railroads, as usual, have given lower rates for this than for any other event of the year, and it is probable that there will be 200,000 visitors in the city during the week.

From all that can be learned, the encampment will be one of the largest in the history of the Grand Army, but of course the World's fair at Chicago will have a great deal to do with increasing the attendance. Almost all the Massachusetts delegation have bought their tickets with the idea of going to Chicago, and it is reported that the delegations from other states will do the same. It promises, indeed, to be almost a second encampment at Chicago, and something should be done by the authorities of the fair to make the presence of such large numbers of veterans a special feature.

TREASURY FIGURES

Show a Decrease of $4,000,000 in Pen-sions in August.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The official comparative statement of the receipts and expenditures of the United States issued in detail from the treasury department show that the receipts for August were $7,000,000 less than for July, while the expenditures were $6,000,000 less. The expenditures for the two months of the present fiscal year exceeded the receipts $17,000,000.

This excess had to be drawn from the treasury available cash, which was reduced of course just that amount, or at the rate of $8,500,000 per month. The statement shows one significant decrease in the item of pensions, which were $4,000,000 less than were the payments under this head in July.

Railway Mail Clerks Open Their Convention at Boston.

A FOUR DAYS' GATHERING

To Consider Needs of Widows and Orphans.

BOSTON, Sept. 5.—The 19th annual convention of the United States Railway Mail Service Mutual Benefit association opened here today. For the first time in 11 years the first division of the railway mail service has the honor of entertaining delegates from the other divisions throughout the country.

It opened this morning in Faneuil hall at 10 o'clock and will hold a session each day till Friday.

The members of the Boston division have spared no expense to make the affair a success, and the visiting delegates will be looked after by committees appointed in Boston, who will make this convention one long to be remembered. Committees met the visitors at the different depots as soon as they arrived, and they were ushered to the hotels selected by the Boston delegation, where they were made as comfortable as possible.

A large number of invitations were sent out to prominent people and in a great many cases they have been accepted. Postmaster General Russell of Washington is unable to be present, but he is represented by his second assistant, J. Lowrie Bell. President Barry of the common council will represent the city of Boston on account of the absence of Mayor Matthews and acting mayor Lee.

Governor Russell sent a letter of regret, but he stated that he would be at the house on Thursday between 10 and 10:30 to receive any of the delegates that might wish to call.

Among the other prominent persons present were Hon. James E. White, general superintendent of the railway mail service; Alexander Grant, assistant superintendent; M. D. Wheeler, chief of the postoffice inspectors; and Hon. W. J. Pollock, superintendent of free delivery, all of Washington.

Hon. Thomas P. Cheney, who was the first superintendent of the first division in Quincy, will be present. At present he is pension agent at Concord, N. H. The postmasters of all the large cities in New England have been invited and a large number of them have accepted.

Business Begins.

The president of the association Hon. T. T. Taylor of Fort Scott, Kan., called the convention to order. The program today was as follows:

Prayer; address of appointment of committee on credentials; annual address of the president; reading of the minutes of the last meeting; report of the secretary and the treasurer; report of the board of directors; report of other committees; unfinished business of last session; nomination and election of special committees; communications, resolutions and new business; election of officers.

This evening the first division will give the ladies a reception at the Quincy Hotel. Tomorrow there will be an excursion and shore dinner at Nantasket Beach. The steamer will leave Rowe's wharf at 9:30 and 10:30 a. m.

Thursday the session will last all day. The program for Friday will be announced in the convention. This association is composed of clerks in the railway mail service throughout the country and was organized about 20 years ago to secure pecuniary aid to the widows, orphans, heirs and devisees of the deceased members of the association. It now has a surplus of over $11,000 in the treasury, and during the past year has paid out in death benefits about $46,000. A large portion of this amount was paid to the heirs of clerks who lost their lives in railroad accidents or while on duty as a clerk in the service.

A STRIKE UNLIKELY.

Fall River Manufacturers Will Have a Talk With Operatives.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 5.—It now seems very probable that the city will be spared another strike of mill operatives. On Saturday Secretary Howard sent a letter to the Manufacturers' association asking for a conference between a committee of the spinners and a committee of the manufacturers.

Secretary Rouseville answered it yesterday, saying the manufacturers were willing to meet a representative delegation of their spinners next Wednesday. A united excursion of weavers and spinners was held yesterday at Crescent Park, a point on Narragansett bay. On the way down several leaders and members of the strike were spoken to regarding their feelings about the situation. It is quite evident that the leaders of the union do not deem a strike wise or prudent at this time, but they are being urged along by members who have not been receiving any wages during the past four weeks.

The weavers now evince a disposition to act independently of the spinners in deciding the strike. It cannot be judged from conversations with members just what move will be made at their meeting tonight. It is generally conceded that the leaders will prevent the members from striking, provided the manufacturers will agree to make some concessions.

A CRISIS IMMINENT.

Auburn Shoe Manufacturers Insist Upon Individual Contracts.

LEWISTON, Me., Sept. 5.—Day by day the possibilities of an amicable settlement between the Auburn shoe manufacturers and their employees have been dissipated, and the situation has at last reached a crisis, the outcome of which is hard to predict. It came in the form of an announcement from the Manufacturers' association yesterday, which is as follows:

The undersigned firms and corporations formally announce to men and women working at the shoe business in this vicinity that hereafter each firm or corporation will make individual contracts with its employees, and are prepared to make such contracts as fast as workmen are needed. This announcement does not include lasers, as contracts with them are still in force.

This was signed by the seven firms of the association. This move on the part of the employers has widened the breach between them and their workmen. The men stand by their union and absolutely refuse to make individual contracts.

Waiting For a Compromise.
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 5.—Mills No. 1 and 6 of the Dwight Manufacturing company at Chicopee have shut down indefinitely, and 630 persons are out of employment. A new schedule of wages, with from 7 to 8 percent reduction, was to have gone into effect this week, but the help expressed dissatisfaction and the company was willing to shut down until such time as work may be resumed on a permanent and profitable basis.

Case of Murder.
PROVIDENCE, Sept. 5.—The mystery surrounding the death of Dr. Adoniram Judson Greely has assumed a new and startling phase, as Medical Examiner Palmer, after a careful inquiry, reported to the deputy chief of police that the doctor's death was not due to an accident, but to violence inflicted at the hands of some person. The coroner will commence an inquiry at once.

Johnny McDonough's Mishap.
BOSTON, Sept. 5.—Little Johnny McDonough, 3 years old, was burned to death through his clothing catching fire at a bonfire in East Boston yesterday afternoon. A distressing feature of the case is the fact that a man, with an overcoat on his arm, was standing near the child when its clothes caught fire, and did not throw the garment about the little one through fear of spoiling it.

Death Would Be Welcome.
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 5.—William Ackerman of Easton was attacked by hydrophobia a few days ago. He is strapped to his bed with quinine and iron. In his frenzy he chews the bed clothing, tries to bite himself, curses, prays, sings, begs for a knife with which to kill himself and cries out in agony, "Oh, God, why can't I die?"

Tyler Lowers Records.
HARTFORD, Sept. 5.—The first day's race at the Hartford Wheel club at Charter Oak park were attended by 5300 people. Tyler broke the world's record for the half-mile, riding in 1:01 2/5. He also cut the quarter-mile, flying start, record in competition down to 25 4/5. Windle did a quarter in 26 3/4.

Has But One Arm Now.
BOSTON, Sept. 5.—Eugene Hardy, 14 years old, was fooling with a gun at his home at Roxbury when the weapon exploded, shattering his left arm at the elbow, to the Massachusetts general hospital, where the injured member was amputated above the elbow.

Wife Will Live.
MERIDEN, Conn., Sept. 5.—Dominick Bartholomew, an employee of the Meriden Bronze company, shot his wife and then committed suicide yesterday afternoon. Jealousy was the cause of the act. The wife will recover. The suicide was 43 years old and leaves two children.

A Cyclist's Fatal Spurt.
BIDDEFORD, Me., Sept. 5.—James H. Beatty of Saco, while spurring on a bicycle at the Saco Driving park, ran into the pole of a teamster's wagon and received injuries which will probably prove fatal.

Cherishing News.
PROVIDENCE, Sept. 5.—Nearly 300 looms in the Valley Falls mill were started yesterday. The rolling mill there will resume operations today. Keeck & Brown of Valley Falls started up yesterday.

Death of Colonel Bonaparte.
BEVERLY, Mass., Sept. 5.—Colonel Jerome Bonaparte, the son of Joseph Napoleon Bonaparte and grandnephew of Napoleon I, died hereat his summer residence after a lingering illness.

FED ON LIVE STOCK.

Panther Has Been Troubling Farmers in Schenectady's Suburbs.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 5.—For a week past farmers in Glensville, just across the Mohawk river from this town, have been annoyed by the depredations of some wild animal, which would make a nightly meal of a calf or a sheep. Last Sunday night the family of William Dougall, living three miles from this town, was aroused by strange cries in the yard. Upon investigating with lighted lanterns the men folks found a calf at the back door. The animal was tied to a stoneboat and had dragged the boat several hundred feet. The ground showed the imprints of a panther's feet. Other farmers had similar experiences, many losing their calves and sheep. Last night the mystery was solved at Mohawk, a suburb of Schenectady, when a full grown male panther was shot and killed. The panther, which weighed 140 pounds, had evidently wandered down from the north woods.

Not Discouraged.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 5.—Charleston is ready to announce the world that she is ready for business gain. A sufficient number of wharves have been repaired to accommodate all shipra ports and railroads are running trains on regular schedules. Subsidies in money and provisions aggregate about $500 and the canvass is still going on.

New York Day at the Fair.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Yesterday was New York day at the World's fair. Roswell P. Flower and Chauncey M. Depew shared the popular honors of the celebration. Their sentiments in praise of their state fell on sympathetic ears and evoked great applause.

As Castary.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Germany's first ambassador to the United States, Baron von Sauerma Jettich presented his credentials to the president yesterday and the customary speech of mutual good will were exchanged.

WHAT DID HE USE?

Pertinent Question Concerning the Graves Poisoning.

NO AUTOPSY WILL BE HELD

If Friends of the Dead Man
Have Their Way.

DENVER, Sept. 5.—The attorneys and personal friends of Dr. T. Thacher Graves, the famous prisoner who killed himself in his cell in the county jail by taking some subtle unknown poison, are opposing the effort to hold an autopsy and inquest.

It is hinted that Dr. Graves ended his own life with some mysterious drug or combination of drugs which could only have been prepared by an expert chemist, and those who believe him guilty of the murder of Mrs. Barnaby are said to be connecting the poison by which the doctor ended his own troubles with that contained in the mysterious bottle of whisky sent Mrs. Barnaby from "her friends in the woods."

It is hinted that the strange poison was very likely the same in both cases. Two leading physicians, who were to have held an autopsy yesterday, have refused to do so until the county commissioners will guarantee a fee commensurate with the importance of the case.

Mrs. Graves, the doctor's widow, is stoutly opposed to the autopsy and inquest. She says that after the letters the doctor left there is no need of an official investigation. Her husband was persecuted to death, she says, and that is all there is to it. She is not yet satisfied that the doctor committed suicide and does not believe that his letters were written while in a suicidal frame of mind.

"Heart Failure."

She thinks he simply had prepared them in anticipation of death from sudden shock, and she believed that he died from heart failure, due to the publication of the last fusillade from the prosecution, containing its promise of positive new evidence.

Dr. J. W. Hufaker, Mrs. Graves' physician, saw her early yesterday morning. At 9 o'clock he reported that she passed a good night and that she was perfectly rational and that her mind was clear. The doctor conducted her to breakfast, and she ate a little.

The doctor's attorneys, Judge Macon & Son, will take legal steps to oppose an autopsy and inquest. Everybody except Mrs. Graves is satisfied as to the fact of suicide, but her friends do not attempt to change her opinion at present, as they believe it would only be a useless blow to her.

"Under the Shadow of the Gallows" is the name of Dr. Graves' book, which he has asked his wife to complete. In his letter to her he states the hope that the will provide a fund to keep her and his mother comfortable during the remainder of their lives.

A NEW IDEA

Which Will Help Prevent the Importation of Contagious Diseases.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Superintendent Kimball of the life saving service issued an important circular letter to all keepers of life saving stations on the Atlantic seaboard and especially to those in and about New York. The circular instructs the officials of the life saving service to co-operate with the officers of the marine hospital service in preserving a strict quarantine on infected ships.

To this end the surf men are instructed to keep a close lookout for all matter such as bedding, clothing, vegetable matter, etc., which may wash ashore. This matter they are directed to handle with rakes only, to dry and burn it. They are also instructed to see that no person who may escape from ships detained at quarantine are permitted to land.

In a general way the life saving service will assist all in its power to maintain rigid quarantine when it is established so as to lessen the chances of infection to this country through the means of diseased household articles.

Medical Congress Opens.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The Pan-American medical congress opened today. President Cleveland sent a few words of welcome, but did not make an address.

Two Women Speak

says:—

"I was troubled with irregularity and leucorrhoea. I followed Mrs. Pinkham's advice, took her Vegetable Compound, and used her Sanative Wash. I now feel like a new woman, and am perfectly healthy."

Mrs. E. Fox,

Woodstown, N. J., writes:—

"I had been sick to years with womb trouble and leucorrhoea. I could do no work. Doctors could not help me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did. Now I can do all my work, and stand nearly all day, and not feel tired. I cannot thank you enough. I recommend it to every woman who has any weakness."

Mr. Granville E. Winslip, a milkman of Wollaston, died this morning after a heroic struggle. Last March he had the measles and congestion and consumption followed.
The funeral will be on Thursday. Interment at Lexington.

Rev. S. S. Cummings of the New England Home for Little Wanderers delivered an interesting address in behalf of that institution at the Wollaston M. E. church on Sunday evening. There was music by little children from the home.

About ten o'clock Monday morning the telephone wires became crossed with either the electric light wires or the trolley wires, and as a consequence, there was a little blaze in the telephone office. One switchboard was entirely burnt out and the operator received quite a little fright.

This evening a grand banquet complimentary to H. W. Fiske, the new landlord

The season is waning at Houghs Neck, few extra cars being necessary either on Sunday or Labor day.

The crew of the Gretchen have a mascot in the form of a little black and white kitten. The kitten brought good luck in Monday's race, and hereafter the little feline will be guarded with jealous care.

A little fellow fell off the float on Sunday but was promptly rescued by a gentleman who was near by.

One of the most wide awake crowds at the beach Labor day was entertained by J.
G. Ray of the Montgomery cottage on Manet avenue. They were the employees of the Sears estate of Boston, and with base ball, foot ball, boating and a chowder and the "fixin's," they had a very enjoyable outing, for which Mr. Ray was greatly praised.

Annual Shoot of Co. K.

The annual shoot of Co. K., took place at Braintree Labor day and from a numerical standpoint was a success though the shooting was hardly up to the average.
About 100 participated. The prizes offered were two silver medals for members and a silk umbrella for honorary members. In the contest for first prize, Sergt. Ewart W.
Adams and Priv. Joseph Gallagher tied on a score of 18, and on the shoot-off Gallagher won by a score of 14 to Adams 12. These scores were on five shoots with a possible 25.

Mr. James R. Qualey won the honorary members' prize by a score of 18.
Following the shoot a supper was served at the armory, after which the time was spent in games.

Ladies' Day Saturday and Yacht Race Labor Day.

THREE BOATS IN EACH CLASS.

Many Ladies Enjoy the Hospitality of the Club.

Saturday was Ladies' day with the members of the Squantum Yacht Club and a jolly good time they had. The skippers were busy all Saturday morning putting their yachts in ship-shape, shining brasses and stowing away the luggage.

At 2 o'clock the members of the club with their invited guests adjourned to the club house where a beautiful and appetizing repast awaited them.

After luncheon was over the ships hove anchor and passed in review of Commodore Johnson and then took a spin around the waters of Quincy Bay and Boston Harbor.

The yachts with their guests were:
The Mary C., Commodore Johnson and family.

The Oleta, Captain J. S. Barch and
family.

The Areturus, Captain Hallowell and
family.

The Restless, Captain George DeHuff and Labor Day Race.

The Squantum Yacht Club held a club championship race off Norfolk Downs, Monday afternoon. The air was light and towards the finish the wind died out altogether.

In the first class the Gretchen crossed the line first and kept the lead all the way around, finishing first with lots of time to spare.

The Agilis met with an unfortunate accident that deprived her of a large sail area. While on the second leg her bowsprit parted, necessitating the removal of the topsail. She finished the race with only her mainsail and jib set and came in second, though on time allowance she lost to the Ineta.

LAST OF THE SEASON.

Final Regatta of the Quincy Yacht Club Sailed in a Strong Wind.

The members of the Quincy Yacht Club have been favored with fine weather and wind in nearly all of their races this season.
Saturday was the day set for the last regatta of the season, and again fine weather favored the skippers while the wind, though a little too strong for the smaller craft, gave the first class boats a chance to test their sailing qualities.

Just before the starting gun was fired, the first class boats hovered around the line, each skipper watching the other with jealous eye in their endeavors to be able to cross the line first. As the gun boomed over the waters the five starters, and every one of them flyers too, made a dash for the line.

The White Fawn crossed first with the Gipsy a close second, while the Beatrice and the Moondyne crossed abreast of each other with the Eulalie just astern. After crossing the line all the boats ran out the line.

The Spinnakers
On the run down to Downer Landing, while the Beatrice and the White Fawn carried the topsails along.

The wind was blowing down through the West Gut in powerful gusts which caused the boats to keel way over. When off Sheep Island a fierce flaw came whistling from the westward. Instantly the orders were given to take in all light sail in a hurry. All succeeded in doing this but the unfortunate White Fawn. Her crew was not quick enough and before they had time to realize, there was a crash above, and her topmast and sail came tumbling downward. Her skipper saw that it was useless to continue in such a condition, and bidding adieu to the other boats the White Fawn returned home.

On the run down to Downer Landing the Eulalie forged ahead of the Gipsy, but lost her position again on the reach to Hull.
Much Interest
was manifested as to what kind of a race the Eulalie would put up, but it was evident that in a good strong breeze she was completely outclassed by her rival, the Beatrice.

The Beatrice held the lead all the way around, putting up a magnificent race that brought her over the line, the winner of the Quincy Yacht Club's cup. The Gipsy, however, proved a dangerous rival and gave the Beatrice a close race all the way round, coming in a close second. The Beatrice, by this race, wins her third cup this season,
she having taken trophies from the Hull and Montauk clubs. She has a record that her owner may well be proud of, and her name will go down on the records as one of the fastest boats that have ever belonged to the Quincy club.

Commodore Faxon was away sailing on the matrimonial sea, and, as a consequence his boat was not entered, so that in the second class the Opechee had things all her own way.
And she came over the line a winner by a wide margin.
In the third class was the greatest surprise of all. Those staunch little boats, the Mab and the Imp, could not stand the strong wind and withdrew from the race disabled. The Dux and the Elsie who were obliged to withdraw on account of the high wind, leaving only the Sunbeam and the Don to sail over the course.

The Sunbeam proved herself a good boat in a strong breeze and came in a winner, taking the cash prize. As the Mab and the Imp have each a leg for the third class cup a sail off between the three will be necessary. The judges were H. A.
Keith, P. H. Gavin and C. F. Pettengill.

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Has voted an emphatic majority for the repeal of the Sherman Act, but the people of Quincy have decided by a much greater majority that

Hearn's New Drug Store

is the gem in its line in the city.

What a pretty store! How beautiful! How well laid out! Does it not light up beautifully at night? and other like expressions voice their verdict.

I thank you all for your kind words of praise, and feel grateful that my efforts to add an attraction to the city have been appreciated.

I am adding every day to my stock and will not stop until I am satisfied that I have a drug store that will compare favorably with any retail store in the state in my line.

I am giving my personal attention to the store, and can assure the people of Quincy that any prescription coming into my store will be filled with the utmost care and accuracy. I have had 14 years' experience in the business, almost five of which I have been in business for myself in West Quincy.

I feel gratified at the confidence imposed in me, judging by the share of patronage I have received thus far, and hope to merit more by strict attention to business and courtesy to all.

"GEM OF A HOSTELRY."

The New Greenleaf Throws Open Its Doors to the Public.

Labor Day Marks a New Era in the Enterprising Granite City.

A Description of the New Hotel—Elegant Furnishings—Experienced Hotel Man the Manager.

Labor day marked a new era in our city. We have had public houses and hotels for over a century, and some of which the people of the past were proud. The old Hancock house was a noted hotel in days gone by, before the Old Colony was run through to Plymouth. The Robertson House, built in 1876, flourished for awhile, but it appears not to have been conveniently arranged, either for the comfort of guest or profit to the landlords. The new Greenleaf, which threw open its doors Labor day, is a hotel with all the modern conveniences and comforts, a metropolitan hotel in appointments and up to the standard of the best in New England. It is a hotel such as Quincy has long stood in need, and we wish it success. A city of 20,000 cannot afford to be without a first-class hotel, and it has suffered for a few years for the want of one.

THE NEW GREENLEAF.

A fine large brick structure with stone trimmings whose architectural appearance would at once command more than passing attention, especially the main entrance with its polished granite pillars on either side which lends to the effect of the whole facade of the building and pronounces the structure a hotel, which it is, and one of the finest to be found outside of Boston.

Monday evening all the rooms were illuminated, and the business houses of the city being closed, it was particularly attractive. Many citizens accepted the invitation extended to the public generally to inspect the house, and all with one voice spoke in praise of the arrangements and the furnishings.

The block it will be remembered was sold at auction about a year ago by the administrators of the estate of the late Joseph W. Robertson and was purchased by Mr. John R. Graham, the price being over $50,000. Representative Graham and other prominent and progressive business men then formed the Quincy Real Estate Trust. These gentlemen with the assistance of Councilman Moxon, a large contractor and architect, have completely remodelled the interior, scarcely one of the original partitions standing. The stairways are in a different place, also the dining room, the parlor and in fact everything.

A Description.

The Boston Hotel Guide undoubtedly knows a good hotel when it sees it, and it terms "The Greenleaf" a "gem of a hostelry from top to bottom and describes it at follows:

A SNAP-SHOT AT "THE MOVING SPIRIT."

While a number of our best known and most progressive citizens have been concerned in the successful completion of the new hotel, it is simply giving credit where credit is due to say that the moving spirit through it all has been Mr. Alonzo G. Durgin. Circumstances, as well as his own particular aptitude and fitness for the work, have combined to thus prominently identify him with the enterprise; and largely as a result of his business capacity and careful attention to detail the successful outcome of the work of renovation of the former building is due.

Not only has he been energetic in superintending the work of reconstruction, but it is chiefly through his efforts that the new tenants of the stores in the lower story have been secured, the removal of the fruit store and the construction in its place of the attractive building occupied by Pettengill's jewelry establishment.

All citizens interested in the progress of the city will feel like thanking Mr. Durgin and his associates of the Quincy Real Estate Trust for what they have accomplished in the way of markedly improving an important section of our leading business street.

"The Greenleaf is located on the corner of Hancock and Granite streets in the heart of the city within a few minutes walk of the Old Colony station and is all that could be desired in point of location. Hancock street is the principal street, and the one on which the electric cars run, passing the house every few minutes.

"A large sum of money has been expended on the hotel and its furnishings and the nicest taste displayed especially in the selection of carpets to harmonize with the beautifully papered walls in the parlors and sleeping rooms. The house is lighted throughout by gas and electricity and heated by steam.

The Main Entrance

on Hancock street is elegantly tiled and set in mosaics. The rotunda is wainscotted in paneled oak and presents a rich appearance in connection with the soft blending of the cloud tinted walls. On this floor is located the office also furnished in antique oak, with electric bells, annunciator and burglar alarm and all the accessories of a first-class hotel office.

"The dining room to the right has been decorated in a highly artistic manner and fitted with antique oak chairs, tables and sideboards. Three highly polished brass chandeliers fitted for gas and electricity will furnish the light for many pleasant events that will take place within the borders of this cozy banquet room. Directly back of the office on the left is located the gentlemen's smoking room and leading out of this is the lavatory which is fitted up with the latest sanitary improvements.

A Broad Marble Stairway

"From the rotunda leads to the second floor which contains besides twenty guest rooms the ladies' parlor. These rooms are arranged singly and ensuite and are handsome rooms to be found anywhere among first-class hotels. On this floor also are bath and toilet rooms wainscotted in oak and supplied with the most approved bath and sanitary appliances.

"On the third and fourth floors are eighteen and seven rooms respectively.

The Furnishings are Excellent.

Iron bedsteads, oak chamber sets and nice carpets are all that one could desire, bath and toilet rooms also on these floors complete the compliment of rooms and to say the least might be copied by some of our more pretentious metropolitan hotels in points of taste and comfort.

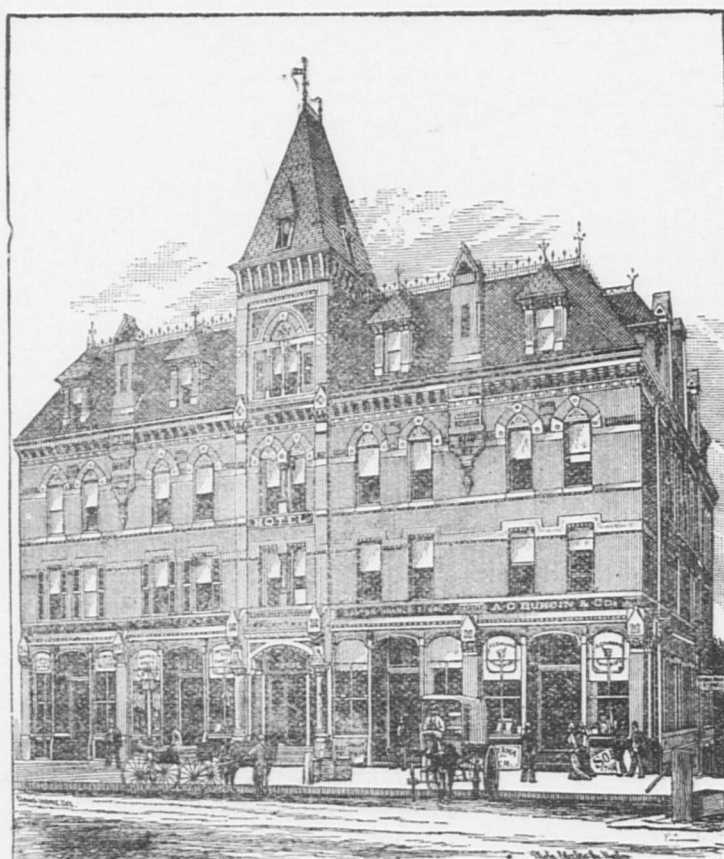

"The rooms are all light and airy and command wide and sweeping views of historic old Quincy, its handsome residences and beautifully shaded streets and parks.

"Although a hotel may contain all mentioned in the above there is one feature which stands out boldly and cannot be slighted in the least degree and that is the kitchen and its equipment.

This Important Feature.

Messrs. Smith & Anthony, the hotel kitchen furnishers of Boston, have supplied everything, from one of their large hotel ranges down to the smallest cooking utensil. The kitchen occupies the larger part of the basement and contains the refrigerator, ice boxes, etc. A large boiler, supplies the steam for the steam tables and the radiators of the house. The laundry and dish closets occupies the balance of the basement.

"Taking everything into consideration which tends to make a hotel first-class in points of general excellence and a comfortable suburban home it seems as though The Greenleaf fills the bill."

THE ROBERTSON HOUSE.

The first brick business block built in this city. Erected in 1876 by the late Joseph W. Robertson. Showing the hotel entrance and the store fronts as they were before the alterations, and the occupies fourteen years ago. It is in the interior, however, that the change has been the greatest, and those acquainted with the Robertson House cannot recognize it now.

somely furnished in antique oak chamber pieces, with white enameled iron bedsteads with brass trimmings. Hair mattresses and National woven wire springs and carpets of rich and costly design complete the equipment.

"The ladies' parlor is a poem. The furnishings are elegant and expensive and one is struck with the fact that no little taste and knowledge respecting effect in light and shade has been expended in making this one of the most attractive and will be the manager. Mr. Fiske has the reputation in Boston of furnishing a menu as choice in character as could be desired by the most fastidious patron, and this fact added to his popularity as a public caterer will no doubt make The Greenleaf the scene of many a fine banquet and select dinner party."

"H. W. Fiske, formerly of the Tremont house and Hotel Oxford, Boston and a thoroughly

Experienced Hotel Man

SHOOTS AT WOLLASTON.

The Druggist Surprises the Boys on Both Days—Olney Was Lame.

The Wollaston Trap Club held shoots on Saturday and on Labor day.

At Saturday's shoot Mr. Tucker who has championed the little end of the horn for some time, came in number one.

The score:
C. W. Tucker, 10
D. B. Lincoln, 9
A. G. Olney, 8
P. N. Bates, 8
Al. Williams, 2

There was a large attendance on Monday. Mr. Olney, who is suffering from a disabled arm got the lowest score on Labor day, and Mr. Tucker, was tied for second by A. L. Baker.

The score:
A. A. Lincoln, 13
C. W. Tucker, 11

A. G. Olney, 3

Hereafter the shoots will be held on Saturdays at 4.30 p. m.

—Mr. Charles G. Esterbrook, for 24 years editor and proprietor of the Weymouth Gazette died on Saturday, the result of a recent shock. Mrs. Esterbrook is also ill.

Thomas B. Vinton, the DAILY LEDGER agent at Braintree was fatally burned by an accident about midnight Saturday in the cellar at his house. He took home what he thought to be kerosene and was pouring it into an oil barrel, but it proved to be gasoline and it ignited from the lantern, causing an explosion. Mr. Vinton was horribly burned and died at 10.30 Sunday morning. He was 75 years of age and leaves two sons and two daughters.

DIRECTUM'S GREAT FEAT.

He Lowers the Stallion Record by Making a Mile in 2:07.

New York, Sept. 5.—The trotting meeting which terminated at Fleetwood park was one of the most brilliant of the many trotting meetings given this year. The attendance yesterday was 12,000. The feature of the day was the performance of Directum, who trotted a mile against time, with a running mate, in 2:07, and established a new record.

With a long and even stride Directum started on his course. He took the lower turn without a single false step, and, as he swung around, it was seen that the running mate was urging him to do his best. The quarter was reached in 30 seconds, and when the half was announced of 1:00 1/4 a shout went up from the crowd, for the horse had covered this distance in faster time than was ever before made in public.

The three-quarters was made in 1:32 1/4. Around into the stretch he turned, finishing, pretty well worked out, in 2:07, a new world's record for the stallion class. Another feature of the meeting was the breaking of the record for five miles by Pascal in a race against time. The horse covered the distance in 12:45. The previous record was made by Lady Mac in 12:47.

AT HARRISON'S HOME.

Fighters for the Country's Honor Get a Grand Reception.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 5.—Yesterday was the day of opening the 22d annual gathering of the Grand Army, and the home of ex-President Harrison arranged a royal welcome for her thousands of visiting veterans. The committee on preparations has provided accommodations for 125,000 persons. With the exception of New England every part of the nation is well represented by the throng already here and thousands will arrive later. Last evening there was a natural gas and electric display in the grounds of the state house.

Gallant Life Savers.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Superintendent Kimball is informed that the fishing schooner Maggie Mitchell stranded two miles off Chatham, Mass. The crew was saved and the vessel abandoned. The sloop Mascot was stranded at Atlantic City, half a mile from shore. Thirty-seven passengers were taken off by means of the life saving service boat and the sloop floated.

Waiting for Repeal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—A cabinet officer is authorized to state that the administration at this time is preparing no currency measure to be presented to congress. It is interested only in the passing of the repeal bill. After that measure is passed it is said that a general measure to carry out the Democratic platform as to currency relief will be considered.

Gladstone Won.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—In the house of commons last night Mr Gladstone moved a resolution to have the government the whole time of the house for the remainder of the session, to suspend the 12 o'clock rule and to appoint Saturday sittings. Finally Mr Gladstone's resolution was carried by the application of the closure rule.

MANY CHANGES PROPOSED.

Repeal of State Bank Tax to Be Taken Up.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The senate had a long and wearisome session, with little of interest to enliven the proceedings. The house bill for a repeal of a portion of the Sherman act was kept steadily to the front after it was taken up (about 1 o'clock), and it was still before the senate at the time of adjournment, 5:45 p. m. Speeches were made upon it by Senators Cullom (Rep., Ill.), Coke (Dem., Tex.) and Peffer (Pop., Kan.).

Among the minor incidents of the session was the passage of the house joint resolution making Sept. 18, 1893, the 200th anniversary of laying the cornerstone of the Capitol, a holiday in the District of Columbia, and the defeat of the resolution proposed by Mr. Allen (Pop., Neb.) for an adjournment of the senate in recognition of Labor day.

An Interesting Question.

The question of repealing the tax on state banks as called for in the Chicago platform is already before the senate in the shape of a bill introduced some days ago. Also in the Butler amendment to the Voorhees bill offered yesterday and in the shape of another amendment to Mr. Voorhees's bill providing for the extension of the circulation of national banks. The latter bill has been effectively side tracked and there appears to be little hope of resurrecting it.

It is predicted, however, that as soon as the repeal of the Sherman bill has been effected the proposition (should that ever be) to repeal the tax on state banks will come to the front at once, and when it does it is probable a discussion will be begun looking to a thorough revision of the financial legislation of the country. The idea of basing the circulating notes of state banks upon state or municipal bonds does not find favor in the senate for the reason that such security is not looked upon as substantial enough to withstand the assaults of the stock markets and does not obtain that high place in the confidence of the people which bonds and evidences of the indebtedness of the federal government hold.

Personal Opinions.

Senator Gray, speaking of this matter thought the day was not far distant when this whole subject would have to be considered and acted upon by the congress of the United States. He said that the conditions today and those before the war when the state banks were in vogue were as widely different as possible. There was no more danger now of wildcat banking than there would be of attempting to enforce the fugitive slave law.

Others think the idea of issuing more bonds, like the federal reserve notes, is a nightmare that causes unrest and uneasiness. Senator Voorhees is, perhaps, the most outspoken champion of state banks on the floor of the senate. What he means by a state bank is not as commonly understood, but he believes that banks which have a circulation based upon specie itself—gold and silver.

He is not one of those who believes the security of the notes should be found in state or municipal bonds, but he holds that it should be based upon the precious metals themselves. This means that there should be at all times in the vaults of the banks one-third the amount of its notes in gold and silver, an amount amply sufficient, from this point of view, to redeem any of the notes of the bank that might at any time be offered for redemption and upon which to transact the business of the community in which the bank is located.

His plan also contemplates government supervision and inspection, a combination which, he believes, offer a solution to the problems now before the house and give them a system of banks as firm and reliable as any ever devised in the world.

There is no gainsaying the fact that a bill with this end in view will be one of the first to be introduced in the house has adopted its rules, and the Democrats in the senate are thus early discussing the probability of its passage.

Work For 2700 Men.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5.—Every department of the Carnegie steel plant at Homestead was started yesterday, giving employment to about 2000 men. About 500 are yet idle. They will be provided with work within a few days. About 700 men were given work in the Braddock wire works, which resumed operations yesterday. No wage reduction was offered as had been anticipated.

Diplomats Are Hum.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Minister Blount called upon Secretary Gresham yesterday and had a short talk with him on the Hawaiian question in regard to the fixing of date for having a conference on the subject with the president. Secretary Gresham declined to give any information on Hawaiian matters.

President Will Be There.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—President Cleveland was yesterday invited to attend the centennial anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the United States Capitol on Sept. 18. Mr. Cleveland said he would attend, and also promised to make an address.

Boston Again Show St. Louis Men What They Can Do.

Boston, Sept. 5.—The champions battled hard for the first time in 10 days and captured their eighth successive game from the Browns with the greatest ease. Staley pitched very effectively, the hits of the visitors being scattered. The batting of Lowe, Long, Duffy, McCarthy and Carroll, the base running of McCarthy and Goodenough and the fielding of Long, Carroll and Goodenough were the features. Peitz has gone to St. Louis a sick man.

The Catholic Congress.
CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Down in the Hall of Columbus in the Memorial Art Palace a little man in a red robe electrified 2000 persons by simply standing up before them, and yet it was not that he was a great curiosity which caused this outburst, but because he was Cardinal Gibbons, and that he was opening the session of the Catholic congress. In the progress of his speech he made no reference to local matters. Mr. Stoitt was not mentioned, neither did he refer to his position on the school question.

GAVE HIMSELF UP.

Broker Hathaway Saves the Fall River Police Trouble.

IS CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

Creditors Have Consolidated in the Prosecution.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 6.—Broker Welcome H. Hathaway (went to the central police station yesterday afternoon and surrendered himself to the authorities. Counsel Andrew J. Jennings accompanied him. Hathaway was immediately placed under arrest. A few minutes later his wife and brother Rufus drove to the station and went bail for him in the sum of $5000 for his appearance before Judge McDonough.

It was officially stated that a warrant charging Hathaway with the forgery of a bill of lading, which forgery involved an amount of $5000, had been issued by the lawyers acting for the allied banking interests affected and others involved. It was further stated that the warrant had been given for service.

Counsel Jennings' action in surrendering his client prevented the police inspectors visiting Mr. Hathaway's house to bring the broker to the station. The alleged criminal act mentioned in the warrant was one which made the National Union bank a victim, and it is given out that the change was made in this manner simply to hold the broker. The banks and other creditors have consolidated in the prosecution.

Hathaway will probably waive examination and be bound over to the grand jury. When his case comes up before that body, District Attorney Knowlton will determine whether or not any other charges are warranted by the evidence adduced.

THRILLING EXPERIENCE

Related by a Member of the Crew of the Wrecked Savannah.

BOSTON, Sept. 5.—Twenty seamen, together with the purser and steward of the wrecked steamer City of Savannah, arrived in Boston yesterday. The men still showed the effects of their terrible experience, but were very willing to tell about the hardships they had been through. One of the seamen in talking about the affair said:

"You haven't any idea at all of what we had to suffer from Sunday night until Wednesday morning. It was awful; perhaps not so bad for us fellows, for we don't mind a thing like that so much, but it was terrible for the passengers. It was about 5 o'clock Monday morning when we struck, and that moment the Savannah began to go to pieces.

"Just as soon as she struck we all went up on the saloon deck, and we didn't leave it until Wednesday morning, except to climb into the rigging. We had to do that every high tide. As soon as it was low tide again we could get on the saloon deck once more. Then the water gave out. We managed to find a barrel of mineral water, and that 30 gallons of water had to last everybody on the steamer for 24 hours.

"The hardest part of our experience was the way we were neglected by towboats. Tuesday afternoon a large towboat appeared off starboard and saw us, and came directly for us to within less than a mile. Then she went off to the port side for about the same distance, and continued to look at us, but never came any nearer to help us, and there we were signalling for help and expecting the steamer to go to pieces with the next high tide."

BAY STATE PROHIBITIONISTS

Will Probably Nominate a Hyde Park Clergyman For Governor.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 6.—The prohibition state convention was called to order at 10:30 o'clock this morning in Mechanics hall by Walter Hamlin, temporary chairman. Nearly 1000 delegates were present. Professor John Bascom of Williams college is permanent chairman; Robert F. Raymond of New Bedford is chairman of the committee on resolutions; William H. Peck of Newton, chairman of the committee on permanent organization, and John Hewitt of Worcester, chairman of the committee on credentials.

For governor, Rev. L. A. Banks of Hyde Park; lieutenant governor, H. C. Smith of Haydenville; secretary of the convention, Samuel B. Shapleigh of Boston; treasurer, Wilbert D. Farnham, Jr., of West Somerville; auditor, Alfred H. Eves of Ashburnham; attorney general, Robert F. Raymond of New Bedford.

The above is the slated ticket.

New Bedford Spinners' Troubles.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 6.—A large meeting of the spinners' union was held last night, when the spinners discussed the notice of reduction posted in the mills. It was decided to appoint a committee of six to confer with the manufacturers and see if some compromise cannot be effected. The committee was instructed to report to a special meeting of the spinners some time before Monday, and if the committee does not have time to report before that time the spinners were instructed not to go to work on Monday.

War on Organ Grinders.

SOMERVILLE, Mass., Sept. 6.—War is still on with organ grinders in this city, and the police are determined that the city ordinance relating to street pianos and organs shall not be violated without the conviction of the violator. For playing their instruments without a license from the city, Thomas Colaraco and Pedro Franchino yesterday paid fines of $10 each.

the Blackinton Woolen company of North Adams. Lawyer Williams of New York asked for a continuance, which was opposed by Lawyer Crosby, representing the First National bank of Greenfield. Judge Robinson said he desired to afford a chance to effect a settlement and continued the case one month.

Killed Himself Instead of Brother. MILFORD, Mass., Sept. 6.—Jesse Daniels, 43 years old, unmarried, committed suicide in a drunken fit. He first attempted to kill his brother Alfred, then put a 2-caliber bullet through the right side of his own head, dying almost instantly. Alfred was spared, the bullet glancing from the button of his pantaloons. Both lived with their widowed mother, aged 86.

Shot at Annisquam Range.

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 6.—Edward W. Pierce of the shoe firm of J. W. Woodbury of this city, was seriously injured at Annisquam by being shot in the arm by the accidental discharge of a gun which he was handling at the range. The arm will be amputated.

Enjoying Themselves.

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—Clerks of the first division of the United States Railway Mail Service Mutual Benefit association gave a reception at the Quincy House last evening. For the delegates and friends are on an excursion to Nantasket to enjoy a shore dinner.

The Best Yet.

LEWISTON, Me., Sept. 6.—President Terard of the state fair said yesterday was the best opening yet. The show in city hall is well organized and is an evening attraction. Besides the exhibit of manufactures, etc., a good exhibition of art works is made.

PEARY'S LONG TRIP.

Expedition Snug For the Winter at Falcon Harbor.

RETURNS NEXT SUMMER.

Unsuccessful Inquiry Made For Missing Scientists.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 6.—The steamer Falcon has returned to this port, having successfully accomplished the landing of the Peary expedition at that place.

The Falcon left here July 15 bound for Labrador to purchase the dogs necessary for the success of the expedition. She arrived at Beale Harbor on July 17 and cruised along the Labrador coast, calling at Turnagik, Hopedale, Okeak and Cape Mugford, meeting with but indifferent success in the purchase of dogs, and, after getting only 20, left Labrador.

July 23 she reached the Greenland coast, and July 27 four donkeys belonging to the expedition perished of exposure. The Falcon sailed along the Greenland coast, calling at Holstenberg, Disko, Upernivik, Cape York, Holstenberg and Dalgemar, getting the balance of the dogs needed, a greater number being necessary because of the loss of the donkeys. Altogether the party got 87 dogs.

At Cape York Lieutenant Peary got five native Eskimos to assist in caring for the dogs and to do general work. The Falcon arrived at her destination on Aug. 3. The voyage was fairly pleasant, as little ice and no bergs were encountered.

Falcon Harbor.

The Falcon made the passage across Melville bay in 24 hours and 30 minutes. This is the quickest trip ever made across the bay by 11 hours. On reaching her destination the Falcon cast anchor in a harbor, christened by Lieutenant Peary as Falcon harbor, 30 miles north of his former headquarters. The house was immediately set up, after which the stores were packed in and about it.

On Aug. 12 the ship started north on a walrus hunt, Peary, Eirik and Vincent accompanying her to get enough walrus to supply the dogs with winter food. They spent four days on the ship and got beyond Littleton island, 80 miles north, and then went within 15 miles of Cape Sabine, when an ice pack was met with, and, being impenetrable, the ship was forced to return.

Thirty-one walrus were killed, their edible meat weighing 25 tons. The party reached their headquarters Aug. 17 and landed the meat and the few stores that had not been taken out of the ship before.

The Falcon started on her return here Aug. 20. Then the house was nearly completed, and the party were living in it. There were several men employed daily in carrying stores from the headquarters to the interior ice camp, where they were cached in readiness for the great inland expedition next spring.

Difficulties Encountered.

The work was very difficult, and only one trip could be made daily, even with the burros and dogs. The remainder of the party were engaged in completing the house and arranging the stores. It was found that the house used by the last expedition had been torn down and used for various purposes by the natives.

A whole colony of natives living on Inglefield Gulf moved near Lieutenant Peary to remain with him during his stay. Lieutenant Peary proposes to occupy the time till winter in exploring the adjacent country, and immediately upon the opening of spring will start on his great overland journey across Greenland to the northern point reached by him last year on Independence Bay.

Thence he will proceed as far north as it is possible to get, even to the pole itself, though this part of the plan is likely to be abandoned, as he has decided to return next summer and not remain till 1895, as was his original intention. It has been definitely settled that the Falcon will return for him next year.

No Trace of Berthoff.

Exhaustive inquiries concerning Berthoff, who was supposed to have been killed last year by falling into a crevasse, were made by the party, but nothing could be learned of him, and now no doubt remains as to his fate.

Search was also made for the two Norwegian scientists, Kjelstermuss and Djorling, who left here early last year in the schooner Rippel to explore Smith sound. Nothing was known of them at any points touched, so it is probable that they and the crew of four men were all drowned.

All the party were well and in good spirits at the time she left Falcon Harbor. One incident of this expedition will be the birth of a child. Late in September Mrs. Peary is expected to become a mother. The infant will be the first white child born in this latitude. In fact, it will be born farther north than the habitation of any human being of the present day.

Noted Cotton Buyer Dead.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 6.—Lloyd G. Bowers was suddenly stricken with apoplexy and died in a few minutes. Mr. Bowers was one of the oldest cotton buyers in this section and known in commercial circles throughout the south. He was a native of Somerset, Mass., but a resident of the south previous to the war. He was 63 years old.

A Pauper No Longer.

RICHMOND, Sept. 6.—Mrs. Amanda C. Ribble, an inmate of the almshouse in this city, won a suit in the corporation court at Norfolk awarding her real estate valued at $70,000. Mrs. Ribble has been an inmate of the almshouse constantly since May 23, 1891. The suit had been in the courts for several years.

Composer Itzel Dead.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 6.—Adam Itzel, Jr., a talented musician, died here of consumption. He was 29 years old. Professor Itzel was a prolific composer. His greatest popular success was the opera "The Tar and the Tartar."

Murdered For Money.

DENVER, Sept. 6.—W. T. Welch, a young Englishman traveling in the west for his health, was murdered by Mexicans near Aguilar. Robbery is the supposed motive.

With the only complete bicycle plant in the world, where every part of the machine is made from A to Z, it is any wonder that Victor Bicycles are acknowledged leaders? There's no bicycle like a Victor, and no plant so grandly complete as the one devoted exclusively to the manufacture of this kind of wheels.

THAT SNAP shot of Druggist Durgin pleased the boys. It was true to life.

NEW BEDFORD's tax rate also shows an increase; it is $17.50, against $17.30 last year.

THE QUINCY schools are very fortunate this year, having opened without any change in principals, and only two or three new teachers in the corps of nearly one hundred.

QUINCY NOW needs that much talked of opera house to go with its new first-class hotel. One would be a help to the other and a help to the local business generally. The city must have a large hall and the "sooner the better."

THERE is a breeze in Brockton because the board of health has not required reports of cases of whooping cough, measles and typhoid fever. The aldermen gave a hearing Tuesday evening on the charge of a local physician. New blanks will be prepared.

The Opechee Second.

The result of the open regatta of the Lynn club off Nahant on Labor day was incorrectly reported in all the Boston papers. The judges in revising their figures discovered errors in the second class which will give the Opechee, owned by W. P. Barker of this city the second prize, and the Thrush, one of Stewart & Benney fin keels first.

The corrected time of the first four boats is: Thrush, 1 h., 17 m. 12 sec.; Opechee, 1 h., 17 m., 57 sec.; Koorali, 1 h., 20 m., 35 sec.; Egeria (reported first) 1 h., 21 m., 0 sec.

The Opechee, by the correction beats all the crack boats of the cat-rig class, and is within a few seconds of the fastest jib and main sails in these waters.

WEYMOUTH.

The Congregational church at South Weymouth, was the scene of a pretty wedding Tuesday afternoon. Miss L. M. Pratt, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Pratt of South Weymouth, and Mr. Harry L. Chase of Boston, being united in marriage by Rev. A. F. Newton of Brooklyn, N. Y., assisted by Rev. Henry C. Alvord, the pastor of the church. The edifice was handsomely decorated with fall flowers, ferns and palms. The bride's gown was a pearl duchess satin, en princess, with corsette of duchess lace. Mr. H. J. Walcott, Jr., of Concord, attended the groom and Miss Carrie F. Burdett of Marlboro and Miss Todd of Concord, Miss Tirrell of South Weymouth, Miss Bates of Dorchester and Miss Gardner of Attleboro. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

The funeral of Mr. Charles G. Esterbrook, for many years editor of the Weymouth Gazette, occurred at the family residence Tuesday afternoon, the services being conducted by Rev. Gideon Cole of Beverly and Rev. Wesley S. Smith of Weymouth. Delegates from Delta lodge, F. & A. M., and Delphi lodge, K. of P., and business associates were in attendance. The interment was at Hingham.

The Championship Game.

The long-expected and much talked of game for the championship of Quincy between the Quincy's, (which crowd of youthful ball-tossers, by the way, has been acquiring an excellent reputation of late) and the Rovers of South Quincy, was decided at Merry Mount Park Saturday in favor of the former team. Clean, sharp and opportune hitting together with brilliant fielding and clever team work, on the one side, and inability to hit on the other, tell the story respectively of the victory and the defeat. The features were the pitching of Daly, the fielding of Duffy, J. Faircloth, Smith and Deady, and the batting of H. Faircloth. The score:

THE SCHOOL ARMY.

A Quandary What to do at the High.

245 TO ACCOMMODATE THERE.

In the Lowest Primary There are Over 700 Pupils in the City.

The public schools of the city opened Tuesday and the pupils may well be termed an army. The total is over 3400 and is rapidly increasing.

The popularity of the High school is increasing year by year and the quandary, what to do with the pupils before the erection of the new building is now greater than ever. Of the 213 graduated from the grammar schools last June, 123 have entered the class of '97 at the High, as follows:

From the Adams.	Graduated in June.	Entered in High.
From the Adams, 25	25	10
From the Coddington, 9	9	5
From the John Hancock, 14	14	8
From the Lincoln, 28	28	15
From the Quincy, 27	27	14
From the Washington, 32	32	22
From the Willard, 35	35	19
From the Wollaston, 213	213	121
Not classified, 1		1
From Weymouth, 1		1
Total, 124		124

In the other classes at the High school there are 121 pupils, as follows: Class of '94, 23; class of '95, 34; class of '96, 64; making a total of 245 in the school. When it is known that the school is adapted for less than 100 the difficulty is apparent. Two suggestions are offered for the relief, first to secure outside accommodations, and second to have first three classes attend in morning and the new class in the afternoon. Both have their disadvantages and Supt. Lull is in a quandary. His position is the more perplexing as Mr. F. A. Tupper, the principal, is confined at Sherburne Falls by sickness. The Superintendent is giving as much of his time as possible to this school, and is fortunate in having the assistance of such valuable teachers as Miss Souther, Miss Fish, Miss Thompson, and Miss Abbe. The new class has been dismissed until Monday, until arrangements can be made. The new pupils are:

From the Adams.
Margaret Dean, Mary Sullivan, Hannah Faircloth, Thomas E. Sullivan, Nellie G. Griffin, Carroll T. Hart, Henry W. Hayden, William T. Walsh, Edith M. Little, Mary J. Dunn, Mary E. From Weymouth.
Fred Hewitt.

The Opening Day.
From a report of the various principals to Supt. Lull the following summary of attendance on opening is made. The Willard leads, and the Coddington is second with 401. The total is 3158 and 245 at the High, makes 3403 school children on the opening day, which is liable to be increased quite a little before the week is out. The summary will be of interest:

42; at the Wollaston, 51; at John Hancock, 56; at the Adams and Coddington, 57; at the Willard, 64, and at the Lincoln, 67. There are 14 rooms in the city with 50 or more pupils.

A children's fair for the benefit of St. Paul's Swedish M. E. church and Sunday School will be held in Plumer's hall, Sept. 21, 22 and 23.

W. J. Pester and Robert McCall of South Quincy sail today in the steamship Paris of the American line from New York for Southampton, Eng.

Mr. L. Thorpe, the clerk at The Greenleaf, was at the Exeter chambers, Boston, a year and a half, and is a pleasing and obliging young man.

George T. Magee of the DAILY LEDGER is rusticated at Winthrop, Me. All his friends are requested to forward news items to the LEDGER office this week.

Alan Avery Claffin, who won the prize at the Wollaston tennis tournament, Labor day, also won the championship of four towns at the Westford tournament a week before.

The Prohibitionists are said to have urged Henry H. Faxon, Esq., of this city to become their candidate for governor this fall, but he declined to allow the use of his name.

The only business to come before the City Council this evening is on the passage of the order appropriating $800,000 for the payment of the water award and expenses. The city is very fortunate to obtain the works complete at that figure.

There will be a meeting of members of the Young Men's Christian Association in the rooms Thursday evening to confer regarding the formation of a foot ball team. Several well known players are pushing the matter. All interested are requested to be present.

Last night a number of friends called on Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wylie, of Rodman street, and surprised them with a handsome oxidized banquet lamp after the presentation a very enjoyable time was spent with songs and dancing. Everybody enjoyed themselves. May the happy couple long be spared to sit under its bright and shining light.

The Sons of Ve'eran's life and drum corps had a busy day Monday. In the morning they paraded with the Putnam Nail Company and in the afternoon they attended the outing of the G. A. R. at North Weymouth. In the evening they paid a visit to Quincy Point and serenaded their brother comrade, Mr. Joseph Hayden.

By the Leading Business Men of the City --Tempting Menu and Speeches.

Mr. H. W. Fiske, the landlord of the new Greenleaf made the acquaintance of many of the leading business men of the city Tuesday evening and found them wide awake and enterprising, and they in turn sized up Landlord Fiske as an experienced hotel man and have no doubt but The Greenleaf will be a grand success, while the cuisine is kept up to standard established. The menu was an excellent one and will make those envious who were not fortunate to be present. It was as follows:

Bluepoints on Shell
soup.
Mock Turtle, aux Quenelles.
Consomme Princess.
Celery.
FISH.
Boiled Chicken Halibut a la Hollandaise.
Sliced Tomatoes. Cucumbers.
Potatoes Parisienne.
REMOVES.
Roast fillet of Beef, larded, Mushroom Sauce.
Boiled Leg of Mutton with Capers.
Browned Mashed Potatoes.
Green Corn. String Beans.
Chicken Salad. Mayonnaise of Lobster.
ENTREES.
Chicken Patties a la Reine.
Peach Fritters, Glace, Brandy flavor.
Sweetbread Croquettes with French Peas.
Roman Punch.
GAME.
Roast Larded Grouse with Currant Jelly.
Julienne Potatoes.
Charlotte Russe. Harlequin Ice Cream.
Sherry Wine Jelly.
Fancy Cake. Assorted Fruit.
Nuts. Raisins. Olives. Crackers.
Roquefort Cheese. Coffee.

The banquet was at 8 o'clock and while the guest sat around the festive boards in the attractive dining-room, J. Albert Snow's orchestra discoursed sweet music. For two hours they enjoyed the toothsome viands and then came a flow of oratory. Mr. Theophilus King presided in his usual happy manner and remarks were made by A. G. Durgin, President Bass of the City Council, Representative Graham, R. F. Claffin, W. G. A. Pattee, ex-Mayor Porter, City Solicitor McAnaney, City Treasurer Adams, Commissioner Ewel, A. E. Sprull and others. Landlord Fiske contributed a song and all in all it was a very enjoyable occasion.

As will be seen below it was a representative Quincy party and as all were delighted with the new hotel, they will use their influence to make The Greenleaf a success. Those present:

Quincy Quarry Co.
The Quincy Quarry Co. held its meeting for permanent organization Monday, at 2 P. M., Vice-President Burgin, presiding, and 1,074 shares of stock ($107,400) being represented.

The following officers and directors were chosen by ballot:
Clerk--Andrew Milne.
Treasurer--Barnabas Clarke.

Directors--L. S. Anderson, Clarence Burgin, Barnabas Clarke, Edwin Hawkrige, William A. Hodges, T. H. McDonnell, Andrew Milne, Harry L. Rice, John Swithin.

Mr. Hawkrige is of the well known and prominent firm of Hawkrige Bros., Boston, while the other directors are all citizens or business men of Quincy.

The treasurer's report showed that to Sept. 1, the sum of $78,050 in cash had been received from subscribers to stock, of which $67,000 had been expended for purchase of 303 acres of land, and $2,883 for land damages, engineering, construction and incidentals, leaving $8,158 cash on hand.

The building of the road is being actively pushed and it is hoped to have the line in full operation by Nov. 1.

Labor Day.

It is rather a peculiar labor celebration in the United States this September. In New York city alone 100,000 workmen are out of employment and a proportional number in the smaller cities. What a parade these men could make on Labor day! In city and village benevolence is taxed almost to its utmost to provide for the hungry. Farmers have been levied on for food and have responded generously. If Labor day celebration came in Great Britain at the same time with ours, the situation there would not be much better, for the opening of September sees the melancholy results of a strike which has kept 300,000 miners idle a month and many others longer than that. There was actual suffering for lack of coal, and various industries were paralyzed for weeks.

Thus somewhat grimly Labor day dawns. Nevertheless let it be celebrated with music and the display everywhere of our national flag from windows, doorposts and in processions. These hard times cannot last much longer. The thousands of unemployed workmen who will parade the streets with noise and many banners of strange device will be an object lesson to millions as well remember. It is not their fault directly that poor people are hungry, but it is their fault directly that they do not study economic science and that they care for nobody except themselves. It looks not well just now to see a many millioned man building a pleasure yacht whose gorgeousness exceeds that of Cleopatra on the Nile. Millionaires more than poor people need to remind themselves constantly of that brave motto adopted by the Knights of Labor, "An injury to one is the concern of all."

In connection with Labor day parades it is interesting to know that among the marshals for the occasion in New York city are said to be three noblemen—a duke, a baron and a count who work for their living in a riding academy there in various capacities, from that of groom to instructor. They went on strike for higher wages some time since and won; therefore are they fitting martyrs and leaders for the labor cause, although ordinarily labor would scorn to associate with them.

During labor week, too, the world's profit-sharing congress holds its meeting in Chicago. Those who think they have thought out a plan for relieving poverty by enabling workmen to share in the profits made for employers will lay the result of their study before the people. Among them is that fine, ever youthful enthusiast of 70, Dr. E. E. Hale of Boston. Eminent economists from France and from England will also speak. If they can furnish even a partial solution to the situation, they will be welcome. They are welcome anyhow, because they have tried to do so.

The Real Questions of Finance.

A celebrated modern thinker, in answer to a young man who asked for a list of books on political economy worth reading, advised him to read little and think much. Here are a few of the knotty questions lying at the base of our present financial issue, which will supply ground for the exercise of one's intellectual faculties:

Is the apparent fall of silver real, or is it due in whole or in any part to the appreciation of gold?

Would the free coinage of silver arrest the decline in its value?

Would free coinage establish silver as our single standard and drive gold out of circulation?

What would be our disadvantages in making exchanges with the civilized world if we should abandon the gold standard?

Has the fall of prices during the past 20 years been the result in any degree of the demonetization of silver?

Does dear money produce low prices? Does cheap money produce high prices? Is either silver or gold, or both, under any system of bimetallic coinage an infallible measure of values?

Why would a coinage ratio determined by international agreement be more desirable than a ratio established by one country alone?

The most singular situation presented itself recently in financial circles. Scarcity of gold is one of the causes that precipitated the hard times, said the experts, yet here was paper money at a premium over gold. Overabundance of silver—its consequent depreciation—was another cause of the trouble, said the experts. Yet the fact was presented in exchange markets that even silver was at a slight premium over gold. The reason in both cases was the scarcity of paper and silver. Gold could not be used for small change in business transactions.

The greatest speed on record attained by a projectile was that made by a shell from the Brown segmental wire gun at Sandy Hook recently. Twenty pounds of smokeless powder sent an elongated projectile weighing 60 pounds from the mouth of the wire gun at a velocity, when first fired, of 2,865 feet per second. If the rate did not diminish, the projectile would thus travel more than a mile in two seconds.

Imagine how galling it is to the New York newspapers that have been scoffing at the financial ideas of the wild, weird west to have two carloads of potatoes and two carloads of flour sent from a silver state to feed the hungry of New York city. The wild, weird west has sweet revenge.

IN DAYS OF YORE.

"Manet" Writes on Names Formerly Applied to Familiar Localities.

Before continuing I would say in reply to "X" that my information concerning the old Plymouth road was received from one of our oldest inhabitants, who said that Summer street was generally thought to be the path traversed by Indians who were accustomed to attend the different councils which are said by some to have been held somewhere in this vicinity, and that the said pathway was known as the old Indian road to Plymouth. I may have been misinformed, and if so, I most gladly accept "X's" information.

It might be interesting to note the names of the various localities, hills, rivers etc., in our city. Some of these names are now obsolete but the localities which bore their names can still be readily recognized. Furnace Brook is still so called and probably received its name from an old iron furnace erected on its banks.

Town Brook still bears the name that it possessed when it ran through "ye heart of old Braintree."

Dead Brook is in Wollaston and runs through the Josiah Quincy's land and empties into Quincy Bay.

Ship Cove is now called Quincy Neck and was so called because of shipbuilding which was once conducted there.

The Great Fenced Fields extended from Quincy Point to Knight's Neck or Ship Cove.

The Stony Fields were situated on the Cranch farm directly back of the President's Hill.

Scotch Pond Road was an old way to the North Common and ran through the common in a northwesterly direction and joined Adams street nearly opposite Mr. William Greenough's.

The Old Field District is now known as Quincy Point, Woods' District is West Quincy and The Farms is North Quincy or Atlantic.

Pumpkin Hill is the hill now known as Souther's Hill on which is the residence of John R. Graham.

The Three Hill Marsh is the immense salt marsh in the rear of the almshouse.

Knight's Neck, formerly called Braintree Neck, was annexed to Quincy in April, 1850, and has since been called Quincy Neck.

Shed's Neck was the name given to what is now Germantown. Want of space compels me to stop here but next week I will continue on this subject. MANET.

The Endowment Orders.

Judge E. C. Bumpus of this city has made his report on the situation of the several endowment orders of the State. He finds that there are now undistributed assets belonging to these corporations which amount in value, estimating bonds, etc., at par, to over $1,500,000, of which $800,000, consisting of first-class bonds, mortgages and a few shares of stock, are in the State treasurer's hands. The receivers have some $150,000 of bonds, mortgages and stock, and the remaining $650,000 is mostly on deposit in national banks and trust companies, bearing interest from 2 to 3 1/2 per cent.

Judge Bumpus estimates that the average depreciation in the securities held has been 5 per cent., but recommends that they be at once converted into cash as rapidly as practicable.

IN CONGRESS.

Mr. Stewart Makes a Wearisome Speech Against Repeal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—If any particle of interest existed in the mind of any senator in connection with the legislation of 1873 by which the silver dollar was dropped out of the coinage (remaining until the passage of the Bland-Allison act) he had an opportunity of learning from Mr. Stewart every incident bearing upon it before, since and at the time of its enactment. Mr. Stewart's version of that old history differed from the version given by Mr. Sherman last week. Little attention was paid to Mr. Stewart's speech, and at one point of it he complained that senators were in the cloak room and not in the chamber.

A call of the roll, however, quickly secured a quorum. At other points he declined to permit Mr. Hoar to interpose some remarks—designating them as "A lot of trash"—and Mr. Aldrich (Rep., R. I.) met similar treatment—his intervention being called "Aggravating." Mr. Stewart occupied the floor over three and a half hours delivering his speech from type-written sheets, and not having finished when the senate went into executive session, by a vote of 33 to 28, the resolution changing the hour of meeting from at noon to 11 a. m. was offered by Mr. Voorhees and is to be called for action at once.

A concurrent resolution for a joint select committee on finance, seven senators and seven representatives, was introduced by Mr. Morgan (Dem.) of Alabama, and is also to be called up by him. The most remarkable proposition of the day was a bill introduced by request by Mr. Peffer for a department of education and for an appropriation (in aluminum coins) of $800,000,000.

AN INTERESTING CASE

Which Will Prove of Much Importance to Labor Organizations.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 6.—Attorney Carney has filed the papers in a suit for $30,000 damages for libel against P. M. Arthur of Cleveland, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; A. B. Youngson, grand assistant chief; T. S. & D. Everett, publishers of The Journal, the official organ of the order; J. G. Owston, chief engineer, and R. H. Rhodes and H. B. Schafer, officers of the Keystone lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of Allegheny.

The plaintiff is Jeremiah Evans, who is now employed as foreman in the Elbe iron works. Evans was formerly employed on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad as engineer, and was a member of Keystone lodge, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. He withdrew from the organization to accept a position of foreman. When a strike was declared at the Elbe works it was declared closed to union men by the Amalgamated association. Because Evans was there to work, the officers of Keystone lodge caused to be published in The Journal a notice that Evans had been expelled for "scabbing."

Evans claims that as he had withdrawn from the lodge, he could not be expelled; and that the action taken by the lodge makes a pretense of controlling the position or regulating wages of foremen, he could not be guilty of "scabbing." The case will likely be tried at the next term of the circuit court and is of great importance to unions, nearly all of which publish notices of expulsion.

TOO BAD.

The Parade of Veterans at Indianapolis Pronounced a Fiasco.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 6.—"Very much of a fiasco" is the candid style in which the grand marshal General J. B. Carnahan referred last evening to the 27th national parade of veterans of the war. A hundred and fifty thousand worn-out and disappointed spectators agreed with the general. The procession was so drawn out that posts that started immediately after breakfast from the point from which they were to fall into line were still on the march when the dining rooms of the hotels were opened for supper. It was calculated that 50,000 veterans would appear in line. As a matter of fact 20,000 would be a liberal estimate of the number that passed the reviewing stand.

A number of reunions and campfires had been planned for last night, but the veterans were so fatigued by the march and heat of the day that they preferred to stay around their headquarters. Considerable buttonholing was indulged in by the friends of the respective candidates for the offices of commander-in-chief. The New York and Pennsylvania delegates are divided between Lincoln of Washington and Adams of Massachusetts, and the latter appears to be leading. Pittsburg will undoubtedly be chosen as the location for the next encampment.

Sad Indeed.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 6.—At Shelbyville a force of men went into a coal mine to resume work yesterday after weeks of idleness. There was a gas explosion and the mine was wrecked. Eleven men have been taken out badly injured and mutilated. Four will die. Only meagre details as yet have been obtained.

Mrs. Halliday's Case.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 6.—The coroner has commenced an inquest on the bodies of the two women supposed to have been murdered. Mrs. Halliday was taken to the court room, where she raved and tore her clothing to shreds. Crowds are gathering, and threats of lynching are frequently heard.

Candidates For Siberia.

VIENNA, Sept. 6.—Letters from Moscow say that 85 students, eight professors and five women of rank have been arrested there on suspicion that they were implicated in a nihilist plot against the czar's life.

Failure Discouraged Him. NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Benjamin Gambrell, 40 years old, an ex-cotton broker, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. Gambrell failed recently and this is given as the cause of the suicide.

Reception to Medical Men. WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Secretary and Mrs. Gresham tendered a reception last night to the delegates to the Pan-American medical congress. The reception lasted until nearly midnight.

In Behalf of Colored Men. WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Congressman George W. Murray, who represents the Beaufort district, South Carolina, in the house, has issued an appeal for aid for his colored constituents.

Pool Game Ended In Murder. LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 6.—Bloomfield Drum was stabbed to death here by James White. White and Drum had got into a fight over a game of pool. White gave himself up.

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Has voted an emphatic majority for the repeal of the Sherman Act, but the people of Quincy have decided by a much greater majority that

is the gem in its line in the city.

What a pretty store! How beautiful! How well laid out! Does it not light up beautifully at night? and other like expressions voice their verdict.

I thank you all for your kind words of praise, and feel grateful that my efforts to add an attraction to the city have been appreciated.

I am adding every day to my stock and will not stop until I am satisfied that I have a drug store that will compare favorably with any retail store in the state in my line.

I am giving my personal attention to the store, and can assure the people of Quincy that any prescription coming into my store will be filled with the utmost care and accuracy. I have had 14 years' experience in the business, almost five of which I have been in business for myself in West Quincy.

I feel gratified at the confidence imposed in me, judging by the share of patronage I have received thus far, and hope to merit more by strict attention to business and courtesy to all.

Nobility.

True worth is being, not seeming.
In doing each day that goes by
Some little good, not in the dreaming
Of great things to do by and by,
For whatever men say in blindness
And spite of the fangs of youth,
There's nothing so kindly as kindness
And nothing so royal as truth.

We get back our me as we measure—
We cannot do wrong and feel right,
Nor can we give pain and feel pleasure.
For justice avenges each slight.
The air for the wing of the sparrow,
The bush for the robin and wren,
But always the path that is narrow
And straight for the children of men.

'Tis not in the pages of story
The heart of its ills to beguile,
Though he who makes courtship to glory
Gives all that he hath for her smile,
For when from her heights he has won her Alas, it is only to prove That nothing's so sacred as honor
And nothing so loyal as love!

We cannot make bargains for blisses,
Nor can we, like fishes, be let go,
And sometimes the thing our life misses Helps more than the thing which it gets.
For good lieth not in pursuing,
Nor gaining of things that are ill,
But just in the doing, and doing
As we would be done by, is all.

Through envy, through malice, through hating—
Against the world, early and late,
No lot of our courage abating—
Our part is to work and to wait.
And slight is the sting of his trouble
Whose winnings are less than his worth,
For he who is honest is noble,
Whatever his fortunes or birth.
—Alice Carey.

A Banquet in the Bank of England.
Some favored guests took tea the other day with the oldest lady in London. Some American readers may not know that the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street" is the accepted English name for the great Bank of England, but so it is. The governor of the bank lives in the building, and the other evening his wife gave a reception. There is a quiet little garden within the bank. It was once a burying ground, but on the evening in question was gay with fountains, flowers and illuminations. It is said that some of the guests rather anticipated finding decorations of red tape and a menu with bank note sandwiches and jars of golden ingots instead of sweetmeats.—London Letter.

Lightning Ruined Her Compasses.
A streak of lightning from an almost cloudless sky struck the British steamship Oxford off Cape Hatteras, while bound from Santiago de Cuba to Philadelphia. The presence of a cargo of iron ore is thought to have served to attract the lightning. The lightning splintered the vessel's foretruck, and after passing down into the vessel's hold and cabin zigzagged through the decks and disappeared in the water. The compasses were rendered entirely useless, the main one being three points and the others even farther out of the way.—Philadelphia Record.

Digressions of Statesmen.
Two well known members of the Conservative party in the house of commons have entered upon a curious competition. They have arranged to leave the house tomorrow night for Southampton, there to embark on sailing yachts and proceed to circumnavigate the Isle of Wight. Whoever sails around the island the oftener between the rising of the house tomorrow and the meeting on Monday will receive a prize offered by a third member.—London News.

Philadelphia Is a Good One.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The cruiser Philadelphia made the run from Rio de Janeiro to Callao, a distance of 5000 miles, in 30 days and 18 hours, without stopping anywhere for coal. This is regarded by naval officers as a most remarkable performance.

Poor Mrs. Baum.
MR. VERNON, Sept. 6.—Mrs. Sarah Summers of Boston, sister to Mrs. Rose Baum, the pauper lunatic, who was turned loose in New York city by the Boston authorities last Sunday, left this city for Boston accompanied by her husband. Mrs. Baum said it was impossible for her husband and herself to take care of her sister. Joseph Remanthal of this city, with whom Mrs. Baum was staying, said that he considered the bringing of the insane woman to his store by the Boston authorities an outrage and that he could not and would not do anything for her.

German Army Maneuvers.
METZ, Sept. 6.—The feature of the maneuvers yesterday was the storming and capture of Coligny by the western corps. The fighting was very severe. Emperor William, with the Prince of Naples witnessed the engagement from a height.

No Change in Pay.
LONDON, Sept. 6.—The government was defeated in the house of commons on a motion to reduce the salaries of officers in the house of lords. The motion was carried by a combination of Radicals and Conservatives, the vote being 105 to 95.

A SNAP FOR BOSTON.

Found No Difficulty in Again Disposing of the Browns.

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—Arthur Clarkson was wild as a hawk at times, but was lashed freely when he did get the ball over the plate. The champions, though they ran bases stupidly in the earlier innings when the contest was close. Quarles pitched steadily, but let in two runs by slow fielding. Merritt injured his thumb so badly at the opening of the ninth inning that he may never again this season. Bennett finished out the game.

PEERS AND HOME RULE.

Earl Spencer Makes a Tame Speech in Favor of the Issue.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The house of lords was filled with members and visitors eager to hear the debate on the home rule bill opened. Although the Conservative whips will not master their full force before the evening of the final division, the opposition had in attendance yesterday fifteen more than they had on the Liberal side. The galleries were filled with peers. The strangers' gallery was packed to suffocation. Appearances of the crowd was the conspicuousness of the clerical element.

Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty, moved the second reading of the home rule bill. He made a tame speech, barren of original thought or expression. He claimed for the government all honesty of intentions in its work for the bill and credited the opposition with being equally conscientious. He reviewed at some length the history of Ireland since the union. All the so-called remedial measures of the successive governments, he said, had come too late to help the country, even had they not contained radical defects which would have rendered them useless early or late. His own personal experience satisfied him that home rule was the only possible solution of the Irish question.

After dwelling upon the beneficent results to be expected from several provisions of the bill Earl Spencer closed with the declaration that the Gladstonian plan of home rule was calculated to satisfy all aspirations of Ireland to self-government. The Duke of Devonshire, Liberal Unionist, moved the rejection of the bill.

FRIENDS NO LONGER.

Iowa Prohibitionists Part Company With the Republicans.

DES MOINES, Sept. 6.—The Republicans who deem prohibition the most important political question before the people of Iowa held a state convention and parted company with the regular Republican organization for the remainder of this campaign by nominating a candidate for governor and repudiating the liquor plank adopted at the August convention. Calvary Tabernacle contained 300 delegates and 1500 visitors when the convention assembled. Rev. Emery Miller of Des Moines was made temporary chairman, and Rev. J. A. Wells of Eldorado secretary. Dr. Miller in his address said that if the Democrats elect Governor Boies again this fall it will be the fault of the recent Republican convention.

A CLEAR MAJORITY

Will Certainly Favor Repeal in the Senate.

A HOSTILE SPIRIT SHOWN

Which May Upset the Administration's Calculations.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The Democratic managing committee of the senate, which started out with very encouraging prospects of uniting the Democratic party on a line of action which would result in an early vote on the silver repeal proposition and all the amendments thereto, is beginning to feel that it has got a difficult task to perform. It has, however, accomplished something in the direction in which it started out, having secured a sufficient number of votes in the south and southwest to give the bill a clear majority with the Republican support.

The attitude of Senator Gordon of Georgia in giving his adhesion to the administration policy and the support of the two senators from Louisiana, together with other successful proselyting, has madened the free silver Democrats like Cockrell, Vest, Vance, Harris and Daniels and others to such an extent that they are manifesting a very ugly spirit. This is one of the conditions which the managing committee and the friends of the administration wished to avoid. The course of the discussion is gratifying to the members of the Republican silver wing, like Teller, Jones, Wolcott and Stewart, who can see if they can involve the Democrats in a controversy among themselves that the result will redound to their benefit.

A Surprise.

The attitude of the two senators from Missouri, Cockrell and Vest, has caused more surprise to the president and Secretary Carlisle than that of any other Democratic senators. The state of Missouri has been treated with exceptional consideration by the administration. Both senators have, hitherto, in return manifested at all times an earnest desire to assist in carrying out its policy on all leading questions. Instead of adhering to this idea, however, they have now gone out of their way to arraign the president on his financial policy. There are other Democratic senators who are disposed to follow in the same line. If this hostile spirit is allowed to increase it may overturn all the calculations of the managing committee and friends of the administration.

Senator Voorhees, however, believes in pursuing a very conservative course. He does not intend to antagonize the desire of the silver senators to speak freely and fully on the subject as long as they have anything to say; nor does he intend to allow adjustments of the senate from day to day after a single speech on the pretext of not being prepared to continue the debate, when the real object is to prolong discussion and delay action on the bill. The change in hour of meeting to 11 o'clock is for the purpose of hurrying up the debate and, if possible, an early vote. On this line the senator proposes to hold regular sessions every day for six days in the week and to be confined to the bill for the repeal of the silver-purchasing act. No extraneous legislation will be brought up for interpose. By this course he thinks the general debate should close by the 20th of the present month.

Voorhees Means Business.

When the question becomes one of obstruction and dilatory tactics, Senator Voorhees says there will be a conference of the friends of this measure, and some decision reached which will bring the question to a vote. The chairman of the finance committee is preparing the senators for this stage in the proceedings by keeping them in mind of his purpose. If this obstructive oratory is persisted in beyond reasonable limits, there has been some talk among the friends of the administration on the subject of adopting some method which will compel a vote.

They are aware that the chairman of the committee on rules, Senator Blackburn, is opposed to any heroic treatment of this character, and will refuse to let his committee together to consider a subject of this kind. While he is a strong advocate of silver and will vote against repeal, he will not enter into combine to frustrate the will of the majority. His colleague, Senator Lindsay, is a supporter of the policy of the administration, and is exerting himself among his colleagues in the south and southwest to bring about early action.

I thank you all for your kind words of praise, and feel grateful that my efforts to add an attraction to the city have been appreciated.

I am adding every day to my stock and will not stop until I am satisfied that I have a drug store that will compare favorably with any retail store in the state in my line.

I am giving my personal attention to the store, and can assure the people of Quincy that any prescription coming into my store will be filled with the utmost care and accuracy. I have had 14 years' experience in the business, almost five of which I have been in business for myself in West Quincy.

CLERGYMAN CHOSEN

To Head the Tickets for Prohibitionists of Massachusetts.

THE PEOPLE'S PARTY NOMINATE

George Howard Cary, a Popular Scholar, Nominated for Governor.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 7.—Five hundred and sixty-three delegates to the Prohibition state convention, held in Mechanics hall, nominated the following ticket:

For governor—Rev. Louis Albert Banks of Boston.

H. C. Smith of Haydenville was nominated for lieutenant-governor. The nomination was seconded, and the vote was unanimous.

Other officers were nominated by acclamation by the convention as follows:

Secretary of state—Samuel J. Shapleigh of Boston.

Treasurer—Wilbert D. Farnham, Jr., of Somerville.

Auditor—Alfred H. Evans of Ashburnham.

Attorney general—Robert F. Raymond of New Bedford.

In the afternoon a platform was reported and adopted. These are its more emphatic sentences, apart from its general denunciation of the liquor traffic and the saloons:

In Massachusetts both of the parties stand for the legalized saloon. We have given us all the legislation we can upon this subject. Is there anyone who maintains that such legislation is at all commensurate with the urgent needs of our commonwealth? The Democratic party is opposed to all so-called summary laws. The Republican party is hopelessly divided. If in the many years of its unquestioned supremacy it was unable or unwilling to enact adequate legislation, how can we expect better results when it is obliged to struggle with the Democracy for its very existence? Who ventures to hope for effective legislation against the saloon from these sources?

A majority of the people of Massachusetts are opposed to the legalized saloon. This is clearly shown by the returns from the local option elections. United politically, the temperance forces could banish the dram shop from our state. The only candidates which stand distinctly pledged to such a course are those put in nomination by the Prohibition party.

We therefore invite to full party fellowship all those who agree with us that the overthrow of the saloon power is the supreme need of the hour. We stand pledged to the enactment and enforcement of prohibition, state and national.

We believe that suffrage be extended to woman in all matters that pertain to the interests of the commonwealth.

We will resist any attempt to cripple the public school system, and we declare ourselves utterly opposed to any appropriation of the public funds for sectarian education or any other sectarian use whatsoever.

We are opposed to all trusts, monopolies and combinations of capital which arbitrarily and unjustly oppress the people. We demand that woman receive equal wages with man for an equal amount of work equally well done.

We demand such a modification of the present so-called Australian ballot system that fair and equal consideration shall be bestowed upon both old and new parties alike, and that no longer shall unjust and ruthless discrimination be made against minority parties.

The state executive committee was authorized to fill any vacancies which may occur in the ticket. At 3:40 o'clock the convention adjourned.

Sketch of Dr. Banks.

Rev. Louis Albert Banks, D. D., is at present pastor of the Temple Street Methodist church of Boston, to which he was appointed in the spring of 1892 from St. John's church in South Boston. He was born at Cornwall, Ct., in 1851.

When 14 years of age he entered the Church of the United Brethren, and at the early age of 16 he was licensed to preach.

His next effort was in law, and at 21 he was admitted to the bar. At 19 he joined the Methodist church, and in 1873 he preached under Bishop Gilbert at Portland, Or., from whence he went to Vancouver, B. C., Boise City and Seattle, Wash. He then came east and preached at Boston, and afterward went to Cincinnati for a time, only to return to South Boston.

While in Vancouver he brought down upon himself the ill-will of the rum element because of his attacks on it, and he was shot in the thigh by a saloon agent while passing through the street. Nevertheless, with the injured member resting on three chairs, the doctor preached for two months. During his residence in Seattle Dr. Banks advocated the right of the Chinese to protection. He is the author of several books, "White Slaves" being probably the best known.

THE PEOPLE'S PARTY

Puts Forth a Ticket and Platform For Bay State Voters to Consider.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 7.—The state convention of the People's party was held in Lynn last night.

George H. Cary of this city was nominated for governor.

Lieutenant governor, George K. Harris of Haverhill.

Secretary of state, Isaac W. Skinner of Marlboro.

Treasurer, Thomas A. Watson of Braintree.

Auditor, Maurice W. Landers of Pittsfield.

Attorney general, Conrad Greenough of Fitchburg.

All these nominations were made by acclamation.

There were some 300 delegates present from all over the state. Henry R. Legate of Boston called the delegates to order. Mr. Legate was chosen chairman, and made an address to the convention on the growth of the party. Lyman B. Taylor was chosen secretary. Linn B. Porter of Boston, Mason A. Green of Boston, Mayor Winn of Malden, Warren Johnson of Boston, E. G. Brown of Brockton and J. B. Woodin of Marblehead were chosen a committee on platform.

The platform was not materially changed from that of last year. Some of the new ideas are:

We favor a graduated tax on inheritance and income.

We protest against the contract system practiced by municipalities in employing labor. We demand that all public employees be brought under a classified civil service with admissions and promotions of merit only, and dismissed for cause after hearing.

We condemn the present management of industry because it fails to provide work for multitudes of willing hands, while at the same time overworking those who are employed.

We therefore favor the reduction of the time of labor, looking toward an eight hour day, which will tend both to lighten the burdens of the workers and to increase the number of those finding employment.

We declare it to be the duty of the state and municipalities to aid the unemployed by organizing labor according to their several trades and abilities.

After the reading of the platform of last year, improved upon by the above ideas, the nominees made short speeches of acceptance. Nominee Cary was of the opinion that the People's party would poll an astonishing vote this year.

Who Cary Is.

George Howard Cary was born at Nantucket, Mass., May 31, 1847. He comes of one of the oldest Massachusetts families; James Cary, the founder of the family, having settled in Charlestown in 1639.

For four generations the family resided in Nantucket. Mr. Cary was educated in the schools of Nantucket, graduating with high honor from the high school there in 1863.

He entered the union army in the summer and fall campaign of 1864, serving in the 64th Mass. infantry.

He worked for 2-1/2 years at carriage and sign painting in Cambridge, and in 1866 sailed on a short whaling voyage, following the example of several generations of ancestors. In 1867 he was appointed teacher of one of the schools of Nantucket, and began a career of teaching in high and grammar schools of Massachusetts, which lasted 21 years. This was interrupted by four years' connection with telephonic interests.

For 25 years he has been a Republican, but became interested three or four years ago in the principles of Nationalism, and was twice president of the Lynn club, and once of the State league.

Mr. Cary was married in 1869 to Miss Mary C. Polak of Nantucket and has a fine family of three sons and three daughters. For the past year Mr. Cary has been employed as mathematician for the General Electric company at Lynn.

POPULAR JACK ADAMS

Is Chosen Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 7.—The Grand Army will probably finish this business and leave for home this evening. The encampment shows a disposition to run through with its business rapidly.

John J. Adams of Massachusetts was elected commander-in-chief practically without opposition. The new commander-in-chief, John J. B. Adams, or Jack Adams, as he is called, is one of the most popular veterans in New England.

For years he has been identified with the Grand Army as one of the most active and influential members of the department of Massachusetts. In 1861, before he was 20 years of age, he enlisted as a private in the battalion which became the 10th of the Nineteenth Massachusetts.

He served through the war, rising step by step to the rank of captain. When disabled by wounds he participated in every march and in every battle of the Army of the Potomac in which his regiment took part.

He is a member of Lander post of Lynn, Mass., the second in membership in the country. No man in Massachusetts has received more frequent and more generous recognition of the regard of the people. Nothing has been too good for Jack Adams, and Jack in turn has met the expectations of his supporters as postmaster at Lynn and deputy superintendent of the Concord (Mass.) reformatory. He now holds the position of sergeant-at-arms of the commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Last year his ardent friends presented his name to the Republican convention for the candidacy for lieutenant governor, and without canvass or organization his name called out a large vote. He will be 52 years old in October.

The report of Adjutant General Gray showed that the order had gained 56,383 members during the year, and lost by death, discharge and suspension 59,025; the total membership in good standing is 307,223.

During the year the order has disbursed $397,000 in charity. The Grand monument fund has a balance on hand of $8,000.

Harrison's old regiment, the Seventieth, with brigade associates, held a meeting and elected Harrison president. The ex-president returned thanks in a short speech.

A New Trade Union.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The National Union of Plate Printers was organized here with the following officers: President, William Johnson of Washington; vice president, Robert S. Jones of Philadelphia; secretary-treasurer, John P. Jones of New York; organizer, John H. Hayde of Boston.

Bourke Cockran Not Well.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Since the close of the silver fight in the house, in which he bore a most conspicuous and onerous part, Representative Bourke Cockran has not been feeling well, and yesterday he secured leave of absence, which he will utilize in a trip north for his health.

PLOT FELL THROUGH

Fiendish Attempt to Wreck a Train at Wallingford, Vt.

ENGINEER'S PRESENCE OF MIND

Prevents What Might Have Proved a Terrible Disaster.

RUTLAND, Vt., Sept. 7.—A diabolical attempt to wreck the New York sleeping train on the Bennington and Rutland road was made yesterday morning, at what is called the Childs bridge, two miles south of Wallingford.

The bridge is a covered wooden structure 100 feet long, built about three years ago. All the nuts were removed from the bolts that fasten the needle beams to the track ends, leaving the bridge without any support except what was given by the lateral rods. The high rate of speed of the train and the good condition of the track is all that saved the train from destruction.

The train was made up of a mail car, smoker, day coach and two sleepers. The rear sleeper was being taken from New York to St. Albans for the use of a special party. This was

The Only Car Wrecked.

The train left Bennington on time and was running about 40 miles an hour when it went out to the bridge. The engineer felt the bridge sinking and pulled the throttle wide open. The train, with the exception of the last sleeper, passed safely over, but just as this was leaving the bridge a rail was hurled through the bottom of the car and a portion of one side torn off.

The colored porter in charge had a narrow escape from instant death, but

Was Not Even Scratched.

The rear of the car went into the stream 15 feet below, while the forward end rested on the bank. About 60 feet of the bridge is wrecked. In the first sleeper were about 45 passengers.

Superintendent Bennett said that he had no suspicions as to who removed the nuts. He knew of no one who would do it out of revenge; it might have been done so the train could be robbed. The bridge is in a wild locality, far from any house and the train is due there about 2 a. m.

The sheriff's have been at the scene of the wreck, but found no clue. A temporary stealer will be in place by tonight.

The railroad company will probably offer a large reward for the capture of the miscreant.

TWO GOVERNORS PRESENT.

Big Crowd Hears Speeches From Them at the Massachusetts State Fair.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 7.—Yesterday was the big day at the New England fair, and thousands were on the grounds. Governor Russell, accompanied by members of his staff, and Governor Brown of Rhode Island, with his staff, arrived by the morning train.

The governors looked about the fair for a short time, and were entertained at luncheon on the grounds.

Governor Russell was very warmly received. In his speech he eulogized the character of Massachusetts farmers, as shown at Concord, Lexington, Appomattox, and in the material, moral and religious growth of the commonwealth. He continued:

"As I am now about to lay down the cares of official life, I am glad to thank the people for their sympathy with me during the years that I have held my present office. It is only with regret, and only with a sense of gratitude to the support of the people that I lay down my duties. I hope I shall be remembered pleasantly when I step into the ranks, and I shall stand shoulder to shoulder with all of you to do my duty in support of this grand old commonwealth."

Governor Brown of Rhode Island said the results of the last two months made people in his state begin to think it possible to get a better living on the farm than in the mill and workshop. If the business depression was to continue and the industrial handicap be perpetuated, farmers would be the only class of American laborers who could compete with the pauper labor of Europe.

CONDUCTED PRIVATELY.

Much Discussed Custom House Investigation Begun at Boston Today.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—The custom house investigation was begun here this morning at 10 o'clock. Special Agents Cross and Rice of New York are presiding. The investigation is being conducted in one of the private offices of the special agents in the Federal building. The desks are arranged, and the agents were instructed to vacate the private office so that the investigators might have the exclusive use of it. The Boston agents have been crowded into one office.

The first witness to be examined was Mr. Loneragan, the man who preferred the charges against the appraiser at Wallingford, as the investigators are to find out through him who the important witnesses are that will support his charges. The first charge to be investigated will be "for using the office for political purposes," and the second for allowing goods to go through the stores without the knowledge of the appraiser. There are seven charges altogether, and the investigation will probably last five or six weeks. The witnesses will be examined one after another in the private office, and no one will be allowed to enter or to be present except Special Agents Cross and Rice and the official stenographer. Mr. Cross has been instructed to use any of the Boston agents when he thinks it is necessary.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Letters have been received at the Produce and Cotton exchanges in this city from various parts of the south where the last storm raged, saying that the people there are suffering for clothing, food and money, and asking for contributions.

A CARPET

is something more than a mere floor covering. It is capable of satisfying the artistic sense as well. In a properly furnished room the carpet sets the pitch with which all other decorative effects should harmonize.

Our stock of Carpets and Oriental Rugs is altogether the most extensive in this part of the country, including, as it does, not only the products of all the standard mills, but many private and exclusive patterns which cannot be duplicated elsewhere.

We guarantee to successfully compete with any existing firm as regards quality, style, or price.

THE MEMBERS of the Rapid Transit Committee who were in our city yesterday did not look like fast young men.

IT WILL be unfortunate if the investigation of the recent Chester accident proves the fact that the terrible catastrophe was caused by the negligence of workmen in the employ of the railroad whereon the accident occurred. It is true that on the railroads running through Massachusetts, the men employed are often the cheapest that can be hired, foreigners who understand little or nothing about the tools they handle as was demonstrated in the investigation of the Quincy disaster, the man who held the jack admitting that he did not understand fully its workings. Should the investigation of the Chester accident lay the charge of that event to the doors of the employees who were at work on the bridge, it would seem that the men did not understand their business or they never would have extracted the bolts that held the plates together and then allow a ponderous train to rush over the bridge to destruction. It will indeed be unfortunate if the charge be attributed to the criminal carelessness of the employees, unfortunate for passengers whose lives are continually held in jeopardy by the negligence and carelessness of employees, and unfortunate for the road whose reputation for safety must necessarily be held below par. The best solution of the difficulty would be for the railroads to pay a fair day's pay for a fair day's work and hire intelligent and competent workmen to guard against accidents to the lives and property of the passengers who are compelled to ride back and forth on the different railroads.

THE ARREST and indicting of Emma Goldman, the noted female Anarchist, for inciting the people of New York to riot, came not a moment too soon. Her fiery tirades against the governing power of New York coupled with the appeal to her countrymen to "arm and rise in rebellion," proved her too dangerous a character to be allowed at large. Had she been allowed to continue, her rebellious appeals would have undoubtedly borne fruit as did similar rebellious invectives bear their fruit in Chicago in 1886. It is reassuring to notice, however, in connection with the recent riots in New York City, that the people who composed the riotous element all belonged to one nationality, who, for similar reasons had been forced to leave their own country. But because free speech is a national right and inheritance in America, this bloodthirsty and destruction-seeking class imagine that they can run matters to suit themselves. Free speech is one thing, but incitation to rebellion is another, it is treason, and as such it should be punished. Emma Goldman and her followers may find a few recruits of her own type, but the citizens of the country that gave her shelter from the wrath of European monarchs, the citizens of the country whose soil has been made sacred by the blood of thousands of heroes who fell in its defence, these citizens are the ones who will frustrate any attempt of such a character as Miss Goldman would carry out and will preserve intact from any foreign hand the constitution of our great and glorious Republic.

OF FINEST QUINCY GRANITE. The elegant granite sarcophagus monument presented Olivet Commandery, Knights Templars, of Lynn, by Sir Knight John N. Collamore of Boston Commandery of Boston, was dedicated at the Masonic lot at Pine Grove Cemetery, Lynn, on Wednesday.

The sarcophagus weighs 34 tons and is of the finest Quincy granite. The base is 11x6 feet, plinth 9x4, die 8x3, cap 8x3. On the top of the sarcophagus is a Knight's Templar chapeau with plumes and the delicate tracery of the lace band. On the side is the rosette of the order with the monogram of the Commandery. On the cap piece rests a pair of crossed swords, and around the top of the die is a border of acacia leaves broken in the centre, both front and back, by the Maltese cross of the order with the motto, "In Hoc Signo Vinces." On each end is a Maltese cross, while on the back is a large passion cross, all of highly polished granite. The monument stands 10 feet high.

NO QUESTION ASKED.

In a Session of Eight Minutes the City Council

APPROPRIATES $600,000.00.

To Pay the Water Award, Matured Interest and Costs of Case.

The City Council held an adjourned special meeting on Wednesday evening and again was very forcibly emphasized the assertion that it is not on the most important matters that the most debate occurs. There was under consideration an order appropriating over half a million dollars, yet not a question was asked, either on the night of its introduction or at this meeting, or any arguments made pro or con. It was passed almost unanimously, only one member voting in the negative.

At the roll call 19 responded, but one soon entered and the absentees were Councilmen Adams, Federhen and Holden.

The $600,000 Order. The Committee on Finance reported that the order appropriating $600,000 for the payment of the water award, interest and expenses ought to pass, and it was ordered to a second reading. On motion of Councilman Moxon it was then under suspension of the rules placed upon its final passage, and by a vote of 18 to 1, as follows, was passed to be ordained:

YEAS—Anderson, Badger, Barker, Brown, Donahoe, Drake, Grindell, Johnson, Leamon, Moxon, O'Connell, Owen, Robbins, Rooney, Shackley, Sherman, Smith and Williams—18.

NAYS—Holbrook—1.

ABSENT—Adams, Federhen, Holden—3.

In eight minutes the Council adjourned.

GOOD PLACE FOR AN OUTING.

The Rapid Transit Committee Delighted With Quincy.

With Representative Graham as host it is not surprising that the joint committee on rapid transit of the last legislature found this city a delightful place on Wednesday for an outing. They made a day of it and were royally entertained.

Arriving at 10 A. M., they were met at the depot by Representative Graham.

In the party were Senators Kittredge and Horton, Representative Bennett, Graham, Charles, McCarthy, Dodge, Garfield, Bliss, Varnum and Newhall of the rapid transit committee and, as invited guests, Senators Rideout and Merrill, Representatives Hammond, Worthen, Tuttle, Morse, Hayes and lawyer W. G. A. Pattee and John A. Duggan of Quincy.

An electric car first conveyed the party to the residence of Mr. Graham on Washington street, where a light lunch was served. The stock farm was looked over, and the speed of Myrtlewood witnessed.

About 11.30 they embarked from Quincy Point in the steam yacht Marie and after steaming about the harbor for two hours landed with difficulty at Houghs Neck.

Bowling, billiards and steamed clams were enjoyed here, and at 4 o'clock an electric car took them back to Quincy, when a banquet was served at The Greenleaf.

Boston papers report that the Whitcher boot factory, at Ashland which has been closed for some time will resume operations next Monday under the management of the new superintendent, Mr. Dodge of Quincy.

Two Quincy young ladies received appointments as teachers by the Newton school board on Wednesday evening, Miss Sibylla A. Pfaffmann, formerly an assistant at the Quincy High, in the Newton High, at a salary of $900, and Miss Mary M. Holden in the Hyde school at $820.

Mr. Albert Keating has returned from his vacation trip Down East much improved in health. He says his experience in the storm on board the steamship Carroll was well worth the cost of the voyage. Such an exciting time on the ocean, a landsman sees but once in a lifetime.

A bright little Wollaston miss, whose father has been giving her elementary lessons in civil government, was asked, "who is the President of the United States?"

"Grover Cleveland."

"Very good, now, who is the Governor of Massachusetts?"

"Boynton and Russell" was the prompt reply.

Paterfamilias waived further examination until a future date.

Stoddard-Field Nuptials.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the residence of Rev. H. A. Philbrook on Wednesday afternoon, the contracting parties being Mr. Frank H. Stoddard, one of Quincy's popular young men who is prominently identified with the Sons of Veterans, and Miss Emma B. Field, one of Wollaston's respected young ladies.

The bride wore a handsome costume of ashes of roses colored silk and carried a magnificent bunch of roses.

After the marriage ceremony the happy young couple left on a short wedding tour, after which they will reside on South Walnut street in this city.

Entertainments at Wollaston.

Wollaston is to have a course of ten first-class entertainments this fall. The King's Daughters who so successfully conducted the "Living Pictures" last season will have charge. The expenses will exceed $500. There is no doubt 300 season tickets at an average of $1.25 each will be sold, which together with $300 subscribed by a Wollaston gentleman will yield a profit for charitable uses. The Congregational church has been tendered for the course, which promises to be as popular as the one two years ago.

Base Ball.

The Norfolk Juniors visited North Weymouth Labor day morning and defeated the Solid Rocks 21 to 7. The game lasted only six innings on account of a mishap to the North Weymouth catcher, who was catching off the bat, when he was struck by a foul tip. As a result he had his nose broken and received a black eye.

In the afternoon the Norfolk Juniors were defeated by the East Boston Reds by a score of 12 to 4.

The Norfolk Juniors would like to arrange a game with the Quineys a week from Saturday.

"If any one wants to know how good your medicine is, just refer them to me.

"I was so low, people thought I never could get well again.

"The trouble was in my womb, causing bearing-down and severe backache. I was so nervous and irritable my people could hardly live with me. Sometimes I would almost fall down. I was so dizzy, and how I did lie awake nights! I thought I should go crazy!

"But now all that is changed, and I am a well woman. I owe all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now, when I do not feel just right, I take a bottle of your medicine and a box of your pills. They never fail."

The Gratitude of a Lady Cured by Kickapoo Indian Sagwa.

DANVILLE, ILL., Oct. 26.
I feel it my duty to express my gratitude for what the Kickapoo Indian Remedies have done for me.
I was suffering from Neuralgia, and had to stay up every night for weeks.
At last I sent for a bottle of Kickapoo Indian Oil, and in less than ten minutes after application I was relieved.
I continued its use and also used Kick-apoo Indian Sagwa at the same time until I was entirely cured.
Many of my friends have used your remedies for different troubles, and find them to do exactly as advertised.
I believe everybody who is suffering should use them, as we are all brothers and sisters in Christ. I will answer any questions as to what with the help of God they have done for me.
Yours respectfully, EVA DECAMPT.

A Prompt Report.

Judge Bumpus has set a golden example of industry and expedition to the endowment order receivers, whose work he was appointed a few days ago to investigate.
He has already issued a voluminous report, in which he shows a full account with the affairs of each order covered, and which must have necessitated the consumption of midnight oil. While he censures no one, it is clearly to be read between the lines that he thinks the receivers might be more expeditious.—Record.

DID A BIG BUSINESS.

Two of an Organized Gang of Counterfeiters Captured at New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 7.—Counterfeiters have floated a large number of spurious $2 and $5 silver certificates in this city.
These bills are very numerous. One well-known merchant found three of these spurious bills among his collection, and there are hundreds of others in town who have one or two of them. It is estimated that there are already several thousand dollars' worth of this money afloat in this city, and the banks are taking extra precaution in examining bills received. The bills are among the best ever seen, and can only be detected by experts.

Shortly before 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon two Italians made purchases of an Italian penalt vendor, paying him with a $5 bill. Becoming frightened at the appearance of a policeman, they started to run, and in doing so dropped a roll of bills. This queer action attracted the attention of the police, who arrested them.
The roll contained 11 counterfeit $5 certificates, such as have been found in the banks and stores about town. At the police station they gave their names as Victor Ferrelli and George Grietti. Fifty dollars in counterfeit bills were found on them and $84.93 in good money. From papers found in their pockets it is believed that they are a part of an organized gang of counterfeiters, having headquarters on Mulberry street, New York.

Medical Men Puzzled.

STONINGTON, Conn., Sept. 7.—The summer settlement about Little Hog Harbor, on Fisher's island, has been thrown into a panic since the sale over the appearance of a mysterious epidemic, and in three cases it has proved fatal. There are now about 40 cases of a more or less serious type,
and additional deaths are expected hourly.
The disease is of a diphtheritic character, but none of the doctors can state what the epidemic is.

For Medicinal Purposes Only.

MELROSE, Mass., Sept. 7.—Some time ago the selectmen decided to issue the state's license, but the opposition was so strong and so much excitement was stirred up that for the sake of all persons it was thought best to have the applications withdrawn. The understanding is that the druggists are not to be molested, provided they continue as heretofore to use liquor for medicinal purposes only.

Ansonia Works to Start Up.

ANSONIA, Conn., Sept. 7.—The lamp department in Wallace & Sons' works began work under the receivership yesterday with about two-thirds of its usual number of employees. A general cut to average 30 per cent has been ordered by the receiver and the employees are working under it. Other departments will start as soon as possible.

President Whitney Resigns.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—President Henry M.
Whitney has resigned the presidency of the West End Street Railway company.
Mr. Whitney resigns for the purpose of giving his attention to other interests, especially those of the Dominion Coal company. He still retains the presidency of the Metropolitan steamship line.

Bridgeport's Visitors.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 7.—The annual parade and celebration of the Grand United Order of Odd Fellows, consisting entirely of colored men, were held here yesterday. Lodges were in line from New Haven, Hartford, Waterbury, Ansonia, Norwalk, New London, Providence and Newport.

Good News for Lynn.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 7.—The Thomson-Houston Electric company will put on their entire force of 4000 men to work.
The company has just received orders to the amount of $600,000. The steel foundry started up yesterday. Other departments are already running at full blast.

Drowned From a Raft.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Sept. 7.—Frank Glass, 23 years old, residing on Tucker street, Marblehead, while fishing for pond lilies on the pond in Loring's meadow, fell from a raft and was drowned. The body has not been recovered. Glass was a shoemaker.

Robbed of $700.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 7.—Frank Williams of Methuen reported that his house was entered and $700 stolen. The trousers from which the money was taken were found outside the house. The robbery is thought to have been the work of a tramp.

To Start Monday.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 7.—The spinners and manufacturers' committees have agreed to a standard schedule, making a reduction of 10 per cent. The manufacturers have issued a statement that the mills are to start on Monday.

Not an Idle Operative.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 7.—The extensive print works in the Pawtuxet valley, which started up in several departments a few days ago, resumed in full yesterday, and not an idle operative is to be found in Clyde, Phenix or Natick.

and $800 of 5 cents premium.

The American Curled Hair company at Central Falls, R. I., resumed operations with a general cut down of 10 per cent, which was accepted by the employees.

Word was received at Amesbury, Mas., stating that a delegation of 47 from France, now on their way to this country to make an official visit to the World's fair, will pay a visit to the carriage factories in that town.

BRAINTREE.

Mr. Gilman D. Whitaker died suddenly on Tuesday evening. He was apparently in good health in the morning, but was discovered unconscious in the cemetery about 10.30, where he was engaged in digging a grave for Thomas B. Vinton. He lingered until evening. Heart failure is attributed as the cause, and his close friendship for
Mr. Vinton may have hastened his death.
He was a native of Salem, N. H., and leaves a widow and one daughter.
Thomas A. Watson of Braintree is again the candidate of the People's party for State Treasurer and Receiver General.

ART AND MYTHOLOGY.

Greek Gods in the Palace of Fine Arts

IN FORMS OF ENDURING MARBLE.

The Great Mystery of How the Greeks So Far Outran All Other Nations in Sculpture Manifested Anew at the World's Columbian Exposition—The Paintings of Holland and Russia.

WORLD'S FAIR, Sept. 1.—[Special.]—I have taken some more lessons in high art, and have progressed so rapidly that I now understand the whole outside of the building and all the figures on it from Victory to Ceres and from the tall angels to the little caryatides. As everybody knows, the Art palace is more solidly constructed than any of the other buildings as it is to remain here, while the others, with possibly one or two exceptions, are to be removed. It stands on the north shore of the north lagoon, almost exactly in the north center of the grounds and is 308,500 feet in the main, with two annexes, eastern and western, each 120,300 feet.

The main oblong is intersected every way by nave and transept, each 100 feet wide and 70 feet high, and at their center is the great dome, the concave side of which is 125 feet from the floor and atop of it is the winged Victory. The entire structure still retains its original clear white color and externally as well as internally it is in truth a palace of art. Few visitors study the outside. They appreciate the general effect in beauty, but fail to note the Ionic purity of the columns, the chaste and yet massive simplicity of the statues, pediments and bas-reliefs. In short, all the figures suggestive of the progress of art from the dawn of history to the present time. In truth, it requires a special education to get the idea meant to be conveyed, for there certainly is not another building on the grounds and possibly not another in the country, of which the exterior more fully suggests its purpose.

And herein is manifested another of that great mystery which has been discussed by the learned for the last 400 years and was discussed even in Rome while the fact was yet new—the mystery that a mere handful of people in a little corner of Europe, western Europe, a region not so large as New Jersey, should have so far outrun all the rest of the world in this art and produced masterpieces so perfect that the modern can only admire and imitate but cannot hope to surpass. The traveler through the modern world sees everywhere strange symbols of a long dead and discarded faith. Over the insurance offices is the fabled Phoenix, rising freshly hatched from the ashes of the parent bird; in the drug store windows appears Atlas, bending under the weight of the globe, or Esculapian with the serpent curling around his staff, and elsewhere are Diana and Juno, Minerva and Jupiter and Apollo and other classic gods.

The literature of every Aryan land abounds with references to these creations of religious fancy and there is scarcely a political demonstration or a Veiled Prophet or other carnival display which does not in some way revive the old religion. In this Palace of Art, with its 7,000 statues and pictures, the Greek gods are constantly recurring and even in pictures with very modern titles one can see that the old mythology was still present in the painter's mind. One must know at least a little about it to get the idea, and while it is not well to appear vaguely instructive, perhaps the unlearned reader will stand a paragraph or two on mythology while we are yet on the porch of the Art palace.

Know then, inquiring friend, that several thousand years ago the original Aryans lived on the highlands of south central and southwestern Asia and worshipped the powers of nature. As they sent off successive swarms of emigrants and founded new races and nations their original language gave rise in turn to Zend, Sanskrit, Greek, Latin and all the Celtic and Teutonic tongues. But as the language slowly changed the names of things came to be considered the names of persons. Instead of thunder as a power they put the thunderer as a person. The Aryan said, "The sun dries up the dew." His Greek descendant, retaining the names without their meaning, said, "Helios devours Prometheus." When the obscure sun sent a peculiar ray through the clouds the Aryan said as our own children say, "The sun is drawing water." His Hindu descendant said, "Indra's elephant is filling his trunk to shover the fields."

The exploits of great pioneers and other leaders were interwoven with the actions of gods and the fancy of poet did the rest. Hence that wonderful mythology which enters so fully into modern art. But this still leaves the great problem of Greek pre-eminence unsolved. Of course each separate branch of the Aryan stock developed its mythology according to the nature of the country in which it is located. The Aryans in India, dazzled and overpowered by the awful phenomena of that tropical country, developed that gorgeous system of millions of gods of which the laborers of the West have heard so much. Hence the array of many-armed and snake and long-snouted gods to be seen here in the India exhibits. The Teutons went far to the north and so they created Thor and Woden and Friga, with gods of ice and fire and hail, gnomes and kobolds, night-riding hags and witches and monsters not fit to be described in a family paper, which did unutterable things in the depths of forests or on the black and blasted earth.

Midway between them was our Aryan race which worshipped the beautiful and especially the beautiful in human form. In what way the Greek mind took this direction we cannot say. It certainly did and to an extent that seems miraculous, but the how and the why remain a mystery. Every myth of the Greek faith or fancy was put in the loveliest forms of enduring marble and we have them here.

Of Diana, for instance, there are four very beautiful statues in the French section alone and very many paintings elsewhere. And very appropriately, too, for she was goddess of the cold, chaste moon, the friend of hunters, patroness of old maid and guardian of chastity. She was so in her way that one fellow who offered to see her home was instantly consumed to ashes, and when the great hunter Aktaeon accidentally came upon her while bathing in the forest, she changed him into a stag and "kicked" his own hounds on him. They made a meal of him in short order and this is the only authentic instance I can find of a "stag supper" that was approved by an old maid. And there was Prometheus who gave us fire. The gods had intended to leave mankind without this blessing, but when Prometheus saw that man alone among the animals had no natural weapons, he went up to heaven and stole fire from the chariot of the sun and by its aid man became the head of creation. For this Jupiter had him chained down on Mount Caucasus with vultures devouring his ever-growing liver, and if any one doubts this story he can come here and see Prometheus, life size, and all the surrounding details of good blood and there was material for the divorce court. Perhaps this is one reason why Mars and Vulcan are so seldom seen in art.

It was this Vulcan who made the chains for Prometheus, and is now to be seen suffering model from which to paint the scene that Parrhasius of Athens tortured upon his canvass. There Prometheus lay, chained to the cold rocks of Mount Caucasus. The vultures at his vitals and the links of the lame Lemnian fettering his flesh.

HERCULES AND MERCURY ON THEIR VACATION.

the scene that Parrhasius of Athens tortured upon his canvass. There Prometheus lay, chained to the cold rocks of Mount Caucasus. The vultures at his vitals and the links of the lame Lemnian fettering his flesh.

It is gratifying to add that Prometheus possessed the eternal secret on which the stability of the universe depended, and Jupiter finally had to release him to get at it. Unfortunately we do not know what the secret was. Hercules is another great character in art and mythology, the embodiment of strength. His statue is everywhere and almost any Fourth of July orator feels free to mention the infant Hercules strangling the serpents. Mercury was the messenger of the gods and is known in art by the wings on his helm and heels. It was he who set the fashion of wearing bird wings on hat and he and Hercules may be seen, in types as it were, any day on the avenues of the park. And here I must mention the singular fact that in all the Holland section I have not found a single picture in which the classic gods are prominent. Nearly all the old paintings show work or workers or suggest work. There are peasants plowing and peasants digging and peasants driving cattle, there are many scenes in human houses and there are boats and canals and ports crowded with shipping. There are also many beautiful pastoral scenes. But nearly all are of the utilitarian cast. And what is not utilitarian is religious. The Dutch appear to have found in art in work as well as in the gospel of it. And after two weeks of enough surveys I am satisfied that I shall never learn to like these Dutch pictures. The female forms in them are all alike to me, from the Virgin to the women pulling the canal boat. When I mentioned this to Mrs. C. S. Brooks, the sculptress, she assured me there was really great and ideal beauty in them—no Hollanders. May be so. But they are all Dutch to me.

Another section I cannot learn to like is the Russian, though it is always crowded with ardent admirers. Several of the pictures are indeed wonders in art, but they are so dreadfully intense. There is too much knocking down and dragging out. There are three large pictures in which the whole black tragedy of Russian history seems to be concentrated and the main one (No. 84, "Pugatchoff, Imperator of Peter III") appears to draw and fascinate the crowd very much as a rattlesnake might. Another picture presents a sort of riot among the guests at the wedding of the Grand Duke Vassila II. Does the Russian artistic mind turn naturally towards the dark and the dreadful? Verily, it seems so.

Handling the Crowds. More than a quarter of a million people attended the fair on Illinois Day, and yet the transportation facilities were not taxed to anything like their utmost. The crowds were handled admirably, for rather they handled themselves admirably. Both the transportation companies and the public are much better educated on the subject of getting to and from the fair than they were the Fourth of July. Not one of the harrowing scenes of that day, of people physically exhausted, struggling for a chance to get home, were repeated. At no time were there any such late crowds on the streets leading to the north and west side of the lake as there were the Fourth of July. The Fourth of July the World's fair steamboats carried in all something over 40,000 people. As late as 10 o'clock at night steamboat inspectors were busy preventing them from overloading on the trip down. On Illinois night the last boat, the John A. Dix, left the World's fair pier soon after 11 o'clock with very few passengers. The inspectors say that from 8 o'clock until 11 in the morning and from 2 o'clock until 7 in the afternoon the boats did a replica of the Fourth of July business in carrying people to the fair.

Souvenir Tickets. Souvenir tickets of the World's Columbian exposition are on sale at all the bazaar, Van Buren street and at the leading hotels. The series consists of Lincoln, Columbus, Washington, Indian. They are the finest engraved tickets that can be executed. A ticket purchased at any of the gates is good for a single admission any time between its purchase and the close of the exposition.

A BAY STATE HERO.

Grand Army Veterans Make Captain Adams Commander-in-Chief.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 7.—The Grand Army will probably finish their business and leave for home this evening. The campment shows a disposition to run through with its business rapidly. John J. Adams, of Massachusetts, was elected commander-in-chief practically without opposition. The new commander-in-chief, John J. B. Adams, or Jack Adams, as he is called at home, is one of the most popular veterans in New England.

For years he has been identified with the Grand Army as one of the most active and influential members of the department of Massachusetts. In 1861, before he was 20 years of age, he enlisted as a private in the 10th Massachusetts, became the nucleus of the Nineteenth Massachusetts. He served through the war, rising step by step to the rank of captain. When not disabled by wounds he participated in every march and in every battle of the Army of the Potomac in which his regiment took part.

He is a member of Lander post of Lynn, Mass., the second in membership in the country. No man in Massachusetts has received more frequent and more generous recognition of the regard of the people. Nothing has been too good for Jack Adams, and Jack in turn has met the expectations of his supporters as postmaster at Lynn and deputy superintendent of the Concord (Mass.) reformatory. He now holds the position of sergeant-at-arms of the commonwealth of Massachusetts. Last year his ardent friends presented him to the Republican convention for the candidacy for lieutenant governor, and without canvass or organization his name called out a large vote. He will be 52 years old in October.

The report of Adjutant General Gray showed that the order had gained 56,365 members during the year, and lost by death, discharge and suspension 59,025; the total membership in good standing is 397,223.

During the year the order has disbursed $307,000 in charity. The Grand monument fund has a balance on hand of $800. Harrison's old regiment, the Seventieth, with brigade associates, held a meeting and elected Harrison president. The president returned thanks in a short speech.

COLONELS NOT IN IT.

The Bostons Have It All Their Own Way Throughout the Game.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—Billy Barnie's Colonels went up against the champions for the first game of the last series to be played on the South End grounds this season. Menefee, Barnie's find, showed up in good form, all things considered. Boston took the lead in the first inning, and won in a romp. Pfeffer's all round playing was a feature of the game.

A Duel to the Death.
HOKKINSVILLE, Ky., Sept. 7.—Robert West and Will Davis, both members of the police force, settled an old score with a pistol duel. Davis fired first, and West promptly returned it. They were within arm's reach of each other. At the same instant both fired a second time. West expired in four minutes. Davis cannot survive long.

President Looked Healthy.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The delegates to the Pan-American Medical congress, their wives and daughters and other female relatives to the number of 600, shook hands with the president at the White House. Several of the doctors said Mr. Cleveland's face was hearty, and they were somewhat surprised at his healthful appearance.

RUN A BOGUS STORE.

C. O. Parker Obtained Goods by False Pretenses.

AN EMPLOYEE IMPLICATED.

Charges Which May Send Both to Prison.

Boston, Sept. 8.—At last the missing E. F. Sanderson has been found. Yesterday the following entry was made in the journal at police headquarters:

An inspector arrested this morning E. F. Sanderson, alias Parker, for obtaining property valued at $357.84 by false pretenses from George H. Richter, 92 Franklin street, and the Oxy, Wilson company of New York.

The story of the arrest is as follows: At a recent meeting of the creditors, it was noted that the only one present who had really seen Sanderson was Agent Sanford of the firm of Oxy, Wilson & Co., who are the heaviest losers. Last Saturday, with others, Mr. Sanford held a consultation with Inspector Cogswell and identified the unknown Sanderson as Charles O. Parker, whose picture holds a prominent place.

In the Rogues' Gallery. When the evidence had been laid before Chief Justice Parmenter he granted a warrant for the arrest of the missing man. Inspector Cogswell immediately began a still hunt for Parker, but it was not until yesterday morning that his shadowing was successful, and Parker was found on the corner of Warren and Moreland streets, Roxbury.

"Come with me," said the inspector, and he proceeded to handcuff the astonished Parker, but the latter protested he was a gentleman and without a demurrer accompanied the officer to headquarters. He gave his age as 31 and his home Quincy.

Held For the Grand Jury. At the municipal court he was bound over in $100 bonds for the grand jury.

At the police headquarters last evening the officer in charge said he had seen Parker often enough to know him, and that he also knew him by reputation.

He said Parker was not in the directory and he thought he originally hailed from New York state. He had been in a number of deals and was known at several of the police stations, station 4 among the rest.

At station 4 the police say that Parker had been arrested in 1885 for swindling by the method of an advertisement in daily papers. He has since been identified with several crooked operations, but has avoided arrest.

Store Was a Blind. The store at 1154 Tremont street has merely been a blind, and the operations have largely been carried on at other places.

The present warrant has three counts, the first alleging the obtaining of property from Oxy, Wilson & Co. to the amount of $357.84, the others for obtaining goods from George H. Richter of 92 Franklin street.

The writs which have been sworn out against the firm aggregate $6810, and there are numerous smaller claims which will come up.

Sullivan, who has claimed to be only an employee of Sanderson, is also liable to get into trouble. The attorney who holds the first deed on the property said: "Either Sullivan is a partner of Sanderson or he has acted under false pretenses to an extent sufficient to convict him."

DEADLY ELECTRIC WIRE

Causes the Instant Death of a Prominent Newton Man.

NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 8.—About 9 o'clock last evening Dr. J. R. McLaughlin was attracted from his house by cries coming from the direction of Pearl and Emerson streets. On reaching the spot from whence they came he found the body of a man dangling across a swinging wire which was throwing out vivid flashes of electricity. He ran to his house and, procuring a pair of rubber mittens, attempted to remove the body. He himself received a severe shock and was thrown to the ground.

Officer Burke was then summoned and after some delay succeeded in freeing the man. The remains were identified as those of Richard Bates. His face and hands were burned as to indicate that he had come in contact with the wire while attempting to cross the street. Death must have come to him within a minute.

Mr. Bates was a well-known citizen of Newton, and he had lived in this place over 50 years. He had been for a long time in the employ of Joseph N. Bacon and had had charge of Mr. Bacon's real estate business. He was 58 years old and leaves a widow and two minor and one unmarried daughter. He resided at the corner of Emerson and Pearl streets, a short distance from the spot where he met his death.

MISUSED THE MAILS.

Postoffice Authorities on the Track of a Swindling Minister.

Boston, Sept. 8.—The postoffice inspectors in Boston have been asked to be on the lookout for a clergyman who is wanted in different parts of the country for violating the postal laws, and is also wanted in the different large cities for various offenses. His name is Rev. F. F. Howard, alias Felix Howard, alias William Lord Moore, alias E. Ross, alias Joseph Ledger. He is about 40 years of age, weighs between 250 and 275 pounds; is 5 feet and 8 or 9 inches in height, stout build, fat chubby hands, with short finger nails carefully manicured.

He is a fluent talker and fine preacher, and carries letters of introduction from prominent persons, with whom he claims to be on intimate terms. From March to July of this year he conducted a fraudulent scheme through the United States mails, with headquarters at Jackson, Tenn., where he posed as the pastor of a Baptist church and the president of the "Gulf and Tennessee Railroad company," and although no such company exists, he actually placed contracts for grading 40 miles of road. He is a clever swindler, and is wanted for numerous violations of the postal laws and other crimes.

A MYSTERIOUS ASSAULT Which Nearly Caused the Death of a Lynn Woman.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 8.—Miss Alice Clancy, a servant of Rev. James H. Van Buren, was nearly strangled to death last evening by an unknown assailant on Park street.

She was returning home from her cousin's, and when opposite the residence of Dr. Hatch a man sprang out from behind a tree and lassoed her with a rope. The man attempted to throw her down at the same time, but her screams frightened him away.

The assailant made good his escape. Miss Clancy is unable to give any description of him. It appears that her cousin was assaulted a week ago on Blossom street, and it is presumed that the assault last night was intended for her cousin. Miss Clancy is about 30 years of age and is a native of Lynn. The police were notified and are in search of the man, but have no clue. Miss Clancy is still in a critical condition.

The Good Work Goes On. PROVIDENCE, Sept. 8.—The Oak Valley woolen mill at Tarkillin is now in operation after an idleness of six weeks.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 8.—Part of the factory of the Candee Rubber company commenced work yesterday after three weeks' idleness. More rooms opened today, and the rest will open Saturday on full time and with a full force. This concern employs over 2300 hands, and is one of the largest in the country.

Peter Was Ugly.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 8.—Peter Owens of 10 Commercial street attempted to stab his wife and Dr. Holbrook yesterday. He was crazed from the effects of liquor and Dr. Holbrook was called to see if he could not relieve Mr. Owens. When he arrived Owens was in the act of cutting his wife with a knife. The doctor caught the infuriated man and after a struggle succeeded in locking him up in a room until the police arrived.

A Lynn Strike.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 8.—The edgeworkers and trimmers in T. G. Plant & Co.'s factory are out on a strike because the firm insists on putting in machinery to take their places. The union claims that the men went on a strike on account of a reduction in prices from 10 to 25 percent. The union demanded that if the firm put in machines that they pay union machine prices. The union claims that the firm refused to do so.

To Be Sent to an Asylum.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 8.—Judge Tillinghast commissioned Police Surgeon and Medical Examiner Palmer and Dr. Morgan, an insanity expert, to examine Rev. Charles H. Sheffield of Westerly, who killed his 5-year-old daughter at Rocky Point a week ago Sunday. It is said the report will be that the prisoner is insane and is dangerous to be at large. Sheffield will be sent to the state insane asylum.

Creditors Get Very Little.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Sept. 8.—A meeting of the creditors of Searl & Webster, shoe manufacturers, was held at their office. A committee of investigation reported that the affairs of the firm were all right, and recommended that the creditors accept 2 cents on the dollar. The creditors voted unanimously to accept the offer.

Wanted For Attempted Murder.

BOSTON, Sept. 8.—Gionnni Cosca, an Italian 30 years of age, was arrested at the North End by Patrolman Gleason, as it is believed that he is wanted in Brooklyn on the charge of attempting to kill Peter Vannale in that city last winter. He is held to await the arrival of Brooklyn officers.

Connecticut Butchers Meet.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 8.—The Connecticut Butchers' association held its annual meeting here. Forty members were present, and representatives of Hartford, Danbury, Waterbury, South Norwalk, Bridgeport, Bethel and New Haven. Reports show that the financial conditions are sound.

An inquest on the death of Emma Jungman, the little girl who was killed by an electric car at Plymouth, Mass., tended to exonerate the motorman, H. C. Sampson, from blame.

Notice was given at LAWRENCE, Mass., that the Pacific company will not run any more mills than were started Tuesday for the present. Last Tuesday one-half of them were put in operation.

J. H. Blanchard, a graduate of Bates college, class of '89, and for the past year principal of the Fairfield (Me.) high school, was elected superintendent of the Waterville (Me.) public schools.

The 30 edgeworkers and trimmers at the shoe factory of Thomas G. Plant, in Lynn, Mass., have struck to resist a reduction in prices and the introduction of the Woolbury edgeworking machine.

AT A RIPE OLD AGE

Hon. Hamilton Fish Responds to Death's Summons.

END WAS VERY SUDDEN.

Was Apparently In the Best of Health and Spirits.

GARRISON'S, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Hon. Hamilton Fish, ex-secretary of state, died at his country residence here of heart failure. His death was a severe shock to everyone, as until a few hours of the sad event he was in his usual health and in the best of spirits. At the time of his death there were with him his two sons, Hamilton Fish, Jr., and Stuyvesant Fish, and his daughter, Mrs. A. J. Benjamin. Mr. Fish left his city home at 231 East Seventeenth street in the early part of the summer and has spent the entire season at Glenn Cliffe with Mrs. Benjamin and had intended returning to New York the latter part of this month.

The funeral services will be held in Glenn Cliffe on Sunday.

His Career.

Mr. Fish was born in New York city Aug. 3, 1828; was graduated at Columbia college in 1847, studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1850. He was for several years a commissioner of deeds. In politics he was a Whig and was the defeated candidate of that party for the state assembly in 1854. In 1852 he was elected a representative in congress from the Sixth district of New York and served one term. In 1856 he was a candidate for lieutenant governor. The Whig candidate for governor, John Young, was elected, but Mr. Fish, who had incurred the hostility of the anti-renters by his warm denunciation of their principles, was defeated. His successful competitor, Addison Garfield, a Democrat, who had received the support of the anti-renters, resigned the office in 1857 on becoming a judge of the court of appeals, and Mr. Fish was elected in his place.

HON. HAMILTON FISH.

In 1858 he was chosen governor by about 30,000 majority. In 1861 he was elected United States senator in place of Daniel S. Dickinson. In the senate he opposed the repeal of the Missouri compromise, and acted with the Republican party from its formation to the end of his term, which expired in 1867. He took an active part in the campaign that resulted in the election of Abraham Lincoln. In 1862, in conjunction with Bishop Ames, he was appointed by Secretary Stanton a commissioner to visit the United States soldiers imprisoned at Richmond and to relieve their necessities and provide for their comfort.

The Confederate government declined to admit the commissioners within their lines, but intimated a readiness to negotiate for a general exchange of prisoners. The result was an agreement for an equal exchange, which was carried out substantially to the end of the war. In 1868 he aided in the election of General Grant, was appointed secretary of state by him in March, 1869, and was re-appointed at the beginning of his second term in March, 1873, serving from March 11, 1869, to March 12, 1877. He introduced a system of examinations of applicants to consulates to test their knowledge of subjects connected with their duties. On Feb. 9, 1871, the president appointed him one of the commissioners on the part of the United States to negotiate the treaty of Washington, which was signed by him on May 8 of that year. He effected a settlement of the long-standing northwestern boundary dispute, giving the island of San Juan to the United States, and successfully resisted an effort by Great Britain to change the terms of the extradition treaty by municipal legislation. In the settlement of the Alabama question he procured the acceptance of a doctrine by the Geneva tribunal, securing the United States against claims for indirect damages arising out of Fenian raids or Cuban filibustering expeditions.

In November, 1873, he negotiated with Admiral Polo, Spanish minister to Washington, the settlement of the Virginian question. He was for some years president of the New York Historical society, and was president-general of the New York Society of the Cincinnati.

Mr. Fish was a man of the physique. His wife died in 1877, leaving five children, one of whom, Hamilton Fish, Jr., has been prominent in New York state politics for several years. Mr. Fish was several times a millionaire, and is said to have spent $300,000 a year.

Emperor's Troops Victorious.

METZ, Sept. 8.—In the maneuvers here yesterday Emperor William in person commanded the Sixteenth army corps. His troops successfully defended their ground against the attacks of the enemy, finally compelling the latter to retreat and leave them in possession of the field.

Wedded a Turk.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Mrs. Jeanie Andie, widow of Dr. Andie of Denver, was married yesterday to a Turk in the Midway plaisance. She is a daughter of Colonel Alexander Hammond of Bellaire, O. Her relatives are among the most prominent people in eastern Ohio.

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Has voted an emphatic majority for the repeal of the Sherman Act, but the people of Quincy have decided by a much greater majority that

Hearn's New Drug Store

is the gem in its line in the city.

What a pretty store! How beautiful! How well laid out! Does it not light up beautifully at night? and other like expressions voice their verdict.

I thank you all for your kind words of praise, and feel grateful that my efforts to add an attraction to the city have been appreciated.

I am adding every day to my stock and will not stop until I am satisfied that I have a drug store that will compare favorably with any retail store in the state in my line.

I am giving my personal attention to the store, and can assure the people of Quincy that any prescription coming into my store will be filled with the utmost care and accuracy. I have had 14 years' experience in the business, almost five of which I have been in business for myself in West Quincy.

I feel gratified at the confidence imposed in me, judging by the share of patronage I have received thus far, and hope to merit more by strict attention to business and courtesy to all.

THE VOTE of the city of Newburyport to accept the act authorizing the construction of an independent water supply system was by a much more emphatic majority than the vote not to purchase the works of the company now located there. A two-thirds vote was required but it was nearly unanimous, the vote being 1462 yes to 113 no. It will be interesting now to note which city was the wiser, Quincy or Newburyport. The former was not given the option to buy or not first, but probably by persistent petitions to the Legislature could have secured an act similar. But Quincy has bought out the existing plant and Newburyport will have two works. There were many who believed it best for Quincy to establish an independent system and they will now have an opportunity to see the practical workings of such competition. We believe Quincy has pursued the best course, and that the city is satisfied with the bargain.

MASSACHUSETTS WILL have an odd number of cities, the acceptance of a city charter by Beverly this week making the number 31. Quincy will not long rank among the small cities as it is now number 22 in point of population. North Adams continues the largest town, with Brookline, Weymouth, Clinton, Hyde Park and Peabody in the order named, each having over 10,000 population. Beverly voted under the new general city charter act, and several questions were submitted, and the various votes will be of interest:

On acceptance of the city charter 725 yes 177 no. For two branches of a city council, 743; for one branch, 96. For one-year term for aldermen, 730; for two-year term, 102. For one-year term for mayor, 750; for two-year term, 81.

An Interesting Man.

The Journal in its "Talk of the Day" says "Judge Everett Cephas Bumpus of Quincy who is just now conspicuous as the untier of the endowment gordian knot, is one of the most striking looking men on the Boston bench. He is tall and slender, slow in movement and equally gentle and deliberate in speech. His smooth shaven face is lighted by a pair of half humorous eyes, and his sensitive mouth gives evidence of a gentle disposition that one would be in error to accept without some reservation in favor of the chin beneath it. The Judge is an interesting man."

The Times Have Changed.

Brave old John Hancock was more partial to the theatre of Mars than to that of Thalia or Terpsichore, for he once drove the actors from the stage of the only theatre that dared to show its head in Boston. How he would stare if he could see the Puritan city of today, with more theatres now in full blast than the number of decades which have elapsed since he denied them existence!—Journal.

Masonic Visitations.

Right Worshipful Herbert I. Mitchell, district deputy grand master of the 24th Masonic district, has decided upon the following dates for his official visits. He will be accompanied by Worshipful Frank E. Shaw as district deputy grand marshal; John Cutler, Abington, Sept. 25; Puritan, Whitman, Oct. 4; Fellowship, Bridge-water, Oct. 9; Rural, Quincy, Oct. 19; Norfolk, Randolph, Oct. 25; St. George, Campello, Nov. 1; Satucket, East Bridge-water, Nov. 14; Paul Revere, Brockton, Nov. 21.

MARRIED.

STILES—JAMISON.—In Wollaston, Sept. 6, at the residence of the groom's mother, Everett street, by Rev. C. W. Wilder, Mr. Parker E. Stiles of Barrington Centre, R. I., to Clara C. Jamison of Salem, Real Questions of Finance.

To the Editors of the Ledger:

In your issue of Sept. 6, you published a list of some of the "real questions of finance." Will you allow me, as a humble student of that science, to try and answer them?

First,—Is the apparent fall of silver real, or is it due in whole or in part to the appreciation of gold?

Answer,—The fall in silver is real, and is mainly owing to the great increase in the last 25 years in its production. This real decline in its value, however, has probably been accelerated by its demonetization by Germany, and subsequently, by other countries.

Second,—Would the free coinage of silver by the United States arrest the decline in its value?

Answer,—It would not.

Third,—Would free coinage establish silver as our single standard and drive gold out of circulation?

Answer,—It would. The United States would become a mono-metallic nation with silver as its one metal. There could be no longer any pretense of our being a bi-metallic nation. Free coinage advocates are not, in truth, as they pretend to be, bi-metalists, but are silver mono-metalists.

Fourth,—What would be our disadvantages in making exchanges with the civilized world if we should abandon the gold standard?

Answer,—All our foreign trade would be hampered by a big charge for "exchange," representing the difference in value of our currency and foreign currencies. This would be a continual embarrassment, and an ever present sign that in one important respect we didn't rank with the first nations of the world.

Fifth,—Has the fall of prices during the past 20 years been the result in any degree of the demonetization of silver?

Answer,—The main agencies in causing the fall of prices have been the great progress in invention and the wonderful improvements of all kinds in the facilities of production. That silver demonetization by the nations of the world had no part whatever in causing the decline it would be difficult to say.

Sixth,—Does dear money produce low prices?

Answer,—That is its usual and legitimate result.

Seventh,—Does cheap money produce high prices?

Answer,—That is its usual and legitimate result.

Eighth,—Is either silver or gold, or both, under any system of bi-metallic coinage an infallible measure of values?

Answer,—No. An infallible measure of values has not yet been discovered by the genius of man. Gold fluctuates in value, silver fluctuates, and the bi-metallic standard furnished by gold and silver, coined at an agreed upon ratio, fluctuates.

Ninth,—Why would a coinage ratio determined by international agreement be more desirable than a ratio established by one country alone?

Answer,—Because it would place the standard of the currencies of the different countries on the same basis, and tend to do away hurtful and embarrassing charges for "exchange," in international trade.

Young Men's Christian Association.

Fifteen enthusiastic would-be foot ball players met in the parlor Thursday night and organized a team. Mr. H. E. Crane was elected captain and Walter McBirney treasurer. The next meeting will be held Monday night.

There was a good attendance at the rooms Labor day. The attendance a d interest is increasing rapidly, and indications are that there will be a large influx of new members. The gymnasium classes, Congress and various other departments will open the first week in October.

The basket ball team was defeated in the game at Brockton, on Saturday, by a score of 7 to 0. All enjoyed the game however, and report that they were treated royally by the Brockton association.

An important meeting of the board of directors will be held next Tuesday evening for the purpose of discussing plans for the new year. The annual meeting and election of officers will be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 10. It is probable that a public anniversary will be held in one or more of the churches soon after that date.

The September meeting of the Women's Auxiliary will be held in the association parlor next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will be a Bible reading by one of the members, followed by important business. The association is planning for a large work this year, and in order to carry out some features of it successfully it will be necessary to have a great deal of assistance from the Auxiliary. It is therefore hoped that all Christian women who want to labor in a field which will be sure to bring good results to their own homes and city, will attend the meeting Monday and volunteer to join the organization and if possible enter into the active work.

Quincy Maid of Honor.

The People and Patriot of Concord, N. H., reports Miss Sarah Folan of this city to have been the maid of honor at the brilliant church wedding at Taunton, Mass., on Wednesday of Mr. John H. Haynes of Concord and Miss Margaret G. Long of Taunton.

The bride was very tastefully dressed, in ivory white satin, en train, trimmed with white tulle point lace with tulle veil very prettily arranged. The bridesmaid wore a plain china silk dress with waist draped with rosettes. The maid of honor was dressed in silk crepe with trimmings of satin and waist ornamented with girle of satin rosettes. The bride and bridesmaid wore bride roses and maid of honor, carnations.

A NEW STONE.

Marking the Graves of Ancestors of Senator Hoar.

In the old Hancock cemetery this week, Swithin Bros. of this city have erected for Senator Hoar a large double slate stone in memory of his ancestors. Otherwise than being new, it will not attract great attention, being simple and in keeping with the ancient stones in this sacred place. It is near the centre of the cemetery near a stone and slate sarcophagus to Dr. Leonard Hoar. It is a double stone with these inscriptions:

BRIDGET

Widow of the President LEONARD HOAR died May 25, 1723.

Daughter of John Lord Lisle President of the High Court of Justice Lord Commissioner of The Great Seal, who drew the indictment and sentence of King Charles I, and was murdered at Lausanne, Aug. 11th, 1634, and of Lady Alicia Lisle, who was beheaded by the brutal judgment of Jeffries in 1685.

She was nearly akin by marriage to Lord William Russell.

JOANNA HOAR, died in Braintree, December 21st, 1661. She was widow of CHARLES HOAR, Sheriff of Gloucester, England, who died 1638.

She came to New England with five children about 1640.

Circus Tent Collapsed.

Emin's Death Confirmed. LONDON, Sept. 8.—Letters just received in England from an officer of Emin Pasha's expedition confirm the report of the murder of Emin and announce the finding of a box of Emin's dispatches, written just before he was murdered. The letters describe in detail the capture of Nyangue, which was stormed on March 4. The Arabs lost 800 men, while only two Europeans were killed.

What a Five-Minute Storm Did. PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Sept. 8.—This place was devastated by a wind and rain storm last night which lasted about five minutes. The steeple of the Methodist church was blown down. The streets of the village are filled with the broken branches of trees. Many houses were unroofed. Several people were more or less seriously injured.

Looks Rather Gloomy. WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—State and naval department officials do not like the situation in Brazil. To them it looks ugly. If true, as reported, that the navy has turned against President Peixoto, they fear nothing short of a general and prolonged revolution. AN ALLEGED SWINDLER.

A Quincy Man in Tolls of the Boston Police—Extensive Operations.

Charles O. Parker, 51 years of age, who claims to live in this city, was arrested at Boston Highlands, Thursday, on the charge of swindling, and was held in $5000 for the grand jury.

It is alleged says the Globe, that under the name of E. F. Sanderson, with an associate named Sullivan, he has within a short time swindled a number of merchants of Boston and New York.

Early in the summer the firm of E. F. Sanderson & Co. opened a store at 1154 Tremont street and began to advertise as wholesale and retail dealers in doors, sashes, blinds, window glass, hardware, paints, oils and plumbers' supplies. This firm then began operations with several other firms, and obtained, it is said, fully $10,000 worth of goods on credit.

JOSIAH QUINCY. President Cleveland Accepts His Resignation in State Department.

A Washington special to the Boston Advertiser under date of Sept. 7 says: "Josiah Quincy will go out of the state department very soon. President Cleveland gave his consent today to the Massachusetts man leaving the office of assistant secretary of state at any time now. Quincy reached here from Chicago yesterday. This afternoon he called at the White House and had his long awaited conference with the President. There was nothing formal about the meeting, so Mr. Quincy says, and no exchange of written testimonials. Mr. Quincy resigned verbally and verbally Mr. Cleveland accepted the resignation.

Mr. Quincy says that he will give up the state department duties in a very short time and go back to manage the fall campaign. He says that there is some work he must attend to before he leaves. This will take two or three weeks and then Mr. Quincy will cease to be a part of the administration.

More New Pupils. The names of the new D primary pupils at the Quincy and Washington schools are given below, those of the other schools having been published yesterday:

Washington School. Morton Smith, Annie Callahan, John Delory, Lillie Kernan, Sadie Perry, Edward Lawton, Stacy Benson, Rita Malcolm, Nancy Mitchell, Ethel Hersey, James Starr.

Quincy School. Ediel MacAdams, Lizzie Sullivan, Leon Stephens, Chester Greener, Mary Reynolds, John Curley, Teresa McKoon, Walter Dunn, Harold Woodman, Louise Hinkley, Frank Hoyt, Chester Brown, Annie Radley, Elsie Badger, Grace Thomas, Fannie Duggan.

Vacation is Over. Now the sound of the schoolbell is heard in the land. Towheaded young ones, sun-tanned and freckled in long, happy respite from prison walls and lessons, will cast one regretful look back at the scene of their freedom and turn to the old tasks. They will throng the doors and besiege the halls of learning.

It is to be hoped that this fall there will be room for them. Our population, though it disappointed some of the people at the time of the last census in not being large enough, has outgrown its schoolhouse room. In all the large cities children run wild in the streets and grow into villainy because there is not school room to house them and train them to be useful citizens.

One cause of lack of room is that the course of instruction in America has become too heavy, and too much money has been lavished on the high schools and ornamental branches. If a child is thoroughly well grounded in arithmetic, reading, writing, geography and United States history, all in the English language, no other, it is enough for the state to do, unless there is plenty of funds. The rest of the education the ambitious young student can get for himself.

The foundation in the English branches thoroughly laid in what every state government in this country owes to its children of school age. It is better that there should be not one pupil educated in the high school branches than that ten, or even one, should be deprived of the perfect training in the common branches. This truth will be recognized in the future at any rate. Let us have room, room for the little ones, the forlorn children of foreign parentage who come trooping into the schoolhouses every autumn, unwashed, unkempt, it may be, and not knowing a word of English sometimes. Let every one of them be received and taught morality, English and cleanliness. They have the future greatness of this republic in their hands.

Doubtless in time, too, manual training will more and more take the place of the merely curious and ornamental branches of which our study courses have been partly composed hitherto. American youths of both sexes must have their hands and eyes educated. Most of them need to earn their living in occupations that require the use of the hands.

A Washington special to the Boston Advertiser under date of Sept. 7 says: "Josiah Quincy will go out of the state department very soon. President Cleveland gave his consent today to the Massachusetts man leaving the office of assistant secretary of state at any time now. Quincy reached here from Chicago yesterday. This afternoon he called at the White House and had his long awaited conference with the President. There was nothing formal about the meeting, so Mr. Quincy says, and no exchange of written testimonials. Mr. Quincy resigned verbally and verbally Mr. Cleveland accepted the resignation.

Mr. Quincy says that he will give up the state department duties in a very short time and go back to manage the fall campaign. He says that there is some work he must attend to before he leaves. This will take two or three weeks and then Mr. Quincy will cease to be a part of the administration.

Heredity.

There is nothing we cannot overcome, say not thy will is thine is inherited. Or that some trait inborn makes thy whole life forlorn.

And call down punishment that is not merited.

Back of thy parents and grandparents lies The Great Eternal Will. That, too, is thine Inheritance—strong, beautiful, divine, Such lever of success for one who tries.

Pry up thy faults with this great lever—will! However deeply bedded in propensity, However firmly set, I tell thee firmly yet Is that vast power that comes from truth's immensity.

Thou art a part of that strange world, I say! Its forces lie within thee, stronger far Than all thy mortal sins and frailties are. Believe thyself divine and watch and pray.

There is no noble height thou canst not climb! All triumphs may be thine in time's future yet. If whatsoe'er thy fault thou dost not faint or halt, But lean upon the staff of God's security.

Earth has no claim the soul cannot contest; Know thyself part of the Eternal Source, And naught can stand before thy spirit's force; The soul's divine inheritance is best.

Illustrated Journalism in England.

A countryman who has been endeavoring to obtain some definite ideas about the royal wedding functions from the various illustrated papers applies to me for help and enlightenment. His bewilderment is natural. He finds in the first place that we seem to have a new queen reigning over us, for her majesty's features in the illustrated paper bear no resemblance to the authorized portraits of Queen Victoria. A still more remarkable fact is that in the course of the festivities her majesty seems to have continually changed her habiliments. One of the special artists shows her with an ermine train. Another represents her with no train at all. Another shows her with a crown on her head. Another appears to have seen her only a few minutes later in a bonnet.

One picture represents the queen and her guests all taking lunch at one table. Another places them at different tables. One paper surpasses itself by two views of the route to the railway station, in each of which the royal couple are provided with a totally different carriage and different horses and attendants. I think I can explain how these discrepancies arise. Probably some of the special artists dispatched to sketch the wedding made their sketches at Henley.—London Truth.

Details of Chinese Registration.

According to the official statistics, there are in round numbers 110,000 Chinese in the United States. Of these 13,179 have complied with the provisions of the registration law and 96,821 have refrained. The official returns show 43 registrations in Alabama, 13 in Arkansas, 4,851 in California, 1,500 in Colorado, 146 in Connecticut, 41 in Florida, 65 in Georgia, 1,019 in Illinois, 59 in Indiana, 62 in Iowa, 20 in Kansas, 28 in Kentucky, 215 in Louisiana, 187 in Maryland, 29 in Massachusetts, 103 in Michigan, 59 in Minnesota, 400 in Montana, 333 in Missouri, 91 in Nebraska, 47 in New Hampshire, 41 in New Jersey, 446 in New Mexico, 577 in New York, 5 in North Carolina, 106 in Ohio, 1,092 in Oregon, 712 in Pennsylvania, 23 in South Carolina, 9 in Tennessee, 725 in Texas, 27 in Virginia, 26 in West Virginia and 107 in Wisconsin.

A Big Stone's Flight.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 8.—At North Uxbridge a stone weighing 250 pounds was thrown into the air by a blast and fell through the roof of Daniel Creighton's two-story house, falling through two floors, scraping Mrs. Creighton, but not seriously injuring her.

BEVERLY, Mass., Sept. 8.—The townspeople of Beverly yesterday voted to become a city. The vote stood as follows: Whole number, 911; for a city charter, 735; against it, 186.

Where's Mamie Hartnett?

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 8.—Little 5-year-old Mamie Hartnett has been missing for two days and not a trace of her can be found. She went to the convent school on State street, Tuesday, and has not been seen since noon of that day. The entire police force is puzzled.

ELEVEN LIVES LOST

And Many Injured by the Inexcusable Blunder of Railroad Men.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Two fast trains on the Pennsylvania road crashed into each other near Colehour, a small town near the Indiana state line, and in an instant 11 lives were lost and nearly a score maimed and mangled.

The casualty appears to have been the result of a blunder inexcusable by even the railroad officers. The wreck was complete. The engine crew saved their lives by jumping. The two locomotives came together with a crash that wrecked both and drove the baggage car of the Pennsylvania train completely through the smoking car behind it.

In the smoking car were 40 passengers and from this car most of the dead and wounded were taken. This was the most difficult task, for the dead and suffering were buried beneath the very floor of the baggage car, and the first arrivals at the scene of the wreck found arms and legs extending from every window.

One man named Jones was not yet been learned, was thrown partially out of a smoker window, and a ton or more of the wreckage pinioned the remainder of the body within the wrecked car. All efforts to disengage the body were unavailing, and the rigid features of the dead man stared the rescuers in the face.

The officials of the Pennsylvania railroad say that an investigation will be commenced at once. The result will be submitted to General Superintendent Watts for final action. In a clear case of negligence on someone's part, and there will not be much trouble in fixing the responsibility.

THE MYSTERY DEEPENS.

Dead Body of the Husband of Mrs. Halliday Is Found.

MIDDELTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 8.—The body of old Paul Halliday, the husband of the woman under arrest for the murder of two women, has been found under the house of the Hallidays. The bodies of the women were identified by a young man, Joseph McQuillan of Newburg, as Miss Sarah Jane McQuillan and her mother. They lived near Gardnertown, and were poor. A mysterious woman recently entered the mother's house to help her in house work, and later took the daughter also, on the pretext that her mother was sick.

An important discovery has just been made by Constable Scott, who has Mrs. Halliday under his charge. In an out-house has been found an Elgin old watch with "S. J. M." engraved on the case and a short chain with a ball attached; also a band ring with the initials "S. J. M." inside, and another ring with a garnet stone.

STARVING TO DEATH.

Pitiable Plight of More Than Twenty Thousand Sea Islanders.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 8.—The governor's special agent has returned from a trip among the Sea Islands, over which recent cyclones swept. He found the effects of the disaster worse than hitherto reported. Over 20,000 people, most of whom are negroes, are on the verge of death from hunger, thirst and disease. The governor requested the mayor of Charleston and other city and state officials to assemble here, and a proclamation was issued calling on the people of the United States to aid in saving the lives of the destitute.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—By direction of the secretary of war 300 hospital tents have been sent from St. Louis to the homeless on the South Carolina coast.

ANOTHER HURRICANE

Causes Loss of Life and Much Damage to Property in Louisiana.

SCHRIVER, La., Sept. 8.—A strong gale has been blowing steadily here since yesterday evening, which has increased to a tornado. A number of small dwellings have been blown down and destroyed. Cane and rice are considerably damaged. Mabel Gauthreaux of this town was killed at school near Lockport, by the destruction of the schoolhouse by the storm. No particulars yet obtainable.

OLIVER FOUR of Thibodeaux was instantly killed near Raceland by falling timbers. These are the only casualties so far reported.

LOCKPORT, La., Sept. 8.—The property loss in this city will approximate $100,000.

TO CONDUCT CAMPAIGN.

Assistant Secretary of State Quincy Resigns to Office.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Josiah Quincy of Massachusetts has resigned his office of assistant secretary of state, to which he was appointed by President Cleveland. This action has for some time been anticipated, Mr. Quincy having accepted the position with the expectation of relinquishing it after a short interval. Since the Massachusetts Democratic committee meeting, it has been apparent that there was an imperative demand for Mr. Quincy to assume charge of the approaching campaign. His resignation, as a consequence, creates no surprise.

Rioters Subdued by Soldiers.

LOXON, Sept. 8.—There was a strikers' riot near Sheffield. A mob of strikers set fire to several coal wagons standing at a railway station and demolished the coal agent's offices. The riot was quelled by soldiers. Similar rioting is reported in the Dewsbury, Bursfield, Rotherham and Nottingham districts.

Official Changes.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The president has accepted the resignation of W. D. McShaw as assistant United States district attorney for Kentucky. Attorney General Olney has appointed John J. Stewart of Abingdon, Va., assistant United States district attorney for the western district of Virginia.

WILL OF MAJORITY.

Props Upon Which Silverites Depend Are Weak.

RUMORS OF A COMPROMISE.

Carlisle Not to Suggest Financial Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Senator Voorhees, who is managing the administration forces in the senate, said: "I do not think the silverites will hold out longer than two weeks more. By that time they will have exhausted their speeches and will have no grounds justifying them in protracting the debate any longer."

It has been ascertained that not more than eight or nine silver senators on the Republican side manifest a disposition to resist the efforts to get a vote after the speeches are through. The other Republican senators who are opposed to repeal are also opposed to delay. The sentiment is growing every day in the senate that the majority should rule.

If the Democratic silver senators take the same stand and refuse to join the silver state senators in the obstructive tactics, the small group of silverites will have very little ground upon which to stand. This Democratic wing has not yet defined its position on this question, but it is believed by the friends of the administration that it will allow a vote to be taken when the subject shall have been fully exhausted.

Senator Cockerell, who has been manifesting a refractory spirit, said that he did not intend to be fractious, but would do everything in his power to defeat the bill. He does not like the idea that Republicans like Sherman, Allison, Aldrich, Hoar and others should be allowed to go forward as leaders in a controversy which belongs exclusively to the Democratic party.

Compromise Rumors.

Rumors of an impending and indispensable compromise on the bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act were current in the lobbies and on the floor of the senate. The speech made by Mr. Walthall (Dem., Miss.), to whom Mr. Stewart had yielded the floor in a spirit of accommodation, may have been an indication of the character and direction of such compromise.

He declared himself willing to co-operate with the chairman of the finance committee in having speedy action on the bill—on condition that the bi-metallic policy in Mr. Voorhees' substitute be clothed in the forms and given the force of law. He could see no reason why that should not be done, and if it were done the bill could be passed in half the time that it would otherwise take.

Mr. Stewart's courtesy to the senator from Mississippi was appreciated. After Mr. Walthall closed his speech the Nevada senator resumed the floor, and discoursed on silver up to 4:15, when he announced that, although there were several other branches of the subject which he had desired to discuss he would close his speech then.

The spirit of compromise was prevalent in the senate yesterday and was evinced in several instances. In the first place, no obstacle was interposed in the way of taking up the repeal bill an hour and a half before the time when it should come up as the unfinished business. Then Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.) intimated that after some conference with the chairman of the finance committee he would not make a motion, which he had intended to make, to take up his resolution for the appointment of a joint select committee on finance.

The most significant incident of the day's session took place at the close when Mr. Daniel (Dem., Va.), having given notice that he would address the senate next Thursday, Mr. Platt (Dem., Conn.) suggested an earlier day, as senators hoped to have a vote on the bill before Thursday.

Relief Measures.

It has frequently been suggested to Secretary Carlisle by friends of the administration in congress and by leading financiers in the east and west that the silver bullion now in the treasury should be coined, and that the secretary use the seigniorage of about $50,000,000 to relieve the treasury from the existing stringency. The secretary said yesterday that he has no intention whatever of recommending any legislation on currency, currency, banking or any other subject until the pending question of silver purchases in the senate has been disposed of.

"The idea," he said, "of commencing the coining of the bullion in the treasury while the purchases of silver bullion are still 4,500,000 ounces a month would be the height of folly. I do not propose to do anything of the kind. When the senate has disposed of the pending question, I will then be prepared to consider what the next step shall be." "It has been decided," he said, "after a full conference of the friends of the administration in the senate and house, not to make any move in either body, or financial legislation of any character, until silver purchases are stopped."

There has been a strong disposition on the part of several members of the banking and currency committee in the house, and in the finance committee in the senate, to go ahead at once with other relief measures. There are many propositions before both committees, but in deference to the wishes of the president and Secretary Carlisle they have been postponed, and will await developments in the senate.

Burial of Jerome Bonaparte.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 8.—The body of Colonel Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte arrived here and was taken to the home of Charles J. Bonaparte, his brother. The coffin was of cedar and covered with black broadcloth. The body was removed privately to the cemetery. There were no funeral services, as they were held at Beverly, Mass.

Banks Going Ahead.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Deputy Comptroller Tucker is authorized the Second National bank, at Greenville, N. J., to begin business, and a ended the corporate existence of the First National bank of Central City, Colo., to Sept. 15, 1913.

It Was Asiatic Cholera.

Prior to that time it was a portion of Suffolk county, but there was a Norfolk county as early as 1643.

—The beautiful white buildings of the Columbian exposition are to be sold as junk. They are soon to be advertised and knocked down to the highest bidder. About the only thing of future use in them are the iron and steel arches and timbers. It is thought that not more than $1,000,000 can be realized from the auction. The most expensive buildings will probably bring the least money. The Manufactures and Liberal Arts Building, which cost $1,000,000, and which has $500,000 in arches alone, will, it is believed, be given to the man who will tear it down and carry the debris away.

For Women Only.

Great Discovery. "A friend in need is a friend indeed."

There are two places in London where clergymen can buy sermons printed. They cover all subjects and can be had for every season.

—An editor preaches this short sermon on profanity: "Do not swear. There is no occasion to swear outside of a printing office. It is useful in proof reading and indispensable in getting forms to press, and has been known to assist in looking over the paper when it is printed, but otherwise is a very disgusting habit."

MUST BE DEPORTED.

But Celestials of Boston Say They Will Retaliate.

ARE SAFE FOR THE PRESENT

Owing to the Small Amount of Money Appropriated.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—There seems to be little doubt in the minds of Boston Chinese but that they will be deported under the Geary act, and they were more convinced than ever when some of the leaders at Chinatown learned yesterday that the treasury department had issued orders to the effect that the deportation of Chinese in San Francisco should begin at once.

The report from Washington, which states that a conference was held between Secretary of the Treasury Carlisle, Assistant Hamilton, Attorney General Olney and Congressman Geary, the author of the now famous act of legislation which terminated in the giving of a decision against the Chinese, was read with much disapproval by the leaders of Chinatown yesterday.

As soon as the decision was reached Assistant Secretary Hamilton immediately telegraphed to the collector of customs at San Francisco and ordered him to make arrangements for the deportation of such Chinamen as may have been convicted for the violation of the Geary law in failing to register.

Where the Hitch Is. There is only $17,000 at the present time in the treasury department that can be used for this purpose, but every cent of this amount will be spent in deporting Chinamen as long as it holds out. As this amount is disposed of nothing further can be done till an extra appropriation is made by congress. In deporting Chinese from California the expense is comparatively small, and the amount of money now on hand, if carefully spent, will report over 800 Chinamen, which will be only a small part of the Chinese population of that state.

The Chinese in New England are safe, especially those of Boston, and are rejoicing over the fact that the amount of money is so small that the government will be unable to touch them for some time. When congress makes an extra appropriation for the purpose of deporting all the Chinamen who have not complied with the law, the officials will find that the cost of deporting a Boston Chinaman will be quite a large item, as the cost from Boston will be larger than from any other part of the country, and it is safe to say that Boston Chinamen will be the last disturbed.

But Twenty Have Registered. In Massachusetts there are 2000 Chinamen, and out of that number only 20 have registered. In case the government decides to begin operations in Massachusetts, it will practically wipe out the Chinese population. War has been begun against them, and unless something unforeseen obstructs the department in carrying out the law the Chinese of New England must expect their turn to come.

Chinatown, in this city, was alive with Chinamen yesterday, and business was going on as usual. If the leaders had conveyed the news to them, their appearance did not indicate it. They say when their turn comes they are ready to abide by the department's decision and go back to their homes in peace. "But that is not the end," they say, "we will retaliate, and the poor American must expect to receive the same treatment at our hands."

STORMS AND DROUGHT

Prove to Have Been Unfavorable to Bay State Farmers.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—Reports received at the office of the state board of agriculture show that storms and drought have done considerable damage to crops throughout the state. In general, the past month cannot be called a favorable one for the farmer, as the drought was continuous and severe in most sections, and the heavy storms of the latter part of the month, while effectually breaking the drought, did much damage to growing crops. The damage to crops from insects during the past month approaches nearly to the minimum in most sections.

The apples are almost a total failure and peaches are somewhat affected. Wild berries have suffered severely. Grapes and cranberries promise a good crop. A fair crop of potatoes is all that is expected. Celery promises well, as do also cabbages and squashes. The onion crop is generally good. Corn suffered less from the drought than most crops. Barley and oat crops are, on the whole, rather better than last year, and may be considered as full average crops.

TO BE REORGANIZED.

People's Insurance Company Offers a Reward For Morrill's Capture.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 9.—At a special meeting of the stockholders of the People's Fire Insurance company it was reported that of the $100,000 of new stock some $30,000 had been subscribed by the old stockholders, and all will be taken when it is known who the officers are to be. The vacancies on the board of directors were left temporarily unfilled. It was decided to rescind the vote passed at the last meeting by which a reward of $1000 was offered for the arrest and conviction of C. F. Morrill, the missing ex-treasurer of the company, and a vote was then passed offering a reward of $1000 for Morrill's arrest and delivery to the authorities, and a warrant for his arrest to be sworn out. It was voted that a special committee be instructed to proceed against any other ex-officer of the company against whom there was any evidence of criminality.

A BRACE OF ROBBERS

Seize a Trunk and Dangerously Assault a Railroad Man.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—One of the most daring robberies and assaults that has occurred in Boston for many days took place at the depot of the eastern division of the Boston and Maine railroad at 10:50 o'clock last night. At that hour two men took a trunk from the depot and out into the passageway between the Eastern and Lowell stations and proceeded to break it open and rifle it of its contents.

The men were discovered at their work by an old employee of the railroad, John Foley, who tried to prevent them from accomplishing their purpose. The two robbers set upon Foley, beating him into insensibility, as well as inflicting five knife wounds about his shoulders and back.

Leaving Foley lying senseless, the men made their escape, taking with them a portion of the trunk's contents. Some time later the night watchman at the depot found Foley unconscious. He described the robbers as about 5ft. 10in. in height, one 40 years old, with sandy-mustache and wearing overalls, and the other 30, with smooth face and dark clothes.

BRAVE LIFE SAVERS

Struggle With a Storm and Rescue a Burning Vessel's Crew.

CHATHAM, Mass., Sept. 9.—Schooner John P. Kelsey, Captain Perry, of and from Rockland for New York, while beating in over the shoals Thursday night in a heavy southerly gale, carried away sails and sprang a leak, and was obliged to anchor near Handkerchief lights. The leak became uncontrollable and the vessel finally took fire. It was seen by a patrolman of the Monomoy life saving station, and Captain Tuttle and crew started for the rescue. At 3 o'clock yesterday morning, finally reaching the vessel after a struggle with the storm. They took off the crew and brought them to the station. The vessel is a total loss.

Prominent in Massachusetts Politics.

TAUNTON, Mass., Sept. 9.—John H. Galligan, register of probate and insolvency for Bristol county, died yesterday. He served in the legislature in 1878 and 1880 and was appointed register by Governor Butler to fill a vacancy. Twice since, although a Democrat, the Republican county convention has made him its candidate. He was a lawyer by profession. Mr. Galligan was also associate justice of the first district court of Bristol.

Boston Bonds Nearly All Sold.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—City Treasurer Turner has disposed of all the city of Boston coupon bonds he offered for sale at his office, and has only remaining unsold $300,000 of the 20-year registered bonds and $700,000 of the temporary loan 6 per cent certificates in anticipation of taxes payable in two, three or four months for those who desire the city of Boston securities. He has sold $500,000 of all classes of the city securities in two days.

No Excuse For His Action.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—The result of the inquest into the cause of the death of Thomas Walsh, a marine at the navy yard, several weeks ago, was made known yesterday by Judge Cotton. He finds that the deceased met his death from the result of a blow struck by Thomas P. Sullivan, and that there was no excuse or justification for the action of Sullivan. Sullivan has been arrested for the assault.

Blame Thrown on Workmen.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—The officials of the Boston and Albany road throw the blame for the Chester bridge disaster on the employees who were engaged in working on the bridge. In other words, they affirm that, in the course of the repairs, the bridge was weakened by the removal of rivets and joints to a degree which caused it to collapse under the weight of train 16.

New Feather In the Hub's Cap.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—Bernhard Ohrt, a German government official, is making a tour of the United States, inspecting its system of drainage and water supply. He visited city hall after an inspection of the Mystic and Cochituate water supplies, and stated that the water in Boston is the only water that he has found in this country that is fit to drink.

Brief Mention.

The dead body of Alfred Cutts, a coal-passer on United States training ship Richmond, stationed off Newport, R. I., was discovered floating in the harbor front.

The body of an unknown man is reported as having been seen floating between Ram Island lightship and Tyles beach, Fisher's island. It has not yet been recovered.

By the will of the late Sarah Rankin of Danville, Vt., the Methodist church received a legacy of $1000 to build a church at West Danville. Work will be commenced upon the new church at once.

Sheriff Hurlburt of Grafton county, N. H., went to Montpelier, Vt., and arrested A. Kimball of Claremont, N. H., 20 years old, for stealing three teams, one each in Claremont, Lebanon and Laconia.

OUT OF DARKNESS.

Everything Now Points to a Season of Prosperity.

THE HUM OF MILL WHEELS

Will Soon Gladden Hearts of Toiling Masses.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

An improvement has extended from the banks to the mills. The condition of great industries has distinctly mended, though still seriously depressed. More important by far than any rise in stocks is the fact that more works have resumed during the past week than have stopped operation, so that the producing force of the country after months of constant decline has begun to increase. Dispatches mention 28 textile and 30 metal works which have resumed, some only with part force, while 25 textile and nine iron works have stopped. It is expected that most of the Fall River mills will start soon, the hands assenting to reduced wages.

The money markets are more healthy, the premium on currency has almost vanished, the embarrassments in domestic exchanges have well nigh disappeared, and while very little money is yet available for commercial and industrial loans, there is some relief in that respect also.

In cotton mills resumption of work is quite general, the paper business is doing better, and several shoe factories are starting. Shipments of boots and shoes from Boston were again 32 per cent smaller for the week than last year, and in three months there have been about $50,000 cases, against 10,000,000 last year.

The Crops.

While money markets have greatly improved, they are yet far from the normal condition and the crops are in doubt. The prospects for corn have not improved. Western receipts of wheat have been only 3,373,357 bushels for the past week, against 7,369,054 bushels last year, and as accounts of short crops abroad grow more definite the price here has strengthened fully 1 cent.

Cotton has advanced to 8 cents.

The monetary situation has changed but little for there has been abundance of money, and only confidence in employing is lacking.

The stock market has been somewhat weaker during the latter part of the week.

Failures for the week have been only 323 in number, against 387 last week and 439 for the week preceding, and 25 in Canada against 33 for the same week last year.

THE INDUSTRIAL WORLD.

Reports Which Indicate That Clouds Are Fast Disappearing.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—All the large rubber boot and shoe factories will start up on Monday after their usual summer vacation. They are crowded with orders, which will necessitate their running for the balance of the season to their full capacity. This will give employment to about 20,000 hands. The principal factories are at Malden, Woonsocket, R. I., New Haven, Cambridge, New Brunswick, N. J., Williamsport, Pa., Naugatuck Conn.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Sept. 9.—The Windsor print works increased their running time yesterday from three to four days a week. The change is made because of the great increase of orders for goods wanted at once.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 9.—The Lymanville mill will be started again Monday with a reduced force and short hours.

The Crompton mills at Crompton, which have been idle five weeks, will start up Monday.

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 9.—The Vale mills, which have been idle for two weeks, received orders to start Monday on full time without reduction of wages.

WATERTOWN, Mass., Sept. 9.—The Watertown iron foundry, which has been shut down for over two months, will start up Monday.

DOVER, N. H., Sept. 9.—The Cocheco Print works will start on full time Monday. The mills have been closed four weeks.

ANDERSON, Ind., Sept. 9.—The Pennsylvania Glass company has resumed operations at one of its factories here.

ASHLAND, Ky., Sept. 9.—The steel plant, after two months' idleness, will start up again next week.

City of Boston's Debt.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—The city auditor's monthly exhibit shows that the gross debt of the city of Boston Aug. 31, 1893, was $52,897,544, and the net debt of the city on the same date was $31,685,627. The city and county debt together is $35,065,770.

Objection to Monthly Payments.

PHILIPSBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—The Troy miners are on a strike against a return to monthly payments, and about 100 miners have taken their places. Several shots have been fired at the new men from the woods near the mines.

Two Strangers Killed.

MT. VERNON, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Two unknown men were struck and instantly killed by the Pittsfield express on the Harlem railroad near Chappaqua station. No clue as to their identity can be found.

Canada Feels Easier.

MONTREAL, Sept. 9.—For the first time since the financial crisis bankers have notified stock brokers that hereafter call loans will be 6 1/2 per cent. This is expected to boom stock speculation.

Tripp Didn't Show Up.

PUTNAM, Conn., Sept. 9.—The Tripp forgery case was called in court yesterday, having been adjourned from Thursday to enable Tripp to secure counsel. Tripp did not appear and was defaulted.

The Hartford to Be Rebuilt.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The famous old warship Hartford, now lying at San Francisco, is to be entirely rebuilt, and Secretary Herbert has authorized the use of $450,344 for this purpose.

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Has voted an emphatic majority for the repeal of the Sherman Act, but the people of Quincy have decided by a much greater majority that

Hearn's New Drug Store

is the gem in its line in the city.

What a pretty store! How beautiful! How well laid out! Does it not light up beautifully at night? and other like expressions voice their verdict.

I thank you all for your kind words of praise, and feel grateful that my efforts to add an attraction to the city have been appreciated.

I am adding every day to my stock and will not stop until I am satisfied that I have a drug store that will compare favorably with any retail store in the state in my line.

I am giving my personal attention to the store, and can assure the people of Quincy that any prescription coming into my store will be filled with the utmost care and accuracy. I have had 14 years' experience in the business, almost five of which I have been in business for myself in West Quincy.

I feel gratified at the confidence imposed in me, judging by the share of patronage I have received thus far, and hope to merit more by strict attention to business and courtesy to all.

It is about time that the gang which is robbing the post offices was broken up.

Boston bonds seem to be selling well, and it is hoped that Quincy may find a good market for its $600,000 in water bonds.

THE CITY HALL lawn is looking first class and the improvement over a few years ago is very marked. But when will the church lot opposite be curbed and improved?

INTERESTING TIMES in Beverly. On top of the vote accepting a city charter comes a petition for an injunction to prevent it becoming a city.

IT SEEMS that Josiah Quincy does not love a national reputation less, but that he loves the position as leader of a Massachusetts political party more.

Quincy Lady Robbed.

A Boston paper reports Mrs. Joseph P. Bryant of Quincy was passing down Kneeland street to the Old Colony station yesterday afternoon, when a young man snatched her pocketbook from her hand and ran away with it. The purse contained $13 in cash and some valuable papers, and not feeling as if she cared to give it up, Mrs. Bryant reported the larceny to the police of Division 4. Last night an officer of that station arrested Frank Smith, 26 years old, for the alleged larceny of the purse, and it was found in his possession when he was searched at the station.

Mrs. Bryant was notified and appeared against Smith in the Municipal Court this morning.

In the Race Today.

Among the local boats entered in the South Boston open regatta this afternoon are the Moondyne, Beatrice, Adolph, Opechee, Imp, Sunbeam, Mah, Eulalia and others. There are in all 64 entries in the seven classes.

Young Men's Christian Association.

As the Association year closes October 1st, it is very desirous that all members who are delinquent in their annual membership dues should pay up promptly. Persons cannot rightly be counted as members if they are behind, and their names must necessarily be dropped.

The annual conference of the Women's Auxiliary of Massachusetts and Rhode Island will be held at Holyoke, October 11 and 12. The Holyoke Association has recently entered their splendid new building, towards which their local Auxiliary has done so much. There will be interesting papers on auxiliary work and other attractive features. Special rates will be secured on the railroad and free entertainment will be furnished. This will be a good opportunity to visit Springfield and Holyoke, both of which have one or more model associations.

The annual state convention of the associations will be held at Fitchburg commencing Thursday, October 19th and closing Sunday, the 22d. Among the prominent men who are to be present are Rev. R. A. Torrey, Superintendent of Moody's Training school of Chicago, Rev. James Gray of Boston, R. C. Morse, General Secretary of the International committee, New York, Elkanah Drake and D. F. More, of New Jersey, and David Budge of Montreal. In connection with the convention will be held the second annual state pentathlon athletic meet. The Pawtucket R. I. Association now holds the banner. All members are urged to arrange to attend.

Band Concert this Evening.

The City Band of Quincy will give a public concert at West Quincy, near Willard school, this evening, at 7.30.

—A special town meeting has been called in Randolph for Sept. 14, to see what action the town will take in relation to lighting the public streets by electricity. For several weeks previous to Sept. 1 the town has enjoyed 12 lights free. At least 32 at a cost of $1200 would be necessary to fairly light the town.

—The Hingham high school has 136 pupils.

Bishop Clark of Rhode Island will preach the sermon at Bishop-elect Lawrence's consecration Oct. 5, instead of Bishop Whipple of Minnesota, as was first announced.

CITY CHIT CHAT.

Items of Interest from All Parts of Quincy.

Miss Mabel G. Nash of Wollaston has returned from a pleasant trip to Point Allerton.

Officer McAloon is on duty at the Quincy depot for a few days during the absence of Officer Connelly.

John McSwain, formerly of this city, committed suicide at Vinal Haven, Conn., Tuesday night.

The Cedar Stars defeated the Lincoln school nine at South Quincy this morning by a score of 15 to 12.

Rev. C. Paulson attended the convention of the Swedish Methodist preachers of New England at Worcester this week.

Hon. Peter Butler and wife, of Boston, for many years residents of Quincy, celebrated their golden wedding on Tuesday.

Hon. Frank W. Smith, Mayor of Alliance Nebraska, formerly of this place, with his wife is visiting his brother Mr. Frederick H. Smith.

Mr. John Odum, one of our active young men, has gone on a visit to his native town, Bucksport, Me., to spend his well earned vacation.

It is the first Saturday since the public schools opened and at the end of the first week of school work is hailed with pleasure by pupils and teachers.

Mr. Eaton of the electric light station at East Weymouth, will have charge of the power station of the Quincy & Boston Street Railway at Quincy Point.

Mr. Joseph L. Whiton Jr., who has been so seriously sick with typhoid fever for nine weeks, is now able to sit up, and see a few of his friends daily.

Personal.

Mr. James Muirhead of Edinboro, whose engagement to Miss Helen Quincy has been announced in the past week, made many friends in Boston during his long stay here while preparing the text of the "American Baedeker." He is a cousin of Mrs. Underwood, wife of the American Consul now at Glasgow, so that even before his engagement he had strong social ties here as well as on the other side. Miss Quincy is now in Europe with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Quincy.—Journal.

TODAY'S COURT.

A Quincey Officer After the Unlicensed Dogs—A Weymouth Liquor Case.

People who keep unlicensed dogs had better be on the qui vive. Officer Albert J. Shackley has been appointed to bring all such people into court. Carlo Calderara was the first man to be caught in the toils this morning. He accompanied Officer Shackley into court. He pleaded guilty and was fined $15.

Larry Mier is not a native of the Emerald Isle as his name would suggest but is a typical German from Der Faderland. Yesterday he imbued rather too freely and was arrested. This morning he was fined $1 in default of which he was taken to Dedham.

The continued case of William Shields of Randolph for assault on his wife came up this morning. His Honor does not like to encourage wife beating and sentenced Shields to pay a fine of $10. Shields appealed and furnished bonds to the amount of $200.

Thomas F. Connell of Weymouth was before the court on the charge of keeping a liquor nuisance. Thomas F. Connell is a twin brother to James E. Connell, and James took his place in the prisoners dock with the evident purpose of getting the witnesses to swear that it was he, James, that sold the liquor. The witnesses and officers "caught on" to the fact that James was taking the place of Thomas F., who was seated among the spectators in the rear of the room. His Honor was acquainted with this Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde transformation scene and James E. was obliged to take a seat among the spectators while Thomas F. was made to stand the burnt of the battle.

Fred O. Fowler testified that he had bought a pint of whiskey from Thomas F. Connell. Upon being subjected to cross examination Fowler said that he was hired by Officer Knight of Randolph to go down to Weymouth and endeavor to buy some liquor from Connell. He also testified that he was to get $25 for buying the liquor.

Charles V. Sloane of Randolph testified that he went to Connell's with Fowler and that Fowler bought a pint of whiskey of Thomas F. Connell.

The defence summoned a large array of witnesses who testified that they were present at Connell's place on the day when Fowler and Sloane called; They all contradicted the stories told by Fowler and Sloane. Thomas F. Connell, the defendant, denied that he ever sold Fowler or Sloane any liquor. Officer Knights of Randolph testified that he heard Connell say he had no beer on his place but that he had plenty of "hard stuff." After a lengthy hearing, Connell was adjudged guilty and was fined $50. Appealed.

The liquors seized from Austin Hayden of Braintree were forfeited to the Commonwealth.

George A. Johnson for keeping a liquor nuisance at South Braintree was found not guilty and was discharged.

BOLD ROBBERY.

Weymouth Centre Post Office Burglarized Last Night.

[Special Dispatch to the Daily Ledger.]
WEYMOUTH, Sept. 9.—The gang of burglars who have been looting several post offices around Boston within the past few months paid a visit to the Weymouth Centre post office last night and were well repaid for their trouble.

The burglars blew open the safe in the office and took $75 belonging to Postmaster Shaw. They also took $125 dollars in cash belonging to the government, and $200 worth of stamps.

There is no clue to the burglars.

Tough Boys.

A gang of boys got into a row on Summer street last night and began throwing stones, sticks, and apples and other missiles at each other. Several ladies who wanted to go by were unable to do so and were obliged to remain on the corner of Washington street.

Officer McAloon who happened along just then dispersed the crowd and accompanied the ladies home. The officer had several narrow escapes from being struck, as a shower of stones and apples whizzed by close to his head.

THE EXPECTED HAPPENS.

The Lords Reject the Home Rule Bill by a Big Majority.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The house of lords rejected the home rule bill by a vote of 419 to 41.

The Daily News says: Nothing is more favorable to the success of a political or social reform than a large hostile majority in the house of lords. If the Tories had had more sense they would have made the majority smaller and we should have fared worse.

The Daily Chronicle says: Our reply is extremely simple. The abolition of the house of lords now becomes a plank in the Radical platform, and the clauses of the home rule bill providing for a second chamber in Ireland must be modified.

The Standard: When a government tamely submits to such a rebuff, everybody will draw the conclusion that it is afraid to face the country.

The Times: We believe that the decision of the house of lords will be a relief to an overwhelming majority of the English people.

EX-CONGRESSMAN WILLIS

Chosen by the President to Succeed Blount as Minister to Hawaii.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The president sent to the senate the following nominations:

Theodore Runyon of New Jersey, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the United States to Germany.
Albert S. Willis of Kentucky, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to the Hawaiian Islands.

Henry M. Smythe of Virginia, to be minister resident and consul general of the United States to Hayti.
Ellis Mills of Virginia, consul general at Honolulu.

William S. Carroll of Maryland, consul general at Dresden, Germany.

United States consuls—George J. Willis of Georgia at Port Stanley and St. Thomas, Canada; John R. Mobley of Texas at Acapulco, Mexico; Henry S. D. Macfar of New York at Denia, Spain; George Keenan of Wisconsin at Kehl, Germany; Henry C. Astwood of New York at Calais, France; Leopold Moore of New York at St. Christopher, W. I.

Also 19 postmasters, a collector of revenue and appraiser—all recess appointments.

A Thrilling Episode.

WHEELING, Sept. 9.—William Sayres, 10 years old, was assisting in the preparations for a balloon ascension. Just as the balloon started skyward one of Sayres' feet became entangled in the ropes between the balloon and the parachute and he was jerked from the ground. Thousands saw the young man carried into the clouds, hanging head downward. He succeeded in drawing himself up to the rim of the balloon where he clung until landed safely over the Ohio side of the river.

FIRM FOR REPEAL.

President Cleveland Has Thus Declared Himself.

MUST BE UNCONDITIONAL

That the Object of the Measure May Be Attained.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—"No compromise is possible," said President Cleveland in the cabinet meeting yesterday. "It must be unconditional repeal or nothing."

Some member of the cabinet had spoken of the effort which some of the silver Democrats have been making to effect an agreement upon a compromise by an amendment to the Vorcees bill, such as Senator Faulkner has been talking about in conversation for the last two weeks, and which he formally presented in the speech which he made yesterday, and this was the president's reply.

It is what he has been saying to everybody ever since the suggestion of a compromise was made to him by some of the silver Democrats upon his return from Gray Gables. His representatives in the senate—Chairman Voorhees, Senator Gray, Senator Gorman and others—all said substantially the same thing yesterday when they were asked about the new outcropping of the old compromise talk.

As Chairman Voorhees said publicly in the senate, they expect the unconditional repeal bill to pass the senate.

No Amendments.

The president's expectation is that this bill, having passed the senate and having been concurred in by the house, will be presented to him for his signature before the month is out. After he has signed it it will be time enough for him to consider such legislation as that proposed in the Faulkner amendment.

The president does not propose to have the repeal bill embarrassed with any amendments. Even the proposition to attach to the bill the bill to be held back until the repeal bill is out of the way. If any amendment providing for the coinage of silver should be added to the Vorcees bill in the senate, it would compel its reference to the coinage committee when the bill got to the house, and so involve it in a tangle, from which it would take a long time to extricate it.

Nor is there any reason to believe that the administration would approve Senator Faulkner's scheme at any time, providing as it does, not only for the coinage of the bullion in the treasury, but for the continued purchase of silver and its coinage until $200,000,000 has been added to our silver money.

The Chief Objection.

The fact that the coinage of the bullion in the treasury would be spread over several years under this plan, which is used to recommend it as affording time for its repeal before silver purchase would begin under it, is regarded as rather an objection, because the delay thus provided for could be utilized by the silverites in re-converting from demand legislation and promoting legislation more favorable to silver.

The fact is that the talk of a compromise comes from Democratic senators whose constituents are for free coinage and who naturally feel that they must make some effort to please their constituents. They have no means of forcing a compromise upon the majority of the senate or the administration and no real expectation of doing so.

Their purpose has been accomplished by advertising in speeches and in the newspapers their desire to "do something for silver." This will gratify their constituents, and will mollify any indignation that may arise when these same senators vote for unconditional repeal, as they fully expect to do, when their proposed amendments are voted down by the repeal majority in the senate.

Wily Chinese.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Sept. 9.—The exodus of Chinese from Mexico into this country continues unabated. The smuggling of the unwelcome foreigners into the country is worked so smoothly that comparatively few of them are captured. Thousands have undoubtedly reached Texas. During the last three months only about 40 have been apprehended.

Chasing Emma.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—District Attorney Nicolai has received the requisition papers for Emma Goldman from Governor Flower. They were given to Detective Sergeant Jacobs, who left for Harrisburg to have them signed by Governor Pattison. It will take at least a week to get the woman here.

Ordered to Brazil.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The navy department has cable orders to the United States cruiser Charleston, when her commander reports her arrival at some South American port, directing the vessel to proceed immediately to Brazilian waters.

The Middletown Horror.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Paul Halliday was buried beside his first wife in the little cemetery in Walker Valley, with the ritual of the Grand Army, yesterday and the excitement over the triple murder is subsiding somewhat.

Safe at Wilmington.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Sept. 9.—The corvette Kearsarge and the monitor Nanuet safely accomplished their second voyage. They crossed the Cape Fear here yesterday and anchored in the stream near Southport.

An Earthquake's Awful Work.

BELGRADE, Sept. 9.—This city and the whole valley of the Morava were shaken by an earthquake. A railway station and many houses at Techupria were buried in the earth, and many persons were killed.

An Old Man's Crime.

BLACKSTONE, VA., Sept. 9.—An old family feud in Northern county culminated in the mortal wounding of Richard E. Clay by A. W. Hawkes. The latter is 70 years old and the former 47.

A Thing of the Past.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 9.—The rear guard of the Grand Army veterans has departed, the decorations are down and the national encampment of 1893 is but a memory.

Manager Hooley Dead.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Richard H. Hooley, the veteran theatrical manager, died at his home here.

ADVOCATES MURDER.

How China's Viceroy Would Have the Station Deal With Foreigners.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The Standard's correspondent at Shanghai telegraphs:

LI HUNG CHANG.

Viceroy Chang, notorious for his hatred of foreigners and for encouraging natives in the barbarous treatment of Europeans, is reported to have addressed a petition to the throne openly advocating the extermination of foreigners in China, especially the English, as necessary in order to prevent the partition of China among European powers. The hostility to foreigners in the provinces is unabated.

IN CONGRESS.

Three Senators Speak For Repeal With Certain Provisions Tacked On.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Speeches from Democratic senators in the senate on the repeal bill were made by Mr. Faulkner of West Virginia, Mr. Turpie of Indiana, and Mr. Jones of Arkansas. All of them were in favor of the repeal of the Sherman act, but coupled with the condition that silver should be restored to the position which it occupied prior to the demonetization.

After Mr. Jones—the last speaker—had taken his seat, there was an awkward pause. No senator rose to continue the discussion, although it had been arranged that Mr. Teller (Rep., Colo.) was to be the next speaker. Then, as a suggestion was made to proceed to executive business, Mr. Hale (Rep., Me.) made a short speech in which he suggested that Mr. Voorhees should not consent to an early adjournment (it was then 3:40) but should require senators to go on with the discussion until a reasonable hour of adjournment.

This speech aroused the indignation of the Indiana senator. He regarded it in the light of an impertinent lecture and resented it in strong and incisive language. Mr. Hale protested that he had spoken only in the interest of Mr. Voorhees (whose fidelity and earnestness he recognized) and of the public. Senators Dabbs of Idaho and Teller of Colorado had also something to say, taking sides with Mr. Voorhees and against Mr. Hale. After that incident the senate proceeded to executive business and at 4:50 adjourned.

SLEPT TO DEATH.

The Strange Disease Which Afflicted a Young Pennsylvanian.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Albert Ruede, aged 19, of Bethlehem, died yesterday of a peculiar disease. For some time he has been afflicted with an overpowering desire for sleep. While walking he would pass into a sleepy stupor; when sent on errands he would sit upon doorsteps and nap while working; he would go to sleep over his labor. When taken to the doctor for treatment he fell asleep in a chair while being examined. On Sunday last he dozed off and last evening was pronounced dead. The doctors are unable to diagnosis the case.

Was Murder Attempted?

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 9.—State Assayer Perkins has completed his analysis of the stomachs of John J. Gilligan and William Norris, who were fatally poisoned by drinking liquor on Michael Quinn's premises, this city, Sunday, July 30 last. From the result of the analysis there is no question, but the medical ex-miner will at once direct Coroner Jenks to proceed with the inquest.

Cherokees Will Start a Town.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 9.—Positive instructions have been received from Washington to allow no settlers to enter the Cherokee strip from the east line. The Cherokees who have received allotments about Willow Springs on the Santa Fe have pooled their issues and will start a big town there. They can issue deeds in advance of the opening and are sure of a good town.

No Textile Strike.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 9.—The spinners have accepted the terms offered by the manufacturers and there will be no strike. The union is to distribute $200 among its members who have been idle.

New Bedford, Mass., Sept. 9.—The male spinners have agreed to compromise on a 10 per cent reduction in wages, thereby averting a strike.

A Wicked Gang.

DENVER, Sept. 9.—Ex-Chief of Police Harley believes that the Delta bank robbers—the famous McCarty's. Tom McCarty robbed David H. Moffatt of the First National bank of Denver of $20,000. Numerous attempts have been made to capture the band, but without success.

Assaulted by Strikers.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 9.—As Joseph Langhron, a non-union oiler, was returning home he was followed by a large crowd of strikers, who assaulted him and would not do him any harm until he had been rescued by the police. Several arrests have been made.

Heavily Rewarded.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Secretary Carlisle has awarded a silver life-saving medal to George B. Dean of Cincinnati for saving the life of Ralph Caldwell, also of Cincinnati, at Gratiot beach, Lake Huron, on July 17 last.

Quincy's Resignation Accepted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The president has accepted the resignation of Hon. Josiah Quincy as assistant secretary of state, to take effect Oct. 1.

New Bank For Maine.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Deputy Comptroller Tucker has authorized the Chapman National bank of Portland, Me., to begin business.

Will Furnish Material For the House to Debate.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The repeal bill will continue to be the absorbing topic of interest before congress this week. Today, in the senate, Mr. Teller may conclude his speech begun Saturday. Notices of speeches to come have already been given sufficient to fill in the greater part of the week and others are known to be in course of preparation, so that in the absence of an agreement of some kind there is no reason to believe that a vote on the bill can be reached this week.

Speculation is rife as to the length of the debate now progressing. Thirty-three senators are said to have arranged to speak on the subject, beside which 10 or 12 more may address the senate before the close of the debate.

Mr. George of Mississippi has stated that he expects to speak about two days. Mr. Jones of Nevada and Mr. Daniels of Virginia will each consume two days, and Messrs. Morgan of Alabama and Stewart of Nevada will each speak one day. Even if a compromise shall ultimately be agreed upon, the final vote will not be taken earlier than about the first week in October. Some senators are of the opinion that the debate will continue until the middle of October.

In the present unsettled condition of affairs it is impossible to foretell what will be the program of the house of representatives a week ahead. The fact, is, no course of action has been laid out by the leaders, and they are satisfied to let each session of the body take care of itself. It is expected that the report of the committee on accounts will be called up for discussion at once. There is in it the material for a debate that shall last several days.

No Outdown Likely.

The minority recommend a considerable reduction in the number of committee members, which shall be allowed, and, further, that all clerks except those who are made annual by statute shall be paid for the session only. It is hardly probable, however, that there will be much of a contest over the matter, and that the radical change recommended by the minority will be adopted in the end. Such a course would amount almost to a revolution, for the undeviating tendency of years past has been to increase and not diminish the number of committee clerks and of clerks who are changed from the session to the annual list.

Later in the week, if it is possible for the committee on election of president and vice president and representatives to congress to report the measure to the house, one of the bills providing for the repeal of the federal election laws may come up for consideration. So, too, the bill introduced on Saturday by Mr. Everett of Massachusetts to modify the Geary law, by extending the time for registration from the 5th of May, 1893, to Sept. 1, 1894, and in various other ways alleviating the severity of the provisions of that measure.

This bill is understood to be an administrative measure, and early action is said to be desired. The committee on foreign affairs, to which it has been referred, does not meet until Thursday, so that unless a special meeting is called, a report on it cannot be looked for until the latter part of the week. It is likely that after disposing of the report of the committee on accounts the house will take a three-day recess while waiting for some matter to be put in shape for action.

Geary and the Chinese.

The question whether or not the administration has called a halt in the matter of enforcing the Geary law is a desirous of the passage of the Everett bill to extend the time for registration until Sept. 7 next year, at the same time modifying the stringency of the conditions imposed by the Geary bill, is exciting much interest. Attorneys for the Chinese legation in Washington, having heard reports that additional instructions for the enforcement of the law were being prepared at the treasury department, made inquiries there regarding them.

Subsequently one of the attorneys sent to a reporter that they had been informed that no orders on the subject had been given other than those promulgated at the time the exclusion act was declared to be constitutional by the supreme court. It is believed that the bill will be made to secure the stay of the execution of the judgment of Judge Ross' court.

A Father's Awful Affliction.

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 11.—T. W. Whitley, residing at Silver Hill, with the older members of his family, attended church some distance from home, leaving five of his children, ages 5 to 17, in care of the house. He returned to find the house had been burned to the ground and all five of his children cremated.

Murderer Taylor Must Hang.

MORTON, Va., Sept. 11.—Judge Skeen sentenced "Doc" Taylor to be hanged Oct. 17 for the murder of the Mullins family. His counsel hoped to save his neck by the plea of insanity. Taylor says he wants to preach his own funeral sermon here just before the execution.

Murder Suspected.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The body of a drowned man, supposed to belong in Bridgeport, Conn., was found in the water at the foot of Convent street, Brooklyn. From bruises found upon the man's head it is supposed foul play was done.

LIBERIA'S COMPLAINT.

Greedy France Is Trying to Gobble Up the Little Republic.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 11.—Alfred Benedict King, World's fair commissioner from Liberia, whose home is at Monrovia in that country, has arrived from Washington, where he had gone at the instance of his government to interview President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham respecting a matter that may cause the United States and France to lock horns, and which will command at least the closest attention of the diplomats of both countries. The commissioner in an interview said:

"I live in a country (and am the official representative) which is, as you know, located on the west coast of Africa. We have a grievance, and a very serious one. France is not only encroaching upon our territory, but has actually absorbed considerable of it, both inland and coast. We are an independent government, but are not strong enough to cope with as powerful a nation as France.

"I was instructed to visit Washington, and if possible confer with the president and the secretary of state respecting assistance. I saw President Cleveland, but he was so busy that our conference was a short one. Secretary Gresham assured me that our interests should receive attention just as soon as the Samoan affair was disposed of."

Mr. King was born a slave at Augusta, Ga., but escaped to Monrovia when he was 7 years old.

BOTH DOING WELL.

The Report Concerning Mrs. Cleveland and Ruth's Little Sister.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The weather was misty and muggy and the Sunday quiet about the White House was even more intense than usual. There were a number of callers to inquire after the health of Mrs. Cleveland and the baby and they were all informed that mother and daughter were doing well. Dr. Bryant remained at the house all day, but declined to see anyone or to make any statement regarding his patient.

The birth of another daughter to President Cleveland will be a happy event for it is the first time a child has been born to a president in the White House. The little girl is described by the few who have seen her as being a fine child, weighing more than 10 pounds, and likely to be as healthy and as happy as little Ruth.

The president is rejoicing over his new daughter, and he receives with every expression of satisfaction the congratulations which pour in upon him.

Latest Novelty in Cycling.

CALDWELL, Kan., Sept. 11.—Two bicyclists have arrived from Trinidad, Colo. They made the trip in six days, a distance of 700 miles. They have attached flanges on the tires of their wheel and fastened them to the wheels together by a steel rod, and will make the run to Pond Creek on the Dock island track. They can travel on the track at the rate of 30 miles an hour.

Something Which Is Needed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Commissioner of Navigation O'Brien has made certain recommendations to provide for the better protection of life and property in the navigable waters of the United States and on the north Atlantic ocean. It appears probable that congress will be called on at an early date to provide measures to carry out the recommendations made.

A Horrible Case of Suicide.

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 11.—Edward Knobloch, partner in a fish company, cut his throat with a jackknife and then with a case-knife. He then picked up a jagged piece of lath and tore the wound open in a shocking manner. He died before medical aid could be rendered. Knobloch underwent treatment for alcoholism and since then has been despondent.

Robbers' Bluff Didn't Work.

VAN BUREN, Ark., Sept. 11.—An unsuccessful attempt at train robbery was made on the northern bound Frisco passenger train at Little by four men. When the passenger train arrived at Little two white and one red lanterns were waved, but the engineer opened the throttle and went through as he had never done before.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Fifty-two French mechanics landed here yesterday. They represent many branches of industry and will travel to Philadelphia and then to Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Chicago. After taking in the World's fair they will proceed to Niagara, Montreal and then to Providence and Boston.

Despondent Over Business Matters.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 11.—Alexander Frazier, a miller, grain broker and change and messenger of C. C. Campbell, Scottish clans, committed suicide by drowning. For some time business matters have been vexatious to Mr. Frazier, and he has been despondent. Frazier was 50 years old.

Panic Worried Him.

LANSING, Mich., Sept. 11.—Alfred Wise, 66 years old, one of the founders of the Prohibition party in this state, and for many years a prominent manufacturer, died himself yesterday. He had been melancholy for a year, and his trouble was aggravated by the financial panics.

New York Workmen's Conclusion.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—At the conference of organized labor for the relief of unemployed labor Governor Flower and Mayor Gilroy came in for a share of denunciation, and as the situation now is there will be independent labor political movements this fall.

The English Miners' Strike.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—Sunday passed in the colliery districts without serious disturbances, although crowds of miners and workmen gathered to discuss the situation. There is much terrorism and highway robbery is frequent in Derbyshire. Police patrols have been established.

Two Burned to Death.

CRESTON, Ia., Sept. 11.—A gasoline stove exploded here, setting fire to the residence of W. B. Maxwell, and resulting in the fatal burning of his wife and daughter. The house caught fire and was burned to the ground.

Just in Time.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The Italian steamer Montebello, from Mediterranean ports, brought two boxes of oranges intended as a present for Mrs. Cleveland from Ciampa & Co. of Sicily.

CARDS AND LIQUOR.

Circumstances Point to Foul Play
In the Blenn Case.

TWO MEN UNDER ARREST.

Must Answer to the Charge of Manslaughter.

GARDINER, Me., Sept. 11.—There was great excitement in this city on account of the grand jury finding an indictment against Edgar C. Wakefield and George Silver for manslaughter.

It will be remembered that Charles Blenn met his death on July 23 at Horse Shoe pond, six miles from this city, under very suspicious circumstances. At that time Wakefield and Silver were detained by order of Judge Larrabee, but the coroner's jury failing to find evidence enough to hold them they were released. The jury's verdict was that "Blenn came to his death by drowning, but as to how he got into the water we are unable to determine."

Blenn's relatives, not being satisfied with this verdict, engaged Detective D. W. Sullivan of Boston to unravel the mystery. Sullivan arrived here about a week ago, and how well he has succeeded is shown by the fact that the grand jury have found an indictment against them for manslaughter. Detective Sullivan, assisted by State Detective True, arrested Silver Saturday night and placed him in jail. Wakefield, although out of town, will be apprehended.

On the 21st of last July Wakefield and Silver were spending the day (Sunday) at Wakefield's camp on Horseshoe pond. Charles Blenn, employed as a farmhand by Fred Babcock, living near the camp, started about 1 p. m. from Babcock's to visit Wakefield and Silver, with whom he was acquainted. At the camp he was seen by the Babcock family to take a small float, paddle across the stream, land and disappear into the camp. What happened there can only be surmised, undoubtedly card playing, drinking and a general row.

Suspicious Circumstances.

It is known that there was some liquor in camp, of which it is supposed all partook freely. It is also admitted that Blenn and Wakefield played cards, and Blenn is said to have been a winner. From the appearance of the camp it is evident that a row had ensued, and when first entered by City Marshal Drake there were unmistakable signs of the struggle, a chair being broken and things turned upside down generally.

It is claimed that Wakefield went upstairs to bed after they were through playing cards, Silver claiming that he then started to see Blenn and another man across the stream in the float.

About 4 o'clock Silver appeared at the house of Mr. Potter, near by, all wet, considerably excited and apparently intoxicated, and he told the people that two men whom he was setting across the stream from camp were drowned.

He said that when about half way across Blenn stood up and commenced to rock the boat. He (Silver) told him to sit down, or he would tip the boat over. Not doing as he was requested, the boat suddenly upset, throwing all three into the water. Silver says that as soon as he came up he struck out for the shore, about 30 yards off, and, arriving there, looked around for the others, but could see nothing but the overturned boat. Silver had a cut on his head, which he says he supposed was received from the rail of the boat when it went over.

Boat Found Bottom Up.

Harry Dunn, who was at Potter's, went to the pond with Silver and saw the boat, bottom up, drifting down stream. They immediately took another boat and searched for the other two men, but could not find them. Wakefield and Silver returned to town late Sunday night, but did not notify the authorities till Monday morning, when Silver notified City Marshal Drake, who immediately started for the scene of the accident with a searching party.

He grappled for the bodies, also used dynamite, but did not succeed in finding them till Wednesday morning, when Blenn's body was found floating face upward opposite the camp, near the east shore of the pond, 245 yards from where Silver claimed the boat upset. Coroner Kilbreth of Hallowell took the body from the water and discovered that it was covered with bruises, especially the head and face.

The doctors made an examination there and found sufficient water in the lungs to cause death by drowning. The bruises on the head and face excited suspicion of foul play.

Arrest of Wakefield.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 11.—Edgar C. Wakefield of West Gardiner, Me., was arrested by Inspector Quilly yesterday at the home of his brother-in-law. The arrest was made on the strength of a telegram from State Detective True of Hallowell, Me. Wakefield says he came to this city immediately after his release from custody, the last of July. Two weeks ago he returned from Gardiner, but came back to Springfield because he heard the grand jury was likely to proceed against him for liquor selling. He denies any knowledge of how Blenn met his death. He says Blenn and Silver drank at his place, then went out in a boat. He went to bed, and next morning learned that Blenn was dead. He was taken to Maine this morning.

FIRE AT ROCKLAND.

A $50,000 Conflagration Visits the Business Portion Sunday Night.

A brief telegram on the fourth page tells of a $50,000 fire at Rockland last night. Further intelligence shows it to have been a very serious fire and that the town is fortunate that the flames were stayed where they were.

The fire was discovered about 11 o'clock in the Jackson & Campbell building in a bake shop and spread rapidly.

Assistance was given by the fire departments of Brockton, Abington and Whitman.

The losses are: Hotel Jackson, $12,000, insured $8000; George Soule's house $5000, insured for $3000; Union company building $6000, insured $4000; Union company grocery store $15,000, insured $8000; Mrs. L. A GOOD SCHEME.

The High School Divided—Morning School and Afternoon School.

Today, as a temporary relief for the overcrowded High School, an experiment will be tried which seems a good scheme. There are about the same number of scholars in the classes of '94, '95 and '96, as in the new class. Superintendent Lull has therefore made two nearly equal divisions of the school. The first three classes will attend in the morning from 8.15 to 12.45, and the new class in the afternoon.

Petitions Withdrawn.

During the past few days petitions have been circulated in several of the wards in relation to the establishing by the city of an independent electric light plant.

The petitions were signed by many of the citizens; that of Ward Three alone having two hundred names.

While the petitions were being circulated it was learned that before the city could establish a plant of its own, it must first purchase that of the existing company. It was then decided to withdraw the petition for the present and later petition the Legislature for an act for authority to establish an independent plant.

Dr. Everett and the Geary Law.

Congressman Everett of Massachusetts on Saturday introduced in the house a bill to modify the Geary law, by extending the time for registration from May 5, 1893, to Sept. 1, 1894, and in other ways alleviating the severity of that measure. The bill has been referred to the committee on foreign affairs.

Diamond Dist.

The baseball season is over in Boston. With a new right fielder the present team will go for Boston in 1894.

Grim throws to bases superbly. He is certainly one of the finest backstops in the country.

Boston is willing to trade Bennett for Ginn of Louisville if Manager Barnie will throw in Tom Brown.

Captain Billy Nash will return from the west to take up his old position in one of the Boston clothing houses.

The Boston won 48 games out of 64 on the home grounds this season, 23 out of 34 being from western clubs and 23 out of 30 from eastern clubs.

Billy Merritt has left for his home in Lowell, Mass. He will stay there until his finger gets well, and he hopes to join the Boston on his exhibition trip.

After the game Saturday the members of the Boston team presented Superintendent John Haggerty with a purse containing $75 in gold. Cliff Carroll refused to chip in.

O'Connor Is Missing.

FORT WAYNE, Sept. 11.—Fred O'Connor, the train dispatcher whose forgetfulness caused the wreck on the Fort Wayne road in which a dozen lives were lost, has not been seen by any of his friends here. He laid the blame of the accident upon himself. His friends realized that he could not withstand the shock of the trial and have advised him to keep out of the way.

Coombs Changes His Mind.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The bill introduced by Representative Coombs providing for an increase of the currency by the issue of notes upon warehouse receipts, covering pig iron, cotton and wheat, he explains, was introduced by request of a constituent, and so marked. Upon further examination of the bill, Mr. Coombs has withdrawn it from the files.

Vatican Becoming Interested.

ROME, Sept. 11.—The Vatican is about to open an inquiry of the most searching character into the latest opposition to Mr. Sulloli in the United States—an opposition which has ramifying influences extending to Rome itself. The Vatican has resolved to act with the greatest energy upon the evidence it has secured in the matter.

Dangerous Scuffling.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—During a friendly set-to between Harry Burgoyne and James McGill in Robert Furley's roadhouse at Bath Beach, Burgoyne struck McGill a rather hard blow, knocking him back ward through a large glass door. McGill received wounds which the doctors pronounced dangerous. Burgoyne was arrested.

The Ready Stiletto.

BETHANY, Conn., Sept. 11.—Two Italians became involved in a vicious stabbing affray near the reservoir here. One drew his stiletto and plunged it deep into the left shoulder of the other. The wounded man it is feared will die. His assailant escaped, but the police are on his track.

Emma as an Author.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Emma Goldman has declared her intention of writing a book in which the policy will be the subject and vituperation the object of the work. She was arraigned this morning in the police court, where she was held for trial.

Wife Drove Him to Suicide.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—As a result of a quarrel with his pretty young wife, Gustaf Lauchan attempted suicide by inhaling gas in his room. He will probably die. His wife, it is said, flirted with strangers, which aroused his jealousy.

Two Bad Men Out of the Way.

DELTA, Colo., Sept. 11.—P. H. Condee, sheriff of Parker county, Ar., arrived here yesterday afternoon and positively identified the two dead bank robbers as Fred and Tom McCarly and the escaped robber as Billy McCarly.

With Grand Ceremony.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—St. Pius' church, at Ashland avenue and Nineteenth street, was dedicated with grand and impressive ceremonies. A large number of the dignitaries and prelates of the Catholic faith were present.

Adam Never was a Boy.
Of all the men the world has seen Since Time his rounds began,
There's one I pity every day—
Earth's first and foremost man,
And then I think what fun he missed
By failing to enjoy
The wild delights of youthtime, for
He never was a boy.

He never stubbed his naked toe
Against a root or stone;
He never with a pin had fished
Along the brook alone;
He never sought the bumblebee
Among the daisies coy,
Nor felt his business end, because
He never was a boy.

He never looked played, nor tied
The ever ready pant
Down in the alley all alone
To trusting Fido's tail,
And when he home from swimming came
His happiness to cloy
No slipper interfered, because
He never was a boy.

He never cut a kite string, nor Nor hid an Easter egg;
He never ruined his pantaloons
A-playing mumble peg;
He never from the attic stole
A coon hunt to enjoy,
To find the "old man" watching, for
He never was a boy.

I pity him. Why should I not?
He did not know how much he missed;
He never will, I fear,
And when the scenes of "other days"
My growing mind employ
I think of him—earth's only man
Who never was a boy.
—T. C. Harbaugh.

BERLIN, Sept. 11.—Four new cases of cholera were discovered in this city yesterday.

The Columbia's Good Record.
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—A special to The Press from Cape May says: The cruiser Columbia steamed several times over a course off Five Fathom bank, about 9-12 miles, her speed reaching nearly 19-1/2 knots under easy natural draft.

Killed a Bad Woman.
LOUISVILLE, Sept. 11.—Near Corinth Scott Fields, aged 18, shot and killed Martha Hamlin, aged 23, a woman of bad character. The pair had been lovers for some time, but Fields became jealous.

Expensive Experiments.
It cost the people of the United States about $25,000 in a couple of hours the other day to settle in the minds of the officers of the ordnance bureau whether some armor plates made by the Carnegie and Bethlehem steel works respectively were as good as they ought to be. It was found that they were, and that means can be imagined when one of the plates was 17 inches thick, weighed 31 1/2 tons, and was attacked by shells weighing 850 pounds each, the last ones fired from a 12 inch gun at a distance of only 319 feet, striking it with the force needed to move a mass of 21,600 tons, or 43,000,000 pounds, through a foot of space. The projectile went through.

We take it that that did not surprise even the experts, who are used to thinking about those inconceivable masses and velocities. But what did surprise them was that the hole it made was nearly as clean as if it had been drilled, and that not a crack appeared about its edges. Though this particular projectile was lost—having been deflected and fallen into the Potomac—the other projectiles which penetrated the same plate were found in perfect condition and fit to be used again. That seen almost more marvelous than the perfection of the plate.

Meanwhile the people of New York may take some satisfaction in knowing that down at Sandy Hook the war department has just mounted a gun that will throw a 1,000 pound projectile and make a hole in a distant armor-plated ship now afloat at a distance of six miles. If we must spend money on what we hope are purely peaceful experiments, it is a comfort to know what we get for it.—Harper's Weekly.

STABBED TO DEATH.

A Woman Becomes the Victim of Her Husband's Frenzy.

CASE KNIFE THE WEAPON

The Wife Had Separated From the Murderer.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 11.—A murder of the most horrible and fiendish character was committed here when Daniel Robertson killed his wife by stabbing her in the mouth with a case knife.

For five years or more Mrs. Robertson kept a boarding house in the block on the east side of Acushnet avenue over Parsons' laundry. Her husband has lived with her a part of the time. A few months ago he was sent to the house of correction for drunkenness. While he was in confinement his wife sought a divorce, which was refused.

Saturday Robertson was released and went to the house to see his wife. At 1:30 he went to the front door and rang the bell. Mrs. Robertson refused to open the door for him.

"I must come in to get a change of clothing," said Robertson, and his wife finally consented to open the door for him. The door was accordingly opened and Robertson went up stairs. Mrs. Robertson, who was stopping to again lock the door.

Both man and wife proceeded to the kitchen. Here they became engaged in another dispute. Robertson angrily demanded that his wife furnish him with some dinner. This she persistently refused to do.

"You shall give me my dinner," exclaimed the irate man. Then the whole house, in fact the whole neighborhood, was aroused by two long, heartrending cries.

The brought the young daughter Helen to the scene. With blood pouring from two wounds on her forehead and cheek, her mother stood screaming for help. Over her stood her father, holding his wife by the hair and in his uplifted hand the blood covered knife. Miss Robertson screamed, and grabbing her father, made him give up the death dealing knife.

Mrs. Robertson succeeded in getting away from the frenzied man and ran down the front stairs, as if to escape from the house.

At the same time Robertson made his escape. Mrs. Robertson succeeded in reaching the front door.

About this time Dr. Fales, who was passing along the avenue, heard the woman's cries for help, and running to the open door found the woman bleeding and dying on the stairway. He picked the dying woman up and carried her to the dining room above. The woman was nearly dead when picked up, and in a few minutes after she was carried up stairs.

She Breathed Her Last.

An examination of the wounds disclosed the fact that the woman had been stabbed twice. A ragged cut was made in the forehead just above the right eye. This wound was not deep and only penetrated to the bone. In the left cheek, just below the cheekbone, was another cut, which went through the flesh and came through the roof of the mouth. The facial artery was severed by the cut, and this was the direct cause of death.

When the police arrived they found the deadly weapon on the floor of the kitchen, and this was immediately given into possession of the chief. The knife was an ordinary caseknife with a black wood handle, and the blade was

Round and Not Very Sharp.

Mrs. Robertson, whose maiden name was Mary McKenzie, was born in Prince Edward Island. Robertson was also a native of the island. They were married about 17 years ago, and have lived in this city about 12 years. Robertson is a carpenter by trade.

A general alarm was rung in on the fire alarm for all the police officers to assemble at the central station. Meanwhile, Officer Sullivan found the murderer in the saloon of Joseph Hindle on Purchase street. Officer Sullivan went into the saloon and walking up to Robertson, said: "I want you."

He replied: "I know you do." The prisoner was surrounded by a crowd of officers while the handcuffs were being removed from his hands. Robertson appeared cool and collected, and was apparently sober, although he had been drinking. His right hand, between the first finger and thumb, was covered with blood spots.

A PITIFUL CASE.

Furniture Dealers' Agents Strip the House of a Dying Consumptive.

BOSTON, Sept. 11.—Peter P. Steele died yesterday in a room at 82 London street, East Boston. Consumption was the cause. He leaves a wife and a small child. It was about two years ago that Steele became aware that he was a victim of disease, and at that time he was a steady workingman, with a happy home, wife and two children.

Some time after that he bought considerable furniture from one of the Boston installment companies. His case now continued to grow worse, decreasing strength preventing steady work and consequently cutting down his earnings. This continued till last Christmas when the disease compelled him to take to the bed, where he has ever since remained till death came. He and with the assistance of charity managed to exist and tend her husband. Meanwhile it was hard to keep up payments on the furniture. At last this became impossible, and the agents threatened and at last came to remove their goods. This was four weeks ago. Mr. Steele was on the bed too weak to move. The agents placed Steele on a small bed which they could not lay claim to. The remainder of the house furnishings belonged to the company, and everything was taken. Not a chair was left to sit in. During these four weeks kind neighbors have assisted the family.

CLUB WAS SPLINTERED.

Richard Wheeler Dies From the Effects of a Terrible Heating.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 11.—Richard Wheeler, aged 35, well-known negro character of Hatfield, died in that town yesterday as the result of a murderous attack made upon him a week ago by his uncle, Jared Remington. The neighborhood is known by Hatfield people as "Coonville," and is on the road to Northampton, near the Methodist camp grounds. Remington is charged with the murder.

Richard, the dead man; Henry, his brother, about 44, and Mary, his sister, about 47, lived in an old hut in a squalid manner. They were all given to drinking whisky, and this is given as the primary cause of the murder. Remington says he quarreled with Wheeler, who followed him with a club and struck him. Remington seized the club and pounded his assailant. The blows were so severe that the weapon was splintered. Medical Examiner Seymour, who viewed the body, thinks the man had been dead 24 hours. This is the third murder in the little locality.

When the body was buried yesterday a skull was found unearched by the grave-diggers. Near it was a piece of a coffin with the inscription, "J. R. A. D. '57," which no one understands.

A WOMAN'S REVENGE.

A Dipper of Vitriol Thrown in the Face of Her Husband.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 11.—Mrs. Rose Douglass threw a tin dipper full of oil of vitriol in the face of her husband, Hugh Douglass, and then fled to the police station and gave herself up. The young couple—they are each only in their 20th year, but have been married three years—have lived unhappily for some time, and the husband had applied for a divorce, alleging cruelty on the part of the wife, and claiming the custody of the two small children.

Mrs. Douglass has recently been driven from the house of her mother, and she says she has had to sleep in cellars for the past three nights. She procured the vitriol a day or two ago, and has been looking for her husband since. She met him talking with some friends, and, without a word of warning, she threw the acid full in his face.

Douglass was taken into a nearby physician's office, suffering terribly. One eye was entirely burned out, and the other will probably be sightless, and his face was seamed and burned in a horrible manner. His wife said she arrived at the station that she would do it again under the same circumstances.

Accident or Design?

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 11.—John Rieger, one of the leading German-American citizens of Whitteville, was found dead in Lake Whitney. He went fishing and failed to return at the usual time. He had been in poor health for some time, though there is a possibility of suicide. He carried life insurance amounting to $10,000. He was 63 years and leaves a wife and three children.

Charged With Bigamy.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 11.—Isaac Goldenstein, a wealthy real estate owner of this city, and his wife, Ernestine Goldenstein, were last night arrested for bigamy. It is claimed that Goldenstein married an older woman in 1889, and about eight years ago he deserted her for his present wife, who was cognizant of his former marriage.

The Castine's Trial.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 11.—The board of naval inspectors for the trial of the new gunboat Castine is ordered to meet here tomorrow. Admiral Walker will be chairman of the board and his associates will be Captain Matthews, Commander Cooper, Lieutenant Commander Humphill and Lieutenant L. L. Reamey.

Impaled on a Hook.

QUINCY, Mass., Sept. 11.—Thomas Kelley, aged 13, is alleged to have been annoying some Italian laborers engaged in excavating a water pipe trench on Liberty street, and the irate workmen ran after him. He ran into a hook suspended from a crane and tore open the lower abdomen, inflicting a severe wound.

The Massachusetts Disabled.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 11.—The steamer Massachusetts broke her main shaft on her Saturday night trip, but was towed in here by the Providence. The passengers were landed and forwarded by special train, and the Massachusetts was towed to Providence for repairs.

The New Haven Counterfeiters.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 11.—Inspector Gleason of the United States secret service is in the city securing new evidence against the gang of counterfeiters who have been operating in this part of the state recently. Present indications point to several more arrests shortly.

Windle's Records Tied.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 11.—Over 2000 spectators saw A. A. Zimmerman go on trial in the 3rd S. S. flying start, tying Willie Windle's world's record. He again went for the half-mile and did it in 57.4-5, which also ties the record held by Windle.

Seven Buildings Burned.

ROCKLAND, Mass., Sept. 11.—Fire here last night resulted in the loss of seven buildings. Help was called for, and the fire department of Brockton rendered assistance. The loss is $50,000.

Brief Mention.

Medas Remo, a French boy, 6 years old, was drowned at Ware, Mass.

The city of Portland, Me., has been sued for $800 by the Portland Water company. The Massachusetts naval militia begun its full series of drills on the monitor Passaic.

Edward Crane, 5 years old, of Littleton, Mass., was killed by falling under a loaded wagon.

A world's fair special ran into a freight train at Lebanon, N. H. No passengers were injured.

The Washington mills of Lawrence, Mass., are to start up under reduced wages to operatives.

Fall River (Mass.) weavers and card room employees voted to accept the reduction in wages.

Ralph McKenney was bound over to the supreme court at Hartford, Conn., on the charge of horse stealing.

John Bell, 75 years old, of Darien, Conn., fell off a load of hay and broke his neck. He was a prominent Odd Fellow and Mason.

Harry Rockwell, 7 years old, son of a wealthy resident of Mill Plain, Conn., was smothered to death in a grain elevator in that town.

Walter Franklin, a well known hunter and fisherman of North Attleboro, Mass., fell from a boat at Lake Peare and was drowned. He was 32 years old.

Robert Feeley was arrested at Mansfield, Mass., for breaking and entering a store in that town. He admitted his guilt, and was held in $1000 bonds for the grand jury.

Investigation into the recent epidemic on Foster island, near New London, Conn., traced its origin to a case of diphtheria that was brought to the island by a child. It was then laid to climatic disturbances. Over 50 people were taken sick, five of whom died.

ASA POTTER'S TRIAL.

Maverick Bank's Ex-President Again In Court.

A JURY QUICKLY SELECTED

And the Famous Case Starts Off With a Rush.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—The indictment, in 18 counts, charging Asa P. Potter with making eight distinct false entries in the books of the Maverick National bank at divers times, was put on trial yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the United States circuit court. Judge Putnam presided. Should the defendant be convicted on any or either of the counts the lowest sentence provided by the statutes is four years' imprisonment.

Mr. Potter was on hand before the court convened. The counsel for both sides were also in attendance, Ex-Governor Robinson, District Attorney Hoar and Second ASA P. POTTER, Assistant District Attorney Thompson, representing the interest of the prosecution; Colonel W. S. B. Hopkins and W. A. Sargent those of the defendant.

Clerk Trowbridge, after the court was formally opened, called off the list of jurors, who answered to their names.

District Attorney Hoar stated to the court that it was a physical impossibility for the government to try the defendants French and Work this month, and the court accordingly ordered that the trial of those two defendants be reserved.

"Asa P. Potter," called the clerk, and the defendant responded by walking to the center of the room and facing the clerk.

The defendant was then explained his right to object to the persons to act as jurors in his trial, and after this piece of advice the impaneling of the jury was begun.

The jury as called and accepted by both prosecution and defendant are:

J. Varman Abbott, Dedham, foreman; George W. Almy, Jr., Newton; John M. Arnold, Braintree; Horace T. Bailey, Lynn; Charles L. Bryant, Bridgewater; William Barrett, Concord; George F. Brown, Maynard; Albert C. Barnes, Plymouth; George Carson, Lowell; James Carroll, Lowell; George W. Cook, Reading; Alonzo W. Cheever, Dedham.

The trial wheels were set in motion by the clerk communicating the reading of the 18-count indictment. During this reading Mr. Potter sat behind his counsel and patiently listened.

The indictment charges the making of false entries in the teller's books overstating the amount of legal tender notes, gold certificates and gold coin which the bank had in its possession on certain alleged dates. He is accused of having knowledge of the true amount of such legal tender notes and gold coin then on hand. It is further alleged that he made the false entry with the intent to injure and defraud the banking association, and some counts assert the intent to injure and defraud certain persons unknown.

Certain counts charge an intent on the part of Mr. Potter to deceive the bank examiner to be thereafter appointed by the comptroller of the currency.

It took 40 minutes for the clerk to read the indictment.

District Attorney Hoar had not finished his argument when the court adjourned. Before adjourning, the court said to the jury:

A Warning.—"Gentlemen, I have reason to believe that there will be some reports of this case in the newspapers and I also believe that they will be fair. But it is not at all improbable that they will be so reported and commented upon that they should not be known to you in that form. It is also likely that counsel may argue some questions which it is not advisable with a view to an unprejudicial trial that you should know of, and these may appear in the public prints, so that you should abstain from reading newspapers during the course of the trial. You will also not talk about the case until it is finally given to you for your verdict. You are also to distinguish between mere statements of counsel and the evidence. You will try the case solely upon the evidence and the law governing the case."

BOOM CONTINUES.

Many More Industrial Establishments Have Opened Their Doors.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 12.—The print works of the Pacific mills started up yesterday, and all that now remains closed of the mills of this large corporation is the lawn department. The Washington mills partially resumed today, and Friday the entire plant will be in operation. Small industries throughout the city report business better and merchants are already feeling the increase in trade.

WATERBURY, Mass., Sept. 12.—The iron foundry of the Walker Pratt Manufacturing company, which has been shut down for two months, started up with their full force of 150 men as the old wages, varying from 9 to 14 1/2 per cent less than the schedule of last week. There was no resistance of any kind offered.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 12.—All but 25 of the 67 mills in this city are running. They are running on a reduced rate of wages, varying from 9 to 14 1/2 per cent less than the schedule of last week. There was no resistance of any kind offered.

STONINGTON, Conn., Sept. 12.—All the factories of the Peck, Stowe & Wilson company at Plainville, East Berlin and this place have started up on full time. For a month they have run on half time and last week shut down entirely.

LEWISTON, Me., Sept. 12.—The Andros' cognin mills, which employ between 1300 and 1400 hands, have resumed work with their full force, after the shutdown.

DENHAM, Mass., Sept. 12.—The picker factory of the J. V. Abbott Manufacturing company in East Dedham has resumed work with a full force of hands.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 12.—The mills of the Crompton company at Crompton, which have been closed since Aug. 7, have started up.

O'BRIEN OF LEWISTON

Has No Difficulty in Disposing of Flaherty of Boston.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—The contest between Maffitt Flaherty of this city and Dick O'Brien of Lewiston, Me., was decided at the Cribb club's rooms last night. Since these two splendid boxers were matched, several weeks ago, there has been much discussion. They signed to spar at 145 pounds.

On weighing in Flaherty was four pounds over weight. O'Brien weighed 143, but did not allow Flaherty's excess to stand in the way of their meeting.

In the first round Flaherty assumed the aggressive right away, but his first lead was only light. He next tried a right swing and landed, but was crosscountered. Then O'Brien assumed the aggressive. He sent in a straight left. Flaherty led with a swinging right, but fell short.

O'Brien put in a heavy straight left on Flaherty's nose. It was a staggerer. He followed it up with a swinging right, and then another left-hand jab, and Flaherty went down. He arose, and then they mixed. O'Brien had all the best of the rest of the round.

In the second, O'Brien followed up his good work. Flaherty lost his head, and led repeatedly, only to fall short and to give O'Brien several openings. O'Brien punched Maffitt when and wherever he saw him, and sent him down twice. Later he went down to avoid punishment. It was getting to be too one-sided, so Referee Daly ordered the men to their corners.

The directors of the club will meet today and decide how the purse will be divided.

Conscience Troubled Him.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 12.—Alan Seaman, a wholesale provision dealer, has transferred a portion of his business, valued at $5000, to Sperry & Barnes, wholesale pork packers, to remunerate them for losses they sustained by a conspiracy in which Seaman was the chief. Two disloyal shipping clerks in Sperry & Barnes' establishment stole the stock and sold it to Seaman at reduced prices. Seaman is prominent in church and society circles.

A Narrow Escape.

SOUTH DEERFIELD, Mass., Sept. 12.—Fred Clough and a companion attempted to drive across in front of a train a quarter of a mile above here. The engine struck the carriage, smashing it to pieces and threw the horse on one side and the occupants of the carriage the other side of track. Clough was badly bruised and his companion was injured about the spine. The horse was uninjured.

Going to New Haven.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 12.—Rev. Frederick W. Bailey, for the past two years assistant to Rev. A. H. Vinton, D.D., rector of All Saints' Episcopal church, has accepted the call to the pastorate of the Church of the Ascension at New Haven. He will assume charge of that parish Oct. 1.

Scheme Proved Successful.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 12.—The scheme of Mayor Sargent to bond the city to pay 5 per cent interest on a bond of $100,000, borrowed from private individuals, is meeting with marked success. Amounts are being received from private individuals at the rate of $300 per day.

Wants $25,000 For Personal Injuries.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 12.—On May 20 last, in the Grand Trunk railroad yard of this city, Thomas J. Silk, a laborer, was seriously injured by the falling of a coal run. Silk has now been commenced against the road by Silk for damages to the amount of $25,000.

Wouldn't Accept a Reduction.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 12.—About 35 employees of the finishing department of the Bridgeport Brass company went on a strike on account of a proposition that they accept a slight cut in wages. The department will remain closed unless the employees accept.

Tried to Escape From Prison.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—Henry Taylor, a colored man, and four other inmates of the state prison named Timmins, Drobnick and Dolan, attempted to escape early yesterday morning, but were discovered just in time to prevent it. All have bad records.

Wound Proved Fatal.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 12.—E. W. Pierce of the firm of Woodbury & Pierce of Salem, who was accidentally shot on Labor day by the discharge of a gun at Annisquam, and who had an arm amputated, died from lockjaw.

Many Druggists Indicted.

AGUSTA, Me., Sept. 12.—Nearly every druggist in Augusta, Hallowell and Gardiner is indicted for violation of the liquor laws, there being but one or two exceptions in Augusta.

Robertson's Case Continued.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 12.—Daniel M. Robertson, charged with wife murder, was arraigned in the Third district court, and the case was continued until Wednesday.

POINTED QUESTIONS

In Connection With the Celebrated Mora Case.

THE AIM OF AMERICANS

Donstrued In an Evil Light by the Spaniards.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—There is another tide to the Mora case against the Spanish government, a bill in regard to which is now pending before congress. On the face of the papers no claim could make a stronger showing.

Congress has passed repeated resolutions urging its payment. Some of the most eminent counsel of the United States have been engaged to ask action upon it by the committee on foreign affairs and foreign relations of the house and senate. The state department has more than once been induced to instruct our minister in Spain to press for a settlement from the Spanish government.

An agreement was once actually entered into by Spain for its settlement on a basis of $1,500,000, to be charged against the Cuban budget, when Edward H. Strobel, now third assistant secretary of state, was secretary of legation at Madrid. Yet there are said to be circumstances of a most peculiar nature back of the claim which justify the statement that Spain will resist to the utmost any compliance with a demand for its settlement.

Is Mora an American?

Maimo Mora, in whose name the claim is filed, is a venerable Cuban gentleman, over 80 years of age, unable to speak more than a few words of English. It is asserted that he took out papers as an American citizen chiefly for the purpose of saving his large property in Cuba, valued at several millions of dollars, from confiscation by the Spanish government on the ground of his alleged sympathy with the Cuban revolutionists. In this he was unsuccessful. His property was forfeited, and this claim was brought against Spain in his name as an American citizen. It is also asserted that Mora now retains only a few thousand dollars of personal interest in the claim. He has parted with the rest of it to those who have been so energetically pressing the case on his behalf.

Rightly or wrongly, the Spanish government is firmly imbued with the impression that the question between Senor Mora and himself is one between a government and one of its own subjects, in which the United States has no proper interest—that Mora's American citizenship, in fact, was little more than a simulated allegiance.

Mr. Morf, the Spanish minister, who made a provisional agreement for a settlement of the claim, subject to the approval of the cortes, was compelled to retire from office on this account.

Senate's Honor Involved.

In a public debate in the Spanish cortes, the harshest things were said about the claim, and the severest possible criticism was passed upon the United States legation for, as was implied, permitting itself to be used as a claim agent to enforce an unjust demand against a friendly government. It was stated that the Moret agreement was procured by representations made to the Spanish government by persons representing the Mora claim; that senators of the United States were so much interested in this matter that they were willing to approve a liberal reciprocity treaty with Spain provided the Mora claim was paid. In other words, the impression was conveyed to Spanish officials that United States senators were corruptly interested in the Mora claim.

These accusations were so openly made that Perry Belmont, when minister to Madrid, peremptorily refused, it is said, to follow the instructions of the state department by further pressing the claim against the Spanish government, and in this course he was followed, so the story goes, by his successor, ex-Senator Palmer of Michigan. Mr. Belmont forwarded a translation of the debate in the Spanish cortes to the state department in explanation of his action.

Hidden Facts.

In the last congress, in response to a resolution offered by Mr. Dolph, all the recent paper in the case were forwarded to the senate committee on foreign relations, including this debate in the Spanish cortes. The papers were voluminous, and the singular assertion is made that their arrangement for publication was left in the hands of some of the numerous attorneys interested in the claim, and that the debate in the cortes was withheld from publication. It certainly does not appear in the official senate document.

Altogether the Mora claim has apparently much more in it than appears on the surface, and some interesting developments are expected. It is not questioned that most of those who have urged its settlement have been actuated by firm belief in the justice of the claim, but if the statements now made are substantiated, they have been misled as to the facts.

Cholera at Leghorn.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Surgeon General Wyman of the marine hospital service received a cablegram from United States Consul H. H. H. at Leghorn, Italy, stating that there was cholera at that place. He says that there were 27 cases; five of which resulted fatally.

Signs of the Business Revival.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The treasury department shows decided improvement from the first of the month. The gold reserve has increased more than $2,000,000, standing at $20,000,000. The currency net balance shows an improvement of $1,600,000.

Barred Alive.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 12.—Two laborers, named Craddock and Burtin, were buried alive in a gravel pit in which they were working. Their bodies were not recovered until a gang of men had consumed four hours in digging in the debris.

Has voted an emphatic majority for the repeal of the Sherman Act, but the people of Quincy have decided by a much greater majority that is the gem in its line in the city.

Hearn's New Drug Store

What a pretty store! How beautiful! How well laid out! Does it not light up beautifully at night? and other like expressions voice their verdict.

I thank you all for your kind words of praise, and feel grateful that my efforts to add an attraction to the city have been appreciated.

I am adding every day to my stock and will not stop until I am satisfied that I have a drug store that will compare favorably with any retail store in the state in my line.

I am giving my personal attention to the store, and can assure the people of Quincy that any prescription coming into my store will be filled with the utmost care and accuracy. I have had 14 years' experience in the business, almost five of which I have been in business for myself in West Quincy.

I feel gratified at the confidence imposed in me, judging by the share of patronage I have received thus far, and hope to merit more by strict attention to business and courtesy to all.

THE MAYOR has again reminded the City Council that the new fire department houses in Wards Two and Four are an immediate necessity, and he has evidently given the matter considerable thought for with his communication comes plans for the new buildings, the appropriations necessary, recommendation as to location, etc. The chairman of the Committee on Fire Department does not concur as to the location in West Quincy, but nevertheless the Chief Engineer does and the portion of the Willard school lot suggested by His Honor is not only the most desirable location, but it is owned by the city, and the argument was used at the time the lot was purchased that a portion might be sold, or other city buildings erected thereon.
Neither of the buildings seem to provide for polling places, which might very well be included or built adjacent to, particularly in Ward Four.

New Rector Elected.

At a meeting of the Wardens and Vestry cratic ticket since Jackson's time, and is an ardent free trader.

There are few men a score of years took place eighty years ago.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

The Mayor Recommends Plans and Appropriation

FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT HOUSES.

Adams Street Order Passed—Election
Officers Appointed—Police Vacations.

For a regular meeting, that of the City Council of Monday evening was one of the shortest of the year, yet there were quite a number of matters brought up which generally received favorable action.

There were four absentees, Messrs.
Adams, Badger, Donahoe and Robbins.

Increase of Interest.

A communication of Mayor Fairbanks informed the Council that owing to the stringency of the money market it was impossible to negotiate loans at 5 per cent.
and asked that the limit in the orders for repairs the Washington and Willard schools, watering Brook and Beale streets, purchase of land in Ward Two, and for Centre street drain, to be raised to 6 per cent.

An order introduced by Councilman Moxon authorizing the Treasurer to negotiate then at 6 per cent. took one reading and was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Police Vacations.

A communication of the Mayor recommended that the members of the permanent police force be given one week's vacation without loss of pay. To Committee on Police.

New Fire Department Houses.

The following communication of the Mayor is self explanatory. It was referred to the joint Committee on Fire Department and Public Buildings.

QUINCY, Sept. 11, 1893.

E. W. H. Bass, Esq., President of City Council:—

The attention of the Council has been before called to the need of building new fire houses in Wards Two and Four, and I deem it my duty to again remind you that prompt action on that recommendation should be taken at once, in order that these buildings can be erected and occupied this winter.

I therefore present to the Council preliminary plans for two structures, one for each ward.

For Ward Two, it has been deemed best to build a one way house, for the reason that the apparatus from the central station can promptly reinforce the company in that ward. The plans call for accommodation for two horses, the necessary plumbing and heating, also proper sleeping apartments, and when the same is completed, the city should provide the necessary horses, which will add to the efficiency of the department.

Building to be erected upon the lot of land purchased by the city.

In Ward Four, I recommend that the new building be placed upon that portion of the Willard schoolhouse lot, near the junction of Miller street.

In this ward it would seem best to erect a larger house, as the requirements for the future will demand more apparatus. This building has also accommodations for horses, the necessary heating and plumbing and suitable sleeping accommodations.

These plans have been prepared by Mr.
Thayer, the architect of the Central station, and meet with the approval of the Chief Engineer.

The estimated cost of the building and plans for Ward Two is $4,000, and that of Ward Four $6,000.

I would therefore recommend an appropriation of $10,000 for the above purpose, the same to be a ten year loan, divided into equal yearly payments.

Yours respectfully,
H. O. FAIRBANKS, Mayor.

IN THE BOX THERE IS $25.00 IN GOLD.

Drake & Co., with genuine skill,
Their beautiful store and window fill;
With shoes made from foreign and domestic stock,
Now all the other shoe stores knock.

Their poorest shoe keeps the grip,
Made from 'Grain,' 'French' calf or kip;
Their 'Seal Goat' shoe for winter wear,
Is sure of a prize at the World's Fair.

Their 'Russet,' shoe the ladies admire,
Their 'Patent Calf' shoe the gents like to wear,
No blacking, no brushes, the work is done,
They shine on the feet like the rising sun.

Stop under the glare of the electric light,
You'll see for yourselves what I say is right;
The handsomest shoe in the city is there,
The company warrant every pair.

With every purchase you get a key,
To try the lock of their box treasury;
For Knights of Labor there is yet tenfold,
In the box there is twenty-five dollars in gold.

Beat the Colts.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Boston's champions played bad ball. The Colts had a chance to win, but costly errors by Camp, Glendon and Kittredge sent them on the down grade. Nichols pitched very effectively.
Chambers mixed up his bases on balls with the Colts' errors.

RECORDS SMASHED.

Zimmerman Knocks a Second Off the Bicycle Record for a Mile.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 12.—Zimmerman, W. A. Rhodes and L. S. Meitjers made trials for speed on Hampden park, and the latter lowered the three, four and five mile figures.
Zimmerman made a mile with a flying start in 2m. 13-55, a second faster than the record, but will not ask to have it stand, because he was paced by a professional.
The quarter was in 39 2-55; half, 1m. 2-55;
three-quarters, 1m. 31 3-55.
Meitjers then made three miles in 6m. 45 1-55; four miles in 8m. 57 3-55, and five miles in 11m. 9 3-55. The records for the distances were 7m. 43-55, 9m. 26 2-55, and 11m. 41-55, made by Windle on Hamden park, Sept. 29, 1892. His first mile was in 2m. 19 3-55, and two miles in 4m. 31-55.
Rhodes failed to lower the two-mile record. The officers were: Referee, C. C.
Culver; starter, D. J. Canary; timers, C.
T. Shean, W. H. Jordan and A. O. McGar-rett; judges, F. A. Spinner, H. C. Wheeler and George K. Turner.

A CHASE FOR MURDERERS

Which Will Not Be Terminated Until Walsh's Death Is Avenged.

TRINIDAD, Colo., Sept. 12.—One hundred armed men with provisions and ammunition for a long chase, under command of the sheriff of Colfax county and Deputy Sheriff Stafford of this county, will invade the Vermilion country after Lucero and Vigila, the murderers of young Walsh of
St. Louis, who was killed last week.
Twenty-five men have volunteered at Aguilara, near the scene of the crime, and the balance was made up in Colfax county and in this vicinity. A lively fight is looked for, as the country is inhabited by a desperate set of Mexicans who would not hesitate a moment to kill a white man. The mountains are full of them, and blood will flow freely before the men are captured.

A BOLD ROBBERY.

Druggist Pierce of Brockton Formerly of Quincy Relieved of $135.

The Brockton Enterprise says a bold and somewhat peculiar robbery occurred at the drug store of James F. Pierce, at the corner of Main and Ward streets, Sunday evening, between 7 and 9 o'clock.

In an office in the rear of the store, hidden from observation from the front store by the prescription case, is a good-sized safe which has been a part of the office furnishings ever since James Luddy owned the place, and his name appears upon its front. In this safe on Sunday Mr. Pierce says that he put $135 in cash, and he feels certain that he left the safe locked. Business was very good in the front part of the store during the evening, and as the clerk was off Mr. Pierce was kept pretty busy.
He was not in the back office that he remembers from 7 to 9 o'clock. Soon after the latter hour he went into the office, and was surprised to find the safe door partly open. He looked in and saw at once that the drawer in which he had placed the cash was missing.

Mr. Pierce is certain that he locked the safe, and if so it must of course have been opened by some person who knew the combination. He says that he has retained the combination used by former owners, and that he knows of at least six persons who know it.

The cellar door was found open, and it is supposed that the thief entered that way and stole cautiously into the office while
Mr. Pierce was busy in the front store.
If this is so it must be that the thief was one who felt that Mr. Pierce would not be surprised to find him in the back room, or he would not have dared take the chances of his coming from the front store, as he was likely to do at any moment.

Charles Hamilton, a clerk of Mr. Pierce, and his chum, William R. Nelson, were arrested at Raynham on Monday and were arraigned in the Brockton court this morning charged with the robbery.

An Open Letter to Women.
Laurel Ave., San Francisco,
May 18, 1892.

"Dear friend of women:
"When my baby was born,
five years ago, I got up in six days. Far too soon. Result: falling of the womb. Ever since I've been miserable.

"I tried everything: doctors, medicines, apparatus; but grew worse.

"I could hardly stand; and walking without support was impossible.
"At last I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and decided to try it. The effect was astounding. Since I took the first bottle my womb has not troubled me, and, thanks only to you, I am now well. Every suffering woman should know how reliable your compound is. It is a sure cure."—Mrs. A.

Own Gold Mines but Lack Money.

Prospecting for gold has received a great impetus through recent events which have thrown so many men out of employment. Not only have silver miners and smelter men gone to prospecting, but mechanics and laborers who have had mining experience in former years now find their knowledge of minerals of utility in the change of occupation forced upon them by the closing down of mills and factories. Whatever else may be the result of the additional labor devoted to gold prospecting, it is sure to be the means of the discovery of valuable gold leads and the enrichment of individual prospectors.

As an evidence that old fields supposed to have been thoroughly explored are yet capable of further development, there were yesterday shown samples of ore and assay of some taken from Boulder county in the old Jimtown district which showed fine free gold on 20 different specimens and gave an average assay from average samples of over $50 per ton. The owners of this property are poor men without means necessary to get out their ore and have applied to Labor Commissioner Breuninger of this state in the hope that he might know some one willing to buy an interest and advance money enough to enable them to get their first carload of ore on the market.—Colorado Sun.

Cost of Seeing the Great Fair.

The attendance at the World's fair now exceeds 100,000 a day, and it is likely to increase rather than fall off now that the conditions are known to be so favorable. There has been a popular impression that a trip to the fair must involve a great expense. In fact it appears to be quite as cheap as any other outing. The following table has been compiled to show the actual cost of a journey from New York to Chicago and return, with a six days' stay:

Railroad fare round trip.....	$28
Sleeping car berth (both ways).....	10
Meals en route (both ways).....	6
Room in Chicago (six days).....	6
Breakfast and dinner (six days).....	6
Lunches (six days).....	3
Admission (six days).....	3
Expenses on grounds (six days).....	6
Incidentals (six days).....	6
Incidentals en route (both ways).....	2
Total.....	$59

A closely economical person can reduce the expense to a considerably lower figure than this, while the man or woman who can afford a total outlay of $100 need give no more attention to economy than is given at home. It is a great fair, and everybody ought to see it.

Trains Racing Through the Pine Woods.

Passengers to Atlantic City on the 4 o'clock trains of the Reading and Pennsylvania railroads have enjoyed many a race this summer between the two rivals.
The Reading has the shorter line across New Jersey, but the "Penny" has the advantage of a much quicker ferry trip, and so the two roads stand pretty much on an equality. The tracks come together near Winslow Junction and from that point run side by side for almost the entire 30 miles to Atlantic City. Both trains are due at Atlantic City at 5:15 and go rushing across the Jersey pines at a rate that delights the passengers' hearts. The engineers, it is said, have been quickly given the tip that it is not absolutely necessary to wait until 5:15 before reaching the Atlantic City station, and so it has come to pass after some particularly lively races that the trains have landed their passengers in the city by the sea three, four and even five minutes ahead of time.—Philadelphia Record.

The Baseball Season.

The remarkable interest in baseball
this year is causing universal comment.
In spite of the fact that the financial condition of the country is in a deplorable state, the attendance at the ball games increases rather than diminishes.
It may be that our weary merchants, politicians, doctors, lawyers, schoolboys and clerks rush to the games to get away from business, mental or school worry. As a money broker said yesterday, the only places where cash seems plentiful are at the ball games and the dry goods stores. Most of the clubs in the major and minor leagues will make money this year, and the chances are that there will be no changes in the circuit next season. So it looks as if the 12 club league had come to stay for another year at least.—New York Tribune

A Great Saving.

The duplex and quadruplex systems of telegraphy begun by Mr. Edison in 1869 and finished after six years of work have saved in America alone the enormous sum of $15,000,000. By the duplex system two currents of different degrees of strength were sent over the same wire in the same direction, thus doubling its efficiency, while the quadruplex arrangement became possible when it was discovered that these two currents could be sent in opposite directions at the same time, thus enabling one wire to transmit four simultaneous messages. Not satisfied with this, Mr. Edison is confident of attaining sextuplex and octuplex systems.—Baltimore Times.

Seeing the Fair in Two Days.

A young man of this city who arrived home from the Columbian exposition last Wednesday announced that he
"did" the fair in two days, finding "considerable that was worth seeing."
The remaining six days of his visit,
he said, were spent in sightseeing around Chicago. Asked how he liked the Midway pleasure, he replied: "Midway pleasure? By Jove, I didn't find it at all!"—Springfield Homestead.

Evil's Triumphs Are Her Loss.
I watch the circle of the eternal years
And read forever in the storied page
One lengthened roll of blood and wrong and tears.
One onward step of truth from age to age.
The poor are crushed: the tyrants link their chain.
The poet sings through narrow dungeon grates:
Man's hope lies quenched: but, lo! with steadfast gain
Freedom doth forge her mail of adverse fate.
Men slay the prophets: fagot, rack and cross
Make up the glooming record of the past.
But evil's triumphs are her endless loss,
And sovereign beauty wins the soul at last.
—Lowell.

Immortal Influence.
The pure, the bright, the beautiful,
That stirred our hearts in youth:
The impulse of a wordless prayer,
The dream of love and truth,
The longings after something lost,
The spirit's yearning cry,
The strivings after better hopes—
These things shall never die.
—Dickens.

The Heavy Heart.
And slight withal may be the things which Back on the heart the weight which it would fling
Aside forever; it may be a sound,
A tone of music, summer's eve, or spring.
A flower, the wind, the ocean, which shall wound;
Striking the electric chain wherewith we are Darkly bound.
—Byron.

Consider all thy actions and take heed
On stolen bread, though it is sweet, to feed.
Sin, like a bee unto thy hive may bring
A little honey, but expect the sting.
—Watkins.

The international socialist congress that recently met in Zurich, Switzerland, distinguished itself by its mildness and peaceful counsels. It emphasized more strongly than ever the gradual parting of the ways between the socialists and anarchists. The anarchists were practically excluded from the deliberations of the socialist convention. They will probably have nothing left now but to come to America and rave. The congress passed a resolution favoring universal suffrage, including woman suffrage. It likewise passed urgent resolutions demanding that the work of women should be limited in factories and other establishments outside their own homes to 10 hours a day, that of girls to 6 hours a day. The resolution was aimed especially at such places as sweaters' shops.

Three young ladies of noble birth and great beauty in Vienna all took the nun's vows on the same day lately because of disappointment in love. The dispatches do not inform us whether they were all in love with the same fellow or not. But if a girl has no other motive for turning religious than that she has been disappointed in love, then she has very poor reason.

A Fight to the Death.
MIDDLESBOROUGH, Ky., Sept. 12.—News has reached here of a terrible encounter with knives between John Llewellyn and Houston Coughran at a small hamlet in Tennessee. Coughran was killed and Llewellyn mortally wounded.

Three Months' Session Ended.
CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—After remaining in session for over three months, the national commission finally agreed to adjourn yesterday since Oct. 4, the day required by act of congress.

Brief Mention.
It is again stated that there will be no strike on the New York and New England railroad.

A freight train jumped the rail at Wrentham (Mass.) depot and delayed traffic some hours.

The town of Shelton, Conn., received a donation of $25,000 with which to erect a public library.

Moses Boyd of Dedham Center, Mass., has been in continuous service as a railroad man for 50 years.

A summer hotel and a number of cottages on Squid Island, Me., were burned. Loss about $30,000.

T. C. Clark was arrested at Bridgeport, Conn., on suspicion of having caused the death of Patrick Corrigan.

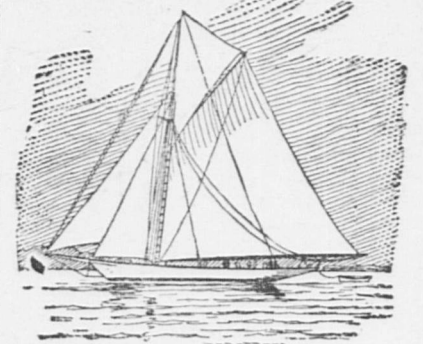

The Pittsfield (Mass.) police arrested John Graham and Thomas Maguire, tramps, for burglarizing a bakery.

Paul Foster, a newsboy, while delivering papers at Rochester, N. H., was attacked by a vicious bulldog and severely bitten.

Rosa McNeely, 22 years old, was found unconscious at the base of a 30-foot ledge at Providence. One leg was fractured and she was suffering from other injuries. It is not known how she came where she was found.

TO DEFEND THE CUP.

The Vigilant Chosen to Try Conclusions With the Valkyrie.
SANDY HOOK, N. J., Sept. 12.—The third trial race for the honor of defending the America's cup has been won by the Vigilant. Colonia finished second, Jubilee third, Pilgrim fourth.

VIGILANT.
At the meeting of the America's cup committee held on board the flagship May, after the race, it was formally decided that the Vigilant should defend the America's cup against the Valkyrie. No protest was received from General Paine. The Vigilant behaved magnificently and outdistanced her three competitors. The Colonia, which came in second, was well handled, but was plainly no match for the Vigilant.

IN CONGRESS.

Senator Hill Resents a Resolution Offered by Senator Stewart.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Senator Hill of New York broke off from his imputed alliance with the extreme wing of the silver senators. Mr. Stewart of Nevada offered a resolution for an inquiry into the fact of senators being stockholders in national banks. Mr. Hill opposed the resolution in a strong speech as being unnecessary, unprecedented and a gross reflection on the senators. The resolution went over until today.

The bill for the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law was taken up, and Mr. Pugh (Dem., Ala.) a member of the finance committee, made a long speech against it, declaring, at the close, that it was the determined and unalterable purpose of the opponents of repeal to oppose it until their physical strength was exhausted and their power of speech gone. The remainder of the session was occupied in a continuation of Mr. Teller's speech against the bill. He said to-day that he would take up another phase of the question on some other day.

The session of the house was brief. It was expected that a report from the committee on accounts announcing the committee's decision to work in the morning would lead to a ceremonious debate, but the report was not brought in.

Mr. Murray (N. C.) attempted to get consideration for a joint resolution appropriating $200,000 for the relief of the cyclone sufferers in the south, but Mr. Kilgore of Texas, objecting, the resolution was referred.

IN STATU QUO.

United States and Mexico Compromise on the Boundary Dispute.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The hostile feature of the Mexican boundary trouble has been removed and the matter will proceed to settlement on a diplomatic basis. At the request of the state department, the adjutant general of the army sent a message to Major General Keyes, commander at the Havana ranch, where Mexican customs officers are being held prisoners on the charge of making an unauthorized seizure in the United States, directing that the prisoners be released.

The state department did this upon the promise of the Mexican government that if the officers and sheep were released Mexico would not interfere with the grazing of the sheep on the disputed lands pending the settlement of the matter through diplomatic channels. The matter will be allowed to proceed in statu quo on the Havana ranch, and until it is settled whether the disputed ground is in Mexico or the United States the 3000 sheep belonging to Salinas, an American citizen, will be allowed to graze there in peace.

A Let-Up on Chinese.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Secretary Gresham communicated to the Chinese minister yesterday the decision of the President that the law should not be enforced pending further action by congress, and that the record order for the departure of Chinese from the Pacific coast had been suspended for the present.

A VICIOUS ASSAULT.

Two Italian Barbers Carve a Young Man With Razors.

WOUNDS MAY PROVE FATAL.

The Victim Says the Attack Was Unprovoked.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—A couple of infuriated Italians and two razors were the cause of a frightful cutting affray in South Boston last night, which will probably result in the death of an inoffensive man. The affair took place at 6 o'clock. The injured man is Martin Concannon. He is but 17 years of age. His neck and head are frightfully gashed, and he is at the city hospital, with the chances of recovery very much against him.

Through remarkably quick police work Captain Wyman's officers had the two assailants in custody five minutes after the cutting occurred. They are brothers, named Joseph and Charles Pistorino, aged respectively 24 and 21 years. The brothers are both barbers, and run the shop at 104 West Fourth street.

A few minutes before 6 o'clock Concannon entered the barber shop. He wanted a shave, but, as the brothers had some feeling against the young man, they refused to serve him. Concannon objected to this, and in a brief time there were hot words in the store.

A small crowd gathered around the store. Concannon reached for his hat just about the time that Joseph Pistorino was sharpening a razor. The other brother also had one in his hand. They both began to talk excitedly in Italian, and kept pointing their razors at young Concannon. The young man made a remark of some kind and then started for the door.

A Vigorous Assault.

He did not get more than a couple of feet when Joseph made a rush for him, brandishing the razor and shouting at the top of his voice. Finally he made a lunge with the razor at Concannon. The latter threw his arm in front of his face for protection. A long cut was made in the sleeve of his coat. Again the razor circled around. This time it landed upon Concannon's neck, and an ugly gash six inches long was made. The blood spurted all over the floor and Concannon fell to his knees.

The razor which Joseph held fell to the floor and the younger brother, urged on by Joseph, rushed on the kneeling victim with a big razor. The second cut was a bad one on the top of the head. Concannon cried for mercy, but the Italians seemed to be frenzied. Again and again they struck at him.

Finally the crowd began to raise cries of murder. This frightened the Italians, and they made a dash from the store, the crowd scattering right and left. Down Fourth street they ran. Around the corner of Fourth street into Dorchester avenue they went, with the crowd in full pursuit. By this time the crowd numbered about 300 men, women and boys.

The Capture.

The race was finished near the Broadway extension bridge. At this point Patrolmen Lee and Skelton caught the two men, and asked them for an explanation of the trouble. The elder brother remained silent, but the younger one volunteered the information that a man had attempted to kill his brother in the Fourth street barber shop. The men were at once placed under arrest while Officers Lee and Skelton investigated their story.

As soon as the Italians had made their escape from the shop William Kelley entered and assisted Concannon to find a doctor. On Broadway, Kelley and Concannon were met by Patrolman Estes, who visited the office of several Broadway physicians, but for reasons best known to themselves the doctors refused to dress the wounds. Concannon was finally taken to the city hospital.

Before being taken to the hospital Concannon identified the prisoners, and said that they both assaulted him without cause.

THE WORLD'S RELIGIONS

All Represented in a Most Significant Procession at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—A procession in which the religions of the world were represented opened the opening of the world's parliament of religions at the art institute. It was a procession that had a world of meaning in it—one that would have been impossible not many years ago. Jews marched with Gentiles and Catholics marched with Protestants.

The religious beliefs of India, of China and of Japan were represented, as well as those of the English speaking nations. All, attired in their priestly robes and wearing the insignia of their office, marched in peace and fellowship to the platform, while the audience rose and cheered at the sight.

Should Not Pass Unheeded.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The Maritime association of the port of New York has issued an appeal to the readers of the public press setting forth the great suffering in the south Atlantic states, as a result of the recent storms, and asking the people to come to the rescue by as liberal contributions as possible.

Murdered For Fell.
BRUSSELS, Sept. 12.—A dispatch from St. Paul de Louvain says that Emin Pasha was within four days' march of Stanley Falls when he was murdered. The caravan was carrying 20 tons of ivory. The capture of the Arabs to rob the caravan is reported to have been the main reason for killing him.

Should Keep Off Sidewalks.
BABYLON, L. I., Sept. 12.—John Gardner, aged 29 years, while riding a bicycle on the sidewalk here ran into Stephen Wilson, who is 90 years old. Wilson was thrown to the ground and severely injured. Gardner was tried and sentenced to three weeks' imprisonment in the county jail.

An Historical Souvenir.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Vice President Stevenson was last night the recipient of a cane made from wood which was used in building a house for Governor Bond, the first executive of the state of Illinois. The donor was Captain Dunlap of that state.

Many Drowned and Burned.
ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 12.—The steamer Shermoksha has been burned on the river Volga. Fifteen of the crew and 13 passengers were burned or drowned.

A ROYAL WELCOME

Tendered "Captain Jack" Adams
by Citizens of Lynn.

WAR HERO BREAKS DOWN

At the Loyalty Shown Him by Loving Friends.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 12.—"Captain Jack" Adams, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, can be said to own the city of Lynn. The largest crowd ever known in the history of the city gathered last evening to welcome home the newly-elected commander-in-chief. Old Fellows' hall was crowded to the roof by members of post 5 of Lynn, the visiting comrades and the general public.

When Captain Adams entered the hall, escorted by his home post (post 5) and the Lynn Brass band, the cheering was tremendous; men rose to their feet, waving flags, hats, handkerchiefs—in fact, anything of a movable nature, and cheered him again and again. It is a question if any other man ever received from the people of Lynn such a welcome, and he was visibly affected by it.

John S. Parker, editor of the Lynn Item, acting as toastmaster of the occasion, called the meeting to order in a short speech, and introduced Mayor Hayes of Lynn, who welcomed Captain Adams in an eloquent speech.

Mayor Hayes discussed the pension question at length, and paid his respects to (as he termed him) "that grand military hero and eminent statesman, Hoke Smith of Georgia."

Following the mayor came Rev. W. J. Tevort of the High Street Baptist church. In his speech Mr. Tevort said: "I don't know if 'Captain Jack' has a creed; but of one thing you may rest assured, that he has a true soldier's heart, and you may be sure that he'll be sound on the pension question."

Lodge's Congratulations.

Comrade Parker then read the following telegram:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 12.

Captain A. J. Holt, Lynn:

Absence alone prevents my coming. My heartiest congratulations to Captain Adams.

No one more pleased than I at the deserved honor conferred upon him and post 5.

HENRY CABOT LODGE.

Brevet-Comrade Judge Berry was next, and, in a witty speech, fairly brought down the house.

In a few words Comrade Parker then introduced the hero of the evening, referring to him as "Dear old Jack."

As Captain Adams rose to his feet, the house fairly rose with him. The cheering was tremendous and the commander-in-chief broke down for a few minutes.

When he recovered himself,

In Quivering Accents

he returned thanks to the people of his home who had given him such a magnificent reception. Exclaiming that he was utterly fatigued by his recent trying experiences, he excused himself for the shortness of his speech, and promised to do all that lay in his power to bring the Grand Army to the highest possible state of efficiency.

After the meeting had adjourned Captain Adams held an impromptu reception, the audience shaking hands with him in turn; and then he went over to the campfire that post 5 was holding in their own hall, where he remained receiving congratulations until midnight. The streets were illuminated with red fire, etc., until far into the night.

CASTINE'S TRIAL TRIP

Is Expected to Show That She Exceeds Her Requirements.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 12.—Gunboat Castine arrived in the harbor yesterday afternoon from Bath, Me., with General Hyde, president of the Bath Iron works, and others interested on board.

Alfred in the harbor were the government tugs Fortuna and Nina, cruiser Vesuvius and the dispatch boat Dolphin, all of which will be used as stake boats, marking the course for the speed trial.

Admiral Walker and the other members of the naval board of inspectors organized yesterday. Soon after the Castine came to anchor Admiral Walker and Lieutenant Reamey, the secretary, went on board, where they were received by General Hyde, and spent some time looking over the vessel.

Judging from the amount of preparatory work to be done, it is not expected that the trial will take place before Friday. Today is being taken up with the inspection of the vessel by a sub-board, to see if her construction is in accordance with the specifications of the contract, and then the recording instruments are to be set and a short trial made to see that the machinery is all right for the final test.

She behaved splendidly on the trip from Bath, having left there at 4:30 Monday afternoon, and the builders have every confidence that she will much exceed the contract speed.

A BAY STATE SCHEME.

Parallel Highways to Extend From the Ocean to the State Line.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Sept. 12.—The meeting of the Haverhill board of trade this evening will heartily endorse the movement started by the Lowell board of trade for an improved road for vehicles and bicycles from Lowell to the sea. This scheme is partly the fruit of the recent visit of the state highway commission to the Merrimack valley, and partly the outcome of years of agitation by prominent citizens and by the newspapers. The state commission among other things proposes to gridiron the commonwealth by several parallel highways, built on a magnificent scale and running longitudinally from the Atlantic ocean to the state line.

They will ask that the road start at Newburyport and traverse Salisbury, Amesbury, Merrimack, Haverhill, Bradford Neck, Methuen, Lawrence, Dracut and Lowell, and that it be made to sustain heavy loads of merchandise on broad tires as well as pleasure vehicles and bicycles.

After reaching Lowell it is intended that the road continue west through Ayer, Fitchburg, Athol, Gardner, Greenfield and across the Berkshires to North Adams, forming a ribbon of macadam equal to any of the military roads of Europe from tide water to the Hudson, and making the first and northerly of the trans-state highways contemplated by the commission.

A transverse road will then be projected, connecting Boston, via Cambridge, with Lowell and Nashua, Manchester and Concord, running thence up the valley to Lake Winnepesaukee and the White mountains, as it is understood that New Hampshire has placed herself in a reciprocal position in this matter.

President Sanders of the Haverhill board of trade is enthusiastic upon the subject and said that the desired improvement can be obtained from the state if the municipalities directly interested make a concerted demand for it.

The Potter Trial.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—Great progress is being made by the government at the trial of ex-President Asa P. Potter of the Maverick bank. The sixth witness is now in the course of examination, and it looks as though the prosecution will have closed its case by Friday afternoon. The only interested persons outside those who will testify are largely lawyers, who drop in to see how the new district attorney conducts the case. They leave the courtroom much satisfied with him.

A Worthy Decision.

HARTFORD, Sept. 12.—The state board of education for the blind has decided to provide for the education of all blind persons of suitable age upon certificate that they are eligible under the law. The board will also clothe them if necessary. All blind persons sent by the governor to the Perkins institute for the blind at Boston are to be under the control of the board.

Waiting For Reports.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—No action has been taken by the railroad commissioners on the testimony taken on last week on the Chester disaster. Another report is awaited on the recent catastrophe at North Attleboro. Many people doubt if anyone be found criminally guilty in either case, and say that reprimands in both cases may be expected.

A Double Blow.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 12.—The Lonsdale company has posted notices raising the rent of the company's tenements 10 per cent in Lonsdale as well as Ashton. This action, coupled with yesterday's notice of a reduction of 10 per cent in wages, has created consternation among the employees.

Brief Mention.

Business is increasing at the Waltham (Mass.) Watch company's factories.

The Lewiston (Me.) mill and the Avon (Mass.) mill, which have been shut down for a month, will resume work next Monday. These mills will employ 600 people.

Mrs. Mary McCarthy, a widow, while engaged in hanging out clothes on the roof of a house at Haverhill, Mass., fell to the ground, and received injuries from which she died.

Judge Bowen has rendered a report on the death of Ernest Adie, the boy killed by an electric car at New Bedford, Mass. He did not find that any immediate blame attaches to the motorman or the conductor.

The postoffice at Putnam, Conn., was entered by three burglars, who had drilled a hole in the safe when they were discovered by Night Watchman Franklin. They assaulted Franklin, but fled without getting any booty.

The Canine rubber factory at New Haven, employing 1800 hands, which started on about half time last week, will commence Friday to run on three-quarters time for the piece hands. The day hands will be given eight hours work daily instead of the five hours.

A WASTE OF TIME.

Speechmaking by Silver Men to Receive a Check.

THE PLAN OF REPEALERS

Is to Make It a Test of Physical Endurance.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Senator Mitchell of Oregon occupied the attention of the senate for three hours in an elaborate argument against the bill to repeal the purchasing clauses of the Sherman act. After he got through, there sprang up between Senators Teller of Colorado and Hawley of Connecticut quite a spirited discussion, into which, finally, Mr. Stewart of Nevada entered. Then, as the hour was late and senators were weary of a whole day's debate, a motion to proceed to executive business was welcomed on all sides, and after a short executive session the senate adjourned.

Again the house held an unimportant session. Mr. Morse (Mass.) expressed his regard for newspaper men—that regard having been questioned by a portion of the press. Mr. Hepburn (Iowa) vainly endeavored to secure the passage of a resolution, although he effected its reference, calling for information relative to the transportation of goods between United States ports over Canadian territory; and Mr. Richardson (Tex.) reported (for recommitment only) a bill having for its purpose a reduction of expenditure in the way of public printing and building.

An Important Conference.

An important conference of Democratic senators was held. There were present Senators Gorman, Voorhees, Faulkner, Gray and several of the other leaders of the senate and friends of the administration measure. The main point to which the senators are said to have addressed themselves was the possibility of bringing the silver question to a vote.

A canvass was made of the names of those who intended speaking on the subject, and this disclosed the fact that the limit of legitimate debate would not be exhausted until this week had ended, and possibly not until one or two days of the next had been consumed. It was agreed that after that speech making would be equivalent to filibustering and that every speech made should be for the purpose of using time and postponing the day for final action.

How to prevent this is the question that senators are desirous of securing a vote are seeking to answer. Cloture is impossible, for, as one of the members of the conference said, cloture had no more chance of passing the senate than would a measure for the repudiation of the national debt. The mere attempt at debate, it was argued, would be hailed with delight by those opposing repeal, because it would give them an opportunity to talk upon something else and thereby consume more time. The vote will be reached, if reached at all, by the test of physical endurance.

Continuous Sessions.

Early next week a motion will be made—unless it is made sooner to take effect on a certain day—providing for night sessions, and those sessions will be made continuous, so that a quorum of the senate will be required every hour of the 24. In this way, coupled with the powerful influence of the business interests of the country now demanding repeal, the repealers think they can force the silver men to come to terms and consent to the taking of a vote. It looks very much as if this program would be inaugurated next week.

The probable action of the house in taking up the bill for the repeal of the federal election laws have also come in for its share of this discussion, and various questions as to the effect of such action by the house were expressed. A division as to this policy was manifested. Some of the committee thought it extremely unwise to plunge the house into a bitter partisan discussion just at this time, when the Republicans of the senate were working with the Democrats for the repeal of the law, for which purpose the president alone had called congress together.

Others met this line of argument with the statement that senators were not to be deterred from doing what they conceived to be their duty in this matter by any agitation that might arise in the other body. The general opinion is that nothing will be put in the way of the house doing as it thinks best in deciding upon the bill which will be reported Thursday.

Right to the Point.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The National Liberal federation has issued a circular in connection with the rejection of the home rule bill, in which it is said that the question of mending or ending the house of lords may displace for a while in the commons all other subjects of reform. The question, the circular adds, needs unflinching treatment.

Fate of Crew Unknown.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 12.—News has been received here that schooner A. B. Crabtree was picked up at sea by schooner Wiswell and towed to Southwest harbor. The schooner had been abandoned at sea and it is not known where the crew is. The schooner was a coaster.

A Massive Sarcophagus.
A beautiful and massive sarcophagus of Quincy granite has been recently erected in Mt. Hope cemetery for the Boston Commandery Knights Templars. The monument is 11 x 6 1-2 feet at the base, with sweeping lines and richly carved cap, surmounted by polished helmet and cross swords, and weighs about thirty tons. It is presented by Sir Knight John H. Collamore, with the beautiful lot on which it stands, to the Boston Commandery, and was designed and executed by McGrath Bros. of this city.

Seems almost like a sailor's yarn, to think of buying a pair of Lace Draperies for 50 cents. Yes, others at any price. Drapery Poles complete, 22 cents. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

A SERIOUS FIRE.

East Milton's Most Disastrous for Years.

THE LOSS WAS OVER $14,000.

Quincy and Boston Respond Promptly to the Call for Aid.

One of the most disastrous fires that East Milton has had for several years occurred this morning.

It was about 1.50 o'clock when the family of Mr. Edward Adams were awakened by the light of a fire in his large stable, which is directly in the rear of his house. The family hastily dressed and gave the alarm but before any water could be put on to the burning building, it was a seething mass of flames.

In the barn there were four cows, two horses, a pig, several sleighs and carriages, ten harnesses and twenty tons of hay. An effort was made to get the animals out of the building, and in this they were partly successful, as they got out all but one horse and the pig although two of the cows were so badly burned that it is feared that they will have to be killed.

Within a few feet of the barn was the large building owned by the Babcock heirs. The ground floor of this building was occupied by Kemp & Tisdale as a general store and the East Milton post-office. On the second floor was the town reading room. The upper story was used as a store room and here was stored a large amount of furniture of J. F. Dustin.

The roof of this building took fire and it looked as though this would be also wiped out.

Boston and Quincy were telephoned to for aid and each responded with a steamer which did noble work in saving the second building and checking the fire.

When it was found that the Babcock building had caught fire, the mail and stock of groceries of Kemp & Tisdale was moved and piled in a confused mass on the depot platform.

The upper part of this building was burned off and the furniture of Mr. Dustin either burned or ruined with the deluge of water which was poured into the building, which is thoroughly soaked.

The cause of the fire is at present unknown, but is believed by many to have been incendiary. Mr. Adams says he had not been into his stable with a lantern or lamp of any kind, and is at a loss to know how it could have caught unless some evil-minded person fired it.

The losses will be quite heavy, although all parties carried an insurance.

Mr. Adams estimates his loss on barn as $2000 and thinks his loss on contents was $2000.

The loss on the Babcock building will be about $2000.

Messrs. Kemp & Tisdale could not give their exact loss until an inventory had been taken of their stock, but think it will be in the vicinity of $3,000.

In the town reading room were tables, books, papers, etc., and the loss here will be not over $200.

Mr. Dustin could not be found this morning, but parties who said they knew what his furniture and effects were, estimate the value at $5,000 and they are practically ruined.

When Quincy was asked for aid, Chief Ripley ordered Box 158 rung in, which was sounded at 2.04 o'clock. The Steamer, Hose 1 and Hook & Ladder responded, and in remarkably short time were at the scene of the fire.

The Quincy steamer was located on Bryant avenue, and for three hours did excellent service.

Here's a generous tip—Inspect the Kincaide line of furniture. Prices mighty low.

TO BE WEDDED OCT. 2.
Mr. Louis Whitcher formerly of Quincy and Miss Mae Branson.

The Boston Record says: "It is a pleasure to be able to announce now that the Whitcher-Branson wedding will take place Oct. 2 at Cincinnati, where Miss Branson has been at her home getting ready for the happy event, in which she is to be the chief figure and Mr. Whitcher the envious one."

The wedding will be a quiet one and hardly anyone will be there, except Miss Branson's family and a friend whom he will take out to start him out, but when they get back to Boston, which will be about the middle of October, they will give a house warming to their friends in the charming residence which he has lately secured in the aristocratic suburb of Brookline.

"He is furnishing the house with the same lavish elegance that characterizes his bachelor apartments near the Athletic Club, where he can generally be found of an evening, and where he is now having a close race to keep up with the friends who want to wish him well and drink a bumper to his happiness."

"Of course she is easily the prettiest bride who will dawn on Boston this fall. To those who have met her, she has given the impression of being as sensible and intelligent as she is beautiful."

FREDERICK L. AMES DEAD.

Found Aboard the Steamer Pilgrim This Morning at New York.

[Special Dispatch to "The Daily Ledger"]
BOSTON, Sept. 13.—News has just reached here of the sudden death of Mr. Frederick L. Ames, he being found dead on board the Steamer Pilgrim of the Fall River Line, upon its arrival at New York at 10.30 this morning. Death probably resulted from rheumatic gout.

Mr. Ames was one of Boston's most prominent men, and is thought to have been the wealthiest man in New England, it being estimated at $25,000,000.

He was born in North Easton June 8, 1835. Was educated at Philip Exeter and Harvard college, graduating in 1854, when he entered the firm of Oliver Ames & Son.

He was at the time of his death a vice president of the Old Colony Railroad Co. and of the Fall River line, and has been a director of the Union Pacific and other large railroads, and was prominent in financial circles.

Mr. Ames was elected to the state senate in 1872. He married in 1860 Miss Rebecca Blair of St. Louis, and the widow and five children survive him.

WEYMOUTH.
An unsuccessful attempt was made at an early hour this morning by burglars to enter the residence of Postmaster R. F. Shaw at Weymouth centre. The unwelcome intruders were frightened away by Mr. Shaw who was awakened.

"Papa, have 'scarce' and 'rare' the same meaning?"
"Yes, my son."
"A man could have plenty of rare books, couldn't he?"
"Why, to be sure."
"Could he have plenty of scarce ones?"
"Amanda, my dear—put this boy to bed."

TRAINS DELAYED.

An Accident on the Old Colony Which Happened at the Right Time.

As the 3.12 outward train from Boston was about to leave Wollaston Tuesday afternoon the axle of the tender broke outside of the wheel letting the box fall.

The box was tied up with chains and the engine unshackled from the train. The engine was run as far as the new siding opposite Central avenue, the intention being to back it on to the siding so that an engine from Braintree, which had been telegraphed for, could take the train.

Unfortunately, however, as the engine was backing onto the switch the wheels with a broken axle left the rail, completely blocking the outward track.

Word was sent to Boston for the wrecker which did not arrive until 5 o'clock. Meanwhile the outward trains were accumulating and on them were many Quincy people more than anxious to get home.

Superintendent Weeks of the street railway, hearing of the accident, sent all of his spare cars to Wollaston and Atlantic and many of the passengers came home that way. Others kept on the trains, which were sent over the Granite branch and came home via Braintree.

When the wrecker arrived the broken axle was taken out and a new one put in but it was not until nearly 6 o'clock when the line was clear.

There is little doubt, had the train been under full speed, that it would have been derailed and the accident been much more severe.

It was the train bringing the important afternoon mail which the carriers at Quincy take out. But it did not reach the office until 6 p. m., and was not taken out until this morning. The mail due at 4.45 p. m., arrived at 5.45 via of Braintree ahead of the mail due at 3.40.

Supt. Weeks in response to a telegram from the Old Colony met the popular 5.15 express from Boston with four cars at Atlantic and the passenger reached Quincy nearly on time.

The Dedham Court.

The following cases were decided in the Norfolk Superior court on Tuesday: Edward P. Gill of Hyde Park was sentenced to the house of correction for eight months for larceny.

Albert Chesbro pleaded guilty to larceny in a building in Hyde Park.

James Dixon pleaded guilty of vagrancy. John Thornton of Boston for selling liquor at Highland lake grove, Norfolk, was fined $100.

Joseph Spencer was sentenced to the reformatory for the larceny of carpenter's tools.

Edward H. Farrell was found guilty of assault on a Wellesley officer, his counsel filing exceptions.

John T. Oliver of Stoughton was on trial at adjournment for arson.

The trial of August Langner, now in the Dedham jail for the alleged murder of Miss Mary Emmerson at Dedham, will probably take place in the first half of October in the Memorial Hall, Dedham Centre, while the civil suit is in session at the court house. There will, undoubtedly, be a new jury impaneled for the trial.

S. of V. Reception.

On the evening of Sept. 18, Camp 27 will participate in the grand reception tendered to Commander in Chief, Jos. B. Macabee, to be held in Chelsea under the auspices of Theodore Winthrop Camp 81. The exercises will be opened with a street parade in which several military organizations and representatives of seventy-five camps will join, after which a public reception will follow at which speeches will be heard from representatives of the city of Chelsea, Grand Army, Sons of Veterans and others.

More Water for Newburyport.

LOCAL LOCALITIES.

Manet Points Out Parts of the City Little Known to New Comers.

Whenever an island, a high hill, or some place noted for a certain peculiarity, either in its formation or for its resources is discovered, the first thing that is done is to give it a name. As the names given to the various natural formations in Quincy and the places themselves are scarcely known by a majority of our citizens, I will continue to give a list of them.

"Birch Isle" is situated west of Independence avenue and is not an isle at all but simply a tract of woods.

"Long Point" is that point on the southerly side of Black's creek near its mouth.

"Purgatory" a strange name for an earthly locality is that tract about West street near the Braintree line. It is pretty certain however that this locality is not the place set apart for the punishment of certain earthly transgressors.

"Keith's Hummock" is a slight elevation at the easterly end of Merry Mount Park.

"Quincy's Woods" is a well known camping place in summer time and is near the junction of Sea and Palmer streets.

"Shell Place" is down on the southerly side of Black's Creek, or near Long Point referred to above.

"Cat Island" lies just off Quincy's Woods and is a place of rendezvous for the gunning fraternity.

Perhaps you have noticed a little island in Town river, just off Mr. Lelois' boat house, which is covered at high water. It is called "Pincushion Island," probably from the blades of eel grass which look like so many pins sticking out of the mud.

"Pine Island" is in Black's creek, just north of Keith's Hummock.

"Bear Hill" is on the westerly side of Blue Hill Turnpike.

"Constitution Hill" is located as being on the east side of South street, between Elm and Summer streets. It is probably the hill on which the residence of Mrs. Bigelow on South street is situated.

"Forbes' Hill" is on the easterly side of Adams street, near Beale.

"Maria's Hill" is on the westerly side of Squantum street, near Atlantic street, and "Massachusetts Hill" is on the easterly side of Squantum street, near Maria's Hill.

"Mt. Ararat," though not the one on which Noah's Ark landed, is west of Adams street, between Common street and Mt. Ararat lane.

"Mt. Hope" is northwest of Squantum street, near the Milton line.

"Pike's Hill" is near the westerly end of Grove street, West Quincy, and "Pine Hill" is between Centre and Willard streets, near the Braintree line.

"Fort Rock" is on the hill in the rear of Mr. A. E. Nash's house at Quincy Neck. It is a large rock on which are carved four arrows pointing to the north, east, south and west.

"Birch Mountain" is on the westerly side of Quincy avenue. MANET.

ACTED LIKE A MADMAN.

A Newark Man Uses His Teeth With Disastrous Effect.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Charles Liedmann, a Newark baker, became enraged over a remark made by his wife yesterday. He first struck her in the face. She screamed, and as he was about to strike her again his father-in-law, Mr. Henry, went to assist his daughter. Liedmann turned on the old man and buried his teeth in his father-in-law's wrist. Liedmann seemed to have completely lost control of himself, and began to froth at the mouth.

Mrs. Henry went to her husband's aid and Liedmann seized her hand and, putting the fingers into his mouth, began to chew them. Mr. Henry, Mrs. Liedmann and Mrs. Schlager sprang upon Liedmann. As they did so he released his mother-in-law and attacked Mrs. Schlager. He tried to get her hand in his mouth, but he succeeded in getting away after receiving a severe scratch on one of her fingers, where it grazed his teeth.

Liedmann broke away from the women and ran into the street. Two policemen were approaching the house. Liedmann tried to escape, and chase was given by the police, but Liedmann got away. One officer remained in the vicinity, and just before daylight this morning Liedmann returned. He had a loaf of bread under each arm and was acting strangely. He was arrested.

MASSACHUSETTS' BIG BILL

For the Privilege of Showing the World What She Can Do.

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—Thus far the state of Massachusetts has expended $111,725 on its exhibit at the World's fair. The total appropriation for the three years from and including 1891 was $75,000. In 1891 $75,000 was appropriated and $444 expended; in 1892 $75,000 was appropriated and $7,908 expended; in 1893 $25,000 was appropriated and $89,732 expended so far. Besides this the legislature appropriated $12,000 for the opening exercises of the Massachusetts building last October, and $10,000 more for Massachusetts day, June 17, last. Nearly the whole appropriation was exhausted in both cases.

From this out the expenses will be kept down to the lowest possible limit, so that a small part of the appropriation at least may be returned to the state treasurer.

Made False Returns.

HARTFORD, Sept. 13.—Collector of Internal Revenue Hutchinson, with Deputy Farmalee and Deputy United States Marshal Barrows, went to West Ashland and seized the distillery of D. W. Surtelle for irregularities, falsifying returns, making illicit brandy, etc. On Friday the place was visited by Internal Revenue Agents Brooks and Alexander, who seized seven barrels of brandy. In all 19 packages, containing 700 gallons of brandy, have been found. The proprietor is liable to confiscation of the entire distillery property and a fine equal to double the value of the liquor seized.

Discussed in Harmony.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Hindoes and Buddhists, Catholics and Lutherans, disciples of Judaism and Congregationalists, explained and defended their various views under the big dome of the art institute yesterday. It was the second day of the great world's parliament of religions. The deliverances of the various eminent men that figured upon the program were listened to with rapt attention.

His Ability Recognized.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Secretary Carlisle has appointed T. A. Byrne of Boston special agent of the treasury department, with headquarters at Boston. Mr. Byrne exposed the New York sugar frauds in 1887-89 and rendered other valuable services by which large sums of money were saved to the government.

A Step Forward.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—The University of Pennsylvania has decided to offer among the college courses this year one destined to prepare young men for newspaper work. It will be in charge of Professor J. F. Johnson, and will cover a period of four years.

Young De Lesseps Set Free.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—M. Charles de Lesseps, who was sentenced to five years' imprisonment for complicity in the Panama scandal, was released from prison yesterday. The sentence of five years' imprisonment was set aside on appeal to the court of cassation.

Was Well Known by Sports.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Colonel Patrick Duffy, the well known sporting man of New Orleans, died last night of brights disease and dropsy. Patrick Duffy was 50 years old. He was referee in the Sullivan-Kilrain fight.

What Next?

PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 13.—Adam Eck, a broommaker, who has been totally blind for 30 years, has issued a challenge to any blind man in the country for a finish fight, Marquis of Queensbury rules, for $100 a side.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

Doings at Brighton and Watertown For the Week Ending Sept. 13.

Amount of stock on the market:	Sheep	Cattle and Lambs	Pigs	Swine

New York.....	41	1,204	31
Canada.....	—	—	—	—
Totals.....	3,291	8,908	2,559
Prices for western beef cattle pr 100 lbs, live weight—Choice, $4.50; second quality, $4.40; third quality, $3.50; fourth quality, $3.00; grades of coarse oxen, cows, bulls, stags, etc., $2.50 pr lb.
Prices for northern and eastern beef cattle pr lb, dressed weight—Choice, $5.00; first quality, $4.50; second quality, $4.00; poorest grades of coarse oxen, cows, bulls, stags, etc., $2.50 pr lb.
Hick, yellow, etc.—Hides, $4.00 pr lb, tallow, $3.00 pr lb; calf skins, 75c each; lamb skins, 50c each; sheared skins, 25c each; brand hides, 8c pr lb.
Northern and eastern beef cattle—The supply was light, but was all that the demand required. There were no very good cattle offered, and it was well that it was so, for buyers were scarce. Values showed no change from last week.
Milk cows and springers—The supply was large. Trade continues dull in this line, and buyers say they do not expect it much better during this month. There were no first class buyers present, and only a few head were sold to jobbers and speculators.
Sheep and lambs—The supply was heavier than last week. Values were about the same as last week, but it was stated that had there been a few choice lambs on the market stiffer prices might have been obtained.
Western beef cattle—The stock was assigned to the exporters.
Veal calves—This stock was in light receipt and of a very poor quality. Most of the stock offered was sold to slaughterers for immediate use. Values showed an increase of about 5c over last week. This was due to the light supply rather than to the quality of the stock offered.

WHEN we read of a town like Spencer being visited by a conflagration which burned over six acres and caused a loss of $300,000, we are reminded our hose carriages and one steamer would amount to little if a good fire got started in some parts of our city. Quincy has been remarkably fortunate and we hope she may be, but another steamer seems a necessity.

QUINCY is flattered at the choice of Mayor Fairbanks as one of the Committee on Resolutions at the Republican State convention. It is some years since a Quincy Representative has served on the committee, but they have chosen wisely in selecting the popular executive of our city. We predict a brilliant political future for Mayor Fairbanks, possible Councillor next year.

It is not surprising that there are those who expect that the DAILY LEDGER should give a round trip ticket on the electric cars to Houghs Neck, when it offered a free ride one way. Our offer was explicit and should not be misunderstood. It stated that a free ride would be given on Sunday from Quincy to Houghs Neck. We are able to supplement the offer today, however, with a discount of ten cents on one of Pierce's popular shore dinners, and thus two cents expended for a DAILY LEDGER on Saturday will be good for twenty-two cents. Again, we say, visit Houghs Neck at the LEDGER's expense and enjoy a good shore dinner at a discount.

TO THE credit of the present administration of the city government nothing is heard of bad financing. Money is borrowed on most favorable terms, appropriations are not exceeded, the tax rate is low, and everything runs along smoothly as planned at the beginning of the year, even in a year of financial troubles like the present. Some of the other small cities do not appear to be as fortunate. People of Marlboro are becoming alarmed at the prospect of deficit in the city finances, and the financing that has brought about this condition of things is receiving the severest condemnation on all sides. At least $20,000 claimed as income in Marlboro cannot be relied upon, and the reduction from $20 to $18 per $1000 on the tax rate will not be very effective.

THE LYNN ITEM should have a warm place in the hearts of the workmen of Lynn. By persistent work in its column it has caused the "coal combine" to reduce the prices on coal 50 cents a ton on all kinds except number one nut and broken, and on the two latter kinds a reduction of 25 cents. This will bring Lynn prices the same as in Boston, and lower than the Salem prices.

This action will be universally appreciated by all those who have felt that last winter's price for coal was too much for a summer price.

For several weeks Lynn people have been buying their coal in Salem, a city six miles distant, where the cost with cartage was less than in Lynn.

The item will do more. To show that it appreciates the reduction it has placed an order for $500 for coal to be delivered to those in need.

DUGGAN NOT PARKER

The Wholesale Swindler with Many Aliases

WAS A RESIDENT OF ATLANTIC.

Boston Officers and Chief Langley Raid Premises With Good Success.

Some few weeks ago Boston papers contained an account of the arrest of Charles O. Parker who had with another party carried on a wholesale swindling concern under the name of Sanders & Co. When arrested he said his residence was Quincy, but no one seemed to know anything about him and nothing could be learned until Wednesday when it was ascertained that his name instead of being Charles O. Parker was Charles Duggan of Atlantic.

Since the arrest Inspector Cogan of Boston has been at work upon the case and has secured a large quantity of goods at various places.

Wednesday afternoon the inspector came to Quincy accompanied by representatives of the swindled firms among whom were N. B. Stevens, M. R. Warren & Co., George H. Richter, Oxley Wilson Manufacturing Co., and the United States Gutta Percha Paint Co.

A search warrant was secured and in company with Chief of Police Langley, the party visited Atlantic and searched the premises of Lawyer R. Augustus Duggan on Squantum street. An old man was found at the house but as he refused admittance, the officers forced an entrance. A thorough search was made of the building and in one of the chambers occupied by Parker, or Duggan, about $1,000 worth of goods were found, consisting of bicycles, type writers, books, hardware etc.

There were four trunks, two of which were not opened, as the keys were in Boston.

It was learned that previous to his arrest Duggan had boarded with his cousin, the lawyer, at Atlantic and that the goods were sent by freight to Neponset and from there taken in teams to his boarding place.

The most important thing brought out by the search was the establishing beyond any doubt the identity of the rascal, which was by means of a photograph which Inspector Cogan had.

This photograph was shown Mr. John Whalan, a neighbor of Lawyer Duggan, who immediately identified it as that of Charles Duggan whom he had known from boyhood.

The goods found were taken back to Boston.

We heard of a lady complaining to a neighbor. Her new stove didn't burn half the coal her old one did, and baked with wonderful rapidity. The stove was a Glenwood and she purchased it from Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

The Dedham Court.

On Wednesday the following cases came up:

John T. Oliver of Stoughton, for arson, the burning of Dr. Charles S. Young's barn at Stoughton, Aug. 24, 1893, was sentenced to the state prison for eight years.

Edward H. Farrell of Wellesley, for an assault on Police Officer Henry P. Varney at Wellesley, was sentenced to the Dedham house of correction for three years.

Jeremiah D. Benton of Stoughton, aged 63 years, for an assault on Carrie E. Stearns, aged 12 years, at Stoughton, was given one year at the Dedham house of correction, and for a like assault on Hattie G. Knopski, aged 10 years, one year and 6 months at the same prison.

Seems almost like a sailor's yarn, to think of buying a pair of Lace Draperies for 50 cents. Yes, others at any price. Drapery Poles complete, 22 cents. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

Dedham Police Signal.

The Herald says, The Dedham police will have a novel arrangement in connection with their private telephone service to be established, whereby the night officers in East Dedham can be notified as they patrol the street of the desire of those at headquarters in Dedham centre to communicate with them by telephone, and vice versa.

There will be an electric light in the square at Dedham, and another near the police station in East Dedham, both with red globes, and, if the officers at either end wish to call those at the other to the phone, they will press a button letting on the current, and the red light will burn until the signal is seen and the current turned off.

The Wollaston Club has made a move in the right direction. At a meeting of the Board of Directors held on Wednesday evening it was unanimously voted that on and after Monday, Sept. 18, the club house will be open to ladies who are introduced by members.

Mayor Fairbanks has called a special meeting of the City Council for this evening. The business is in relation to the water bond order. That order as passed reads that the bonds shall be dated from day of issue. It is the desire of the Mayor, by advice of attorneys, to change it so as to read August 1, 1893.

Mr. William Davis of Granite street died Wednesday afternoon after a lingering illness, leaving a widow and one daughter. He had been a member of Bethesda lodge of Odd Fellows of South Boston for 17 years, and Mt. Wollaston Lodge of this city which has kindly cared for the brother will attend the funeral on Saturday.

Dedham Police Signal.

WOULD LIKE A STEAMER.

West Quincy People on the Proposed Locations of a New Hose House.

Of the two locations suggested for the new hose house in Ward Four, which is the most desirable, that of Mayor Fairbanks, which is on the Willard school-house lot, or that of Mr. Federhen, which is nearer the West Quincy depot.

There are disadvantages to both lots, but of the two the school-house lot seems to be the one that meets the views of the citizens of Ward Four.

The LEDGER has interviewed a number of West Quincy business men and while they do not care to enter into any newspaper controversy, they were perfectly willing to give their views.

Those seen, objected to the site proposed by Mr. Federhen as they say the land is low and always damp, and it would be impossible to get a dry cellar. Then, again, some of the gentlemen seen, said they knew that the land could not be purchased except at an exorbitant price and they thought it very foolish for the city to purchase land when they already owned a suitable location.

There were disadvantages to the Willard school lot such as being situated too near the school building, as there was danger in case of an alarm of fire at recess of some of the children being injured. This land was also wet but not so much so as that nearer the West Quincy depot.

Of the two, however, they would prefer the school lot, but if the city should purchase land the opinion seemed to be that the lot on the corner of Copeland and Common street, or the lot on the corner of Willard street and Hall place would be much preferable to any that had been suggested.

One gentleman expressed himself of the opinion that it was unwise with the many pressing wants of the city to expend $6000 for a new hose house, the present structure had been used for years and although it was now in rather poor condition a new floor could be put in and other repairs made to make it suitable at a comparatively small cost.

Upon the whole, however, the citizens of West Quincy do not seem to be very enthusiastic over the subject of a new hose house. They do want a steamer, however, and think the city should purchase one and locate it in that ward.

New High for Somerville.

The city government of Somerville accepted plans Wednesday evening for a $100,000 high school. It will be a magnificent structure, with accommodations for 700 pupils. If Quincy can get one like as large for half that price all will be well.

The building is to be 150 long and 80 feet deep, facing Highland avenue. It will contain three full stories, an attic and a high basement, and will be constructed of brick and granite trimmings.

The first floor will be fitted with six large classrooms, a recitation room, and rooms for the school committee and superintendent of schools.

On the second floor will be six classrooms, one recitation room, library and principal's room. The third floor will contain a lecture room with a seating capacity of 225, physical, chemical and botanical laboratories, and two classrooms.

But one room will be fitted at present in the fourth floor or attic, and that, a large drawing room, will be lighted only by the rear roof, so that the light may fall on the pupils' back while at work.

In the basement will be toilet rooms and a large drill room, and two other large rooms designed for manual training, or one may be used for coal and boiler rooms if desired. It is intended to heat the building by steam from the old high school building which will be closely adjacent and may be used for a classical school. The new structure can easily accommodate 700 pupils. There will be entrances and exits on every side.

FRED AMES' DEATH.

The News Sadly Received by His Many Friends.

WAS A FOREMOST CITIZEN.

An Interesting Outline of the Financier's Career.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Frederick L. Ames was found dead in the president's state-room of the steamer Pilgrim yesterday. He had left his office in the Ames building about 1 o'clock Tuesday and appeared to be in perfect health. He bade the gentlemen a pleasant goodbye and left. He took the regular Fall River boat train to go to New York to attend to some business. When the train arrived at Fall River Mr. Ames boarded the Pilgrim and was given the president's cabin. When the boat landed in New York Mr. Ames did not appear. A reasonable length of time was allowed to pass, and when he still remained in the state-room the suspicions of the officers of the boat were aroused, and the captain, purser and other officers burst in the door of the state-room. Mr. Ames was then seen to be lying dead on his face upon the floor. A hurried examination of the body indicated that Mr. Ames had died of heart disease or apoplexy. The sudden death of so prominent a man caused the utmost excitement on the streets and in the corridors of the hotels. The news spread like wildfire, and few could believe the sad intelligence.

Career of Mr. Ames. Frederick Lothrop Ames, capitalist, railroad builder and director, was the son of Oliver Ames, the second of that name, and was born in North Easton, June 8, 1835. His mother was Sarah (Lothrop) Ames. He received his early education at Concord, and at Phillips Exeter academy prepared for Harvard university, where he was graduated in 1854.

His tastes were then inclined to law, but in deference to his father's desire he went into business. It was his father's wish that he begin at the bottom of the ladder, and he at once became a clerk in the great Ames works at North Easton. From grade to grade, as the rules of the establishment required, he advanced, and after several years he was placed in charge of the accounts of the Ames works.

Very early he showed a marked executive ability, and when, in 1863, he became a member of the firm he was an experienced business man. Until 1876 the firm name was Oliver Ames & Sons, but in that year it was reorganized as Oliver Ames & Sons corporation, with F. L. Ames as treasurer, which position he held to the present time.

Early in his business career Mr. Ames had become interested in railroads, and when a young man was a director in the Union Pacific, the Chicago and North-western, Missouri Pacific and Texas Pacific railroads. Gradually he diverted his attention from merchandise to railroads, and at the time of his death was officially recognized as one of the foremost financiers of the country.

Many of the monetary institutions of Boston claimed a part of his attention, and he was identified with many charitable institutions, to which he gave much time and money.

A Unitarian in religion, Mr. Ames attended the First church, Boston, and here lent his strength, both moral and financial. He also took an active interest in the affairs of the church at North Easton. He was also a member of the corporation of Harvard college. His holdings of real estate in Boston were very large, and one of its most notable structures is the Ames building at the corner of Washington and Court streets.

His Great Wealth. The "street" gossip about Mr. Ames' wealth, as it always does when a multi-millionaire dies. The estimates ranged from $35,000,000 to $50,000,000. Said one of the most careful and experienced of Boston bankers, a prominent member of the Stock exchange, "No one except those who will not talk can tell how much money Mr. Ames had."

What Mr. Ames paid taxes in Boston is $60,000, and all of this is said to be free of encumbrance, except the Tremont House, which had a mortgage when he bought it. All this real estate and taxes last year of $75,000, and nearly all of it returned from 6 to 7 per cent upon the investment.

Strange to say, even as recently as the year 1875, Frederick L. Ames was not taxed for a single dollar's worth of real estate in this city. In 1875 his name first appears on the assessors' books. He is there stated as owning $5500 worth of property, the tax being $69.85.

In the financial world Mr. Ames was widely and favorably known. His great wealth made him a most desirable man for large corporations to have as a friend, and the extended experience which he possessed gave his views, as expressed at financial meetings, unusual weight and value. The chief characteristics that he displayed at such meetings were a bearing of absolute and unflinching courtesy, an unusually tenacious memory and a clear and terse manner of stating his opinions. No matter how heated the discussion might become, Mr. Ames never forgot that he was a gentleman, and invariably bore himself as one.

His opinions on all matters connected with the finances and administration of the various corporations of which he was a member were eagerly sought, and, in a large measure, controlled the decisions of the different boards. He never spoke at any great length in support of his views, but seemed content to put them forward in a concise and lucid form and let them, as it were, do most of the talking for themselves.

Personal Traits. Mr. Ames, while a liberal man, was not lavish. In his expenditures he wished clearly to see the utility of the object in which he was embarking. Wherever he was convinced his money would aid a worthy cause he stood ready to contribute.

He was exceedingly fond of flowers of all kinds, and his greenhouses at North Easton were considered by experts to be the finest in the state.

Mr. Ames was the foremost collector of work of art in Boston, and his collections of paintings, porcelains, jades, crystals, and objects of art of all kinds, enjoyed a celebrity which extended far beyond the borders of New England.

A PRETTY GIRL STAGE DRIVER.

She Takes Her Sick Father's Place and Runs a Difficult Route Bravely.

Butte county's most popular daughter today is Annie Morrison, whose father, Henry Morrison, is one of the most famous characters on the coast. Henry Morrison has driven the coach from Cherokee Flat down Morris ravine to Oroville for hot these many years. He is a typical old time stage driver, hale, bluff, hearty and good natured, who could not live anywhere else but in the region in which he has spent the better portion of his life, the mountain region of northern California. To him Tin Cup ravine, Sherman ravine and all the dozens of defiles in the mountains are as familiar as Lotta's fountain is to the statues of Kearny street.

For years it has been his special mission in life to bring down the gold from the mountain recesses to Oroville. For men could safely drive a coach over that road, but Henry Morrison had been there so long that it had never occurred to any one that he might meet with an accident or be called away. So a short time ago, when he was thrown from his coach and had his leg broken, there was distress in the community. "Who can fill his place?" was the main question. The many deeds of valor and kindness of the old stage driver, his many battles, by physical exertion and the aid of his ready gun, were recalled. There did not seem to be any one to succeed him.

But the stage went out the next morning just the same. When the horses had been hitched and all the minor details had been attended to, Miss Annie Morrison, the charming daughter of the unfortunate old driver, jumped into the box, took up the reins, cracked her whip, and drove away. Throughout her father's illness she drove the stage and did it as well as Old Hen ever did. Her independence and bravery commanded attention and forced respect.

Miss Morrison is only about 20 years old and is a refined and well educated young lady. She had made the trip with her father many a time, and had sometimes driven the horses. Why should she not do so during the convalescence of her father? With her to think was to act, and for nearly a month she manipulated the lines.

Major McLoughlin, when seen at the Palace last evening, said he knew Miss Morrison very well. "I am not surprised that she relieved her father," he said. "She is a noble and splendid girl and one of the handsomest in the state, a good, honest, healthy California girl. And I may add," he said in conclusion, "that she is as good as she is pretty."—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Health of Holland's Little Queen. The good people of Holland, who are very fond of the little Queen Wilhelmina, are worried about her health. She is a nervously organized child, and even in spite of the devoted care of her mother, Queen Emma, she finds the strain of royal existence telling upon her. Queen Emma before her marriage to the late King William of Holland was a princess of Waldeck, and at that time she has become thoroughly and loyally Dutch in her feeling and is educating her little daughter with all regard for the traditions of the house of Orange.

The queen and queen regent spend most of their time at the castle of Loo, one of the royal residences. It lies in the midst of forests and heaths. There are Dutch flower gardens, walks, fountains and cascades about it. And there the young queen leads a very regular life, rising at 7 o'clock each morning and studying until noon. The afternoon is given up to driving her ponies, sailing her boat or busying herself with her pigeons. But even with such a regular and unexciting life as this it is far from likely that the little girl will become the queen of the Netherlands in fact as she is in name.

Women Legislators Needed. The constantly recurring cases of cruel and abusive treatment of wives by brutal husbands should call attention of legislators to the need of special legislation for the protection of such wives. The daily papers report a case of fiendish cruelty which occurred in Connecticut—a case almost past belief. The poor wife is now dead and the man in jail. But there should have been a law like a shield for this woman in her lifetime. Surely women are needed to legislate for women!—Boston Woman's Journal.

Work of California Women. A society of Native Daughters of California has prepared a magnificent banner for the poppy room of the World's fair. The ground is of white satin, the decoration of poppies. The letters were designed by another member and worked in gold, the whole being the handiwork of the young women. California poppies sprinkle the covers of the magazine of that name with the showy yellow bud.

Bare Arms at Afternoon Gatherings. The flat has again gone forth that bare arms shall appear at dressy afternoon fetes as well as in the evening. The hair will be slightly powdered, the long close gloves drawn off, and fair, rounded arms will emerge from drooping lace bretelles, puffs and other airy draperies, bars to and above the elbows, without bracelets, but the fingers glittering with a few choice rings.

Royalty Selling Trinkets. The Princess of Wales, the Duchess of Edinburgh, the Duchess of Connaught, the Princess Christian and the Duchess of Fife were among the illustrious personages who acted as stall keepers and sold cigarettes, sunshades, fruit, flowers, etc., at the recent fair held in London to raise $125,000 for building an appropriate habitation for the United Service institution.

Stand still say the old fogies and wait till the storm rolls by. There's no stand still to Henry L. Kincaide & Co. You might as well talk of sleepy lightning. Even now during the great financial depression they have courage to offer the most astounding bargains in all house furnishings.

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Has voted an emphatic majority for the repeal of the Sherman Act, but the people of Quincy have decided by a much greater majority that

Hearn's New Drug Store

is the gem in its line in the city.

What a pretty store! How beautiful! How well laid out! Does it not light up beautifully at night? and other like expressions voice their verdict.

I thank you all for your kind words of praise, and feel grateful that my efforts to add an attraction to the city have been appreciated.

I am adding every day to my stock and will not stop until I am satisfied that I have a drug store that will compare favorably with any retail store in the state in my line.

I am giving my personal attention to the store, and can assure the people of Quincy that any prescription coming into my store will be filled with the utmost care and accuracy. I have had 14 years' experience in the business, almost five of which I have been in business for myself in West Quincy.

I feel gratified at the confidence imposed in me, judging by the share of patronage I have received thus far, and hope to merit more by strict attention to business and courtesy to all.

How Peace Might Come.

If war is ever to cease, it will come about not by the action of governments, but through the common people themselves—the soldiers who are food for powder when kings quarrel. There is some sign that at length the common man may refuse to be a soldier. At an American trades congress not long ago a resolution was adopted recommending workmen not to join the national guard. This was a great mistake on the part of the congress, for in this republic every citizen should drill and hold himself in readiness to fight, not for a master, but for himself and his own rights as a freeman. It would be a great blunder to leave the national guard in the hands of the dukes and millionaires' sons in this country. Then it might indeed be used in time against the laborer. Still more significant than the American resolution, however, was a proposition introduced by Norwegian delegates into the international socialist congress at Zurich. It was to the effect that in the event of war being declared an international strike against fighting should be ordered. If the soldiers of the armies should refuse to fight, if all the laboring men should refuse to manufacture clothing, arms and munitions of war for armies, there would speedily be an end of fighting. It would be hard work to shoot a million or so of soldiers for mutiny.

The colts in the second game jumped on Gastright for eight runs in the fourth inning. In the fifth the Boston scored four runs. The colts finished that half of the side but were unable to get a run until the call time, on account of darkness, before the Boston could finish their half. The Boston had sent in a run and nobody was out when McCarthy stole third. His right boot struck the stake ring that holds down the bag, and his instep was badly wrenched and two of the toes dislocated. It was at this juncture that time was called. The score was tied, but under rule 22 of the playing rules the game reverts back to the fifth inning, which gives Chicago the second game.

THE ABINGTON RIOT.
Two of the Alleged Participants Fined For Resisting Arrest.

ABINGTON, Mass., Sept. 14.—The trials growing out of the recent riot and railroad war at North Abington were continued yesterday. Edward Mackie, charged with the larceny of an engine of the railroad, was discharged. The cases of Christopher L. Bailey, charged with assault upon Officer Russell, and of Augustus B. Frazier, charged with assault upon Officer Hollis, were tried together. Lawyer Kingman stated that the defense would rest the case without offering any testimony. He claimed that Bailey and Frazier were justified in using force in resisting arrest, as the officers had not warrants for the officials' arrest.

Judge Bouve found the defendants guilty and imposed a fine of $41 each. They appealed and gave bonds in $500 to appear in the superior court.

A Postponement.
HARTFORD, Sept. 14.—In the superior court the cases of Evan W. Scott, time keeper, and 21 other employees of the New York and New England railroad for alleged conspiracy in defrauding the road by means of falsified pay rolls, came up. On account of the absence of prisoners' counsel, all the cases were continued to the December term of the court.

Deck Hands Burned to Death.
LEAMINGTON, Ont., Sept. 14.—The steamer Byron Terrie, running in connection with the Erie and Huron railroad, burned at her dock here. The captain, cook and purser jumped overboard and were drowned. Two deck hands were burned to death.

Cholera In London.

The secretary of the interior has appointed W. W. Jones, Simon Lyser and Pablo Trujillo commissioners to appraise the buildings on the Fort Craig abandoned military reservation in New Mexico.

QUARTER OF A MILLION

The Loss Sustained by a Big Conflagration at Spencer, Mass.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 14.—The worst fire that ever visited the town of Spencer broke out yesterday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock, and resulted in a total loss that will amount up to $250,000. Fully six acres of buildings were totally destroyed.

The fire originated at the freight depot of the Boston and Albany road on Wall street, near Mechanics' street. A large number of kerosene barrels, some of them full, were standing on the platform in a place where it was customary to store them, the platform being therefore completely saturated at that point. The fire may have been started among these barrels from a spark from a locomotive, or more probably by fire dropping from a pipe or a cigar on the oil-soaked boards of the platform.

At the time that the fire broke out the town water was turned off for repairs in the main, and it was not possible at first to get water to put out the fire.

Fire engines were summoned from Leicester, East Brookfield, North Brookfield and Worcester, and not until some of these arrived was it possible to make any headway against the fire.

The fire was rapidly increased in intensity by a mild southwest wind, along Wall street toward Main street. Every building on either side of Wall street was totally destroyed.

CHOLERA'S RAVAGES
Described In a Ghastly Story by Pilgrims From Mecca.

TUNIS, Sept. 14.—Of the 9000 pilgrims that left here and other ports in May last for Mecca only half have returned, the others having fallen victims to the cholera. Fully 12,000 friends and relatives met the returning pilgrims on their release from quarantine, and there were many heartrending demonstrations of grief by the relatives of those who had succumbed to the disease.

The survivors tell terrible tales of suffering. On June 24 100,000 pilgrims were gathered on the sacred mount to hear a solemn address prior to their proceeding for Mecca. Many of the multitude were starving. The mount resembled a battlefield, being strewn with the corpses of victims of the pestilence, among which were lying hundreds of poor wretches who were dying from the dread disease.

So frightful was the condition of affairs that no one dared to approach the place. Finally a battalion of 700 Turkish soldiers was sent to bury the dead and rescue the living. Five hundred of these soldiers lost their lives as a result of their devotion to duty. Of the whole battalion, only 200 men escaped the pestilence.

SWALLOWED A MOUSE.
The Remarkable Thing That Happened to a Hartford Woman.

HARTFORD, Sept. 14.—A woman living in the vicinity of Edwin Cray's drug store yesterday ejected from her stomach a full grown mouse. The woman had not been feeling well during the morning. At night an emetic was administered, and the mouse then made its appearance. The animal was partly digested, but its head, feet and tail were easily distinguished, and some of the hair remained on the body.

How the creature could have gained access to the stomach was at first a mystery. The woman is a sound sleeper, and the only reasonable explanation is that while she slumbered with her mouth open, the mouse, bent on exploring for a hiding place, ran down her throat.

The story was disbelieved until the dead mouse was exhibited to the unbelievers. The woman has since experienced no bad effects from the unwelcome visitor. The physician, a well known doctor, vouches for the truth of the story.

Should Be Choked Off.
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14.—A pension attorney of this city is said to have been urging the old soldiers to organize and assassinate President Cleveland and Secretary of the Interior Hoke Smith. The matter has been reported to the authorities at Washington and will be investigated.

Is the Valkyrie Lost?
NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Captain Thompson of the steamer Ben Lomond, from Yokohama, etc., reports that the Ben Lomond did not sight the yacht Valkyrie, and says the yacht would not be able to make much headway in the weather encountered by the Ben Lomond.

Suffered From Nervousness.
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—The body of the woman who committed suicide by jumping from a Gloucester steamboat into the Delaware river was identified as Louise Tadd, aged 28 years. The victim was well connected. She was an intense sufferer from nervousness.

That Settles It.
NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Miss Fay Templeton says she and Mr. Howell Osborne have been married a long time, notwithstanding all reports to the contrary. Mr. Osborne denied the truth of the statements made that he has been engaged to Lillian Russell.

Crew Probably Lost.
HALIFAX, Sept. 14.—The schooner Highland Brothers, from Bay St. George, N. F., to Halifax, with a cargo of fish, is reported as having foundered at sea. She was owned and commanded by Captain McLellan of Bay St. George. No tidings of the crew.

To Meet Corbett.
LONDON, Sept. 14.—Charley Mitchell, who is to fight Corbett, and Jack McLaughlin, called on the steamer Teutonic from Liverpool yesterday for New York. Both pugilists registered under aliases when engaging passage.

Not Within Two Seconds.
CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Nancy Hanks failed in her attempt to lower her record of 2:04 in her flight against time at Washington park. Twenty thousand persons encouraged her as best they could, but the watch stopped at 2:06.

Robbed a Wreck.
WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 14.—Vincent M. D. Harrington, a hotel keeper at Cedar beach, was held for trial for despoiling the wrecked schooner William C. Dea. This is the second arrest for the same offense.

Poisoned by Toadstools.
NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Dr. S. J. Carabous reported another fatal case of toadstool poisoning at the coroner's office. The victim was Alexander Oliver, a Swiss peddler, aged 40 years.

Deadly Work Goes On.
LONG ISLAND CITY, Sept. 14.—Jennie McDermott, 3 years old, was instantly killed by a trolley car at Jackson avenue and Eighth street. The motorman was placed under arrest.

TWO RECORDS FALL.

Wheelmen Tyler and Sanger Win
New Laurels.

A HALF MILE IN 1:00 2-5.

The Two-Mile Race Covered
In 4:31 2-5.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 15.—The second day of the great tournament was even more successful than the first. There were fully 10,000 people present and two world's records were broken.

Tyler made a half mile in the second heat of the handicap in 1:00 2-5, beating his own record of 1:01 2-5 made at Hartford Sept. 5.

Sanger won the two mile handicap in 4:31 2-5, beating John's record of 4:47 2-5 made at Pittsfield June 24.

The great race of the day, the mile international record, was won by H. C. Tyler, after the most exciting bicycle contest ever seen on the track. Windle made a pretty race for a place with the leaders and pushed Sanger closely to the home stretch, where the race seemed to be between the latter and Zimmerman. The two came down the stretch almost side by side, with Sanger a few feet ahead, until about a rod from the tape, when Tyler made a magnificent spurt and finished first.

The half mile open was a loaf for the first quarter and a sprint in 27 4-5 seconds for the last quarter. It was between Windle, Zimmerman and Banker, who rounded the last turn together, Zimmerman crossing the tape ahead of Windle by a wheel. At the conclusion of the scheduled races, McIntyre, with pacemakers, covered 26 miles and 50 yards in 50 minutes 52 1-2 seconds, breaking the world's hour record of 25 miles 690 yards.

Summaries:

One mile, 2:35 class—W. A. Rhodes, 1; Hugh Robson, 2; A. T. Caldwell, 3. Time, 2:38.

SUBJECT TO APOPLEXY.

Several of the Ames Family Have Died of the Disease.

NORTH EASTON, Mass., Sept. 15.—The body of F. L. Ames has arrived at his late home. Rev. William L. Chaffin, pastor of the Ames family, will conduct the services Saturday, and the obsequies will be devoid of pomp or ceremony.

Dr. Cogswell, who has been in the service of the Ames family for 70 years, said that Mr. Ames had been unwell for several years, though his condition was not such as to excite alarm. He had been troubled with the gout, and this interfered with his general health. Apoplexy has been a very fatal disease in the Ames family. His grandfather, his mother and his sister died of the same disease—cerebral apoplexy. Several weeks ago, for a period of two or three days, he was severely troubled with insomnia, but he recovered and was improving in general health.

Mrs. Ames may become completely prostrated by the shock. She is in such a condition that only the immediate members of the family are permitted in the house. Expressions of sorrow and condolence have been received by the family from all parts of the country, and the death of Mr. Ames is a severe shock to the townspeople. Business is generally suspended.

WEAVERS ARE UNEASY.

A Strike Liable to Occur at New Bedford In Consequence.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 15.—There is a good prospect of a strike in this city after all. The trouble arises in the Hataway mill, where the weavers are finding fault at what they claim amounts to a series of fines on this class of help, which is outrageous. A shop meeting has been called for tonight of operatives of the Hathaway mills and a special general meeting of the Weavers' association for next Tuesday night. One of the prominent leaders of the weavers informed a reporter that the weavers had got tired of the unjust reduction and fines system and they had concluded that they might just as well starve on the street as in the mills, and he stated that he would not be at all surprised to see a strike inaugurated at once after the shop meeting.

Perhaps He Is Innocent.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 15.—Proceedings have been stayed in the case of William C. Swinburne, adopted son of ex-Mayor William J. Swinburne of Newport, who is charged with forgery in Colorado. Later information seems to throw doubt upon his guilt, and the extradition papers are held pending further investigation.

In Potter's Favor.

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—The whole of yesterday's trial in the Potter case was devoted to argument of the court on admitting certain evidence. The court said, in regard to the conversation between Potter and Work, there is reason to suppose that an understanding existed, but that at this stage of the case, unless supported by other facts, it must be ruled out. This is a criminal case. In a civil case he would rule differently.

He Paid His Fine.

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Dr. Charles A. Bemis of Medway avoided going to jail yesterday afternoon by paying the fine of $50 which Judge Dunbar imposed upon him for contempt, in refusing to comply with a former order of the superior court, directing him to pay his wife alimony of $8 a week. The court not only fined him, but also ordered that he be compelled to pay all back and future alimony.

Should Not Be Permitted.

MILFORD, Mass., Sept. 15.—The school committee has voted to again occupy the old town house school building for school purposes, notwithstanding the fact that the building has been condemned by the local board of health and state inspector and has also been reported unfit for school purposes by all the superintendents of schools the town has had for a number of years.

Won by Freshies.

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 15.—The customary football rush between the sophomores and freshmen occurred last evening on the college campus. The freshmen, who outnumbered the sophomores, went into the contest with unusual spirit and came out of the melee minus most of their clothing, but victorious.

Dr. Graves' Body.

PUTNAM, Conn., Sept. 15.—The body of Dr. T. Thatcher Graves arrived at West Thompson last night and was placed in the receiving tomb. Arrangements for burial have not been completed and the body will probably remain in the tomb a few days.

Ammen Ram Rammed.

BATH, Me., Sept. 15.—The Ammen ram got a dose of her own medicine yesterday afternoon, when she was "rammed" by a schooner which was being docked. Two hawse were parted, a mooring staple ripped off and one of the propellers bent.

Prosperous Amherst.

AMHERST, Mass., Sept. 15.—Amherst college opened its 73d year with the largest freshman class and largest total enrollment in its history. The new men number over 100, and the total membership will be about 440.

The Spencer Fire.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 15.—The loss by fire at Spencer, by which several acres of the business portion of the town were wiped out, is now estimated at from $125,000 to $150,000. The insurance is about $80,000.

Killed by an Express.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 15.—Henry Quintmeyer, aged 12 years, was struck by an express at Seaview avenue, and instantly killed. He ran under the gates behind a freight.

Took Rough on Rats.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 15.—Ellen Lynch, a ring spinner, employed at the Troy mill, took "rough on rats" and died. She was 35 years of age and was not married.

Brief Mention.

The Universalist church at North Jay, Me., was dedicated.

The season for shooting grouse and woodcock has opened in Massachusetts. The New Haven Yacht club closed its social season with an elaborately planned ladies' day.

Framingham, Mass., made appropriations aggregating $2500 for extension of the sewer system.

Thomas Sullivan, who escaped from the East Hampton jail Tuesday, was recaptured at Holyoke, Mass.

The Everett woolen mills at Great Barrington, Mass., which closed Aug. 5, have partially resumed operations.

The Rhode Island Combing and Rubber company of Providence has made an assignment. Liabilities are $20,000.

A fixed sum is to be paid by the various cities and towns in Massachusetts for water basins outside their own limits.

Ellen Lynch, a spinner at Fall River, Mass., took "rough on rats" and died. She was 35 years of age and unmarried.

The Fletcher Manufacturing company's woolen yarn mill at Providence will start on full time Monday. The Gorham works may start on full time then also.

Dean academy, Franklin, Mass., opened the full term, with the usual number of boarding pupils and a greatly increased number of day pupils.

Charles Crossman and William Cash of Attleboro, Mass., came into collision on their bicycles. Both men were severely injured and both bicycles were smashed.

An Italian, Mass., was struck by a premature blast. A deep hole was blown in his head and his shoulder was shattered. He cannot live.

Governor Morris of Connecticut has made requisition on Governor Wicks of New Jersey for the surrender of Eli Carpenter and Annie Carpenter, who are wanted in Connecticut for burglary.

THE TARIFF ISSUE

Should Be Made a Strictly Business Question.

SOME CHANGES SUGGESTED.

Carnegie Tells How All Classes Might Be Benefited.

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Andrew Carnegie was at the Vendome last evening, and talked with a reporter about some of the questions that are being considered by the special session of congress. He had just come from the Profile House, and leaves Boston for the Berkshire hills. Among other things, he stated that he was a constant reader of the Boston newspapers.

Appropos of Edward Atkinson, he said that he liked his idea of paying pensions by certificates. Speaking of the silver situation, Mr. Carnegie said:

"I deplore the fact that the United States senate, one of the greatest legislative bodies in the world, has shown itself so unmindful of courtesy."

Mr. Carnegie had some pointed remarks to make on the tariff, which in time congress will doubtless reach.

Concerning Tariff Laws.

"I regret," he said, "that from one point of view any manufacturers appeared before the congressional committee. The country had been led to believe that manufacturers were 'robber barons.' I think the Democratic party should be allowed to arrange the duties on imports, so that the 'robber barons' may be saved from death."

"Would I have this done gradually? No. I prefer sudden death. The sooner reaction sets in the better. I am certain that the industrial interest of the capitalist and of the laborer would be best carried out by following the Chicago platform. While I believe the prosperity of the country depends on protecting manufacturers, still it is vastly more important that there should be no antagonism between labor and capital."

"The country has been led to believe that protection is robbery. I for one am not willing to reap any benefits from any species of robbery. If the tariff is robbery in the opinion of the American people, let it be abolished and labor and capital and all industries live together in peace, each satisfied with the other. Any economical advantages the country may derive from protection are dearly bought if one class is set against another."

"If there is one robber baron left at the end of the next session of congress it will not be possible for the Democratic party to put the blame on any one else. For this reason I regret to see manufacturers appearing before congress beseeching it to stay its revolutionary hand."

Beneficial Changes.

Mr. Carnegie thought some reductions could be made in the tariff. "The McKinley bill," he said, "reduced the duties upon the things in which I am interested 25 to 50 per cent. It abolished the sugar duty. If the tariff could be taken out of the domain of party and made a business question, large reductions could easily be made and in a manner that would conform to President Cleveland's letter: 'No American industry should be injured.'"

"What about the tin plate duty?" said the reporter.

"I am not interested in the manufacture of tin plate, but I think it is in the nature of a moral agreement between the American government and those who have embarked in the manufacture of it. Under the law they are given six years in which to make one-third of the tin plate imported; if they do not the duty lapses; if they do further legislation is necessary to change it. Some of the parties who have built new works in the United States came from Wales, relying on the law. It would be dishonorable for a great government to deceive these people, some of whom have already become citizens."

LIFE IN THE SUNNY SOUTH.

Poison In a Well Leads to Quite a Series of Lynchings.

ABERDEEN, Miss., Sept. 15.—Two weeks ago Thomas Woodruff and five children living near Quincy were taken violently ill and two children died. He and the others still linger with little hope of recovery. Examinations of the well on the premises disclosed three packages of "rough on rats" in it and suspicion pointed to a negro, Ben Jackson, who was arrested and taken by a crowd of unskilled men from the officers during the inquest and hanged.

The next day the jury examined Melale Jackson, Ben's wife, and Lon Carter, his mother-in-law, who testified to knowledge of Ben's intention to purchase poison for that purpose, but the jury discharged them. A crowd of armed men also took them out and hung them as participants in the conspiracy. They also testified that Ratus Boyles, a well known negro man of the neighborhood, had furnished the money to buy the poison, and after the first lynching he hid away and eluded discovery until yesterday. He was seen at Woodruff's, a few miles from the scene of the other tragedy, and now his dead body is hanging to a limb in that vicinity.

American Held as a Spy.

VIENNA, Sept. 15.—Edgar Mix, an American, was arrested at the railway station in Przemyśl, Austrian Galicia, as he was about to start for Odessa. He was suspected of being a Russian spy who had come to Galicia to observe the recent maneuvers. He has called upon the United States minister here to interfere in his behalf.

About Time.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—The Vienna correspondent of The Times says that Field Marshal Baron Meikl has ordered all corps commanders in the army to resort to the severest measures to suppress the brutal treatment of privates by officers.

Sold For a Thousand.

BUFFALO, Sept. 15.—Pitcher of the Buffalo club has been sold to the Cleveland club for $1000. He will join the Cleveland club next Monday.

THE JOINT special committee on taxation laws have a special notice of interest in today's issue. If you believe there should be changes they will give you a hearing.

NATIONAL GRANITE BANK. An important change in the bank hours at the National Granite Bank in this city will take place on and after Oct. 2. There will be but one session, from 8.30 A. M. to 3 P. M.

TAX COLLECTOR ADAMS has adopted a new plan of notifying taxpayers of the amount of their tax this year. Heretofore it has been necessary to make out a bill several times as the first copies were lost or "left at home." A postal will soon notify taxpayers of their assessment and their bill will be on file when they come to pay. It is unfortunate for the financial interests of the city that the bills are not out now as many would pay.

THE TAXES, or the substitute for taxes, which the city of Quincy must pay for land held in Braintree for water supply, is likely to be less than the Quincy Water Company was assessed. By a new law, passed by the last legislature, cities holding land for water purposes in neighboring towns must pay an amount of money equal to the tax rate per $1000 on the average for three years of the assessed valuation of the land, previous to the taking, to be determined by the assessors of the town in which land is held within one year, or previous to May 12, 1894. Whether the law applies to Quincy this year, we cannot say, as the property has but just come into possession of the city. The new law is in chapter 332.

PEOPLE who think that the valuation has increased too rapidly in this city should note that the Assessors of the new city of Medford have done. They have increased the valuation of that city the past year $3,633,405, which is over half a million dollars more than the increase in Quincy for three years, and is over a million dollars more than the increase in the first year of our city government.

Some of the wealthy land owners in Medford are complaining at this year's assessments, the increase in some cases amounting to a doubling of the assessment. On the other hand, it is said that some who are finding fault with the advances are justified, and that in years past there had been a discrimination in favor of the owners of valuable unimproved land.

Even with the above large increase in Medford, the tax rate is the same as in Quincy, and it is an increase rather than a decrease.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

STATE HOUSE, BOSTON, Sept. 13, 1893.

By vote of the Massachusetts Senate and House of Representatives of 1893 the following order was adopted:

Ordered—That a joint special committee, to consist of three members of the Senate and such members of the House as it may join, be appointed to sit during the recess of the Legislature to consolidate, arrange and revise the statutes of this Commonwealth relating to taxation.

Said committee shall collect under appropriate titles all acts and parts of acts relating to the same subject, and shall execute and complete such consolidation and arrangement in such manner as shall render such laws most concise, plain and intelligible. Said committee may omit redundant enactments, reject superfluous words and condense into concise and comprehensive a form as is consistent with a full and clear expression of the will of the Legislature all circuitous, tautologous and ambiguous phraseology; and said committee may in their report recommend such amendments of the law and such further enactments relative to taxation as may seem to them advisable, but shall embody such amendments and proposed new enactments in a separate portion of their report, so that the consolidation shall be complete in itself. The committee appointed by authority of the above order will give hearings to those interested in the subjects therein named. All who desire to be heard are hereby requested to immediately notify the clerk, at Room No. 10 State House, stating approximately the length of time they desire to occupy, to the end that the committee may make arrangements for hearings. A QUINCY YOUNG MAN

Selected as Principal at Somerville—His Successful Career.

The following notice of Mr. Samuel Alvah Johnson, taken from the Somerville Journal, will be read with interest by many in this city:

A successor to Gordon A. Southworth, as principal of the Prescott grammar school, was elected by the school committee Monday evening, in the person of Samuel A. Johnson of Everett.

Mr. Johnson was warmly recommended for the position by Superintendent Meloney, who is well acquainted with him, and has known of his standing as a teacher. After further investigation by the members of Ward 1 committee into the merits of Mr. Johnson, both as a teacher and a disciplinarian, and also into his social and mental attainments, his name was presented to the school board and he was unanimously elected.

Mr. Johnson was born in Quincy thirty-three years ago, and was educated in the public schools of that town, at Adams Academy, and at Harvard College. Before beginning to teach, he spent four months in the Quincy schools, observing and assisting. For six years Mr. Johnson was principal of the High-street grammar school, of Pawtucket, R. I., and for the following four years he had charge of the English department in the Haverford college grammar school, a preparatory school near Philadelphia. Since September, 1891, he has been principal of the Centre grammar school at Everett.

The new principal comes well recommended, though it is with the deepest regret that the Everett school authorities have been obliged to part with him. At the time, two or three years ago, when the Charles G. Pope school was opened, Mr. Johnson was a prominent candidate for the principalship, along with Mr. Wadsworth, and the choice lay between these two gentlemen. Mr. Johnson was not taken, because he was then situated where there was no opportunity of seeing his work. In the meeting of the school committee Monday evening Dr. Durell spoke of Mr. Johnson's former candidacy, and congratulated the members of the ward committee on their choice.

Mr. Johnson is a teacher of marked ability, and has been very successful in his management of the schools of which he has had charge. He is a married man and has a wife and one daughter. His salary will be $1800 a year.

The sketch was finely illustrated by a cut from a recent photograph which was an excellent likeness.

The Sailor Hat.

Delicate people say that our muscles and carriage betray our true nature even more than our faces. So do the clothes we wear, although few of us stop to think about it. For instance, there is something about a sailor hat which expresses the whole gamut of emotion. The inventive girl can give herself an infinite variety of moods by the way she affects it. It is all over the world feminine just now in all manner of style and quality. Every girl owns one. As Mark Twain said of the cross of the Legion of Honor, "few have escaped." But observe how differently it is worn. Straight upon the coiffure, with a black band, it is demure, businesslike and impressive. Tiptilted a mite over the ear, it is a trifle reckless and inviting. In pure white, with a cloud of veiling about it, it is flirtatious, fascinating and alluring. Pushed back of the forehead, it expresses hoydenishness and youthful exuberance, and in tarteau, with a bunch of violets at one side, it has a freaky, capricious air.

Yes, the modern sailor hat is an æolian harp on which the summer girl can play many tunes. It is a good thing to know just what to choose. There is a great deal in knowing how not to do it. —New York Herald.

Subjects of a Few Lectures by Women.

At the philological congress Miss Marie A. Moliniaux of Boston contributed a paper entitled "Twenty Years in Roman History." Mme. Schliemann, the widow of the great German archaeologist, gave an address on "Excavations at Troy." Mrs. Sara Y. Stevenson, the accomplished lecturer for the University of Pennsylvania and curator of the Egyptian section of that institution, lectured on "The Civilization of Egypt; Its Place in History." Miss Georgia Leonard of Washington furnished a paper on "The Domestic Life of Early Egyptians." Mrs. Helen Mary Tirard of London, who has been lecturing in the British museum, and who since the death of Miss Edwards is considered the greatest Egyptologist among women, gave a lecture on "The Social Status of Women in Ancient Egypt."

A German View of the Woman's Congress.

Almost the entire European press has been discussing the "woman's congress" held in Chicago and have either ridiculed its action or treated it as the harmless play of immature children. We are not surprised at this. All departures from established methods pass through four stages. First, their significance is underestimated, then mocked at as a folly, then opposed, and finally recognized as right. We here in Europe are now meeting bitter hostility. Therefore we have passed through the first and second stages, are now in the third, and may assure ourselves we are approaching victory. —Berlin Frauenrecht.

A Safeguard Against Breaking Down.

This is a season of the year when many people "break down," as the saying is. Feelings of irresistible languor overtake them. They are tired out all the time. They are feverish and sleepy and irritable, and finally their strength gives way, and they are prostrated with sickness. One of the best safeguards against this downward tendency is a plenty of sleep. And the sleep, in order that it may have its full effect as "tired nature's sweet restorer," should be taken at seasonable hours. It is an old adage that "one hour's sleep before midnight is worth two after it." —New York Ledger.

The Modish Bedroom.

The craze for chamber sets of white enamel is slightly declining. Young ladies' rooms and guests' rooms are still fitted up in white and gold and in creamy white. The rooms for more general use are furnished in natural woods, like birch, maple or oak. Of these the least expensive and most durable is natural oak. Birch is also durable wood, but maple, though a light, attractive wood, is not very durable. —Boston Courier.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Date of the Water Bonds Changed at a Special Meeting.

It took the City Council but six and one-half minutes to transact the business of the special meeting on Thursday evening.

The absentees were Councilmen Badger, Brown, Donahoe, Johnson, Owen and Robbins.

Mayor Fairbanks set forth clearly in a communication that it was desirable that the $500,000 water bonds be issued should bear a fixed date determined by the City Council, instead of the clause in the order adopted which read "on the date of issue." Counsel recommended that Aug. 1 be the date.

Councilman Moxon introduced an order authorizing the change.

Councilman Fiedler inquired why the date August 1 was selected rather than September 1 or October 1.

President Bass said it was at the request of the brokers.

The order was unanimously adopted on roll call, 16 voting in the affirmative.

The Council then adjourned.

MILTON.

East Milton people want an outward train from Boston evenings to leave about 10.30 o'clock. Such a train would be of great convenience to those who desire to attend concerts and lectures in Boston.

The pedestal is to be of dark Quincy granite, polished and carved. This is to be surmounted by a bronze statue, the sculptor of which was Mr. W. O. Partridge of Milton.

J. Wesley Martin is building a house on Bryant avenue.

There is a talk of forming a band at East Milton and subscriptions are being received to purchase the necessary instruments.

There is some good material to form such an organization with, and if enough money is raised East Milton will have a good band.

Mrs. Nathan Hunt, Deacon Charles Geddes and Mrs. Madison Cummings will attend the Boston South Baptist association meeting at Hingham next Wednesday as delegates.

James Monahan of Canton, for keeping liquor for sale, was fined $50.

James P. Gainer of Randolph, for assault and battery, was sentenced to the house of correction for two months.

James Dixon and Frank W. Thompson, two of the tramps captured at the "retreat" in Dedham a few Sundays ago, were each sentenced to the house of correction for four months for vagrancy.

Winchester Costello, who with John Farrell, was arraigned for breaking and entering at Wellesley, was found guilty and his counsel, Elisha Greenwood, filed a motion for a new trial, but it was overruled and Costello was sent to the house of correction for 18 months.

Leonard Spry, for breaking and entering at Hyde Park, got two years in the house of correction.

E. G. Cobb, Jr., pleaded guilty to cruelty to his horse and drunkenness in Canton, and paid a fine of $20.

Walter Wentworth pleaded guilty of larceny in a building in Hyde Park, and his case was continued till the December term for sentence.

THREAT FULFILLED.

Fleet of the Revolutionary Forces Opens Fire on Rio Janeiro.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Secretary Gresham received the following cable from Minister Thompson at Rio:

At 11 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning the revolutionary forces bombarded the forts commanding the entrance to the harbor also the arsenal situated in the center of the city. A few shells were fired into the city, and a woman was killed in her residence. Commercial telegrams have again been forbidden. The Charleston has not yet arrived.

The navy department received a cablegram reporting the arrival of the cruiser Charleston at Montevideo. The cruiser will proceed immediately to Rio de Janeiro to protect American interests.

The rebel warships, including the cruisers Aquidaban, Republica and Trajano, took up positions before the forts shortly before 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, and a little after that hour the signal for fire was set and promptly obeyed. The gun was fired from the flagship of the fleet, and its detonation had scarcely died away before the shot was answered from the fort at which it was directed.

The firing then became general, and the noise of the bombardment was deafening.

From all the advice at hand, however, it appears that little damage was done either to the forts or to the warships.

At about 3 p. m., or after the bombardment had lasted six hours, the signal "Cease firing" was displayed on the flagship, and the rebel fleet withdrew. There were a few casualties among the government troops. The loss to the rebels or the damage to the ships is unknown. Aside from the bombardment, the situation at Rio de Janeiro remains unchanged.

REGISTRATION A FARCE.

Cattlemen Send a Vigorous Protest to President Cleveland.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 15.—Secretary Hoke Smith has at last yielded to the pressure of public sentiment and authorized the officers in charge of the registration booths at any extent that is deemed necessary. At booth No. 9 more than 1000 women had their names recorded yesterday. They were principally school teachers, typewriters, clerks and servants.

The crowds are steadily on the increase, and yesterday's trains were even heavier than those of Wednesday. If 20 booths should be opened in this city and a force of 80 clerks employed, it would still be impossible to register all the home seekers. Cattlemen held a meeting yesterday afternoon and resolved to send the following telegram to Grover Cleveland:

We, the undersigned, cattlemen, thoroughly posted upon the condition of affairs here, protest against the registration system as carried on at booth No. 9. Seven thousand people are now in line, and thousands arrive on each train. A conflict between parties who are not registered and the troops is imminent, unless the system is reformed. The honor of your administration is being jeopardized. Common humanity demands relief for honest settlers desiring to enter the strip who cannot register. Immediate action is necessary. Registration is a farce.

The conduct of the soldiers at booth No. 9 is despicable. They appear to be in collusion with the clerks, and for a consideration of $2 a week will register anyone to the back door of the booth and secure his registration out of turn.

THE OHIO CAMPAIGN.

Candidate Neal Blames Sherman and McKinley For the Financial Troubles.

NEWARK, O., Sept. 15.—Hon. Lawrence T. Neal of Chillicothe, Democratic candidate for governor, addressed a large audience here. Among other things he said:

"We are now reaping the bitter harvest of Republican legislation. The Sherman silver law and the McKinley tariff law under the feeling of distrust and want of confidence which at this time pervades financial circles. These two acts alone are responsible for the prevailing stagnation in business and trade, the closing of our mines and factories and the general depression in agriculture, and a condition of prosperity can only be restored by us, as a people, by our adherence to the Democratic faith in the matter of both currency and tariff reform."

Mr. Neal strongly favored the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman silver law and gave the declaration of principles adopted by the Democratic state convention at Cincinnati his personal endorsement. Continuing, he said:

"The greatest foe to the prosperity of the people is McKinleyism. So long as the federal system of protective taxation is continued, we can have no general and permanent prosperity in this country. To regain such prosperity, we must apply the axe to the root of the evil with earnestness and vigor."

FORESTS ABLAZE.

Reported Destruction of Two Villages. Many Lives Lost.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 15.—Terrible forest fires are raging around Marshfield. A number of lives are reported to have been lost and 40 families homeless. Bridges have been burned and trains stopped. It is reported that the villages of McMillan and Spencer have been destroyed.

Ruth and Esther.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The White House baby will be known henceforth as "Esther." This old-fashioned name has been selected for the child by the president and Mrs. Cleveland. The selection of this name has no significance other than the partiality of the parents for scriptural denominations, and that it means "a star" and "good fortune."

Two Bad Men at Large.

RICHMOND, Sept. 15.—George Clark and Andrew F. Smith, two of the most noted criminals confined in the penitentiary, have escaped. In some manner they obtained a brace and bit and bored through the woodwork of the door, around the lock, and easily removed the catch.

Don't Want to Be Soldiers.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 15.—The International Coopers' union passed resolutions prohibiting its members from becoming members of military companies. Those already members of state companies are requested to withdraw as soon as possible.

A Thieving Cashier.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The Home bank has been robbed of $10,155 in bonds by its cashier, Howard L. Bain. Bain has confessed to the directors of the institution that he lost the money in speculation in Wall street. Bain has not been arrested.

Prairie Fire in Oklahoma.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 15.—A prairie fire is raging in the Pawnee reservation, burning everything before it. Scores of horses and cattle belonging to the Indians have perished, and the grass and tree foliage are all destroyed.

PRACTICAL AND ARTISTIC.

A Cleverly Arranged Dwelling That Costs but $2,500 to Build.

[Copyright, 1893, by American Press Association.]

Floor plans grow from the practical necessities of people who build. The architect is very seldom able to sit down and devise a plan from his inner consciousness which is in all respects suited to the requirements, or at least the demands, of people who live in it. The people who build houses go into an architect's office not knowing just how to carry out their ideas, but very frequently with clear thoughts as to what they want. The architect, if he is industrious and ingenious, is generally able from an expression of what is wanted to work out a practical plan. Oftentimes it will contain more than the owner expected in the way of little conveniences and accommodations at the same time that it takes into account all of the general demands.

This plan is of the kind mentioned. The owner and his wife had been thinking for a good while as to just the kind of a house they would build. They had been house-keeping in it before it was even on paper. It is not the kind of a plan an architect would develop from an ideal standpoint, yet it makes a very attractive and complete house.

There is a little front porch leading into a vestibule, in which latter there is abundance of room for a hatrack, umbrella stand and all that belongs to a vestibule. From there one goes into the reception hall, which, in fact, has all the qualities of a room. There is removed from it most that is objectionable to a reception hall. The stairs are a little outside of it and does not monopolize the room. The hatrack is in the vestibule, and hence there is nothing in the reception hall which would prevent its use as a living room. Back of the hall and a little out of the way is a small passage to the dining room. In it is a washstand. While this washstand might be placed in a better position—say on the other side of the arch—the idea is yet not a bad one.

From the reception room one may pass to the second floor, the sitting room and the dining room, and from the dining room through the pantry to the kitchen. The pantry is provided with double swing doors and has the ordinary kitchen pantry cupboard and also a china cupboard. In the former the architect has arranged a flour bin and inclosed shelves in the lower section of the cupboard and open shelves above. In the china cupboard there are inclosed shelving in the lower section and shelving with glass doors above. These provide for a pretty display of china and are altogether very attractive.

The kitchen is of that character which usually accompanies these plans. It is provided with ample table, sink and drain board in close proximity to the entrance to the pantry and conveniently arranged with respect to the range. The passageway to the cellar is adjacent thereto, and hence there can be no waste labor in connection with the natural work of a kitchen. There is some shelving at the head of the cellar stairs. This never comes amiss. There is also an arrangement of tables and shelving in the triangular corner of the pantry.

Altogether this is a very compact first floor plan. The rooms are all brought together in a way to facilitate the manifold operations of housekeeping.

The second floor is if anything better arranged than the first. There is a short, centrally located hall, which communicates with all the rooms and passages. It meets all of the conditions of a proper means of radiation. It is central and properly connected.

Each room is heated from the front. The back stairway has its hall cut off from the main hallway.

Such a house without mantels, gas fixtures, furnace, fences or water plumbing could be built for $2,500.

LOUIS H. GRISON.

Points to Consider.

Sometimes by the judicious expenditure of a few hundred dollars in the cost of the construction of a building its real value will be increased many fold, and the property will always find a ready sale, in case the owner wishes to dispose of it, or secure a tenant who will pay a fair percentage upon the investment, while money expended in absurd and meaningless ornamentation will neither sell nor rent a building at a profit to the owner.

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Has voted an emphatic majority for the repeal of the Sherman Act, but the people of Quincy have decided by a much greater majority that

Hearn's New Drug Store

is the gem in its line in the city.

What a pretty store! How beautiful! How well laid out! Does it not light up beautifully at night? and other like expressions voice their verdict.

I thank you all for your kind words of praise, and feel grateful that my efforts to add an attraction to the city have been appreciated.

I am adding every day to my stock and will not stop until I am satisfied that I have a drug store that will compare favorably with any retail store in the state in my line.

I am giving my personal attention to the store, and can assure the people of Quincy that any prescription coming into my store will be filled with the utmost care and accuracy. I have had 14 years' experience in the business, almost five of which I have been in business for myself in West Quincy.

I feel gratified at the confidence imposed in me, judging by the share of patronage I have received thus far, and hope to merit more by strict attention to business and courtesy to all.

Experiments point to a time when we shall not only feel the vibrations of the electric current, but actually see them. Electric action, like light, is caused by the vibrations of an ether, and the length of the vibratory waves can be measured. The rapid rotation or vibration of a magnet produces electro-magnetic waves that have an effect at a great distance. The faster the vibration or rotation of the magnet the shorter the waves, and the shorter the waves the more intense and palpable to the senses they become. Electromagnetic waves have already been produced that are only a foot in length. Light waves that make an effect on the eye are one fifty-thousandth of an inch long. When scientists can produce an electromagnetic wave as short as that, then we shall see these waves. It is certain that this will be done.

We are going to make the most of our World's fair while we have it. The proposition now is to turn it into something like a traveling circus, and after it closes in Chicago reopen it in San Francisco under the name of the California Midwinter International exposition. To that end the United States senate passed the bill permitting European workmen and dutiable goods to be transferred from Chicago to the Pacific coast city.

The United States is the center of interest to the world financially now. Our action in regard to the silver question will be taken either as precedent or an awful example, according as it works well or ill. And whatever action we take nobody can tell beforehand how it will work. That makes the question of yet more absorbing interest.

In view of the new inventions and discoveries, splendid advances in civilization, altruism, decency and refinement which will gradually better the human race and its condition in the next century, one might well be glad to live till 1993 so as to see it all.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 15.—Killed was too much for the champions, while Nichols was hit at the right time by the home team. Bierbauer's throw to the plate from center, catching Duffy, who was trying to stretch a triple into a home run, was the feature.

A REMONSTRANCE

Against the Interception of Mail Intended For Pensioners.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15.—Under an order of the postmaster general the 3300 pensioners here were required to appear in person at the postoffice to receive their checks for the last quarter's pension. The order is very distasteful to the pensioners and they have signed petitions asking that it be revoked.

The petition recites that the pensioners have been subjected to "gross indignation," made to wait in the postoffice corridors for two days, ordered around by watchmen, compelled to breathe bad air, kept standing in line for fear of losing their places and finally put under charge of policemen.

As American citizens, it is claimed, the pensioners have the right to have their mail delivered to any address they wish, and they deny that the pension department has a right to intercept their mail and prevent it being delivered to the proper address.

The petition will be taken to Washington, together with the remonstrances of the pension attorneys. This remonstrance declares that the interception of mail by the postoffice employees at Baltimore was illegal, and it quotes the revised statutes to support this proposition.

TWO VIEWS OF IT.

Argument of a Democratic Senator Against Repeal

OFFSET BY PLAIN FACTS.

Partisan Fight Begun on the Federal Election Bill.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—One of the most pronounced Democratic silver advocates in the senate, and who held the same position in 1883, points to the fact that before the first inauguration of Mr. Cleveland he attempted to secure the suspension of silver coinage under the Bland act, and informed his party friends in congress to that effect.

He contended that unless the purchase and coinage of silver was stopped the country would be thrown into a panic and a general prostration of business would follow. The Democratic party, this senator said, refused to carry out his wishes.

Over eight years have elapsed, and 2,000,000 ounces of silver per month was coined for seven years. The purchases meanwhile were raised to 4,500,000 ounces, and still none of the disasters as foreshadowed occurred either in the Cleveland or Harrison administrations, and the troubles of the past few months are showing signs of recuperation. The senator and his friends, therefore, reiterated that other causes than the purchase of silver helped to produce the business and financial troubles through which the country is now passing.

Repealers Have the Best of It.
The logic of the situation, however, is regarded as with the anti-silver movement, as it has guaranteed the repeal of silver purchases, and since which the country has been again fast getting on its feet. The advice received here from all parts of the country show that there is not only a solid restoration of business, but the banks are again discounting and paying currency out to their customers. The large manufacturing establishments are also getting accommodations from the banks to facilitate their business.

The administration senators point to this fact as conclusive evidence that their efforts are having a beneficial effect, in anticipating the passage of the bill in the senate. They therefore do not intend to relax their efforts, but will adopt a line of tactics next week which will force the silver advocates to show their hand. It is proposed after this week's debate to hold night sessions. This course will be resisted by the silver senators. If the administration managers are successful and the proposition for night sessions is adopted, the silverites have a plan in view which they think will frustrate this move.

The great event of yesterday's session of the senate was the delivery of a speech by Mr. Daniel (Dem., Va.) against the passage of the repeal bill. It occupied four hours and five minutes and was listened to throughout with an interest which did not seem to diminish from exordium to peroration. No other senator desired to speak after Mr. Daniel, and the senate adjourned.

A Battle Royal.
The first skirmish over the federal election repeal bill took place in the house, and although the casualties were few, it was manifested that both sides were in earnest and that the regular battle will be a severe one. The Republicans opened their batteries by declining to allow the "casus belli" to be even reported to the house. Under the generalship of Mr. Burrows the Republicans resorted to filibustering tactics, and for the day had the best of the skirmish, as they prevented the reporting of the measure, and the house adjourned without action.

But before this was done the Democrats adopted a resolution revoking all leaves of absence except those granted on account of sickness. Over this resolution there was a very brief but very spicy discussion, in the course of which Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., O.) intimated that if the bill were called up at the present time the Wilson bill, when it returned from the senate, might not receive the Republican assistance it formerly did, and Mr. McMillin (Dem., Tenn.) vigorously declared that the federal election bill would be reported if it took the whole congress to do so.

In short, in the brief debate there were indications that the approaching debate would be a warm partisan dispute.

Operator to Blame.
ALBANY, Sept. 15.—The state board of railroad commissioners, in the matter of the collision at Berlin on Aug. 26, which resulted in the death of six persons and the injury of 16 others, finds that E. J. Knott, operator of block tower No. 6, was the primary cause of the accident, and that James McCormack, the rear brakeman of the Manhattan Beach train, contributed to the accident.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The United States minister in Costa Rica announces the capture in San Jose of Francis H. Weeks, the embezzler of over $1,386,000, and assures the United States that the authorities will surrender the fugitive in response to the request of the Washington authorities for Weeks.

How's this for American thrift?—A parlor lamp complete, with decorated porcelain shade and base, $1.00. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

—The army worm has cost this country more than the Revolutionary war.

We heard of a lady complaining to a neighbor. Her new stove didn't burn half the coal her old one did, and baked with wonderful rapidity. The stove was a Glenwood and she purchased it from Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

Seems almost like a sailor's yarn, to think of buying a pair of Lace Draperies for 50 cents. Yes, others at any price. Drapery Poles complete, 22 cents. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

IN THE BOX THERE IS $25.00 IN GOLD.

Drake & Co., with genuine skill,
Their beautiful store and window fill;
With shoes made from foreign and domestic stock,
Now all the other shoe stores knock.

Their poorest shoe keeps the grip,
Made from 'Grain,' 'French' calf or kip;
Their 'Seal Goat' shoe for winter wear,
Is sure of a prize at the World's Fair.

Their 'Russet' shoe the ladies admire,
Their 'Patent Calf' shoe the gents like to wear,
No blacking, no brushes, the work is done,
They shine on the feet like the rising sun.

Stop under the glare of the electric light,
You'll see for yourselves what I say is right;
The handsomest shoe in the city is there,
The company warrant every pair.

With every purchase you get a key,
To try the lock of their box treasury;
For Knights of Labor there is yet tenfold,
In the box there is twenty-five dollars in gold.

AN ELUSIVE THIEF

For Whom Police of Many Places Are Searching.

HAS NETTED A SNUG SUM

By Hiring Horses and Then Trading Them Off.

WALTHAM, Mass., Sept. 16.—Inspector McKenna of this city and Officer Conroy of Watertown visited the gypsy camp in that town yesterday afternoon and recovered a gray horse, which was stolen from Stablekeeper Fairbanks of Shirley by Thomas Coleman, alias John Murphy, about two weeks ago.

Coleman has been doing an extensive business in the horse stealing line and he is wanted in several cities. He was first heard from in Natick, N. H., where he hired a team and then drove to Carlisle, where he traded the outfit for a cow, a watch, a lot of hens, and he was also to receive $5 in money.

He was next heard of in Shirley, where he hired a team from Mr. Fairbanks to go fishing. He drove from Shirley back to Carlisle for the $5 due him on the first trade he made. When he called at the place where he made the trade he was informed that the officers had been there and took the team away, and he stopped to hear no more, but quickly left.

Further Operations.
From Carlisle he drove to Newton, where he traded the Shirley team with a Frenchman. From Newton he went to Malden, where he hired a team at a local stable, and immediately drove back to Newton and traded again with the Frenchman, giving him the Malden horse for the one he stole from Shirley.

Coleman then came to Waltham and put his team up in Kirwin's stable, where it remained from Saturday afternoon until Monday morning, when he called, paid his bill, and started off. This was Labor day, and he drove to Lincoln, where he put up at the house of a farmer named Kennedy. He remained in Lincoln until Wednesday of this week, when he left for Maynard.

At the latter place he hired a team from Samuel King, a stable keeper, and started off, leading the Shirley horse behind the Maynard outfit. From Maynard he drove toward Boston.

Wanted a Dog.
On the road to the latter city he came across the gypsy camp, where he traded the Shirley horse for a dog and some money. He then drove to Somerville and called at Bartlett's stable, where he swapped King's buggy for a road cart.

Coleman then drove to Cambridge, where he put the outfit up at Buxton's stable. After the horse was unhitched Coleman took the harness and left, saying he was going to Boston after another horse, since which time he has not been heard from.

The police have been on Coleman's track for over three weeks, but thus far they have not succeeded in overhauling him.

Coleman is described as a young man about 26 years of age, 5 ft. 10 in. in height, sandy complexion, with red moustache, and weighs about 170 pounds. He is a good talker, and his last sentence that would be taken for a horse thief.

The total amount of his stealings will reach $2000, a part of which has been recovered.

TO BEGIN LIFE ANEW.

William Hazard Leaves Massachusetts State Prison on Parole.

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—On the recommendation of Warden Bridges, through the action of the prison commissioners, the governor and the executive council, William F. Hazard, an habitual criminal, who has served five years of a 25-year sentence, was today released from the state prison on parole.

This is the first instance of the kind in the state prison history. Hazard has been a model prisoner, and Warden Bridges made his parole conditional on his good behavior. He will be followed by the other 25 confined habitual criminals, who may be rewarded in the same way.

The conditions on which the parole is granted are, first, that he shall not hereafter lead an idle and dissolute life; second, that he shall not visit any barroom, gambling house or house of ill fame, or associate with persons of bad character; third, that he shall not violate any laws of the Commonwealth, but shall hereafter lead an upright, industrious and law-abiding life.

Hazard says he will go to his home in Vermont to spend the winter, and after that will begin life anew in the west.

A CONDUCTOR'S DISCOVERY

Led Him to Seek a Reward, but He Hasn't Got It Yet.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Sept. 16.—Fred Bryant, a railroad conductor, recently overheard a conversation between a well-known Haverhill business man and a ruffianly looking fellow, during which the business man begged the other to stop the manufacture of moonshine whiskey, as he had already disgraced the family name enough. The conductor started an investigation in hopes that he might capture a reward, but failing, he notified United States Revenue Officer Stevens of this city.

Under the latter's direction he has secured evidence that the local barrooms of the cheaper class are ready purchasers of the whiskey, which is brought to this city in the night time and emptied into casks of liquor on which duty is paid. Bryant engaged a detective to watch the byroads, and last night the man started to follow a team loaded with heavy casks, when the vehicle stopped and three men attacked him. He was picked up later unconscious by a passing team.

BRUTAL TREATMENT

Of a Little Fellow Employed in an Attleboro Mill.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Sept. 16.—A case of cruelty where an overseer in a mill in this town has acted the part of a slave driver has been reported to the authorities. Temis Brothers, 16 years old, employed in the cotton mill at Hebronville as general utility man, was set at work to remove some boxes from the carding room.

The little fellow was somewhat weak, and he did not hurry as fast as Peter Miller, the overseer, thought he should.

Miller, becoming enraged at the seeming slow work of the boy, grabbed Brothers and threw him to the floor. Miller then began to kick the little fellow. Brothers cried out in agony. His clothing was torn nearly off, and his arm severely injured.

The matter has been reported to the police. It is stated that Superintendent MacWhinnie has suspended Miller, pending an investigation. Miller is a new overseer, having only been employed by the Hebronville mills a short time.

Dust to Dust.

NORTH EASTON, Mass., Sept. 16.—The funeral of Fred L. Ames was held in the Unity church, here, at noon today. The service was conducted by the Rev. W. L. Chaffin, pastor of that church, and the Rev. Stopford Brooke of the First Church of Christ in Boston, of which Mr. Ames was an attendant. A new grave was dug on Thursday in the beautiful lot of the Ames family in the little cemetery of North Easton, that is situated just in the rear of the Unitarian church.

Auburn Shoemakers Ordered Out.

AUBURN, Me., Sept. 16.—The International Shoe Workers' union, which embraces all unions except the lasters, has ordered out its members in the seven shops of the Manufacturers' association of Auburn, to remain out until the present troubles are settled. The firms offer to make individual contracts, but declare they will receive no help on any other condition. The union men say that such action is a blow at their union, and refuse to make individual contracts.

A Bold Assault.

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—John Wall, a wealthy citizen of Charlestown, was decieved by a man who came into a vacant house at 40 Monument avenue yesterday afternoon, while on his way home from a bank, and murderously assaulted. The weapon was a slungshot. His assailant is unknown. Mr. Wall received eight bad scalp wounds, but last night he was resting comfortably at his home, and no serious results are anticipated by his physicians.

Removed From Office.

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Henry A. Thomas, who has held the position of superintendent of mails in Boston since April 25, 1889, received word from the department at Washington yesterday afternoon that he had been removed, to take effect Monday next. Joseph O'Keefe, a clerk in the railway mail service, has received the appointment, and will assume the duties of the office tomorrow.

Fell Across a Trolley Wire.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 16.—Prince Leo, an aeronaut, met with a serious accident at Savin Rock yesterday afternoon. He ascended 100 yards in view of about 1000 spectators, when an accident happened to his balloon which caused the gas to escape. The balloon landed in a treetop, and Leo was thrown out, falling across a live trolley wire. He was taken down insensible and badly cut.

Object to a Reduction.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 16.—The loom fixers employed at the Washington mills refused to go to work yesterday when the mill started up after the shutdown. Under the new schedule of wages the men claim that their pay will be reduced about $1.70 per week. If they do not return to work their places will be filled by others. The former wages of the loom fixers were $13.50 per week.

Railways to Consolidate.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Sept. 16.—Measures are being taken for the consolidation of the Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill and Haverhill, Merrimack and Amesbury street railways. It has been found that a consolidation is the best means of securing better and more satisfactory service.

Two Cars Collide.

AMESBURY, Mass., Sept. 16.—Two cars on the Haverhill, Amesbury and Merrimack railroad crashed together near a turnout between Merrimack and Amesbury. Both cars were badly damaged, but no one was seriously injured, although several people were badly bruised.

Rain Spoiled It.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Sept. 16.—The Berkshire agricultural fair closed in dismal style, a heavy rain beginning at noon, causing the abandonment of the afternoon program. The only events were bicycle races of local interest.

After Four Months of Idleness.

DANVERS, Mass., Sept. 16.—The Tomkins rolling mills are to start up the first of next month, after an idleness of four months. There are 25 men employed here turning out rolled iron for spikes.

Made 16.42 Knots.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 16.—In the trial of the gunboat Casco, when properly computed will be certainly not less than 15.34 knots.

Brief Mention.

Lawrence, Mass., had its first snowstorm of the season.

Green goods operators are working Gloucester, Mass.

General Paine's yacht Jubilee has gone out of commission.

Rev. Richard Morgan of Ludlow, Vt., was killed by a car accident.

The Rodman mills of Wakefield, R. I., will start up Monday after a shut down of a week.

The Maplewood hotel and a schoolhouse at Randolph Centre, Vt., were burned. Loss about $42,000.

John P. Jackson of Medford, Mass., had a tussle with a burglar. The latter secured a pocketbook containing several hundred dollars.

Here's a generous tip—Inspect the Kincaide line of furniture. Prices mighty low.

COURAGE RETURNING

Much Brighter Reports From the Industrial Centers.

MONEY MARKET IS EASIER.

Cotton Figures Prominently in the Week's Business.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Returns from every part of the country show a decided improvement. Hopeful feeling prevails, money grows abundant at speculative centers, and somewhat easier for commercial purposes. Weekly failures have declined about half in number, and more than half in amount of liabilities.

The number of establishments reported as resuming work, 31 wholly and 26 in part, still exceeds the number closing, 33, for the past week, besides 10 reducing force, so that the hands employed have somewhat increased. The number unemployed is still very large, the great industries are still far below their normal productiveness and part of the resumption of work has been secured by lowering prices and reducing wages. But business is pulling itself together, and even the crop report has caused little depression in stocks.

The government report last Saturday was the most dismal for many years. Western receipts of wheat for the past week were only 5,361,273 bushels against 7,717,168 last year, and Atlantic exports only 1,701,654 against 1,836,748 last year.

The Cotton Mills.

The government report also indicated a large decrease in the yield of cotton. The price rose an eighth, helped by the resumption of work in many cotton mills. The industrial improvement is largely in cotton. About two-thirds of the Fall River mills are operating, but at a reduction of 10 to 13 per cent in wages, and there has been a sharp cut in prices of some leading cotton goods.

Of the establishments resuming 11 were in this manufacture and five in knit goods. Of the woolen mills 10 stopped wholly and six in part, while three woolen and two carpet mills resumed. Heavy purchases of wool began at the end of last week, in part apparently speculative, and at the three chief markets the total for the week was the highest since May 1, though only 4,556,300 pounds, against 8,812,000 for the same week last year.

Several shoe factories have started in part, but orders are said to be not enough to keep half the force busy, though distinct improvement is noticed. Shipments from Boston for the week show a decrease of 40 per cent. Several glass, pottery, hardware and silk establishments have resumed, with a number making iron specialties, though not many with full force. Expectation of large foreign investments is not yet realized, and exchanges have declined toward the gold exporting point, as future exports of products are liable to be restricted by the shortness of crops and the advance in prices here.

Exports last week were large, and for two weeks have been 30 per cent more than last year. While a decrease of $7,500,000 appears in imports for two weeks, it is largely due to the fact that the values of coffee and sugar from Brazil were stated last year in paper worth about 40 cents on $1.

The failures reported this week have been in the United States only 314, against $21 for the previous week and 154 last year, and in Canada 27 against 28 last year.

SPAIN'S FLOODS.

Victims Were Mostly Dwellers in Caves. Sixty Bodies Recovered.

MADRID, Sept. 16.—A dispatch from Villa Canas says that 90 dead bodies have been recovered. Many more are believed to be hidden by wreckage or to have been washed away from the town. Many of the deaths were caused by the flooding of the cave dwellings on the outskirts of the town. These dwellings are holes, dug into the hillside almost on a level with the plain.

They are occupied by the poorest families. The lower caves were filled at the first rising of the flood and the occupants were drowned before they had time for any effort to escape. Other caves were but half filled and the families in them still await rescue.

The entrances to many caves have been blocked by falling earth. The authorities of Madrid and Toledo have sent companies of sappers and miners to rescue the families thus imprisoned. Pumps from this city will reach the town tomorrow. Food has been collected hastily and is being carried to the sufferers.

Prepared For Trouble.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 16.—A scout came in from Hollister ranch and notified all the banks that the remnants of the Dalton-Starr gang were in camp about 70 miles south. He said that it was the intention of the gang to raid the banks here today after the people had left town for the border. None of the banks will open until Monday, and in each bank a guard of several men are armed with Winchester.

Patrick Brannely's Find.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 16.—Patrick Brannely, while loading lumber in John Kollock's scaffolding yard, discovered a small linen bag containing 39 bombs. It is thought that the bombs were hidden in the yard by the anarchists who were discovered in Maspeth, L. I., about six weeks ago.

Women Missionaries Meet.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Two hundred and fifty women from all parts of the United States met in the Central Christian church and opened the 19th annual convention of the Christian Woman's board of missions.

THE QUINCY & Boston street railway must look after its interests in Weymouth as the Rockland & Abington street railway has voted to extend its line to South Weymouth, and may go to East Weymouth. After all the connection with Brockton may come first by the way of Weymouth. A round trip will be a possibility in a few years, going via Quincy Point, the Weymouth's, Rockland and Abington, and returning via Avon, Randolph, Holbrook and Braintree.

FREE RIDE TOMORROW.

The Ledger to Give Its Readers a Car Ride to Houghs Neck.

An extra large edition of the DAILY LEDGER is issued today—between 2000 and 3000 copies—and the publishers propose that all who wish may ride free to Houghs Neck on Sunday, and they have also secured a 20 per cent. discount on shore dinners. Two cents, therefore, expended for a DAILY LEDGER will secure quite a little outing, and we hope everyone will improve it. We don't agree to bring you back free, but you will hardly expect more than 22 cents worth of enjoyment for an outlay of two cents. You will doubtless be glad of the opportunity to take your family and friends at half price. We shall endeavor to supply the demand for papers, but the large edition may be exhausted early this evening, so it would be well to secure as many coupons today as you will want.

BRAINTREE ELECTRICS.

Connections Soon to be Made with Brockton and with Quincy.

During the past week the ties for this road on the line from South Braintree village to the Railroad bridge have been delivered by the Braintree Lumber company.

Mr. Joseph Long, who has the contract for the grading and the laying of the tracks, will commence work with a large gang of men on Monday, and it is said he will have the road finished to Holbrook by the first of October. Work will then be commenced from South Braintree to the Quincy line.

On Wednesday the Directors of the road with the Selectmen went over a portion of the line, establishing points where certain widenings must be done. Plans were submitted by the manager of the American Improvement R. R. Co. The proposed widening near the Railroad bridge will leave the streets in much better condition for travel than now, and will really be a great public improvement. The location of the power house has not yet been determined, but it is said a very favorable proposition has been made by the Quincy R. R. Co. to furnish power, and that company also agrees to build its line, so as to connect with the road of the Braintree company.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary Monday afternoon was one of the largest attended in the history of the auxiliary. Mrs. O. C. Colton conducted a short Bible reading on the subject, "God as Our Mother." Committees were appointed to arrange for a China reception to be held the latter part of the month, and also to prepare refreshments for the first session of the Young Men's Congress, Oct. 3.

The monthly meeting of the board of directors was held Tuesday night. Considerable business, looking principally toward the work for the new year, was transacted. The rooms will be put in thorough order for what promises to be the busiest year in the Association's history.

The regular gymnasium classes for young men, boys and business men will commence the first week in October under the direction of Dr. M. R. Johnson, who did such efficient work last year. The Star course of entertainments will be omitted this year, but instead a course of interesting entertainments for members will be given in the association rooms. There will also be a series of practical educational and business talks by prominent men. There will be receptions to members, Young Men's Congress, committeemen, business men, stone cutters, Scotch young men and Swedish young men. It is hoped that arrangements can be made to have some interesting events in the rooms every Thursday evening from October 1st to April 1st. Mr. John M. Dick, the young evangelist, has been secured for a series of meetings during the week of prayer for young men, commencing November 12.

A class in mechanical drawing will be started if a sufficient number will register and deposit one dollar as a guarantee that they will enter the class. Full particulars can be secured by calling on the General Secretary.

The Gain in Houses.

Thirteen years ago there were but 17534 houses in Quincy. Today the number has nearly doubled, the total being 33364. The gain in the five years of the city was very large, 883. There are nearly twice as many houses as thirteen years ago, but very few more cows, as will be seen by the summary below:

Years.	Houses.	Horses.	Cows.
1880	17534	752	603
1881	17777	707	562

Five Years' Gain.

One gratifying exhibit of the summary below is the fact that the property taxpayers have increased much more rapidly than those who pay a poll only.

The increase in the value of building is easily accounted for, as 883 new houses have been built at an average value of from $2,300 to $2,400. The value of land has doubled in five years and is not fictitious. Much land has been opened up, improved and built upon, and the march of public improvements has been rapid. Scarcely any land is now taxed up to its market value, as might be shown by quoting figures. It is also a fact that the assessors of 1893 have found 153 more acres to assess than did the Assessors of 1888 which of course increases the total value.

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Has voted an emphatic majority for the repeal of the Sherman Act, but the people of Quincy have decided by a much greater majority that

Hearn's New Drug Store

is the gem in its line in the city.

What a pretty store! How beautiful! How well laid out! Does it not light up beautifully at night? and other like expressions voice their verdict.

I thank you all for your kind words of praise, and feel grateful that my efforts to add an attraction to the city have been appreciated.

I am adding every day to my stock and will not stop until I am satisfied that I have a drug store that will compare favorably with any retail store in the state in my line.

I am giving my personal attention to the store, and can assure the people of Quincy that any prescription coming into my store will be filled with the utmost care and accuracy. I have had 14 years' experience in the business, almost five of which I have been in business for myself in West Quincy.

I feel gratified at the confidence imposed in me, judging by the share of patronage I have received thus far, and hope to merit more by strict attention to business and courtesy to all.

LOST AGAIN.

Champions Failed to Support Their Pitcher in Proper Shape.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 16.—The home team hit Stivets for four earned runs in the first inning. After this the big pitcher was very effective, but his support was miserably. Gumbert kept his hits scattered and was given fine support. Elmer Smith's hitting and difficult catch of a hard hit ball to deep center was a feature. Umpire Emons was hit on the head by a swift foul tip that sent him to his knees, but he quickly recovered.

Trainers Arrived.
LOUISVILLE, Sept. 16.—Trainers on the Pennsylvania road, especially on the division running out of Chicago, are now said to be walking arsenals, and are prepared to stand off an army of Daltons and other train robbers. The report reached the city that the company had ordered all its trainmen to arm themselves in order to be able to protect the company's property.

A Rape Victim's End.
RICHMOND, Sept. 16.—Jesse Mitchell, colored, had been convicted twice before on a white child, 12 years old, but had gotten new trials on technicalities. The third trial was to have taken place yesterday. A mob broke open the jail at Amelia and took Mitchell out and swung him to a tree and quietly dispersed.

Disturber to Be Removed.
LONDON, Sept. 16.—In a dispatch concerning Samoa and the powers, the Berlin correspondent of The Times says: England, America and Germany have decided to transport Mataafa to the Marshall Islands, where he can be more easily controlled. He will be taken there on a German man-of-war.

Vermont's Day at the World's Fair.
CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Vermont took her turn yesterday in the whirlwind of state celebrations at the World's Fair. There was no parade, no military, and not even an official delegation from the state. Governor Fuller was unavoidably detained, and none of the commissioners put in an appearance.

Lynn Lads Missing.
LYNN, Mass., Sept. 16.—Courtland W. Lydston, 17 years of age, and Henry Spiny, who is 16 years of age, have been missing since Wednesday. They started out together to take in the Pawnee Bill Wild West show, and it is presumed that they are following it.

A Skeleton of Its Former Self.
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 16.—Out of 64 iron and steel mills in the Pittsburgh district 30 or more are being operated on a non-union basis. Five years ago more than a majority of the mills were working under the Amalgamated association rules.

WHEN WILL IT STOP?

Another Mississippi Mob Takes the Law In Its Own Hands.

COLUMBUS, Miss., Sept. 16.—H. T. Archer, Will Archer, Polk Hill, Ed Guyson and Ellen Fantal, all negroes, and the latter a woman, prisoners confined in the jail at Carrollton, Pickens county, Ala., were shot to death by a mob of masked men. During the present week the mill and ginhouse of J. R. Woods was burned. The negroes were arrested and confined in the Carrollton jail. The preliminary investigation was in progress, but had not been concluded.

On Thursday night the sheriff was called on in his room in the jail building, and told that parties had a prisoner whom they had arrested and wanted to turn over to him. The sheriff came down from his room and unlocked the jail door. He found himself in the hands of a disguised mob, who demanded of him the keys to the cell where the prisoners were confined. This request was urged upon the sheriff by the glistening barrels of 100 Winchester.

After the officer was overpowered, the mob quickly made their way to the cells of the prisoners, and through the iron bars the barrels of the Winchesters were placed, and from every muzzle came a dozen bullets. In a second's time five human beings had been quietly butchered and their quivering bodies lay in blood which ran in streams across the floor. The mob then quietly dispersed.

MISSING GOLD.

It Was Mysteriously Taken From the Philadelphia Mint.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—Director of the Mint Preston and Mr. Morgan, representing the mint bureau, are weighing the gold in the suspected vault, from which gold valued at $105,000 is missing. The discovery of the shortage was made Thursday by Director Preston of the treasury department at Washington, who came here to weigh the gold bullion in one of the reserve vaults. A searching investigation is being made by Superintendent Bosbyshell and the government officials.

Upon preferring a request for the presence of a treasury official when the vault should be opened, Director Preston reminded Colonel Bosbyshell that he had raised no question touching the contents of the vault and will be held responsible. The seals clearly show that the doors of the vaults have not been opened since they were closed on the bullion in 1887, and if there has been an abstraction a felonious entrance must have been made through one of the walls of the vault, which are 18 inches thick.

The mint was robbed of $1900 in silver in 1873, which was afterwards recovered in New York. The superintendent of the mint here is under bond of $500,000, and some of the wealthiest men of the city are on it. A thorough examination is being made to fix the guilt.

A SCARCITY OF WATER

Will Cause Cherokee Settlers to Be Considerably Out of Pocket.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 16.—Everything that had life along the border of the Cherokee outlet is moving. Final preparations for the biggest race in the history of the world is being made and would-be starters are scrambling for a chance to make their entries. The opening of the booths here has attracted many women and old men who had determined not to register at all rather than undergo the hardships at the border line. Many of those at the border who were near the foot of the long lines abandoned their places there and came into the city to register.

Home seekers appeared to have awakened to a realization of the necessity for carrying a supply of water with them into the new country, and all sorts of vessels are in demand for carrying it. The stock of canteens in long lines have been exhausted, and tinners are busy soldering tops on ordinary tin wash basins, which are being sold readily at $1 each.

A large number of water wagons have been rigged up and they will move into the streets as rapidly as possible to supply water to claim makers. They expect to dispose of it at a dollar a bucket.

MASONRY DENOUNCED

At the Funeral Services Over General De Mirabel's Remains.

PARIS, Sept. 16.—Bishop Fava of Grenoble delivered a remarkable oration at General De Mirabel's funeral. He denounced English Free Masons unmeasurably, because, he said, they had pushed France into the Crimean war in order that she might exhaust her gold treasure in needless combat. The French Free Masons, added the bishop, were not less blameworthy. They had incited French statesmen to take sides against Catholic Austria in order that the unification of Italy might be accomplished. The result of this deplorable and unrighteous policy was that united Italy had now turned on France and was menacing the Alpine frontier. Italy's new strength, moreover, was being utilized at home to resist the temporal power of the pope.

Is Now a Knight.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The Gazette contains a notification from the queen. She has been pleased to confer upon Hon. Charles N. Tupper, Canadian minister of marine, the dignity of knighthood in recognition of his services in connection with the Behring sea dispute between Great Britain and the United States. Mr. Tupper acted as British agent in Paris at the Behring sea tribunal of arbitration.

Carelessness Causes an Explosion. CANTON, O., Sept. 16.—Henry Mielke entered a 60 barrel oil tank to see if the oil was all out. He carried a lantern in his hand. The oil was all out of the tank, but the latter was full of gas, and an explosion resulted. Edward C. Miller, Mielke and four boys were badly burned.

Was Lincoln's Law Partner.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 16.—Milton Hay died last night of heart disease. He was born in Kentucky in 1817. Mr. Hay came to Illinois in 1832 and read law with Abraham Lincoln. He subsequently became Mr. Lincoln's law partner.

Sullivan Predicts Mitchell's Defeat.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 16.—John L. Sullivan, speaking of the Corbett-Mitchell fight, said: "The men are evenly matched. Mitchell has never suffered a decisive defeat. I think he will get it in the neck this time."

Revolutionists Gaining Ground.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 16.—News which has been received from Rio Janeiro indicates that the situation there is very serious. It is believed here that the party-revolvers have gained a foothold in the capital.

—Bricks are extensively manufactured in Japan for consumption, but a small quantity has been exported as a venture to Vancouver, and should the demand there justify further exportations, bricks could be shipped thither as ballast at nominal rates. Mr. Layard mentions that the wages paid at the largest of these factories range from 20 to 25 cents per day for men, and from 10 to 15 cents per day for women.—Scientific American.

—A missionary on the middle Zambezi, who has travelled over all that region, says the best maps of the country are very inaccurate; that rivers are laid down where they do not exist, and that numerous villages appear where there is not a trace of a human habitation. He says the maps are simply an aggravation to travellers, who are often put to inconvenience by relying on information which they find later to be inaccurate.

—Lepers are becoming so numerous in Louisiana, declares the Atlantic Constitution, that the people of that State want the Federal government to set apart an island for them and undertake their care. Unless this is done, the terrible scourge will spread to other States.

MURDER
All the flies, mosquitoes and other noxious pest in and around the house with Dalmation Powder, 35 cents a pound; 10 cents 1-4 pound. Atomizer's, 7 cents each. Tanglefoot Paper, 3 cents a sheet.

WILL
You remember that our purchases and sales of best brands of Flour, such as Pillsbury's Best, Corrugated, Northwestern, Bridal Veil, White Lion, etc., is probably larger than any other house in Norfolk County; that we receive direct from the mill, saving in freight and jobbers' commissions, and that we can and will give our customers the benefit of this saving; also that in our opinion the present low price on flour will not continue any longer than the straightening out of the present financial difficulties and that purchases made soon will be the means of saving money.

OUT
Of our large stock of Groceries any family can make selections equal to any New York or Boston first-class establishment. We handle only straight Groceries, Teas, Coffees, and Flour, and our assortment is worth an inspection by any family in Quincy or vicinity.

MANY DISAPPOINTED
Have Pitiful Tales to Tell of the Cherokee Rush.

LIVELY SUNDAY AT PERRY.
Crowds Are Hustling to Get Out of the Strip.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 18.—Over 1000 ex-boomers passed through Kansas City yesterday en route to their homes in all parts of the country from the Cherokee strip. A more tired and disgusted lot of men were never seen together. They had gone to the opening unprepared for such a tremendous rush as occurred, and were mainly those who had depended on the trains to take them into the strip, but the trains were outdistanced by the horsemen and wheelmen, and they got to the heart of the promised land only to find every claim preempted and every town lot gone.

The first great contingent of these disappointed men arrived on a special Santa Fe train at 9 a. m., too late for eastern connections. They at once took possession of the waiting rooms at the union depot and turned them into a barracks, where they slept on the hard floors until late in the afternoon. Several women were in the company, one with a babe who was desperately ill, but all seemed too tired to note anything that went on about them.

Many of the men told pitiful stories of waiting in line for days for a certificate, and then going in packed trains only to find everything gobbled. Enoch Hooker of Greene county, Ill., says that just before noon at Orlando a man broke away into the strip and was brought down by a shot from a soldier. The man's partner immediately sent a bullet crashing into the soldier's head. At that instant the signal gun sounded and the rush began.

Most of the ex-boomers had money and left for their homes on the evening trains. They had not understood that pluck and nerve and quick action were necessary in Saturday's mad rush to get anything of a show, and so had been completely left when they reached desirable points by train.

Scenes at Perry.
GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 18.—Sunday in a new town, especially a town made on Saturday afternoon, is never a very enjoyable day, and it was less so than usual in the little city of Perry yesterday. The great majority of tents and supply wagons did not arrive until late in the night, and everybody was busy putting up tents or shanties or trying to get away from a male blowing from the south, making it impossible to see farther away than 40 feet on account of sand.

A few ministers tried to preach, but could not make much headway against the wind and the sand.
So terrible has been the day and so great the discomfort to the people that thousands are leaving upon every train, still there are enough left in Perry to make it the biggest city in the territory. Thieves and gamblers were thick last night. The number of fatalities will be much greater than at first supposed, but nine-tenths of those killed or injured were the victims of accidents.

Thomas McBride of Oklahoma City had his skull crushed by a stake in a quarrel over a lot. An unknown man was shot but not killed in Red Dock creek. Several others were more or less injured, but it was caused by the rush.

A FRESH OUTBREAK.

Nothing but Frost Will Drive the Yellow Fever From Brunswick, Ga.

SAVANNAH, Sept. 18.—A special from Brunswick says that 11 new cases of yellow fever were reported yesterday and an epidemic declared. The announcement was made by Colonel Goodyear at the board of health meeting and sent a thrill of horror to the grief-stricken Brunswickers present. With heart-breaking sorrow hundreds rushed to the city, and it will need no military force to depopulate the city.

Sixteen cases are under treatment. All of them are resting easy excepting two, who are dangerously ill. Many physicians have offered their services to the city. The change of weather is unfavorable and the worst may be expected. Nothing but the heaviest frost will stop it and people had better remain away until ice forms.

Bank Wrecker Dies in Prison.
PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Matthew T. Trumbour was found dead in his cell at Clinton prison. The cause of his death was heart disease. Trumbour, who was the cashier of the Ulster County Savings bank at Kingston, and James E. Ostrander, were convicted of wrecking the institution, and were sentenced to six and one-half years each in Clinton prison.

Endorsed by Powderly.
PITTSBURG, Sept. 18.—Pittsburg labor leaders will this week commence correspondence with the national officials of every labor organization of the United States on the subject of a labor union which will embrace within its ranks every association and union of workmen in the country. The plan has been endorsed by T. V. Powderly.

A Few Arrests.
BURLINGAME, Sept. 18.—After many weeks of preparation the investiture of Archbishop Hennessy is complete, and the sacred insignia, so carefully brought from Rome, was with much form and most impressive solemnity placed upon him today by the highest representatives of the mother church in America.

VERY QUIETLY DONE.
Triple Lynching Bee in the Neighborhood of New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 18.—There was a triple lynching almost in the shadow of the city Saturday night. The victims were three negro brothers named Julian, and the crime which they expiated was the shooting of a fourth brother, Rodin Julian, who on Friday afternoon shot Judge Victor Lestopinal to death while the latter was trying him for a trivial offense, seriously wounded the judge's son and then made good his escape.

Poses were immediately organized, and all night and all Saturday the surrounding country was scoured without success. The mother, two brothers and two sisters of the negro Rodin were arrested yesterday afternoon at the Black ridge, in the rear of the city, by the city police, and were then taken to the little jail on Judge Estopinal's place about Southport. Another brother was arrested later in the day in the same neighborhood and taken to the same jail.

The two brothers were caught among the swamps, but they refused to say whence they had come. About 11 o'clock, a body consisting of about 25 men, armed, came up to the jail and took out two of the brothers "Valsin" and "Bakile." They were taken to a pasture 100 yards distant, and there asked to take the last choice of saying their lives by making confession. The negroes made no reply. They were then told to kneel down and pray, which they did.

The taller negro was then strung up. He remained hanging fully five minutes before the second one was hanged. The shorter negro was then hoisted up. The mob then returned to the jail and taking the third brother, Paul, out to the camp hanged him to a tree. Not a shot was fired in the entire proceedings.

During the search for Julian on Saturday, one branch of the posse visited the house of a neighbor negro family in the vicinity of Camp Parapet, and failing to find the object of their search tried to induce John Willis, a young negro, to disclose the whereabouts of Julian. He refused to do so, or could not do so, and he was kicked to death by the gang.

A PASSION FOR GOLD

Tempted Old Man Cochran to Rob the Philadelphia Mint.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.—It is probable that Henry S. Cochran will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Bell on a charge of robbing the Philadelphia mint of $25,570 worth of gold. Chief Inspector of the Secret Service Drummond went to Washington yesterday to get instructions from Acting Mint Director Preston, and when he returned last night he held one of the assistants of United States District Attorney Ingham in reference to getting his aged prisoner a prompt hearing.

Chief Drummond then said he was not in a position to definitely say whether or not the government would prosecute Cochran, but declared that he would recommend the abandonment of the case in the event of a complete restitution being made.

"He is old and feeble and has done good service in the mint," Chief Drummond further said, "and I do not believe that he is altogether responsible for his actions. I would trust Cochran with millions of dollars worth of anything valuable except gold. He has handled gold all his life and has developed a passion for it, which is too strong to be described. He thought the government was rich enough without a few bars more or less, and he helped himself to an extent that would make his declining years happy ones."

CAPITOL'S CORNERSTONE

Was Laid a Hundred Years Ago Today and Washington Celebrates.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Washington is today celebrating the centennial of the first national event which occurred within her borders—the laying of the cornerstone of the Capitol on the 18th of September, 1793. The ceremonies on that occasion were directed by the officials of the Alexandria Masonic lodge, President Washington assisting upon the invitation of the master of the lodge.

The original structure of the Capitol, which has since been added to from time to time, was the production of a Frenchman named Stephen Hallet, improved by an Englishman named William Thornton, and a right lively quarrel the Gaul and the Anglo-Saxon had over the authorship of the plans.

The exercises began at 2 o'clock in the presence of congress, national and district officials and a throng of spectators. By resolution of congress today is a holiday in the District of Columbia and all public business is suspended. President Cleveland presided. The instrumental music was furnished by the Marine band and the vocal by a chorus of 1000 voices.

Becoming Serious.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The Times correspondent Vienna telegraphs concerning the young Czech agitation in Bohemia. The excitement is growing and the movement daily becomes more apparently anti-dynastic. There was serious rioting in connection with the removal of the Czech regiment from Prague to Linz, and the arrival of a German regiment. Several were wounded with bayonets and others were trodden under foot by the fleeing crowds.

A Close Call.

DULUTH, Sept. 18.—The Wisconsin fires came close to this city yesterday. During the day they came dangerously near to South Superior and other outlying suburban points. The fire department was called out, and finally the flames were extinguished with only small damage.

An Unknown Wreck.

GEORGETOWN, S. C., Sept. 18.—The tug W. P. Pondon reports sighting the wreck of a vessel about 160 feet long, bottom up, 20 miles northeast of Georgetown bar. It is probably a foreign bark from the build. An attempt was made to right her, but it could not be done.

Thiefish Treasurer Arrested.

TACOMA, Sept. 18.—A special dispatch from Whatcom announces the arrest of ex-City Treasurer Iseilasse, charged with embezzling $47,000.

Youngster Commits Suicide.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18.—Edward Hagaman, a 7-year-old boy, committed suicide yesterday by hanging. No cause is known for the act.

NOT YET EXHAUSTED

Senate Will Devote Another Week to Congress.

FEDERAL ELECTION LAWS

Will Lead to Further Fighting in the House.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The seventh week of the present session of congress gives promise of great interest. The situation is extraordinary in legislative history in that both houses are just now in a condition where it is impossible to make headway in the dispatch of public business.

But, if the present program is carried out, this week will witness determined efforts on the part of the leaders in the senate and in the house to break the spell which has bound congress. The first day of the week is practically a dies non, for congress in a body will spend the afternoon in attendance upon the exercises attending the celebration of the centennial anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the Capitol. So, from a legislative point of view, the week will begin tomorrow.

On that day, Senator Mills of Texas is expected to deliver his oft-postponed speech for repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman law. Other speeches for the week, of which notice has been given, will be delivered by Senator George of Mississippi against repeal on Wednesday; by Senator White of California against repeal on Thursday, and by Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota in the same line, at the next convenient opportunity. The silver leaders—Teller, Jones of Nevada and Morgan—also stand ready to address the senate whenever there is opportunity or necessity for it.

Voorhees Is Hopeful.

No one can foretell how many of these speeches will be heard in the senate chamber, for Senator Voorhees has it in mind to renew his request that a time be fixed for a vote on the bill.

It is not to be supposed that he expects that unanimous consent will be given to any such arrangement. But the senator believes that the time for action has now come. He has made that request twice before and it has been rejected. He will make it again and it will be rejected. The senator believes that with this record behind him he will be able to convince the country and the senate that the repeal bill is being subjected to unreasonable delay, and he will then ask the majority of the senate to remain in session almost continuously until the point of action is reached.

The result cannot now be foretold, but if Mr. Voorhees can command the constant attendance and support of 43 senators committed to the repeal bill, the history of the week in the senate will probably be a repetition of the history of a week of the celebrated campaign against the force bill. The silver men are fully prepared to meet this phase of the case, and may be relied on to swell the congressional record to proportions almost unheard of.

In the House.

The program in the house for the coming week is pretty clearly outlined, a condition of things growing out of the fight inaugurated by the Republicans last week against the proposed repeal of the federal election laws. Nothing was done today save to meet at 1:45 o'clock and adjourn after prayer and the reading of the journal, in accordance with the resolution accepting the invitation to participate in the exercises connected with the celebration of the centennial anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the Capitol, which will take place on the east front.

On Tuesday, the Democrats having then a quorum of their own faith in attendance and voting upon the main question, the repeal bill will be reported from the committee on election of president and vice president and representatives in congress and be placed on the calendar. As soon as the bill had accompanying reports can be printed, Mr. Tucker, who is in charge of the measure in the absence of Mr. Fitch, chairman of the committee, expects to call them up for consideration.

When the debate thus begun will end, the future also cannot determine. The interim between the presentation of the report and for the beginning of the debate may be consumed by a further discussion of the bill to regulate and reform the public printing, which has already had one day devoted to it, and which was blocked last week by the struggle over the election law repeal bill. It is doubtful, however, if the time that it is expected that can be devoted to the printing bill will be sufficient to dispose of it. Much opposition exists to the measure and the fate in store for it is believed to be the same that it met in the last congress.

It is not probable that the McCrary bill to modify the Geary Chinese registration law will come to the front this week in such a way as to command the attention and consideration of the committee. It will not be reported to the full committee on foreign affairs until the regular meeting day (Thursday), and even if it is reported to the house at once it will probably find the election law repeal bill in possession of the right of way.

Ex-Governor McCrary says he will not undertake to antagonize the repeal bill with his measure. Doubtless a favorable report will be ordered by the committee, and the bill may get on the calendar this week. Mr. Geary is the only member of the committee who is known to be opposed to it.

Three Railroaders Killed.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 18.—The engine and 14 cars of the first section of an eastbound freight train on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway were derailed at an open switch at Olivia. Engineer Remsen, Fireman Meddings and Brakeman Bromer were instantly killed.

Wouldn't Live at Others' Expense.
New York, Sept. 18.—Adolph Hartman, a bookkeeper out of work, poisoned himself at his home last night with carbolic acid. He left a letter saying that he was tired of being supported by his wife and two sons.

AN INTERESTING World's Fair letter of two columns by J. B. Parke appears on the fourth page today. It treats of the congress of religion, anniversaries, Canadian exhibits, etc.

THE NEW law relating to elections, Chapter 417 of the Acts of 1893, is in force and is worthy of special attention by political committees, registrars of voters, election officers and others. Canvasses must be called under its provisions.

THE SUNDAY HERALD published assessments figures of 30 cities and towns in this part of the State. A majority had a larger tax rate than Quincy. Eighteen have a larger rate than last year, but Quincy is one of the twelve with a smaller rate.

MUCH CONFUSION will often be caused if the public understood that an alarm on a bicycle bell is not a signal to "get out," "clear the track" or even "look out for the cycle," but simply, "I am coming; don't suddenly change your course or jump suddenly where it may be impossible for me to avoid a collision."

WILLIAM B. RICE has resigned as chairman of the committee on resolutions at the Democratic state convention, as he will be at Chicago at the time. With Josiah Quincy in his place and Brooks Adams also on the committee, this city is well represented on this important committee of eight. Quincy also has a member of the Republican committee on resolutions, in Mayor Fairbanks, and in any event the State should be safe.

HOSPITALITIES EXTENDED.

City Officials of Salem inspect the Quincy Water Works.

The city of Salem is seeking new resources to its water supply and in order to do so they will be obliged to build a dam and reservoir. Mr. L. A. Taylor, who built the dam and reservoir of the Quincy Water Co., has been making the necessary surveys for that city and recommended the construction of a dam and reservoir like that of this city and Saturday afternoon the water commissioners visited this city as guests of Mayor Fairbanks. The gentlemen arrived on the 2:19 train and as they entered Hall's back at the depot the rain came down in torrents. The gentlemen were water men, however, and nothing daunted they started immediately for the reservoir, and rain meanwhile continuing, appropriately, to fall.

In the party were President Daniel J. O'Brien, Clerk Nathaniel M. Brown, Augustus J. Fabens, George H. Hill, John F. Hurley and William R. Colby of the water board, Supt. Henry A. Cook and City Marshal John W. Hail of Salem, Mayor Fairbanks, Chairman Herbert T. Whitman of the water board, Supt. Frank E. Hall and a representative of the LEDGER.

Mayor Rantoul who was expected to accompany the board was prevented from so doing, but sent a letter of regret.

The visitors made as thorough inspection of the reservoir as possible in the driving rain and all expressed themselves as very much pleased with it.

It was the intention of Mayor Fairbanks to drive the party about the city but this was abandoned.

Upon the return a stop was made at The Greenleaf and at 4:30 Manager Fiske threw open the doors of his pretty dining room and invited the party to enter.

No second invitation was necessary and the next hour was spent in discussing the merits of a tempting menu with water talk sandwiched between the courses. One thing was noticeable at the dinner and that was the enormous quantity of water which the visitors drank, which was proof that they liked Quincy water.

The party left on the 5:33 train after thanking Mayor Fairbanks for the hospital manner in which they had been received and entertained.

It might not be out of place to say one word of praise of the dinner which was excellent and in keeping with a first class hotel and Quincy is to be congratulated, upon at last, having a public house of which they need not be ashamed.

Street Lighting.

All items of street lighting are of interest now as the contract in this city expires this fall. The Springfield's city council committee on street lighting is reported to have looked up the matter of municipal street lighting preparatory to making a report on the matter to the council. It does not look, however, as if Springfield would soon establish an electric lighting plant of its own, as the company that at present has the contract for electrically lighting the city has offered to make exceedingly good terms for the continuation of their contract, and the council's committee is understood to be in favor of accepting the figures offered.

FIELD DAY AT BRAINTREE.

The General Orders for the Annual Drill of the Fifth Regiment.

Colonel William A. Bancroft has called a council of the officers of the 5th Infantry, M. V. M., for Friday evening. He has also issued the following general orders: This regiment will perform its annual drill in the town of Braintree, Thursday, Sept. 28.

Field and staff officers, chief bugler, and orderly, mounted, company commanders with their companies, and the non-commissioned staff, will report to the adjutant on that day at 9 A. M. sharp at the railroad station, Old Colony division, Kneeland street, Boston.

The headquarters car will be in the center of the train, and reports will be made to the adjutant at this car. Companies will take cars according to position in line as designated on cars. Horses must be loaded not later than 8.15 A. M.

Company commanders on reaching train will cause their men to enter the cars at once, and will place a guard upon each door to prevent all passing out of the car except by permission of the company commander, who will withhold such permission except in cases of necessity.

The commander of K company will report with his command on the arrival of the train at Braintree at such place as the regiment shall disembark. Band and drum corps will report through the drum major at the same time and place.

Fatigue uniform, with cap, will be worn by officers and men. Each officer will carry dress uniform in gripcase, and every enlisted man will carry knapsack with dress coat, black helmet and white gloves packed therein, and with overcoat rolled and strapped thereon. Officers will carry the light-blue overcoat, that for mounted officers being strapped to cantel of saddle, while dismounted officers will wear overcoat in color roll.

Each officer and man will provide a substantial cooked ration to be carried in canteen and haversack.

Lieut. Tolman, A company, is hereby detailed as officer of the day and commander of the guard for this tour of duty.

Furniture reupholstered.—Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

WEYMOUTH.

The silver anniversary of Reynolds post, will be observed on Friday evening.

Mrs. Betsy Bates, who was undoubtedly the oldest person in Norfolk County, died Sunday at the residence of her grandson, Nathan D. Canterbury, aged 98 years, 9 months and 14 days.

She was a native of Weymouth and a descendant of the Bates and Humphreys, the original settlers of the town. Her husband, Josiah Bates, has been dead for 65 years. She was a vigorous person and retained her faculties almost up to the time of her death. She leaves three children. During the latter years of her life she has made her home with her grandson.

At the time of her death five generations of her family were domiciled under the same roof, viz: Mrs. Bates, her daughter Cyndia, her grandson N. D. Canterbury, her great grandson Charles D. Canterbury, and the latter's infant child. The funeral will be held Tuesday at 2:30 o'clock.

Officers Richards, Garey and Fay raided the premises of John Sullivan on Washington street, Sunday, and seized one case of beer and one-half gallon of whiskey.

Rogers Bros. advise no further delays in preserving. They have the fruit and vegetables now.

Democratic Canvass.

THE LEDGER'S TREAT.

Quite a Number Enjoyed a Free Car Ride to Houghs Neck.

Saturday, people who happened to be upon the streets were frequently greeted by the bright LEDGER newboys who were shouting at the top of their voices, "LEDGER, 2 cents, free ride to Houghs Neck."

This was made possible by an arrangement which had been entered into between the publishers of the LEDGER and the Quincy & Boston street railway, which was that a coupon which was printed on the first page of Saturday's edition entitled the holder to a free ride to Houghs Neck Sunday.

This was done to give the citizens an opportunity to pay one more visit to this summer resort before the season closed.

The result was that Saturday's issue met with a ready sale notwithstanding the storm and the prospects were that the street railway would have all they could attend to Sunday.

Unfortunately Sunday while being pleasant was somewhat cool and many who had intended to take the trip were frightened by the cool wind. While this kept many of the adults at home it did not keep the boys who came out in full force and if no one else enjoyed the ride, they did.

At the beach there was an unusual number for this time of the year and the proprietors of the several hotels did a good business particularly at Pierce's, where another coupon printed in Saturday's LEDGER entitled the holder to a discount of ten cents on a shore dinner.

THAT EVENTFUL TRIP.

Electric Yachting is a Success, Even Though Some Did Get Wet.

A friend furnishes us with the following account of the trip from Boston to Quincy last Friday afternoon in the new electric yacht. Upon invitation of Mr. John R. Graham a party consisting of Mr. Graham, Benjamin J. Weeks, George F. Pfaffman, John A. Duggan, William G. Spear, Peter T. Fallon, and the man in charge of the boat embarked at 2:15 o'clock from Russia wharf in the electric yacht. The yacht was turned on and the little boat started at a 12 knot speed for City Point bridge. From here the boat began to ship water and the trip across Dorchester bay was made at half speed.

Moon island was reached in half an hour time. The weather then was very rough and the water dashed spitefully over the boat, drenching Messrs. Weeks and Duggan.

Umbrellas were raised in hopes to keep off the water and several of the party turned pale and wanted to turn back, but Capt. Duggan said no and he put the boat in the eye of the wind and, then she did better, but still shipped quantities of water, so that Capt. Weeks was obliged to keep the Johnson pump working to keep the boat from swamping.

It was during the roughest of the trip that Capt. Weeks remarked that he never expected to see land and that he wished his wife had the $25, which he had in his pocket, as she could use it whereas if he went down it would be lost.

The shelter of Nut Island was soon reached, and although all of the party were as wet as though they had been overboard, their spirits returned and it was then that ex-Councilman Fallon looking toward Quincy saw two tall masts in the distance which he declared were in his quarry. He said he could see a man on top of one of them fitting a block and he pulled out his watch to see how long it took him to do it. The only way his farsightedness can be accounted for is that water acts queerly upon some people.

In front of the Quincy Yacht Club house the yacht was speeded up and she fairly flew along toward Quincy Point which was reached at 3:45.

The boat proved a complete success, and it was the unanimous opinion that with any kind of weather she could make the trip to Boston in an hour.

Mr. Graham was so pleased with the trip, in spite of his ducking, that he has ordered batteries for a new yacht, which is at their power station, which will be fitted up and put into the water this week.

It seems almost absurd to think of buying Holland window shades with pulls and fixtures complete for 25c, a tint cloth for 35c., or an English Lansdale for 50c. These are our prices.—Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

THE LOWELL MURDER.
Patrick Blake Held Responsible For the Death of Joseph Heroux.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 18.—Officers yesterday arrested Patrick Francis Blake, a teamster in the Appleton corporation, 23 years of age, for the killing of Joseph Heroux Saturday night. He tells substantially the same story as Daniel Munday, the companion of Heroux. The three men had been drinking all day, but the company Heroux was not desired by Blake, Heroux, and he had shown it several times.

Toward night the three met again near the depot, and Blake asked Heroux to go back of the cars for a drink. Munday now admits that he suspected the design of Blake was to quarrel with Heroux, but he said nothing. The two went off, and soon after Blake kicked Heroux several times and then ran.

Munday did not reveal Blake's name until pressed by the police after they had obtained information that the murderer had called Munday by name. Blake was ignorant of the death of Heroux, and when asured of it exclaimed: "It's all on account of rum, but I guess this will stop my drinking for a while." Heroux died from a ruptured jugular vein.

THE CHESTER DISASTER.
An Interesting Extract From a Paper Devoted to Railway Interests.

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—The formal report of the railroad commissioners on the Boston and Albany accident at Chester may be expected this week. The public will be interested in the details of the commissioners' findings, but they will hardly be more sweeping than the following general conclusion, which is from an editorial in last week's Railroad Gazette:

That any reasonable man could sever the cover plates from the angles and web plates of a compression member for more than 2 1/2 panels of a bridge, with heavy trains running over it at full speed, seems incredible; and that an engineering department and a bridge company could delegate such a task to such an incompetent man or men is even more inconceivable.

The New Bedford Strike.
NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 18.—The situation among the mill operatives of this city remains the same as the first of last week. The Acushnet mill operatives were forced to quit work on account of the strike of the back boys. The back boys say they will not go to work until the restriction and unfairness filling is obtained the looms will be forced to remain idle. The manufacturers have given no word that they will give in to the back boys, and the indications are that the Acushnet mill will be idle for some time to come.

Castine's Great Record.
NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 18.—It was late Saturday afternoon before the board was ready to announce the corrected time made by the new gunboat Castine in her speed trial. It is 16.682, entitling her builders to the handsome bonus of $90,000. Her contract price was $318,000, with a bonus of $50,000 for each quarter of a knot speed developed over 13 knots an hour.

Double Drowning Accident.
NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Sept. 18.—About midnight Saturday night a catboat, containing William H. Cornell, John G. Burns and Jerome Langwin, was capsized in the harbor, and the last two named were drowned, the former reaching the shore in an exhausted condition. The three had started for Grape Island on a lobstering trip.

Settled Out of Court.
PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 18.—Dennis Connelly, whose wife and two daughters were killed by the bursting of the Munjoy Hill reservoir, in August, has settled with the Portland Water company, receiving $10,000, the company preferring to pay this sum rather than stand a law suit.

Affairs Straightened Out.
MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 18.—The affairs of the People's Fire Insurance company have finally been settled, the total amount of the $100,000 new stock having been provided, and the company will now go on under the presidency of Aretas Blood.

Business Was Poor.
NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 18.—The Pauline Hall Opera company, composed of about 50 persons, which appeared at the Grand Opera House Saturday evening, disbanded after the performance. It has been doing a very poor business this season.

A Valuable Find.
BARRE, Vt., Sept. 18.—Marble and granite deposits have been discovered in West Topsham. The stone is pronounced to be of the finest quality, and is extensive in quantity. The location is but four miles from the Wells River railroad.

A Life at Stake.
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 18.—The second trial of James A. Tretheven, for the murder of Tena Davis, was begun here this morning. Several new witnesses are on hand. The trial promises to be very interesting.

Brief Mention.
The annual reunion of the Fourteenth Connecticut regiment was held at Rockville.

Valuable mineral deposits were found in Echo grove on the Saugus (Mass.) river.

An unknown man was struck and instantly killed by a Fitchburg, Mass., passenger train.

The body of Alexander Malenfant was found in the canal at Lewiston, Me. Probably a case of suicide.

Rufus Bailey of Milwaukie, Me., going from Phillips to Lewiston, died on the train near Curtis Corner.

Henry Hines, aged 43, a well-known business man of Lewiston, Me., died suddenly of inflammation of the bowels.

A notice was posted in the mills of the Newmarket (N. H.) Manufacturing company announcing a 10 per cent cutdown.

A compromise has been arranged between Wallace & Sons of Ansonia, Conn., and the buffers' department has resumed operations.

The houses of Rev. G. W. Andrews, Henry Putnam and Edgar Rhodes of Pittsfield, Mass., were entered by burglars and thoroughly ransacked.

James Sheridan, who is alleged to have been ejected from Cushing's barroom in Lowell, Mass., is at St. John's hospital in an unconscious condition.

Nathan Phelps, 33 years old, of Saybrook, Conn., a brakeman, while jumping from a high car to a flat car, fell under the wheels. His recovery is doubtful.

A WALTHAM SCANDAL

Which Came Very Near Resulting In a Lynching.

THE PERFDY OF A WOMAN

Will Result In the Breaking Up of Two Families.

WALTHAM, Mass., Sept. 18.—The City of Watches has a scandal, and as a result Charles H. Scribner, a well-known character, was arrested by Officer Carney. The facts which led to the arrest of Scribner, as told by the police, are as follows:

A few months ago Scribner, who is a paper hanger, was engaged by Irving L. Thomas of Lowell street to do some work at his home, and it is said since that time things have not been as they should in the Thomas house.

It is alleged that Scribner and Mrs. Thomas became very intimate. The stories as told by Mr. Thomas to ears, and he began at once to satisfy himself as to their truth, but as he was away from home during the day his efforts proved futile, although he was told repeatedly that Scribner and his wife were constantly in each other's company during his absence.

Yesterday he was informed by a neighbor that Scribner had been to his home and that his children were compelled to stay out in a driving rain storm, so that

The Pair Might Be Alone.
This made the injured husband more determined than ever to catch the guilty pair. He would not long in getting word to Scribner, and about 7 o'clock the two were on their way to Boston. Mr. Thomas felt that this was proof enough of his wife's perfidy, but he wanted still further proof, so he got his brother and a friend named Mitchell, and together they followed.

Scribner and the woman went to a dime museum and from there went to a lodging house, and all the time they were being shadowed by the husband, his friends and two detectives, who had been engaged after he had arrived in Boston.

The pair traveled about Boston until nearly midnight, when they took a train on the Fitchburg road for this city. Mr. Thomas, his brother and Mr. Mitchell took the same train.

Mrs. Thomas and Scribner started for the former's home one way, while Mr. Thomas and the others took another route, by which they arrived at the house ahead of them. The couple soon appeared and were

Seen to Enter the House.
The husband watched his wife through the window for over an hour. Some of the men who joined Mr. Thomas urged him to go inside and attack Scribner, assuring him of their assistance should he need any to punish the destroyer of his home, but Mr. Thomas preferred to take another course, so he dispatched a messenger for the police.

While the messenger went away in search of an officer someone went to Scribner's home on Moody street and informed his wife of what was going on, and she was on the spot in a short time, and it was with difficulty she was restrained from entering the house and attacking Mrs. Thomas. The actions of Mrs. Scribner had an effect on the rest of the people, and someone said: "Lynch him." One excited neighbor went to his house and returned with a clothes line, and said he would lead the way.

Officer Carney arrived just then, else he might have fared badly, as the crowd had got worked up to fever heat. After a short talk with Mr. Thomas, the officer went into the house and placed Scribner under arrest.

Scribner is about 40 years of age, rather plain looking, and he has appeared in court several times for drunkenness. He lives with his wife and children at 239 Moody street.

A NEW MESSIAH
In the Person of Henry B. Foulke, a Firm Theosophist.

ONSET BAY, Mass., Sept. 18.—Henry B. Foulke, known as the president of the Mahatmas in this pleasant retreat of theosophists and spiritualists, announced yesterday that he is the Messiah. He says he has been reincarnated no less than seven times, that he has more or less recollection of them, and that Mrs. Blavatsky came to prepare the way for his entry as the Christ, and to straighten out the serious condition of things now existing in the religious and business worlds. He says that he is in constant communication with the "shades" and that his announcement and actions are placed for beyond his personal control by the shades of the Tibetan brotherhood.

He prophesies that war and bloodshed are soon to follow the battle of labor against capital, and that socialism is soon to come out on top. He adds that Lieutenant Totten is a great prophet, and that much that he has told will come to pass. Mr. Foulke has made many converts to his theosophical ideas at the camp grounds. His strongest adherents are among the women. He is unpopular with the old-time mediums, who seem to fear this new order of occult science.

This made the injured husband more determined than ever to catch the guilty pair. He would not long in getting word to Scribner, and about 7 o'clock the two were on their way to Boston. Mr. Thomas felt that this was proof enough of his wife's perfidy, but he wanted still further proof, so he got his brother and a friend named Mitchell, and together they followed.

Scribner and the woman went to a dime museum and from there went to a lodging house, and all the time they were being shadowed by the husband, his friends and two detectives, who had been engaged after he had arrived in Boston.

The pair traveled about Boston until nearly midnight, when they took a train on the Fitchburg road for this city. Mr. Thomas, his brother and Mr. Mitchell took the same train.

Mrs. Thomas and Scribner started for the former's home one way, while Mr. Thomas and the others took another route, by which they arrived at the house ahead of them. The couple soon appeared and were

Seen to Enter the House.
The husband watched his wife through the window for over an hour. Some of the men who joined Mr. Thomas urged him to go inside and attack Scribner, assuring him of their assistance should he need any to punish the destroyer of his home, but Mr. Thomas preferred to take another course, so he dispatched a messenger for the police.

While the messenger went away in search of an officer someone went to Scribner's home on Moody street and informed his wife of what was going on, and she was on the spot in a short time, and it was with difficulty she was restrained from entering the house and attacking Mrs. Thomas. The actions of Mrs. Scribner had an effect on the rest of the people, and someone said: "Lynch him." One excited neighbor went to his house and returned with a clothes line, and said he would lead the way.

Officer Carney arrived just then, else he might have fared badly, as the crowd had got worked up to fever heat. After a short talk with Mr. Thomas, the officer went into the house and placed Scribner under arrest.

Scribner is about 40 years of age, rather plain looking, and he has appeared in court several times for drunkenness. He lives with his wife and children at 239 Moody street.

A NEW MESSIAH
In the Person of Henry B. Foulke, a Firm Theosophist.

ONSET BAY, Mass., Sept. 18.—Henry B. Foulke, known as the president of the Mahatmas in this pleasant retreat of theosophists and spiritualists, announced yesterday that he is the Messiah. He says he has been reincarnated no less than seven times, that he has more or less recollection of them, and that Mrs. Blavatsky came to prepare the way for his entry as the Christ, and to straighten out the serious condition of things now existing in the religious and business worlds. He says that he is in constant communication with the "shades" and that his announcement and actions are placed for beyond his personal control by the shades of the Tibetan brotherhood.

He prophesies that war and bloodshed are soon to follow the battle of labor against capital, and that socialism is soon to come out on top. He adds that Lieutenant Totten is a great prophet, and that much that he has told will come to pass. Mr. Foulke has made many converts to his theosophical ideas at the camp grounds. His strongest adherents are among the women. He is unpopular with the old-time mediums, who seem to fear this new order of occult science.

THE LOWELL MURDER.
Patrick Blake Held Responsible For the Death of Joseph Heroux.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 18.—Officers yesterday arrested Patrick Francis Blake, a teamster in the Appleton corporation, 23 years of age, for the killing of Joseph Heroux Saturday night. He tells substantially the same story as Daniel Munday, the companion of Heroux. The three men had been drinking all day, but the company Heroux was not desired by Blake, Heroux, and he had shown it several times.

Toward night the three met again near the depot, and Blake asked Heroux to go back of the cars for a drink. Munday now admits that he suspected the design of Blake was to quarrel with Heroux, but he said nothing. The two went off, and soon after Blake kicked Heroux several times and then ran.

Munday did not reveal Blake's name until pressed by the police after they had obtained information that the murderer had called Munday by name. Blake was ignorant of the death of Heroux, and when as-

ured of it exclaimed: "It's all on account of rum, but I guess this will stop my drinking for a while." Heroux died from a ruptured jugular vein.

THE CHESTER DISASTER.
An Interesting Extract From a Paper Devoted to Railway Interests.

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—The formal report of the railroad commissioners on the Boston and Albany accident at Chester may be expected this week. The public will be interested in the details of the commissioners' findings, but they will hardly be more sweeping than the following general conclusion, which is from an editorial in last week's Railroad Gazette:

That any reasonable man could sever the cover plates from the angles and web plates of a compression member for more than 2 1/2 panels of a bridge, with heavy trains running over it at full speed, seems incredible; and that an engineering department and a bridge company could delegate such a task to such an incompetent man or men is even more inconceivable.

The New Bedford Strike.
NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 18.—The situation among the mill operatives of this city remains the same as the first of last week. The Acushnet mill operatives were forced to quit work on account of the strike of the back boys. The back boys say they will not go to work until the restriction and unfairness filling is obtained the looms will be forced to remain idle. The manufacturers have given no word that they will give in to the back boys, and the indications are that the Acushnet mill will be idle for some time to come.

Castine's Great Record.
NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 18.—It was late Saturday afternoon before the board was ready to announce the corrected time made by the new gunboat Castine in her speed trial. It is 16.682, entitling her builders to the handsome bonus of $90,000. Her contract price was $318,000, with a bonus of $50,000 for each quarter of a knot speed developed over 13 knots an hour.

Double Drowning Accident.
NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Sept. 18.—About midnight Saturday night a catboat, containing William H. Cornell, John G. Burns and Jerome Langwin, was capsized in the harbor, and the last two named were drowned, the former reaching the shore in an exhausted condition

CONGRESS OF RELIGION.

The Scheme Resulted from a Sort of Accident,

BUT HAS PROVED SUCCESSFUL.

From Appearances All the Races of Man Are Just Now in a State of Doubt or of Revived Enthusiasm—Claims of the Buddhists—Some Coming Celebrations at the World's Fair.

WORLD'S FAIR, Sept. 15.—[Special.]—No event for years, possibly no event in history, has proved so sudden and surprising a success as this Congress of Religion, and its projectors were almost carried off their feet by it. It is not generally known, but the scheme resulted from a sort of accident, and its inception and evolution were on this wise: First, as soon as congress voted that Chicago should be the place for the fair, the ministers of this city by a common impulse resolved that they would waive all claims to a summer vacation and not only do their best, but call in extra help. They have kept the promise nobly and I am sorry to add that the people have appreciated it a little too well to suit my convenience. I have not been able to get within ten yards of a hearing at Mr. Moody's, and at Dr. Barrows' church I found at least 400 people leaving for want of room.

It was decided also that tent meetings should be held near the fair's gates and that so far as possible the missionaries of the various societies should have their home vacation and their church should be preaching by them in Turkish, Greek, Italian, Chinese and possibly some of the India languages. Only part of this programme has been carried out, for the pleasure people are confessedly the most irreligious of their several races and Sunday is the day when they do their wildest, as, though the gates are open, no other part of the fair is really on exhibition. Out of this plan, however, grew that of a religious congress and to Dr. Barrows more than any other man must the credit be given. The world was ripe for it. It appears that all the races of man are just at this time in a state of doubt or of revived enthusiasm and are either ready to re-examine the grounds of their faith or eager to set them forth to others.

The Japanese are in effect a nation of apostates. Their higher classes express disbelief in any supernatural agency whatever or a cool indifference to all faiths. There is a general skepticism in China. The missionary spirit seems to be reviving again among the Mohammedans, but among their most active men religion has taken on a semi-scientific cast. Babu Prab Chunder Mozoomdar, the first Hindoo to give his views here, says that the progressive Hindoos hold almost exactly the same views as the Unitarians of this country. He is the founder of the Brahmo Samaj, or worshippers of the one supreme God, and is at present the guest of some religious families here. The Buddhists in like manner admit that new movements are going on among them and smilingly claim that there are more Buddhists in the United States than there are Christians in China and Japan. In short the whole world is in a state of religious unrest and the parliament was an assured success almost as soon as it was proposed.

The missionaries in heaven have been unanimous in its favor, the great leaders of Christendom nearly so. The names of those willing to serve on the advisory board soon reached 1,500. Prominent among its promoters in distant lands are such men as Professor Isaac T. Henshaw of the Imperial university at Peking, Rev. J. S. Chandler of Madura, South India; Rev. George D. Marsh, American missionary in Bulgaria; Rev. George T. Candlish of Fiesing, China; Rev. Yoshiji Hiraiwa of the Methodist seminary in Tokyo; and the leader among the native Christians, and others. The leading native members of the bar in India took a great interest in it and one of them, still a devoted Brahmin, wrote, "The time is at hand when the belief religion must come to the front." Of course he added that he did not fear comparison. Of the old and retired missionaries is claimed by the managers that every one has been an enthusiastic advocate of the congress.

Mozoomdar, as the Babu above named is usually called, arrived a week before the congress convened. With him came H. Dharmapala, who is the guest of prominent Christian families and a Verachand Gandhi, who is the honored guest of Dr. Barrows. He is a priest of Jainism and was elected a representative here by his fellow priests. He has not yet said enough for us to comprehend the difference between Jainism and Buddhism or Brahminism. Another of that party is B. B. Nagarkar, Brahmin priest, who is the guest of Marvin Hughtitt, well known in railroad circles. All these gentlemen speak English with clearness and fluency and are not at all backward in giving their views to newspaper men. As they traveled together from India by way of London, did the World's fair together and are sociable and pleasant guests in the same Christian families, it would seem that there is not such a painful separation of sects as we had supposed "on India's coral strand."

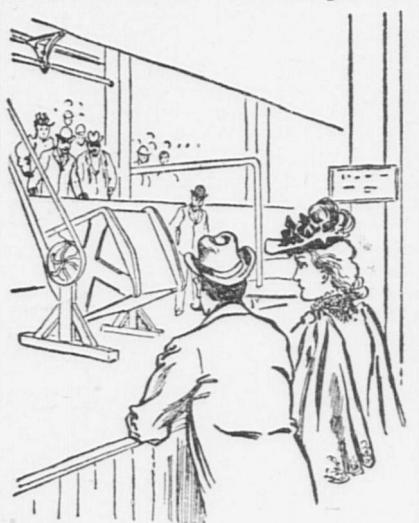

Ottoman Empire day at the fair was the seventeenth anniversary of the accession of Sultan Abdul Hamid I. to the Turkish throne and every Turk, Egyptian and loyal Armenian got himself up regardless. Somewhat to my surprise a few Greeks also took an interest in it, as there are still nearly as many Greeks in Turkey as in Greece. The Danes celebrated on the birthday of little Queen Wilhelmina and their orators told us some very good things about the Dutch settlement of New York and how they established religious liberty in the new world. Today the railroad representatives are preparing a grand banquet over the formal opening of the Manchester railroad sixty-three years ago. New Mexico has her little demonstration to-morrow, but it is stated that fewer people are here from that territory than from any other or any state in the Union. The native Mexicans are not a traveling people and the Americans, chiefly silver miners, feel tolerably poor just at present.

On the 26th Iowa will parade through the grounds with Governor Boies at the head of the line, and as they claim, some 30,000 people from that state on view. The state cadets will show their training on the 21st and Governor Boies and others will speak. On the 27th Indiana will do herself proud and the silvery tones of Senator Voorhees, Ben Harrison and others will be heard. If it is possible for him to come, the old man eloquent, Colonel Richard W. Thompson, will also be with us and give his personal recollections of the day in 1816, when Indiana was formally admitted to the Union. Of course Governor Matthews, his brows bound with the laurels of the late militia victory at Roby (where the prize fighters retreated without firing a shot) will lead the procession. The granger states are now swelling the admiring throng. The stock pavilion is jammed and the great cow contest and steam churns attract even larger crowds than the Art Palace.

By fits and starts, as it were, I have been searching out Canada's exhibits in all the buildings for a month, and trying to get them classified. This for two reasons—I just naturally like the Canadians and they have so far outdone expectations that a special feature should be made of their show. In the first place it is of course to be taken for granted that they excel all others, as that is their specialty; but it is really a surprise to find them so near the head in horticulture. The finest apples come from the Annapolis valley in Nova Scotia, and Ontario displays seventy varieties of that fruit with 1,400 bottles of preserved fruits, including such things as strawberries, peaches, pears, raspberries and others we are accustomed to think of as southern fruits. Still more surprising is the fact that cold Quebec displays seventy kinds of fruits, including many fine apples, and that the native wines of Canada are ranked high by the judges.

In like manner display of agricultural products was only what was to be expected, as that is her great industry. Her 10,000 square feet in the mines department is thickly set with displays of nearly all known minerals, gold, coal and nickel leading in importance. The survey in the north northwest is far from complete, but it is known that in that province there is coal enough to supply all the deficiencies of timber and run the manufactures and transportation for many thousand years. British Columbia reports her gold yield to date $53,000,000 and manfully insists that the world must look to her for its future coin material, for she has just opened her great quartz veins and learns how to work them profitably and by the formation knows that she has enough for the world's needs for ages. South Africa comes back at her with a statement that she has recently discovered and proved a gold reef two miles long, which contains more of the yellow stuff than was mined in California and Australia both, and that before many years gold will again be "depreciated" as compared with silver. In fact she, South Africa, will take the contract to make it so. But as Kipling says, that's another story.

It is matter for unceasing wonder that in the latitude of Winnipeg, where the ice is five feet thick, the valleys of British Columbia have the winter climate of Tennessee, with roots and fruits, grain and flowers to correspond. But here are specimens of them to prove it. She also has as much good lumber "in the green" as all the United States east of the Mississippi, a fish export to the value of $2,500,000 annually, inexhaustible beds of coal and fertile valley land sufficient, so she claims, to support the population of England in comfort. In short, according to her very gentlemanly but somewhat enthusiastic agent, if that province were called like France it would take a respectable rank among the second-class powers of the world. "No other country in the world, sir, is the equal of it for hops; it has just that moist, mild atmosphere of the great hop country in southeastern England, only better, and yet agriculture is, as I may say, only started."

It goes without saying that in the forestry building Canada's exhibit is peculiarly fine. Her white and red pine have found their way to parts of the world, and her harder woods, which take so fine a polish, are almost equally noted. All the world has heard enough, however, of her far western forests; but it may surprise some to learn that the great hardwood forests of Ontario and Quebec are scarcely touched as yet, and that the production of maple sugar is a great industry. In the Transportation building Canada excels in sleighs, of course, and one of the curiosities there is a beautiful model of the sleigh presented by the women of Canada as a wedding present to the Duke of York and Princess May. Other curiosities are ice boats, snow shoes, folding beds, racing canoes, toboggan outfits and a dozen other things in the line.

And all this brings me back to my favorite "fad"—that the inventions of men to overcome climate give far more pleasure than the climate gives pain, and therefore to really enjoy himself a man of wealth should winter in Monte Carlo and summer in the Bahamas. Then he would have a steady thing and know what to depend on. Having tried both I'll take my oath that there is ten times as much fun in Minneapolis in winter as in New Orleans, for the fun and the sleighs, the good drinks and the glorious dinners (and how a man can eat and drink there) the life and vivacity and intellectual sparkle in that zero-and-below air far more than recompense one for any climatic inconvenience—that is, if he has plenty of money.

J. B. PARKER.

Caravels Transferred to Uncle Sam. Sept. 12 was a day of universal interest at the fair, as on that date the Columbus caravels were presented to the government. The ceremony attending their presentation was both appropriate and impressive. The honor of receiving them from Captain Gomez was accorded to Captain Berry, of the Michigan, by the secretary of the navy. Lieutenant Welles, who has been attached to the Latin-American department of the fair, was placed in immediate command of them. The caravels were manned by recruits, Captain Berry having received orders to enlist the necessary number of men to take charge of the boats, and to supplement them from the crew and officers of the Michigan to whatever extent necessary.

Jerry Denny is left-handed in all everything, with the exception of playing. He cuts cards and shuffles left-handed and uses his knife at the table with his left hand.

The other day the Binghamtons visited Buffalo and had but nine men with them. One of the players got hurt, and the Buffalo manager loaned one of his men, so that the game could be completed.

Last Wednesday, when Jim Sullivan of the Providence club went to the bat he was presented with a large and elegant bouquet. In the middle of the bouquet was a small cabbage in which was secreted a gold ring with a cameo setting.

Hornung seems no exception to the rule that players do not succeed as umpires, says the St. Louis Republic. He is a very Bob Ferguson. His vision is bad and his hearing imperfect. Old Ubbie is not only at fault in distinguishing balls from strikes, but he demonstrated to everybody's satisfaction, or rather dissatisfaction, that he is incapable of drawing the line between tips and strikes.

Careful investigations made by Grand Army men in Philadelphia have revealed the gratifying fact that of 1564 prisoners brought to trial in one of the police courts of that city during the first six months of this year, but eight were men who served in the army or the navy during the war of the rebellion, and of these, four were acquitted. Petty larceny was the offence charged against most of the eight.

WHERE IS MORKILL?

Boston's Missing Man Is Said to Be a Defaulter.

HE WAS TRACED TO CANADA

But Managed to Finally Give Pursuers the Slip.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—It is now known beyond any doubt that Nelson A. Morkill, ex-business manager of the Globe theater, once interested in the firm of McIntosh & Co. and former confidential man for John Stetson, is a defaulter to the amount of many thousands of dollars.

When Morkill's sudden disappearance became known, there were many of his financial transactions just before which aroused suspicion. Two checks, which Morkill obtained from Mr. Stetson, were the first cause to suspect that there had been a default. When the large certified check was traced, and it was found that it had been used for the purpose it was obtained for, Mr. Stetson was inclined to think that Morkill had used a little of the funds in his possession to tide himself over a temporary embarrassment through stock speculation.

Of the many men whom Mr. Stetson has been closely and intimately connected with in the conduct of his many enterprises, none have enjoyed his confidence more thoroughly than Morkill. The latter, in his whole manner, temperament and disposition seemed to make up the nature of a man suitable to work in harmony with Mr. Stetson's disposition. Mr. Stetson recognized this before Morkill had been with him a year.

This standing of Morkill's became so apparent that many well known men about town patronized him and sought his acquaintance. His list of friends became lengthy, and it was then noted that Morkill spent more time about certain hotels, and his life and Habits Were Not as Steady.

It is claimed that Morkill's first dissatisfaction over his dealings with Mr. Stetson came when the firm of McIntosh & Co. was established. It is known that Morkill had stated to some of his friends that he thought himself entitled to as much salary and interest in the new firm as Mr. McIntosh.

The new found intimate friends of Morkill gained such an influence over him that he was finally persuaded to take a venture in stocks, and it is now known that the continually changing markets drew him in further than he really intended to go.

Soon after his flight there was evidence enough discovered to show that Morkill was a defaulter to some extent.

An investigation was instituted, and it brought to the surface anything but a pleasant state of affairs. The rumor is that the discoveries made showed that Morkill had been making a systematic use of money to further his stock speculations. He got in deeper and deeper, and just before Mr. McIntosh's return from Europe, he Made One Bold Stroke and Skipped. That both Mr. Stetson and Mr. McIntosh are very bitter against Morkill is evident. The intention has been from the start to keep the whole truth from the public, but it is gradually leaking out. The amount of the defaultation is not given, but it amounts to a nice sum.

Efforts to secure the arrest of Morkill were put on foot over three weeks ago. From different sources he was traced to Canada, and his capture was determined upon.

About 10 days ago Inspector Burke of Chief Inspector Coulter's staff was sent off to follow up a clue. The inspector returned last week, having failed in his mission. Both he and his superiors refuse to talk or give any information about the matter.

The newspaper talk about Morkill being in South America was set afloat for reasons which are now apparent. The best information places Morkill in Canada, in the neighborhood of his old home. This part of the country is so sparsely settled that a fugitive, having the inhospitable friends, could almost bury himself safely from sight.

Those who knew Morkill well express the deepest regret for him, as it is said that he was honest and good-hearted, but became a victim to bad friends and advisers. That he will be arrested, if his whereabouts become known, is assured by the action already taken.

ARRESTS MAY FOLLOW.

Affairs of "The Annual Friend" Conducted in a Peculiar Manner.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 19.—William H. Anderson, to whom was referred the case of certificate holders against the broken endowment order named "The Annual Friend," has made his report of findings on the evidence taken before him as master. The report was made to Mayor Hicker. The report was made to Mayor Hicker. The report was made to Mayor Hicker.

Master Anderson's report was made in private, but one of the lawyers present says that the finding was that the management of the affairs had been unfaithful and bad. The supreme officers took unduly large sums for salaries. The sureties on their bonds were worthless. Some of the officers bought up certificates in their private capacity for $10 each, and voted themselves $100 on each one out of the treasury. In this way thousands of dollars disappeared.

After hearing the arguments on the report Mr. Anderson will make his report to the superior court. It is quite likely that on the strength of the report arrests may follow.

THE JACKSON ROBBERY

Appears to Have Been Committed by the Alleged Victim.

MEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 19.—J. A. Stewart, senior member of the firm of J. A. Stewart & Co., came on here from Medford, Me., and, at his instance, a warrant was issued for the arrest of John B. Jackson, who claimed to have suffered serious loss and injury at the hands of burglars last Friday morning. The charge is embezzlement. The warrant was placed in the hands of Chief of Police Holmes, who, with Sergeant Swett and City Physician Chandler, went early to the residence of Jackson at 23 George street.

Finding him in bed, Dr. Chandler made an examination, and it is said, found no evidence of a contusion or of anything that would be likely to cause a headache or headache. Jackson, where he was arraigned before Judge Pettengill. His case was continued for 10 days.

There were many suspicious stories connected with the story of the burglary which led to this new turn of affairs. These will be detailed when the case comes up for trial. The entire appearance of the premises, as seen on the morning of the alleged burglary, indicated that it was the work of some one on the inside rather than the outside.

The report sent out from this city was to the effect that during the night before a burglar had entered the residence of Mr. Jackson, and gone into his sleeping room; that the first Jackson knew of his presence was when the intruder put his hand under the pillow to get a sum of money laid away there; that Jackson then awoke and grappled with the thief; and that before the burglar departed two shots were fired at him by Jackson's daughter. The amount reported to have been stolen was $300.

BULLET ENDED HIS LIFE.

"Gentleman George" Killed While Attempting to Break Jail.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 19.—"Gentleman" George A. Ellwood, the desperate criminal who last February entered upon a 25 years' sentence at the Rhode Island state prison for burglary, was shot and killed yesterday afternoon.

The tragic ending of his notorious career was the result of a scheme in which he and "Spike" Murphy, the latter a life prisoner, sought to fight their way to freedom. Ellwood had determined to get away or be killed.

TRAINS CRASH TOGETHER.

Seven Persons Killed Outright and at Least Fifty Injured.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—A terrible collision occurred late last night at Manteno. The St. Louis diamond special crashed into the rear sleepers of the Cincinnati limited on the Big Four. Seven persons were killed outright and 50 injured, some fatally. The trains were crowded with World's fair visitors, and among the dead and injured are many of prominence.

Trains refused to divulge the cause of the wreck, but it is reported that the first section neglected to have a flagman stationed at the proper distance, and, as the trains were running close to each other, the engineer of the second section could not stop his train.

The cries of the injured were terrible. Doctors were telegraphed for at Kankakee, and arrived at the scene of the accident about midnight. There are 10 doctors on the ground. The injured and killed are at Manteno.

End of Sinfu Lives.

ROME, Sept. 19.—Henri Rosenberg, an American engineer; Blanche Fourguignon, a Parisian, and Marietta Tuffi, an Italian, killed themselves here by inhaling illuminating gas.

The new opera of the Grand Orfeo music hall and the women were his mistresses. He had been in financial difficulties recently. The women left letters indicating that they chose to die with him.

After Eno's Sculp.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The district attorney's office has prepared papers for appeal in the case of John C. Eno, ex-president of the Second National bank. Judge Wallace recently gave a decision, pronouncing Eno, and now the district attorney appeals to the supreme court of the United States to place him in the jurisdiction of the criminal courts.

Embezzler Swift Sentenced.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—In the Old Bailey W. W. Douglas was sentenced to five years, penal servitude for embezzlement. Douglas was formerly the agent here of the Swan Reef company of Chicago. Unsuccessful speculation was the cause of his downfall. His embezzlements amounted to $25,000.

The Homestead Poisoning Case.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 19.—Clerk Gearhart of the board of pardons has completed the arrangement of the papers filed in the Hugh Dempsey case. They are principally petitions and some after-discovered evidence regarding the poisoning of the Homestead men.

Killed Five Men.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Sept. 19.—The boiler in the sawmill of the L. J. Keller Lumber company near Whittier exploded, killing Richard Nichols, James Kelley, Ben McMahon and Jesse Gunther, white, and Henry Smith, colored.

Will Be a Double Execution.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.—Herman Sparr and Hans Hansen were sentenced to be hanged Nov. 24. They were convicted of killing on the high seas Second Mate Fitzgerald of the bark Hesper.

LEFT ALL BEHIND.

Fire Compels Settlers to Flee For Their Lives.

'SOONERS' HAVE PROFITED.

"Had a Cinch" on Cherokee Strip's Best Land.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 19.—A courier just in from the Pawnee reservation states that a terrific prairie fire is raging there, and hundreds of settlers have been compelled to abandon wagons, tents and outfits and flee for their lives on their horses. Several dead bodies have been found, and it is feared that many persons will perish. The boomers are returning by the hundreds, and there is a line several hundred strong at the barber shops and bath rooms, waiting their turn to get cleaned.

Perry's Growth.

There are now 25,000 persons at Perry. All the land adjoining the town site has been staked off into lots, and the Cherokee allotments at Wharton, a half mile away, were yesterday put on the market platted for a town site and several lots sold at from $100 to $400 each. Lots are selling at Perry at $250 and $300 each. Buildings are rapidly going up. T. M. Richardson & Son yesterday opened a bank in a substantial frame building. There are three daily and five weekly newspapers in the town, and more coming.

Sooners Got Everything.

ARKANSAS CITY, Sept. 19.—A sale swept the Cherokee strip yesterday. Tented towns were laid low by the wind and little progress was made by the army of town builders. Thousands of people moved out of the town site and several lots sold at from $100 to $400 each. Lots are selling at Perry at $250 and $300 each. Buildings are rapidly going up. T. M. Richardson & Son yesterday opened a bank in a substantial frame building. There are three daily and five weekly newspapers in the town, and more coming.

Reports coming in are all to the effect that the choice claims in the strip were all taken by sooners. Those who made the great race honestly last Saturday found the bottom lands all taken, and in many instances men were at work plowing ground about houses half completed of sod or boards. These sooners have profited by their Oklahoma experiences and it will be almost impossible to convict them.

Near Blackwell four quarter sections were found in possession of as many sooners by the racers when they came in on their foam-flecked horses. The claims were valuable, and the racers proceeded to drive the sooners away. A fight ensued, in which three men were killed, Arthur Johnson of Pueblo, Colo., George Childs of Valley Falls, S. D., and James Squires of Hennessey, O. T., all sooners.

A large mass meeting was held here last night and resolutions were adopted demanding the surrender to the civil authorities of the soldier who killed J. A. Hill at the line of the Chillico reservation Saturday afternoon. The officers of the Third cavalry refused to give the name of the soldier who did the shooting, claiming that he was simply obeying orders.

Numerous prairie fires have been the cause of more deaths than of sixshooters, and more charred bodies on which there was nothing to identify them were found on the prairies.

ACKERMAN'S AILMENT

Is Said to Be Spinal Trouble and Not Hydrophobia.

NORWALK, Conn., Sept. 19.—William Ackerman of Weston, who for weeks past has manifested symptoms of hydrophobia and barked like a dog, frequently snapping at people who came within his reach, is likely to recover. Recently he has had rational periods, and they appear to be growing in length every day.

When first afflicted Ackerman would foam at the mouth and jump about his house and yard on all fours. He is never known to have been bitten by a dog, and now the conclusion is arrived at that the disease is a spinal trouble that affects the brain. Guards watch over him constantly, and he is kept strapped firmly in bed to prevent him from injuring others or killing himself.

Wanted Cash For the Honeymoon.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—E. S. Simpson, said to be an expert bankworker and confidence man, was arrested here charged with forging checks to the amount of $400 on the Peoples' bank of Philadelphia. Simpson confessed his guilt, saying that he had been recently married, had spent all his money and resorted to forgery as a means to raise quickly some funds to meet his present expenses.

Had Symptoms of Cholera.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 19.—An unknown Swede died in the depot last night. He was found groaning at Westport, and it was decided to send him to the hospital here. The man was an immigrant, walking to Bridgeport from New York. His death has caused a scare, as his symptoms were somewhat like those of cholera.

New York, Sept. 19.—Manager McLellan of the Pauline Hall Opera company says that the company closed its season at New Haven Saturday night and did not disband, as has been reported. The company is now rehearsing a new opera in this city.

Bombardment Continued at Rio.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—A dispatch from Rio Janeiro says that the insurgent fleet resumed the bombardment of the city yesterday. Heavy firing was continued for several hours. No details have been received here from any source.

Cholera Decree Reversed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—United States Minister Caruth at Lisbon has secured a reversal of the recent decree and the Portuguese government declares the ports of New York and New Jersey free of cholera.

Charged With Conspiracy.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., Sept. 19.—The court room was packed at the hearing of Dr. H. C. Crandall and Deputy Sheriff H. L. Barton, charged with conspiracy to extort money from Dr. Webster Miller, all from Stockbridge. Judge N. B. San-

OLD PIANOS MADE NEW.

Our method is a great success for restoring mellow tone and firmness of keys. We do no repairing or patchwork whatever. We duplicate the worn-out parts of Hammers, Actions, Felts, and Strings with new ones, so as to insure durability and fine tone. Remember the Actions, Hammers and Felts are the only parts that wear out. Tinny or metallic tone comes from worn-out hammers. The seasoning of years only adds to the sonorous quality of the wood in the sound board and case.

We have rebuilt over 800 Pianos of all makes throughout the States. Read names of a few leading music teachers and piano tuners, who have endorsed our honest work by testimonials.

CONCRETE SIDEWALKS are just the thing for residential streets, and the idea that we must have brick or nothing should not prevail. We want sidewalks and must have them, and concrete would please a great many. What nice concrete sidewalks Hyde Park has.

THERE HAS NOT been a great deal of complaint as to the way reports of Council committees were written or orders drafted, but we must have it required considerable of the time and thought of the secretary, and that it has taken new members some time to "learn the ropes." A clerk of committees might be a very useful man if too frequent changes were not made, and where Councilmen serve without pay, the city ought to provide a clerk, especially if a competent man can be secured for $300. The salary seems rather small, but if it could be combined with clerk of Council or clerk to Assessors it might be an object.

SQUANTUM'S WANTS are as exorbitant as they are multitudinous and we cannot believe that the few taxpayers there expect to get even a small proportion of what they have almost demanded. The petition is only a forerunner of a revival of the Boston annexation fever. They very well know that Quincy will not spend any such sum of money in that section as asked, but they want the city to put itself on record, and then they expect to get off easy. The section has not been entirely neglected as the petitioners would have us believe. At the hearings in the spring the petitioners testified that they paid only about $9000 in taxes. The schooling of the children alone at $25 to $50 per head per annum, and the additional charge for transportation, would make quite a hole in this. The causeway has been frequently repaired, the fire alarm has been extended there, they have some police protection, a few street lights, etc. We don't say that they should not have more, but there is such a thing as asking for too much. The total amount received in taxes in ten years should not be expended in one. Three thousand would not go far in paying annually for electric lights, day and night patrol police, a fire department, interest on $30,000 or more, etc., etc. Perhaps the Committee on Street will decide that a fence can be built for less than $5,000.

Musicians, Attention.
 L. H. Battalia & Co., who renew old pianos and make them as good as new, are to open a factory in this city in a few days. Meanwhile orders may be left with Mr. C. F. Pettingill, the jeweler. Mr. Battalia has first-class testimonials from musicians and newspapers where he has been located. The Stamford, Conn., paper says:

We take pleasure in introducing Leo H. Battalia to the people of Stamford because he is highly recommended to us by the most famous piano factory and tuners of the United States. Mr. Battalia is not simply a repairer of pianos. He renews all worn-out parts of piano hammers, actions and felts without removing the instrument from the house. They simply remove the action of the piano to their factory, where the old hammers, felts and actions are duplicated with new ones, so as to insure durability, mellow tone and firmness of keys at a trifling expense. They have renovated hundreds of instruments of all kinds of makes, and have received numerous testimonials throughout the States for their fine work. A personal inspection of his work is all that is necessary to inspire confidence.

SQUANTUM AGAIN.

The City Council Hears of Its Numerous Wants.

CONTRACT LABOR OPPOSED.

Ordinance Reported Establishing Office of Clerk of Committees.

The fifth meeting of the City Council for the month was held Monday evening, and it was short like the others, there being no debates. Twenty members answered to the roll call, the absentees being Councilmen Donahoe, Drake and Smith.

Squantum Petition.
 Mayor Fairbanks forwarded a petition of the taxpayers of Squantum which set forth that the causeway was unsuitable for travel that the fence was down and unsafe, that the streets were not lighted, that there was no sewer or running water. They asked an appropriation of $20,000 for the rebuilding of the causeway, $5,000 for a strong fence, also for electric lights, police day and night, a horse carriage or engine for protection against fire, and the extension of the water mains. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Adams Street.
 Mayor Fairbanks forwarded a communication of Commissioner Ewell for instructions as to replacing wall on the estate of Harry L. Rice after the widening of Adams street.

Councilman Anderson offered an order for rebuilding the wall and also for a concrete sidewalk in place of edge-stone, which was adopted.

Ward Officers.
 At the suggestion of Councilman Johnson, the Mayor withdrew the nomination of Arthur W. Newcomb and substituted Rollin H. Newcomb as deputy warden in Ward Two, and the list was then confirmed.

Arnold Street.
 Councilman Johnson presented the petition of John E. Russell, and others for repairs of Arnold street. To Committee on Streets.

Other Petitions.
 The New England Telephone Co. petitioned for location for telephone poles on Palmer street. To Committee on Streets. Other petitions for licenses were referred.

Reports.
 The Committee on Finance reported that the order raising the interest on certain orders from 5 to 6 per cent., ought to pass. Passed to be ordained.

The Committee on Sewers reported reference to the executive department of the petition of John Leslie for abatement of nuisance on Water street. Adopted.

The Committee on Licenses reported on several licenses, and all except one for a night lunch wagon, were granted.

The Committee on Licenses reported it inexpedient to amend the ordinance concerning licenses. Accepted.

Clerk of Committees.
 The Committee on Ordinances reported, as requested, an ordinance establishing the office of clerk of committees and establishing his salary at $300. It took one reading.

Water Street Crossing.
 Councilman Lennan offered an order requesting the Mayor to notify the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. to relocate its gates and gate house at Water street now in the street. Adopted.

Contract Labor.
 The Central Labor Union forwarded a protest against the employment of contract labor on public works. A similar petition was received from the Polishers Union. Both were referred to the Committee on Contracts.

At 8.20 the Council adjourned.

TODAY'S COURT.

Barnard Dunan of Holbrook was arraigned for keeping an unlicensed dog. Case continued until Saturday.

Charles Dunan of Holbrook for keeping an unlicensed dog was fined $15.

Fight With Hungarians.

WHEELING, Sept. 19.—At the big Riverside mill, when the men went to work yesterday, about 50 Hungarians gathered and attempted to take the jobs from the Americans. A fight ensued, two Hungarians being seriously hurt, and a dozen men receiving bad injuries. None of the foreigners got work.

Many Thousand Miners on Strike.
 PARIS, Sept. 19.—The miners' strike in the department of Pas-de-Calais has begun to spread already to several other districts. Yesterday afternoon 42,000 miners in the north of France had quit work. Precautions against riot have been taken by the military in the districts affected by the strike.

Nineteen Cases Under Treatment.
 SAVANNAH, Sept. 19.—The Brunswick board of health reported four new cases of yellow fever in 24 hours. There have been no deaths. One patient was discharged, leaving 19 cases under treatment.

Provision Thieves Dealt With.
 BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 19.—Watchman Jules Pachard, who was employed by McElroy Bros., was bound over to the superior court in $500 bonds for stealing $3000 worth of provisions, and the court ordered warrants issued for members of all the families who have been buying of the watchman. He gave the names of eight families whom he had been supplying at reduced rates. A confederate, George Clifford, was sent to jail for theft.

RIDING FREE.

A Summer Resident Arrested for Stealing Railroad Tickets.

Last August there was stolen from the Rand, Avery Supply Co., of Boston, ten mileage tickets on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. valued at $200. Boston officers learned that the tickets had been stolen from the first thief but had been unable to locate the second party until this week when they received information that he was in Quincy.

An inspector from Boston visited this city Monday but was unable to locate him. He, however, left a description of his man with Chief of Police Langley.

This morning Chief Langley saw a man in the Square who answered the description and he was traced to Houghs Neck.

The Boston officers were notified and came out on the noon train, and in company with Chief Langley, they went to Houghs Neck and arrested George Henry alias George Case.

When arrested, Henry, or Case, had one partly used book in his possession, and acknowledged that he had sold five more. He claimed that he had purchased the tickets.

The fellow is about 35 years of age and has been living at Houghs Neck for a few weeks past, and was engaged in building a stable.

He was taken to Boston on the 1 o'clock train.

ESTHER NOT THE FIRST.

A Daughter Was Born to One of the Quincy Presidents.

The Boston Journal today in its "Women's Corner" says Esther Cleveland is the second baby born to a President in the White House. It says:

"Of the nine babies born in the White House, only once before has there been one born to the wife of a President."

"That was Mary Louisa Adams, who was also the first baby born in the White House. The record in the John Quincy Adams Bible, now owned by W. C. Johnson, Newburyport, Mass., gives the date of her birth as Dec. 2, 1828, which was the fourth year of John Quincy Adams' administration.

"There have been several christenings in the Executive Mansion, and there will soon be another added to the list, for baby Esther is to have one too.

The First White House Christening.

There was an evening christening at the Executive Mansion for Mary Louise Adams and it was a particularly stately occasion. Gifts and good wishes were laid at the feet of the distinguished baby, by Cabinet Ministers and Chief Justices, while her godfather was none other than the dignified Gen. Stephen Van Rensselaer, 'the last of the Patrons'.

The prayer book which was given to the little Mary Louise by her godfather is preserved in her husband's home, for this White House baby grew up and was married to her cousin, Mr. William C. Johnson, a grandson of Charles, the son of her great-grandfather, President John Adams.

"In company with the prayer book, a set of cupid cameos consisting of bracelets, necklace and brooch, gifts from the old Patrons, is also kept. The triple chains of fine gold are a puzzle of twists, coils and rings. One of the bracelets is a snowy winged cupid on the flying ring; on the other he is stooping to kiss a slim pet dog; on the brooch he is sitting as he plays Pan's pipes; while on the necklace he is waving a garland. One of the most unique of the souvenirs of her baby days is a funny little silhouette, found between the leaves of the old diary of her mother's bridesmaid. A portrait of her as a child hangs in the house of her husband, and shows her to have been a demure, modest and self-possessed little girl.

A White House Doll.
 "Her cousin William first met her when she was about thirteen. He once wrote of her that 'she was then, owing to the circumstances of the family's official position and the not very strong health of her grandmother and mother, a fully-matured woman assisting in receiving and entertaining; and it has always been my opinion that she never had any 'young life' in the ordinary acceptance of that term—certainly I never heard of any.' Notwithstanding this, it is certain that Mary Louisa had a doll, who is 'still living.' 'A big rag baby, 'Sally,' the first and only doll," wrote Mr. Johnson. He said 'Sally' was 'a personage who had served faithfully each subsequent childhood in our family.' Baby Mary Louisa had in it the White House, having received it from her great-aunt, Mrs. Thomas Boylston Adams, who made it for her just before the close of her grandfather's administration."

A silhouette of baby Mary Louisa Adams surrounded by her christening gift, a neck chain from her godfather, appears in the Journal.

It seems almost absurd to think of buying Holland window shades with pulls and fixtures complete for 25c, a tint cloth for 35c., or an English Lonsdale for 50c. These are our prices.—Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

The Kickapoos' Greeting

Words of Sympathy to the Sick and Suffering Whites.

After the Kickapoos Indians had consented to allow their medicines to be introduced among the white people they had a grand Medicine dance, lasting all night. Their wild movements in fantastic array around a blazing fire were in time to a chant they sang. The meaning of the words of their song was wholly of kindness, love and sympathy—a portion translated as follows:

"The Kickapoos bring you health."
"Their hearts are full of pity for you."
"Have hope for the great spirit."
"It will make you well and happy."
"It will make you well and happy."

It was with the feelings expressed by these words that they offered the Kickapoos Indian Remedies to the white people. That the remedies have done great good is evidenced by a large sale all over the continent and their remedies are now found on the shelves of every druggist in the land. It is somewhat the use has prevented serious sickness in thousands of cases.

Best of all it is a simple compound of roots, herbs and honey, about which the Indians have more knowledge than any living botanist or physician. Remember, too, that "Kickapoos" Remedies are genuine Indian preparations. Indians gather the herbs and prepare them for shipment. Indians receive them at the Laboratory. Indians steep them for the medicine and Indians put up the finished product. From first to last they are true Indians in their work.

Kickapoos Indian Remedies, the great Liver, Blood and Stomach Renovator, and other Kickapoos Indian Remedies are sold by all Druggists.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Representation to the Various Conventions—Ward Chairmen—Candidates.

With the exception of the Representative convention, each of the wards of the city will have the same number of delegates to each Republican convention as to State convention, viz: Ward One, 4; Ward Two, 3; Ward Three, 3; Ward Four, 3; Ward Five, 3 and Ward Six, 2.

At the Republican representative convention the wards will be entitled to one delegate for every 25 votes and majority fraction for Harrison, viz: Ward One, 13; Ward Two, 9; Ward Three, 11; Ward Four, 9; Ward Five, 12; Ward Six, 6. Making a total of 60 delegates to the convention.

The chairman of the several Republican ward committees, who will call the caucuses to order on Saturday evening are: Ward One, Wilson Marsh; Ward Two, Charles H. Johnson; Ward Three, Charles H. Grindell; Ward Four, Charles L. Hammond; Ward Five, Charles R. Sherman; Ward Six, Frank E. Badger.

The Republican Councillor convention will be held Oct. 5. Quincy would like to see Mayor Fairbanks nominated, but he is not working for the nomination while others are.

Preliminary voting lists must be posted by Saturday Oct. 7, and the Registrars will hold two meetings previous to that date.

Quincy Republicans will this year nominate one candidate for representative and three promises to be no contest. Representative Graham has served the usual two terms and will retire. Representative Hammond has had but one year and is likely to receive a unanimous renomination, as his constituents are pleased with his legislative career. Weymouth Republicans will nominate two men.

Weymouth Democrats will nominate one candidate for representative this year, and it is said that Representative Worthen will have a "walkover." Three names are prominently suggested in Quincy, Mr. Timothy Ford who ran last year, and Councilmen Adams and Federhen. Which two will be selected it is difficult to predict.

Ohio farmers who got 20 cents per pound for their wool get 12 cents now. The reason is plainly given in Democratic and Mugwump papers. They say that wool is now on the free trade basis. How do the farmers to whom they promised higher prices for wool like this object lesson? Nero fiddled when Rome was burned.

Cleveland fished in Buzzard's Bay while banks were bursting, merchants failing, mills and mines stopping, and working men tramping and begging for food. As a fisherman, Cleveland is a great success, as a statesman, he is hardly worth considering. How do the veterans of the late war like the position now assumed by the Democratic administration with reference to pensions. Our advice to them is, when you get notice that you are suspended, pay no attention to it. Do not humiliate yourself for nothing. There will come an administration that will recognize your paper as good. Mr. Hoke Smith has only endeavored to reverse Apollonator. Let every soldier keep his certificate and flaunt it in the face of the government as a witness of its faithlessness until the debt is recognized and paid.

When money is scarce, then is the time to make it go the farthest—Comforters from $1.00 up. Blankets from 50c up—A rattling line—Prices to suit the times.—Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

Mortgagee's Sale.

BY Virtue of and pursuant to a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Charles E. Jenkins, Jr. of Quincy, Massachusetts, to William L. Mercer, dated April 18, A. D. 1883, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 691, folio 182, which mortgage has been duly assigned to Charles S. Jenkins, will be sold at public auction on the premises, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage, on Friday, the thirtieth day of October, A. D. 1893, at three o'clock P. M., all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed as follows, to wit:

A certain piece or parcel of land, together with the buildings thereon, situated in said Quincy, bounded and described as follows, viz: beginning at a point on Billings street, by the northeast corner of land owned now or late by Charles Coe, and running easterly on said Billings street, for a distance of one-half lot, to land of one Kendall; thence turning and running southerly on land of said Kendall, one hundred feet, to a point on land of one Larkin, eighty-two and one-half feet distant easterly from the land of the said Coe; thence turning and running westerly on land of said Larkin, eighty-two and one-half feet to a point by land of said Coe; thence turning and running northerly by land of said Coe, one hundred feet, to the point of beginning, containing 8,250 square feet of land, more or less. Said premises will be sold subject to any unpaid taxes. Terms made known at sale.

A QUESTION OF TIME

Vote of the Senate Is Sure to Favor Repeal.

LONG-WINDED SILVERITES

Likely to Receive a Check in the Near Future.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Secretary Carlisle, in a conversation, said that a careful canvass of the senate shows that the repeal bill has 49 assured votes in that body. Therefore the friends of the measure are not giving themselves any uneasiness as regards the passage of the bill.

The paramount question at this juncture is how long the opponents of the bill can hold out. He knows that there are many speeches yet to be made by the silver advocates. They will endeavor to consume as much time in that way as possible.

Two or three of these senators threaten to occupy about two or three days apiece. They will be given all the time they desire for general discussion; but when it becomes apparent that they are simply talking to kill time, and delay a vote, the friends of the repeal bill will insist that dilatory discussion must stop.

Those who favor resistance to the bitter end have been making a canvass of their forces. They find that on both the Democratic and silver state sides they will not be able to muster more than 15 or 16 votes at all told. This number of long-winded senators would enable them to hold out for some time.

As soon as it becomes a question of physical endurance, as suggested by Senator Pugh, the belief is that they will not be able to hold the senate for more than six or eight days. There has been a revival of the talk among the more conservative members in the Democratic ranks as to whether some agreement cannot be reached.

No Compromise.

The subject was broached to the president and Secretary Carlisle by Senators Ransom and Gordon, but the former still insisted, as there exists an undoubted majority in the senate in favor of repeal, that he could not see why it was necessary to surrender to the minority, and especially when public sentiment was overwhelmingly in favor of repeal.

The proposition of Senator Faulkner, which was thrown out as a feeler toward compromise, meets with no favor whatever with either the president or the secretary of the treasury and has no strength in the senate, except among the silverites. The administration thinks the measure fully as unsatisfactory as the existing situation, which may be now undergoing a repeal. Another week or 10 days of discussion, it is expected, will develop some practicable scheme which will bring this protracted controversy to a crisis.

The Republican senators are looking on complacently, and are ready at any moment to proceed to a vote, throwing their whole strength, except from the silver states, in favor of repeal. The Republican strength, on a careful canvass, foots up 25 out of the 49 claimed by the administration, which gives them a majority of the vote of the senate in favor of honest money.

A Dull Day.

The senate held a short session yesterday. Its attention was devoted to Senator Peffer's resolution directing the committee on interstate commerce to inquire into the recent train robberies. Senators Cullum and Hoar took the position that the matter should be left in the hands of the judiciary committee, and Senators Hawley, Vest and Delph opposed the proposition on constitutional grounds. But the resolution was not disposed of when the senate took a recess to attend the centennial ceremonies and on their conclusion, at 5:15, adjourned.

The house did nothing yesterday but meet and take a recess to attend in a body the exercises in connection with the celebration of the centennial anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the Capitol.

The Trefethen Case.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 19.—The jury in the Trefethen trial was made up very easily. The prisoner objected to 24 on the list, but the state threw out only 13 of them. The prosecution was then opened by Mr. Cooney. The defense was then opened by Mr. Trefethen. The courtroom was crowded, there being many more women than men in the crowd. The accused man exhibits but very little emotion.

The Mineral Range Robbery.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Sept. 19.—Practically all the men who had anything to do with the robbery of the Mineral Range express last Friday of $70,000 are in jail on charges of conspiracy and up to date, $14,000 of their booty has been recovered. George Liberte, a former fireman on the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic road, was arrested and made a clean breast of the whole affair.

Shot in Cold Blood.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 19.—James Rainey, private secretary to L. D. Richards, president and superintendent of the Hot Springs railway, was shot down while in the performance of his duties at the railroad depot by an unknown assassin. He is expected to die at any moment. No motive is assigned for the deed.

Lynching In Prospect.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 19.—John Taylor, a farmer, residing near Greenville, was murdered by John McClarin, colored. Taylor caught McClarin stealing fruit and ordered him to desist, whereupon the negro brandished a fence rail. The murderer is in jail at Somerville. He will probably be lynched.

Big Loan Concern Assigns.

DENVER, Sept. 19.—Crippen, Lawrence & Co. have filed a deed of assignment. The firm is one of the largest loan concerns in the city or the west. They have done business running up into the millions. No statements of assets or liabilities have been made.

Ives Won First Heat.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—In the first night's play between Frank C. Ives and John Roberts, Jr., at 600, Ives won, modified English billiards, for $3500 a side, Ives won with the score 1000 to 983.

An Increase of $9000.

MONTREAL, Sept. 19.—The Canadian Pacific railway earnings for the week ending Sept. 14 were $424,000, against $415,000 for the same period last year.

Wages Take a Drop.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 19.—The following notice was posted in the Pacific mills: "On account of the great depression in business it becomes necessary to reduce wages in these mills. A reduction will therefore take effect Sept. 25, 1893." The number of operatives in this city who have already received notices of a cut-down is about 10,000.

Case Continued.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 19.—Dwight L. Shurtleff of West Ashford, whose cider brandy still was recently seized by Collector Hutchinson, waived examination before United States Commissioner Marvin, and was bound over to the United States court under $1000 bonds. His case came up today, but was continued to the December term.

Accident or Suicide?

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 19.—The body of Miss Annie Bradford, 23 years old, was found in the swimming tank of the Metropole club yesterday. She was said to be intimate with the manager of the place and either slipped into the pool while looking for him, or committed suicide. She is well connected.

Kickers Discharged.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 19.—The help at the Acushnet mills returned to work yesterday with the exception of about half the back boys in No. 1. The six doffers who induced the strike were discharged. It is thought that this is the last of the present labor troubles and the situation looks most hopeful.

Editors Swap Stories.

HARTFORD, Sept. 19.—About 40 members of the Connecticut Editorial association, composed of editors of weekly papers of the state, met in Manchester and were shown about the town. There was a banquet at the Oxford hotel, at which speeches were made.

Pleases the Defense.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—The defense in the Potter case is thought to have scored an important point, because the court yesterday excluded Work's testimony relative to a conversation with Potter as to a reserve statement to the clearing house.

A Vicious Assault.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 19.—Hugh Prior, a barber, was arraigned in the district court for assaulting his wife with a razor, and was held for trial. Prior cut his wife's throat almost to the windpipe while drunk.

Silver Platers Resume Work.

HARTFORD, Sept. 19.—The William Rogers Manufacturing company and the Rogers Silver Plate company started their works on full time yesterday. The plant is one of the largest in New England.

Refused to Plead.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 19.—Patrick Blake, charged with the murder of Joseph Heroux, was arraigned yesterday. He refused to plead, and was remanded for examination without bail.

Pleads Not Guilty.

TAUNTON, Mass., Sept. 19.—Jose Correa de Mello of Fall River was arraigned in the superior court charged with the murder of Bertha Manchester of Fall River. He pleaded not guilty.

Creditors Mourn His Departure.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 19.—Joseph D. Watrous, a Chapel street baker, has disappeared, leaving many debts. His place of business has been attached for $20.00.

Work For Shoemakers.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 19.—The Portsmouth Shoe company will start up Sept. 23. Eight hundred men are employed.

Brief Mention.

A special inspector of customs has been appointed at Vaneboro, Me. Burglars at Phillips, Me., secured money and valuables to the amount of $9,000. John Dunbar, 50, committed suicide at New Haven by cutting his throat with a razor.

A Frenchman named Joe Thrombley was arrested at Fairfield, Me., for stealing provisions.

Rev. M. F. Mevis was ordained as pastor of the Congregational church in Southboro, Mass.

The case of Mrs. Anna Makepeace, accused of manslaughter, was nolle prossed at Dedham, Mass.

The hearing of evidence in the Enright murder case is still in progress before the grand jury at Montpelier, Vt.

Mrs. Hannah Ballou of Woonsocket, R. I., who was visiting friends in Upton, Mass., was found dead in bed.

Seventy-nine names are on the roll of the freshman class of Bowdoin college, the largest class that ever entered.

Samuel Stearns, one of the oldest merchants in Middletown, Conn., made an assignment. Liabilities not known.

Eli St. Harn and Rusket Rugg, Armenian peddlers, were arrested at Biddeford, Me., charged with highway robbery.

At Middletown, Conn., William Conlon, for refusing to pay for a license for a "bankrupt sale" shoe store, was fined $30 and costs.

Rev. John S. Seale of Plymouth, Conn., has declined the call to the pastorate of the Marlboro (Mass.) Congregational church.

One open and four box cars, stored in the old carhouse of the Lynn and Boston railroad at Beverly, Mass., have been stripped of all brass work by thieves.

Mrs. Della McGovern, who was frightenedly burned while lighting a fire with kerosene at Lawrence, Mass., is dead. She was 33 years of age and leaves a husband and a baby boy.

The Edwards Manufacturing company of Beon, operating a great cotton plant in Augusta, Me., announced a 10 per cent reduction in wages of its employees, to take effect Monday, Sept. 25.

Unknown parties damaged several finished granite blocks at the works of John Bengie, C. H. Moore & Co., and Charles McMillan, at Barre, Vt. The stones were damaged to the extent of $400.

In the superior court at Portland, Me., Bernard J. McCarthy, who is charged with larceny of mileage books from the Maine Central railway, filed a demurrer, and sent his case to the law court.

Joshua Ward, aged 77, died at S. Johnsonbury Centre, Vt. He had the lawyer's license in the Methodist church, and supplied pulpits in the vicinity of S. Johnsonbury without pay, supporting himself from his farm, upon which he was born.

Sergeant James Whittaker, orderly on the government ferryboat plugging between Portsmouth, N. H., and the ferry yard, received a silver medal from the secretary of the treasury for heroism displayed in saving the life of a passenger of the boat at the risk of his own.

THE SPIDERS WON.

Game Was Well Played and Had an Exciting Finish.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 19.—There was a very exciting finish to the game, when in the 10th inning John Clarkson, who was the first batter, hit the first ball pitched for a home run and won the game for Cleveland. It was a brilliantly played game and the Cleveland bunched their hits on Gastright, which was something the Boston could not do on Clarkson. Rain fell during the game.

LIVED AND DIED TOGETHER.

Funeral of Two Old Ladies of an Historical Family.

SAUGUS, Mass., Sept. 19.—A double funeral took place yesterday afternoon from the old Boardman homestead. The remains of Miss Sarah B. Boardman, 85 years, and Mrs. Selona B. Howard, 83 years, both daughters of the late Alvin Boardman, laid in two elegant caskets side by side. Both belonged to an historical family well known throughout eastern Massachusetts. They had been devoted daughters to the last real descendant of the first branch of the Boardman family.

The house both have lived in all their lives is over 200 years old, and it was here that their own father first saw the light of day. From girlhood both daughters grew up to be respected and kind-hearted women. In all their years on this earth they had known of no parting, and it is singular that both should be taken sick on the same day, die within 24 hours of each other, and now to be buried in peace side by side, while the soil covered them both at the same time.

The daughters were taken sick a week ago of summer complaint. Mrs. Howard died last Friday and Miss Boardman on Saturday.

A Credit to New Hampshire.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—The New Hampshire dairy exhibit tests for the month of September have been reported to the state commissioners. The tests are a credit to the exhibitors and the state. The average score of the 37 state exhibits was 94; average score of creameries, 96; creameries tub, 93.8; creameries print, 94.7; dairies, 92.3; dairies tub, 93; dairies print, 93. The highest score of creameries, 98, and dairies, 97.

On a Non-Union Basis.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 19.—Two hundred and fifty men were benefited by the resumption of work at the mills of the Pittsburgh Forge and Iron company yesterday. More of the old employees will be given work as rapidly as possible. The firm refused to sign the Amalgamated wage scale.

The Cholera in Hamburg.

QUARANTINE, S. I., Sept. 19.—Dr. Jenkins received a cablegram from Dr. Nash, who had been sent to Hamburg in view of the likelihood that cholera would again be epidemic there this year, stating that there were nine cases of cholera with five deaths in Hamburg.

Valkyrie Is Safe.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Captain Griffiths of the steamer Spain, from London, reports that on Sept. 16, lat. 41.36, lon. 64.36, at 5 p. m., he passed the great Valkyrie, bound west; apparently all well. She will probably arrive this evening.

Killed on a Crossing.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 19.—Frederick J. Kinsler, aged 70, while crossing the track ahead of a locomotive, in a wagon, was instantly killed by a Pennsylvania engine at Summerfield avenue crossing.

BIDDING GOODBYE TO HIS OWN BODY.

Farwell, dear body! I have thrilled you through.

With all the love that angels ever knew! Sometimes with towering rage and mischief spite.

That would drive Lucifer out of paradise! Sometimes with kindred spirits we have met in high symposium that I can't forget!

How can we part? Alas! I cannot stay. Here ends the long, sweet, sad, delightful way.

I mourn for you. I feel sensation creep That would be tears, but spirits do not weep. How have I bathed, protected, petted you. With constant care your slightest wish to do. What heavenly beauty I have known in you. Those shapely limbs, with bright blood man-ling through.

The supreme air of heavenly forms above. Bright image of our God, whose name is love!

The Master calleth me! I must fulfill My destined course and meet his holy will. All aching, full of love, dear form, I tell. The parting hour is come. Sweet call, farewell! Now I arise above the days and hours. But thou must rest among the birds and flowers.

MY FRIEND'S WIFE.

After all I am going to marry Lucile. It is more than a year since poor Robethon died, and—perhaps I am a donkey to do it at my time of life, but she is unquestionably a charming woman. She made him happy, and I am afraid I am a fool. I feel, however, as though I owed it almost to his memory, and something to her too. Yes, there is no doubt I owe her something in that line—and yet, good heavens, I am not doing it on that account. I love her desperately, down to the ground.

"Dick," she said to me yesterday, looking straight at me with her wonderful blue eyes—"Dick, why do you ask me now?"

"Better late than never," I answered. She began, "Five, six years ago you"—and stopped.

"I know," I was a fool, Lucille. I never once thought of it though. You see, the idea was foreign to me. I never intended to marry."

"And now?"

"With your kind assistance I do intend to."

"Why?"

Her question almost bowled me over. I gazed at the carpet, wondering how I could best put it to her. Presently I looked up, and as our eyes met I blurted out, "Because I love you, of course."

I did not mean to say that just then. The truth is that the idea of "reparation" had got sole possession of my brain, and how to express it I grumbled.

Lucille laughed lightly. "That, Dick, is a second thought, and not a bad one for a man who is offering himself as a husband. Still, I want your first."

"I was thinking that, love apart, you have a moral claim upon me."

A great wave of color rose and fell, leaving her beautiful face pale as marble. "A claim—really? A moral claim? Why moral? Why not material? When I turn huckster, Dick, I will traffic only for gold."

I saw what she meant. Love's gifts, being no impoverishment of love, entail indebtedness upon the recipient. Love is paid for its gift in the giving. This, I thought, was a counsel of perfection, and better suited to angels and angelic loves than to men and women in an earthly, highly conventional and British society.

"And that is why you wish to marry me?" she asked.

I felt that I was on thin ice. "No, darling, it is not. I love you. There's no harm in that, I hope?"

"No, not a bit. It is a very good reason. Genuine, Dick?"

"Quite, on my honor."

"I know you are an English general—more, of an English gentleman—more still, of a well tried friend—that is good enough for me. Here's my hand on it, Dick."

That was only yesterday. It seems 20 years ago. Poor Robethon—he knew little. I do not think I was to blame. I acted loyally enough by him. It was like this, you see. Robethon and I were pretty close friends. I spent much of my time at my club, and at one or other of them I was always coming across Robethon. The taste for chess was mutual and was the ground of our first acquaintance. We were about the same age—heading fast for 50. He was short and stout; I was long and lean.

I had been all over the world, while he had never been outside of England. Sometimes I fancied he had never been outside of London. If he had, he was careful to conceal the fact. We were both bachelors. His chambers were close to St. James street, mine to Piccadilly. We never visited each other though. He was partner in a well known firm of bankers, but had not entered their place of business for 20 years. He had read a world beyond me and was a gentle, sympathetic, clean souled gentleman.

I wish I could say as much truthfully of myself, no false modesty should keep me from writing it down. Still Robethon cared for me, and I am indebted sure I am to him. His reticence was characteristic of the man; it was like a suit of steel armor covering him from head to foot. Sometimes I think it was, fundamentally, shyness—not of the ordinary kind, of which there was not a trace about him, but deep spiritual shyness. On the other hand, it might have been due to an austere selectness of spirit, a sensitive, delicate pride of soul. The clubmen held him in great esteem, in a manner very proud of him, considered him an authority on disputed points of honor and the like and accepted his judgment with docility and reverence.

One day I met a lady on Pall Mall—tall, fair, straight as a dart and with a face that fell on me like a vision. I turned and watched her, and while so doing she suddenly halted, turned around and came toward me. I stood still. In passing she gave me a momentary glance. Ha, she was very lovely!

A month or six weeks later there was a reception at a certain foreign embassy, and I happened to be present. It was not my kind of thing at all, but I chanced to be an old acquaintance of the ambassador in question. There was a big crowd, and dancing was in full swing. Passing by the ballroom, I stood for a moment to watch the dancers. The first thing I saw was the lady of Pall Mall, gloriously arrayed, waltzing with a German.

"Who is she?" I asked a man I knew.

"Which one? Oh, that divine symphony of color there, eh? That is Mrs. Trenchard."

"And who is Mrs. Trenchard?"

"He shook his head. 'She's a widow; that's all I know. She is in the swim; wonder you haven't met her before. I have, half a dozen times; but I live up to my principles, of which the first is, Thou shalt not do—anything in this widow line.'

I left him grinning. I could have kicked him without any remorse. From another man I gleaned that Trenchard had been in the Indian political service and had died suddenly. In certain lines men are dolts and women creatures of genius. A woman there, a dear old dowager, told me in five minutes all I wanted to know. Her people were all dead, she was a lady of birth and breeding, she had none too much money, she was very popular and very correct, and—would I like an introduction? Five minutes later I made my first bow to the divine symphony. She was gloriously generous, gave herself to me for 10 whole minutes, and when I withdrew she murmured, with a graciousness that seemed regal, "Perhaps we shall meet again."

We did meet, again and again. Our acquaintance ripened into friendship and finally into very close intimacy. I saw her at least once every week. This went on for three or four years. Between me and Robethon she was a forbidden subject. I knew it would only pain him. For the same reason I never once mentioned Robethon's name to her.

It was December. Robethon and I, as usual, were lunching at the same table. All at once he said, "I am married."

"Married! God forbid!"

"I have been married a month."

"In that case it would be brutal not to wish you joy!"

"Thank you," I think I have found a pearl of great price. I am living now in Grosvenor Gardens. We are having a few friends in tonight—a very few. You will come, won't you? I want you to know my wife."

"With all the pleasure in the world. But it is like a dream."

He laughed like a man on the right side of the hedge as he said: "Yes, it's like a dream—a beautiful dream. Come as early as you can."

I think I felt a little thrill that such a revolution in his domestic economy should have occurred without his informing me of it, but I was none the less curious to see the woman who made so notable a capture. In these days it is the men and not the women who are captured. I was very punctual. The rest of the folks were of course late. Robethon met me in the coatroom.

"Bagot," he said, "this is very good of you. I've been thinking I ought to have told you sooner, but—I'll tell you how it happened and all about it at the club."

"Meanwhile, Robethon, one word. Are you happy?"

"As a king."

"No secret regrets, eh?"

"Not the ghost of one. She is perfect. Come, you must see her."

Arm in arm we entered the drawing room. She was alone. I saw a vision of amber colored silk and fluttering lace and heard him say, "Lucile, this is my dear friend, General Bagot."

Then for the first time I saw her face. It was my own fair lady of Pall Mall! What she felt I do not know. "Good God!" broke involuntarily from my lips, and I had just sense enough to turn to Robethon and tell him in an aside that a sudden and awful twinge of gout had seized me. Women, being born intriguers, are nimble witted by nature and acquirement. When our eyes met a second time, the lady was perfectly self possessed and instinct with sympathy over my dreadful gout.

The attack was soon over.

The dinner, I believe, was good and the company smart and lively people. My anecdotes went off like champagne corks, and I fancy I created for myself a reputation for brilliancy which, happily, I do not feel it my duty to live up to.

For myself, I do not know what I said, did, ate, drank or thought. I was in a maze. Later in the evening I saw her alone for five minutes.

"By all that's wonderful, Lucile, what does it mean?" I asked.

"Just what you see. I am Mrs. Robethon," she answered, fluttering her fan. "But—he is my friend. Not for world's would I!"

"No, it would be awkward."

"Awkward! Listen, Lucile. The curtain being down, there are some plays may never be revived."

She looked at me for some moments. Then she said: "That is true. If I had thought only of myself, Dick, it would have been I and not you who would have been the first to say, 'There are some plays may never be revived.'"

"Forgive me! I know it. But"— "Not another word. We are alike in our thoughts of him. We will be loyal to him to the end. Still, we are friends, Dick, all the same."

"And now my turn has come. Poor Robethon has gone, and after all, I am going to marry Lucile. What an odd world it is!—Chicago Post.

Egyptian Cats Fond of the Water. By some persons the popularity of the cat in Egypt has been attributed to the fact that the animal was valuable in ridding the palaces of rats and mice and also in hunting fowl. There are several paintings in the British museum, executed by ancient Egyptian artists, representing Egyptian sportsmen in boats on the river Nile, accompanied by large cats, sitting on their haunches in the stern. Other pictures show the cats swimming with birds in their mouths after the manner of retriever dogs. These pictures have greatly perplexed modern naturalists because the cat of today has a strong aversion to water, and it is difficult to reconcile such different traits, even after the lapse of thousands of years.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Artificial miniature auroras of the borealis variety have been produced by both de la Rive, the French savant, and Lenstrom, the Swedish astronomer. In Prof. Lenstrom's experiments, which were made in Finland, the peak of a high mountain was surrounded with a coil of wire, pointed at intervals with tin tubes. The wire was then charged with electricity, whereupon a brilliant aurora appeared above the mountain, in which spectroscopic analysis revealed the greenish yellow rays so characteristic in nature's display of "northern light."

FIRM HAD A HIGH RATING.

Endorsement of Notes Led to the Present Trouble.

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 20.—Great surprise was caused here by the announcement of the suspension in Colorado of the well-known firm of Crippen, Lawrence & Co. For a long time the headquarters of the firm was in Salina, Kan., but was recently removed into Colorado, where the firm had a branch office previously established.

The most prominent member of the firm was Henry J. Crippen of this city, where the concern had a large office. He was graduated from Dartmouth college in 1881, and for a number of years was cashier of the National State Capital Bank of Concord, of which he is now a director.

George E. Lawrence died some years ago, but it is understood that his widow has an interest in the firm. Another member is Joseph J. Crippen, a brother of Mr. Crippen already named. Joseph has passed most of his time in the west, personally looking after the affairs of the firm.

Concerning Mr. Putnam, the remaining member, but little is known. A commercial agency rates the firm at $400,000 to $500,000, and its eastern correspondent is said to be the Bank of Redemption of Boston.

It is but just to say that from the establishment of the firm until its assignment it enjoyed a very high reputation among bankers and other financiers in New Hampshire. They have been regarded as very conservative in the placing of loans on Western farms. They have always done business as a firm, never having been incorporated as a company.

The total amount of the loans, bonds and securities which the firm now has outstanding is very large, and in this state they are widely scattered among banks and individuals. The holdings of New Hampshire savings banks would show a large aggregate, but it is not thought that any single bank holds an amount sufficient to affect its business.

In issuing debentures the firm put $100,000 worth for every $105,000 of mortgage securities. The latter are now held by Hon. John Kimball and Hon. William M. Chase of Concord as trustees. It is said that these gentlemen have recently been west and made a careful examination of nearly every piece of real estate upon which a loan has been made, and that they are satisfied that the securities, as a whole, are excellent. A prominent bank president of Concord says that he thinks the firm has been very Very Conservative and Careful in the placing of loans, and he thinks that there will not be great loss on the debentures.

An intimate friend of Mr. Crippen says that the cause of the suspending was not losses on farm mortgage bonds or debentures, but that the losses have resulted from the firm endorsing notes for two parties, one residing in Lowell, Mass., and one in New York city.

Henry J. Crippen, the head of the concern, and who has been remarked as laying out the policy which has controlled it, is a popular citizen of Concord and bears unblemished reputation. He is understood to have made money very fast in the Western loan business, and has been estimated as worth at least $150,000. As a citizen, he has been generous and public spirited.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

An Ex-Convict Attempts to Indecently Assault a Four-Year-Old Child.

WALTHAM, Mass., Sept. 20.—John Stewart, an ex-convict, was arrested last evening by Superintendent Burnford of the almshouse for attempting to commit an assault upon a 4-year-old child. Stewart has been an inmate of the poorhouse about six weeks. Stewart, who is a veteran of the war, enlisted from this city, and when he came to Waltham he sought the overseers of the poor and informed them of that fact. As a result he was admitted to the almshouse.

Of late he has been seen in company of little girls who live in the neighborhood. Yesterday afternoon, it is alleged, he enticed a 4-year-old girl into the bushes and was in the act of assaulting the child when her mother appeared on the scene and rescued the child.

The woman, whose name is withheld by the police, notified Superintendent Burnford, who took Stewart to the police station. Superintendent Burnford informed Sergeant Taft that Stewart's pension papers had come to him a few days ago and that they had been redirected from the Charlestown prison. Sergeant Taft telephoned to the prison and learned that Stewart had been released from there in August, 1892. He served four years for rape, the offence being committed in Na tick.

The mother of the child did not seem anxious to appear in court against the man, but since his record has been established she will probably be prevailed upon to appear against him.

Defense Takes a Turn.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 20.—The defense began its testimony in the Schloss malpractice case in the city court yesterday. Mrs. Schloss, mother of the dead victim; Maggie Hanrahan of Ansonia, a close friend of the girl; and William Cash, the alleged betrayer, all testified to the effect that she had admitted to them taking purgative pills before consulting Drs. Lee and Whitten of this city. Attorney Case of Hartford demanded that Detective Cowles and City Attorney Fox give up the pills for examination, which, after a dramatic protest, they did.

Strike at Lynn.
LYNN, Mass., Sept. 20.—A strike has been declared at T. G. Plant's shoe factory, all the union men being ordered out by the Knights of Labor, in support of the edgemarkers and makers, who went out several days ago, and the cutters, who were discharged yesterday. About 250 workmen are affected.

Connecticut Criminals.
NEW HAVEN, Sept. 20.—The fall session of the United States district court was opened here yesterday. Hiram Green of Stonington received a sentence of five years in state prison for breaking into the Mystic postoffice. Pietro Vecessi and Vittorio Ferrari, the New York counterfeiters, were found guilty, but sentence was deferred. Dwight W. Shurtliff of West Ashford pleaded guilty to the charge of keeping an illicit distillery. Sentence deferred.

Probably Fatal Accident.
FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 20.—Frank Corvisey, aged 30, employed in the Barnard mill, met with a shocking accident yesterday which may prove fatal. He was at work on an opening machine, standing on the bearings, when his footing gave way and he was drawn into the leathers. His legs were crushed and the left one had to be amputated. He lies at the hospital in a critical condition.

The Trefethen Indictment.
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 20.—Mr. Schofield attacked the last three counts in the indictment against Trefethen yesterday, and denounced them as absurd. Mrs. Davis, mother of the dead girl, testified as to the relations between her daughter and the prisoner. The testimony of the day was mainly a repetition of that offered at the first trial.

Want the Tax to Remain.
NEW HAVEN, Sept. 20.—Twenty-five local corset manufacturers met last night and discussed the advisability of protesting against the tariff bill now before the ways and means committee at Washington. As this bill removes the tax on corsets they are anxious not to have it passed.

Weighty Questions Argued.
BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Yesterday was devoted to arguing law points in the Potter trial. Counsel for the defendant pointed out alleged indictment flaws. There was a hint of withdrawal if the government is not allowed to prove the defendant's guilty knowledge.

Calls for Investigation.
NEW HAVEN, Sept. 20.—Michael Rynolds, a well known sporting man of this city and vicinity, was found dead in a cheap Italian boarding house under peculiar circumstances. Medical Examiner White is making an investigation.

Concerning Crazy Convicts.
HARTFORD, Sept. 20.—Warden Woodbridge of the state prison has requested Governor Morris to appoint a lunacy commission to inquire into the condition of some 15 convicts. It is expected that the request will be granted.

Was an Accident.
PROVIDENCE, Sept. 20.—An autopsy was held on the body of Annie Bradfield, which was found in the tank at the Natatorium on Monday. A verdict of accidental drowning was the result.

Brief Mention.
Several cases of diphtheria are reported at Newton, Mass.

John Melard of Swampscott, Mass., dropped dead from his wagon.

Daniel Fogarty fell from a street car in Woonsocket, R. I., receiving injuries from which he died.

George Dennison of Boston is accused of misrepresenting property sold to Mrs. C. D. Robinson of Cambridge.

The strike at L. G. Littlefield's factory at Avon, Mass., continues, and threatens to assume serious proportions.

All of the vast estates of the late Fred L. Ames goes to his immediate relatives. There are no public bequests in his will.

Crazed by croup, James Wallace, while half naked, wandered away from home at Bridgeport, Conn. It is believed he has killed himself.

The annual convention of the Maine Free Baptist association began in Saco, Me. The annual sermon was by Rev. F. E. Freed of Atkinson.

Six of the 30 strikers at the Merchants mill, Fall River, Mass., have returned to work. The Narragansett mill spinners are still idle.

The 34th annual fair of the West Washington Agricultural society opened on Cherryfield (Me.) park and will continue three days.

The Fall River print cloth market was very strong and advanced again to 3 cents, which made a quarter of a cent advance in two days.

Forty brass buffers, platers and spinners returned to work at the W. & A. Co. factory at Avon, Conn., having been out three days on account of a reduction in wages under the receivership.

All the stampers of the Bridgeport (Conn.) Brass company struck because of frequent reductions in wages. The men who formerly made $2.25 now make $1.30. Three hundred girls are thrown out of work.

Brookaway to be Arrested.
NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Judge Fitzsimmons has granted an order for the arrest of Z. R. Brookaway, superintendent of the Elmira reformatory. The basis of the order is a suit brought by Christian Rhodes, through his guardian, William Cross, for $200. He wants damages for assault and battery, alleged to have been committed by Brookaway while Rhodes was an inmate of the Elmira reformatory.

Mayor May Be Lynched.
HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 20.—Ex-Mayor John Loughran has been arrested, charged with the shooting of James Rainey, private secretary of President L. D. Richardson of the Hot Springs railroad. The bullet was intended for Alderman M. J. Cripps, who has been active in the prosecution of Loughran for embezzlement. The feeling against Loughran is very bitter, and there is strong talk of lynching.

Censorship Removed.
NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The Eastern Telegraph company has received the following from Rio: The government has removed plain language and not referring in any way to political events in Brazil.

COMPROMISE TALK.

Both Sides Not Unlikely to Make Concessions.

MORE SPEECHES COMING
In Support of the Claims of the Silverites.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—There is a marked increase in the number and variety of the rumors indicating a compromise on the silver question.

According to one of these stories, the secretary of the treasury was to appear before the committee on finance this week for consultation on the subject, but members of that committee deny it, while others assert that they have never heard it mentioned, either on the floor of the senate or in committee. Senator McPherson permits the use of his name in denying that such a proposition has been advanced. Still the fact remains that a great deal is being said looking in that direction. The compromise, if there is to be one, upon which it is thought the offer would be made, would consist of concessions, not only by the eastern, but by the silver men.

The latest proposition discussed is one that directs the coining of the seigniorage now in the treasury and the purchase and coining of a further amount of silver to about the aggregate provided for in the Finkner amendment, the silver to be coined to its full exchange value, thereby preventing the storage of any more seigniorage. This would appeal to two classes, those who want the purchase continued and those who believe that what the country needs is an enlarged currency and advocate the coining of the seigniorage rather than the purchase of more metal.

Dilatory Silverites.
For the third time since the repeal bill has been before the senate the senator in charge of it, Mr. Voorhees (Dem., Ind.) made an effort yesterday to have the senate fix some time when debate might be closed and the vote taken, and for the third time the proposition met with an unfavorable response. As on the first occasion, Mr. Dabbs (Rep., Idaho) acted as spokesman for the opposition; but he was seconded and sustained by Mr. Teller (Rep., Colorado), who stated that he knew senators who still desired to address the senate and of whom 13 had not yet opened their mouths on the subject, and he added that until all senators who desired to speak had an opportunity of doing so, no vote could be taken.

Mr. Voorhees, in view of that attitude of the opposition, gave notice that he would from and after today ask that the senate have lengthened sessions, and he was informed that his program would not be resisted, but that the friends of the bill as well as its enemies would be expected to be present. After a speech by Mr. Mills (Dem., Texas) in favor of the bill and by Mr. Stewart (Rep., Nev.) against it the senate adjourned.

House Did Nothing.

Although Colonel Ike Hill, the Democratic whip, reported 195 Democratic representatives in the city yesterday, there were but 173 of them present on the floor at any one time, and the majority again found themselves powerless to make any progress with the bill to repeal the federal election laws. Mr. Fitch returned from New York and relieved Mr. Tucker on the floor as leader of the Democratic hosts. At 2:45 o'clock, after vainly endeavoring to secure a call of the committees and the introduction of the repeal bill, Mr. Fitch moved an adjournment, which was agreed to without dissent.

An Early Beginning.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—A meeting of the joint Republican congressional caucus was held last night to select a congressional campaign committee. The following New Englanders were among the members named: Massachusetts—Representative Draper; New Hampshire—Representative Baker; Vermont—Representative Green. A number of speeches were made, the speakers advocating an aggressive fight all over the country and prophesying a reversal of the verdict of 1892.

Totals..... 3,222 14,009 33,265

Prices were: Beef cattle—100 lbs live weight—1st quality, $5.50; 2nd quality, $4.50; 3rd quality, $3.50; poorest grades of coarse oxen, 2.50; bulls, stags, Colorado, Texas, etc., 2.00 per lb.

Prices for northern and eastern beef cattle—1st dressed weight—Choice, $5.50; 1st quality, $4.50; 2nd quality, $3.50; poorest grades of coarse oxen, cows, bulls, stags, etc., $2.50 per lb.

Northern and eastern beef cattle—There was a very light run of all grades of cattle from the New England states during the past week. There were no choice cattle offered, most of the offerings being beef cows or young bullocks. Trade was dull with values off from $4 to $5 per lb.

Milch cows and springers—Some very good cows were among the offerings. Trade shows no improvement from the last few weeks. No first-class buyers were on the market, and what speculators and jobbers were present bought but few head.

Veal calves—The receipts were heavier than last week. The general run of the stock was very poor. Trade was rather slow, owing to the dullness of the Boston market. Buyers said, however, that if there were some extra good calves on the market they would bring good prices.

Sheep and lambs—Values were off a strong quarter on both sheep and lambs. This was due partly to the poor quality of most of the stock offered and also to the dullness in the Boston and New York markets. The heavy run in the west also affected the market as well as unsatisfactory to ship their stuff to the market just now.

Western beef cattle—The stock was mostly for export trade and was consigned to the shipper and exporters. A few of the lightest cattle were sold to home slaughterers at prices from 4 to 5¢.

In a Predicament.

Tuesday afternoon one of Wollaston's well known sportsmen espied two teal in the pond and bethought himself to shoot them. He got his gun and his young son volunteered to row him out within easy range. They started but had not gone many feet before the boy announced the boat was leaking. Bail her out, my son, was the reply. She is sinking, father, cried the boy, and suiting the action to the word the boy jumped overboard and started for the shore. He had scarcely done so when the boat sunk and people on the shore saw a real estate man standing in the middle of the pond, the water nearly up to his neck and his right hand held high in the air holding the gun. It is not known whether there was a kodak fiend about or not but if there was he must have got an interesting picture which the publishers of some comic periodical would be glad to reproduce.

The Youthful Offenders for Breaking Open Mail Boxes Get off Easy.

The cases of Forbes Craig and John Lennon of this city were placed on file in the U. S. district court Tuesday. These youthful offenders of nine years were charged with breaking open mail boxes which it will be seen by the sections quoted below is a serious offence. It will prove a lesson to them and others. The sections:

Every person who wilfully and maliciously injures, tears down, or destroys any letter box, pillar box, or other receptacle established by the Postmaster-General for the safe deposit of matter for the mail or for delivery, or who wilfully and maliciously assaults any letter-carrier, when in uniform, while engaged on his route in the discharge of his duty as a letter-carrier, and every person who wilfully aids or assists therein, shall for every such offense be punishable by a fine of not less than $100, and not more than $1,000, or by imprisonment for not less than one year and not more than three.

Any person who shall wilfully or maliciously injure, deface, or destroy any mail matter deposited in any letter box, pillar box, or other receptacle established by authority of the Postmaster-General for the safe deposit of matter for the mail or for delivery, or who shall wilfully aid or assist in injuring such mail matter, shall be punishable by a fine of not more than $500, or by imprisonment for not more than three years.

PRESCOTT-ARNOLD.

A Quincy Young Man Weds a Young Lady of Braintree.

The attractive new residence of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Arnold of Middle street, Braintree, was resplendent with electric lights Tuesday evening, and was the scene of a pretty home wedding. Their only daughter, Miss Helen Winifred Arnold and Mr. Eben Prescott of Quincy were the contracting couple, and Rev. A. E. White pastor of the Universalist church united them in the holy bonds of matrimony. The ceremony took place at 7.30 in the presence of the immediate relatives, and was followed from eight to ten o'clock by a reception which was largely attended by friends from Braintree, Quincy, Boston and elsewhere.

The bride appeared charming in a gown of broad cream white crepe de chine, cut en train with foot trimming. The waist was full with puffed sleeves, the neck and sleeves being finished with real lace.

The bridal couple were unattended. Mr. Maro S. Brooks played the wedding march. Mr. and Mrs. Prescott were assisted in receiving by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Arnold and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Prescott. The aged parents of Mrs. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Allen were among those to offer their congratulations.

The ushers were Mr. Maro S. Brooks of Hancock, N. H., Dr. William O. Mann of Westboro, Mr. Orrin W. Hollis and Mr. George A. Arnold of Braintree.

The floral decorations of the house were profuse and artistically arranged; golden rod, hydrangeas and wild flowers predominating.

There was a rich display of presents in one of the upper rooms, and refreshments were served in the dining-room.

Mr. Prescott has just completed a new house on Middle street, Braintree, where the happy couple will receive their friends on Tuesdays and Thursdays in October.

DURGIN & MERRILL'S BLOCK.

Our method is a great success for restoring mellow tone and firmness of keys. We do no repairing or patchwork whatever. We duplicate the wornout parts of Hammers, Actions, Felts, and Strings with new ones, so as to insure durability and fine tone. Remember the Actions, Hammers and Felts are the only parts that wear out. Tinny or metallic tone comes from wornout hammers. The seasoning of years only adds to the sonorous quality of the wood in the sound board and case.

We have rebuilt over 800 Pianos of all makes throughout the States. Read names of a few leading music teachers and piano tuners, who have endorsed our honest work by testimonials.

THE SQUANTUM PETITION.

A Mighty Document Signed by Three Representing Five "a Majority."

Readers of the LEDGER will be pleased to read that Squantum petition which "asks for the earth," even if they do not put much stock in it.

QUINCY, Sept. 1, 1893. To the Honorable H. O. Fairbanks, Mayor of Quincy,

DEAR SIR: We, the undersigned, property owners and residents of that part of Quincy known as Squantum, and representing a majority of the real estate owners in that part of Ward Six, respectfully represent, viz:—

First,—That the road known as the causeway or Squantum street, leading to Squantum, is in an unsuitable condition for travel. It is over-flooded at every high tide, at all hours by day and night, and at extreme high tides it is under water one-half its length for several hours, at each tide.

Second,—The fence on both sides of the road is old, rotten and unsafe, and half of it is down.

Third,—No suitable lighting of that portion of Ward Six known as Squantum has ever been attempted by the City of Quincy.

Fourth,—No suitable police protection by day or night, except Sundays, has ever been afforded us by the City of Quincy.

Fifth,—No suitable protection against fire has ever been afforded this section by the City of Quincy.

Sixth,—This section of Ward Six is wholly without sewerage connection or running water, except that afforded by the City of Boston.

Therefore, in view of the fact that the City of Quincy has for many years derived a large income from that portion of Ward Six, known as Squantum, and has spent little or nothing for many years upon the same, we ask—

First,—That a liberal appropriation of not less than $20,000 shall be made at once to raise the causeway throughout its entire length, protected by stone rip-rap from the sea, and raised so that no tide will ever cover it. Competent civil engineer and contractors have estimated that no satisfactory road can be built that will stand against the sea in this exposed location for less than $20,000.

Second,—We ask for an appropriation of not less than $5,000, for the construction of a strong fence on both sides of this highway.

We shall protest as citizens and taxpayers of the city of Quincy against any small sum of money being spent on this road. We have seen money thrown away long enough. From year to year we have seen gravel carted on this road one week and swept away by the tide the following week. We ask, therefore, an appropriation of not less than $20,000 to build a suitable road to Squantum, and $5,000 for a suitable fence upon the same.

Third,—We ask for electric lights upon our roads, in place of the five old kerosene lamps now supplied by the City of Quincy.

Fourth,—We ask for an appropriation to give us police protection by day and night. The location of Squantum is isolated and demands police protection by day and night as well as on Sunday.

Fifth,—We ask for suitable protection against fire in this territory. The City of Boston has placed two hydrants in this section, which is the only protection against fire. We have no hose carriage and the Chemical engine at Atlantic is over two miles away. We ask for a hose carriage or engine at this point.

Sixth,—We ask that the pipes of the Quincy Water Co., may be at once extended to Squantum, and also its sewerage system.

We further desire to call your attention to the fact that we have for many years paid large sums into the treasury of the City of Quincy for taxes. That no effort has ever been made to improve this section of Ward Six known as Squantum, therefore we ask that a liberal appropriation may at once be made to improve this section so long neglected by the City of Quincy.

ONE MORE FOR SPIDERS.

Boston Made Costly Errors and Were Hurt by the Umpire.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20.—Boston made a great finish, but did not quite reach the point of making enough runs. The work of the umpire was as poor as it has been ever since Hurst has been here, and the Cleveland got the long end of it. Both teams played brilliantly in the field, but the errors made by Boston were the more costly. The batting was not as hard as the score seems to show, many of the hits being on the scratch list.

STARTLING DISCLOSURES

In Connection With the Robbery of the Mint by Cochran.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—Curious discoveries were made at Durley in the old stone house of Henry S. Cochran, the man who robbed the mint. In the closet of the sleeping room that had been occupied by the gold bullion weigher Chief Drummond pushed against a board at the end, forcing it back. Behind it was a door leading to a wall in the wall was a tiny fireproof safe. From this safe the chief had taken $3700 worth of the stolen bullion.

On the top floor of the cottage was found a stove on which Cochran had heated his crucibles, and a pair of brass scales. In the middle of the floor were heaped 300 iron matches of peculiar design, which he had invented, and from which he expected to make a fortune.

In the cellar were found a forge and a bag of charcoal, which Cochran had used in smelting the stolen metal. In the house were found 32 soft hats of fine quality. More than 20 pairs of expensive boots and shoes were scattered around. Closets and chests were stuffed with suits of clothing. Fifteen gold rings, set with diamonds and sapphires, were found in little boxes in his sleeping room. In a case on the wall were 31 razors, one for each day in the month.

He had five dozen bath towels. One hundred and eighty-eight gingham umbrellas, each the size of a small circus tent, decorated the corners of every room. There was a great display of Bibles in rich binding which stood near hymnals and prayer books on the piano. In the parlor the only books were of a religious nature.

Wholesale Murder.
BERLIN, Sept. 20.—A man named Humm and his wife, residents of Goettingen, have been arrested for having poisoned their four children and Mrs. Humm's father. Humm and his wife have said nothing to throw light on the motive of the murders.

Jail Birds Escape.
HUDSON, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Two burglars named Millard and Miller escaped from the jail here last evening. They gained access to the roof by cutting their way through and reached the ground by means of a rope made from blankets.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Democratic Representation at the Various Conventions—Delegates, etc.

The Democratic representation at the several conventions from this city is as follows: Ward One.—State, County, Councillor and Senatorial conventions, 4 each. Representatives 11. Ward Two.—State, County, Councillor and Senatorial, 4 each. Representative 11. Ward Three.—State, County, Councillor and Senatorial, 4 each. Representative 15. Ward Four.—State, County, Councillor and Senatorial, 5 each. Representative 17. Ward Five.—State, County, Councillor and Senatorial, 2 each. Representative 6. Ward Six.—State, County, Councillor and Senatorial, 3 each. Representative 7. There is also one delegate at large to each convention, making 21 delegates to each convention, with the exception of representatives, which has 67.

Ward Two Delegates.
The Democrats of Ward Two held their caucus at City Hall, Tuesday evening. Michael T. Sullivan was chairman and John H. Dolan secretary. The following delegates were elected:

State.—Herbert M. Federhen, Jr., Robert J. Williams and Michael T. Sullivan.

County and Councillor.—John H. Dolan, George R. Williams and James Collins.

Senatorial.—William H. Sullivan, Daniel J. Ford and Michael T. Sullivan.

Representative.—Michael T. Sullivan, John C. Ring, Robert J. Williams, William H. Sampson, Jr., Fred C. Alden, Daniel J. Ford, John H. Dolan, William H. Sullivan, Dennis Ford, Jr., George R. Williams and John H. Griffin.

Orator at the Centennial.
William Wirt Henry, the orator of the day at the centennial of the national capitol in Washington, is a sort of living centennial in himself. He is a lineal descendant of Patrick Henry and was born at the historic home-estate of the Henrys at Red Hill, Charlottesville, Va. He is a lawyer, legislator, scholar and historian of the Old Dominion and is president of the American and Virginia Historical societies.

He is not unknown to fame as a writer and an orator and served with distinction in the Confederate army. He delivered an oration at the opening of the Philadelphia Centennial exposition in 1876.

Senator Stanford's Successor.
George C. Perkins, appointed to succeed the late United States Senator Stanford of California, was born in Kennebunkport, Me., 54 years ago. At the age of 12 he ran away to sea and a few years later settled down in California, where he flourished passing well. He assisted to organize the Pacific Coast Steamship company, which now owns a fleet of 30 vessels and practically controls the coasting trade between Alaska and Mexico. In 1879 Mr. Perkins was elected governor of California on the Republican ticket.

A Plucky Woman.
The plucky wife of Police Officer Joe Barr foiled an attempted burglary at her residence Sunday night. It was after midnight when Mrs. Barr heard a noise as of some one rummaging in the lower part of the house. Getting out of bed she picked up her husband's big revolver. Then she quietly walked out of the room and turned on the light on the landing. In the hallway she saw a man, who had presumably been attracted out of the parlor by the glare of the light up stairs. On seeing that it was only a woman who disturbed his operations the burglar looked contemptuously at her and was about to return for the booty which he had been selecting. Mrs. Barr coolly walked down stairs and pointing the revolver at the intruder said, "You get out of this house."

The burglar saw by the brave look in Mrs. Barr's blue eyes and the steady way in which she held the revolver that she was not to be trifled with. After a moment's hesitation he broke for the window by which he had entered and disappeared. Mrs. Barr then securely fastened doors and windows and retired to her room again. Officer Barr talked of little yesterday but his wife's bravery, and there is some talk of making his plucky little wife an honorary member of the police department.—Denver Republican.

Reaction Against the Train.
The reaction from the trains of a year ago has been sharp and decided. Some very elegant frocks are to be seen which do not touch the ground by an inch or so. This is desirable to understand, for light summer dresses cut out shamefully if worn in a demitain, and as long as it is permissible it is certainly advisable for all economic souls to follow this sensible style.—Exchange.

Those Wash White Frocks.
"I don't think I fancy what you ladies call 'wash white' frocks," said a well known clergyman the other day. "They have such an after-the-ponic look to me." The comparison was apt, though it did come from masculinity. They do.—Philadelphia Press.

Musicians' Attention.
L. H. Battaglia & Co., who renew old pianos and make them as good as new, are to open a factory in this city in a few days. Meanwhile orders may be left with Mr. C. F. Pettengill, the jeweler. Mr. Battaglia has first-class testimonials from musicians and newspapers where he has been located. The Stamford, Conn., paper says:

We take pleasure in introducing Leo H. Battaglia to the people of Stamford because he is highly recommended to us by the most famous piano factory and tuners of the United States. Mr. Battaglia is not simply a repairer of pianos. He renews all worn-out parts of piano hammers, actions and felts without removing the instrument from the house. They simply remove the action of the piano to their factory, where the old hammers, felts and actions are duplicated with new ones, so as to insure durability, mellow tone and firmness of keys at a trifling expense. They have renovated hundreds of instruments of all kinds of makes, and have received numerous testimonials throughout the States for their fine work. A personal inspection of his work is all that is necessary to inspire confidence.

A Dime Novel Heroine.

If Mrs. Mundis, otherwise "Tom King," the desperately wicked and devilish but pretty and reckless cowboy girl horse thief of Oklahoma territory, were only a boy in reality now, as she pretends to be, undoubtedly there would be scores of half-baked young idiots of boys who read dime novels that would run away and try to be horse thieves and mad riders too. But being a girl, or rather a young woman, it is not likely that even in these woman's rights days many of her own sex can be found that will try to imitate her.

She seems to be an illustration of how far pure native born "cussedness" will take a woman who otherwise has every inducement to carry herself straight. It is true she was half-Cherokee Indian, but her father was wealthy and educated her well, and he was a man of aristocratic blood, as Indian aristocracy goes. At the age of 17 she married a white man—a lively stable keeper and horse dealer of Guthrie, O. T.—and then her mad career began. At first she was content merely to ride at full gallop the wildest and most savage horses she could find, but that did not content her ambition, and the next step from riding them was to steal them, which she has been doing successfully for several years. She is a dead shot and stole dozens of animals before she was caught. After they did capture her she gave more trouble than six men would have done. She escaped again and again. Now they seem to have her safe, however, and the prospect is that she will go to the penitentiary. While she is in prison she can reform, and when she comes out she can lecture. As a penitent woman horse thief she would be a great card.

The Ingredients For a Newspaper Man.

My son, I don't know if your youthful conception of a newspaper man is correct. It is a plan of life that is the scope of his nebulous plan. To workday mortals, the newspaper man. But if you'll agree to a feeble description from one of their number, I'll do what I can to blend in the way of a little prescription. The mixture that's known as a newspaper man!

Take a brain that is steeped in solution of knowledge.

Most varied and picturesque under the sun; Then add just a pinch of the salt of the college. A flavor of wit and a spoonful of fun—

For a relish, Bohemian sauce is the answer. And a mind that will stretch from Beersheba to Dan;

In fancy or fact, when it comes to the "paper," Or touches the heart of the newspaper man!

To a memory that clutches the veriest trifle, And a hand that is tireless when work's to be done.

Add an eye that is quick as the flash of a rifle. And keen as the eagle that flies to the sun. Take strength and endurance and loyal devotion

And add all the grit and the courage you can To the heart that's as big and as deep as the ocean.

A hundred to one on the newspaper man!

With a brew of ideas that, seething and boiling,

Run into molds that are models for men. Add a ceaseless encounter with planning and tolling

For the world of today that is ruled by the pen.

Add the honesty of friendship, the dew of affection

And the esprit de corps that gets down to hard pan,

And paste in your hat the whole mortal collection

As the regular stock of the newspaper man! —New York Sun.

Strike Will Fall Through.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The great strike of coal miners that was inaugurated on July 30 is doomed to ignominious failure. The men will ultimately be compelled to return to work at the masters' terms. The funds of the Derbyshire Miners' union have been completely exhausted by the long continued demands made upon them.

Disobeyed Orders.

WILKESBARRE, Sept. 20.—Owing to disobedience on the part of Engineer Hufford and Conductor Shuter of a local passenger train, it was run into by the express at Slocum sliding on the Lehigh Valley railroad. Several passengers were injured, but no one is thought to be seriously hurt.

Is Mrs. Halliday Insane?

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The grand jury which is deliberating on the Halliday case will probably not finish its business and make known their findings until tomorrow. The impression seems to prevail that the woman will be adjudged insane and sent to an asylum for life.

Heroism Rewarded.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Secretary Carlisle has awarded a gold life saving medal to Ingvar Oleson of Milwaukee for rescuing from drowning James Miller, in what is known as the Crib disaster in Lake Michigan on April 30 last, in which he displayed unusual bravery.

A Family of Six Become Victims of an Unknown Assassin.

WASHINGTON, Ind., Sept. 20.—A neighbor went to the Denson Walton residence yesterday to inquire as to the health of Mr. Walton, who has been sick for several weeks. The front door being locked he went to the back door. Upon the floor in a puddle of blood lay Mrs. Walton, wife of Denson Walton.

He hurried to the nearest neighbor's, and several of them accompanied him to the house. In a room adjoining that in which Mrs. Walton lay they found the father and husband dead. In the same room were the three children, two of them dead and the other so seriously injured that she cannot live.

The children killed were a little boy, 3 years old, and his sister, 11 years old. In a front room Mr. Walton's mother, aged 63, was lying on the floor dead. Her left hand was cut off between the thumb and index fingers. All of the murdered persons had deep, ugly wounds on their foreheads with the exception of the girl, who had been struck on the back of the head.

The old lady is said to have had considerable money in the house, having come from the bank during the recent money stringency, and this, it is thought, was the motive for the murder. There is no clue to the murderer. Bloodhounds will be put on the trail.

A DISCOURAGED CROWD.

Returning Boomers Severely Criticize the Government's Methods.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 20.—Over a thousand ex-boomers passed through the Union depot yesterday en route home, making a total of at least 4000 for the past three days.

Out of this number not a score could be found who secured a claim. A regular simon swept over the strip Tuesday, and some of those who returned were boomers who, although they had secured a chance for a claim, were unwilling to longer endure the hardships of the strip for the sake of a piece of land.

The great majority, however, as on preceding days, were men who had been completely left in the mad scramble. The tales told by all the boomers are similar. They are greatly disgusted, and do not hesitate to express themselves regarding the mismanagement of the opening by the government with a rush that the government will have to find a different method of throwing open lands to settlement if it desires to avoid such disastrous failures as those of last week.

CUT HIS THROAT.

Rape Fiend Resorts to an Extreme Measure to Avoid Arrest.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—Henry Farrell of this city, aged 35 years, was found in a freight car on the Philadelphia and Reading road at 15th street and Glenwood avenue with his throat cut from ear to ear. He died soon after being discovered. It is supposed that Farrell abducted the six-year-old daughter of Mrs. Eliza Lasaloe, and after outraging the child, committed suicide to escape arrest.

A man answering Farrell's description met Mrs. Lasaloe on a Baltimore and Ohio railroad train when the latter was returning from Cumberland, Md., with her two girl children, aged 3 and 6 years. The stranger volunteered to take care of the eldest child, and when the train reached Philadelphia he and the girl disappeared. Mrs. Lasaloe was unable to positively identify Farrell, but the police think he was the abductor. The child was found in Laurel Hill cemetery yesterday afternoon. She had been outraged, and was taken to the Samaritan hospital in a serious condition.

HAD A "JAG" ON.

Senator Irby Creates a Commotion in a South Carolina Town.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 20.—United States Senator Irby arrived in this city yesterday from Washington in a state of intoxication. When he got off the train at the Union depot he drew from his hip pocket a double acting revolver, passed through the waiting room and pointed it at a colored hackman without any cause. The hackman ran and Irby was quietly hustled into a hack. He immediately went to sleep and was driven through the streets with both feet hanging out of the window. He was carried to the governor's mansion, where he was met by Mrs. Tilman. He was put to bed, but left for Laurens later in the same intoxicated condition.

Supreme Court Vacancy Filled.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The president sent to the senate the following nominations: William B. Hornblower of New York, to be associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, vice Samuel Blatchford, deceased; James J. Van Alen of Rhode Island, to be ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Italy; Assistant Naval Constructor William J. Baxter to be naval constructor in the navy.

To Protect Bank Funds.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—At its meeting the house committee on banking and currency directed Mr. Cox to prepare a favorable report upon his bill to prohibit any officer or any employee of a national bank from borrowing its funds. The report is to be submitted to the committee at its next meeting.

Murdered For Money.

MACON, Sept. 20.—John Braswell, a farmer, who lived a few miles from Macon, was foully murdered between here and his home by some persons unknown. Four negroes are under arrest on suspicion. The object of the murder is supposed to have been robbery.

WORK OF HOODLUMS

Assault on a Young Bostonian May Result in Death.

ATTACK WAS UNPROVOKED.

A Gang Which Needs to Be Severely Dealt With.

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—Charles, son of Thomas Dockrell, is lying at his father's residence in Dorchester in an unconscious condition, and it is a toss up whether he lives or dies. In the immediate vicinity of Mr. Dockrell's residence, 25 Fuller street, the neighbors have been harassed for a long period, and there appears to be no relief from the hoodlums' depredations.

Yesterday afternoon, about 5 o'clock, a gang of these marauders made a descent upon the premises of Mr. Dockrell, and for a few minutes the air was literally filled with flying stones and other missiles. They came in showers, and worked havoc on the windows. Hardly a whole pane of window glass was left in the lower portion of the house, and, surrounding the building, the youths rent the air with fierce yells.

At the time of their sudden onslaught upon Mr. Dockrell's home the only occupants of the house were his wife, two small children and Mr. Dockrell's son. Immediately following a cessation of the substantial hostilities, in the shape of clubs and stones, young Dockrell left the house, and, appearing on the outside, he attempted to expostulate with the gang of toughs, which at this time had swelled to the number of 30 or upwards.

A Cowardly Assault.

His appearance only served to excite their ire the more, and they surrounded him and launched another volley of bricks and other missiles, this time at his head. He was unable to escape from their way, and in a few seconds' time he was stretched unconscious upon the green sward. He had been struck with a jagged portion of a brick full in the face, which made an ugly wound, extending from his forehead to the lowest extremity of his chin.

His sudden fall to the ground evidently frightened his assailants, as in a body they turned in precipitate flight.

The unconscious lad was borne into the house and a physician summoned. He could do nothing, however, except dress the boy's wounds, and all efforts to restore him to consciousness proved to be unavailing.

The boy still remains in an unconscious condition. The accident, or what may prove to be a murder, is rendered more sad, as Dockrell was passing his summer vacation under the parental roof and had been there but a short time.

The Assailant Known.

In an interview with the father of the boy, he stated that he was in possession of the person's name who hurled the brick that may result in young Dockrell's death, and it was also his determination, he stated, to bring him to justice.

Yesterday's disgraceful occurrence is only one of many that have taken place in the past summer months, and it is thought that the gang that commits such outrages is fairly well organized.

As an explanation of the exhibition of such ferocity as was displayed on the premises of Mr. Dockrell, it is stated that when one member of the gang has a fancied grievance against any resident in the community it becomes the concern of the entire body of youthful outlaws, and as a means of satisfying their revengeful spirits, they assemble in a body and make the night hideous for their victim. However, Mr. Dockrell stated that he had never to his knowledge offended any one of the gang, some of whom he claims that he has taken place in the past summer months, and it is thought that the gang that commits such outrages is fairly well organized.

Gold Thief Will Be Prosecuted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Attorney General Olney has instructed United States District Attorney Ingham at Philadelphia to institute both criminal and civil proceedings against Henry S. Cochran, charged with stealing gold bullion from the United States mint. Acting Director of the Mint Preston has been summoned to be present.

Contractors Get Big Premiums.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The official report of the board that witnessed the trial trip of the gunboat Castine has been received at the navy department. It fixes the speed made at 10.04 knots. The contract requirement was 13 knots, and the contractors, the Bath (Me.) iron works, will receive $60,080 in premiums.

Stricken With Apoplexy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Rev. Samuel B. Halliday, pastor of the Beecher Memorial church and formerly assistant pastor to Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, was stricken with apoplexy while conversing with Mrs. Beecher in the parlors of Plymouth church. It is probable that he will recover.

Valkyrie Hasn't Arrived in Port.

QUARANTINE, S. I., Sept. 20.—The Valkyrie was not sighted up to this morning. There was almost a dead calm off shore during the night. The yacht could make little headway under such conditions, and there is little chance of her getting into port before this evening.

MUSICIANS ATTENTION. OLD PIANOS MADE NEW. L. H. Battalia & Co. DURGIN & MERRILL'S BLOCK.

Our method is a great success for restoring mellow tone and firmness of keys. We do no repairing or patchwork whatever. We duplicate the wornout parts of Hammers, Actions, Felts, and Strings with new ones, so as to insure durability and fine tone. Remember the Actions, Hammers and Felts are the only parts that wear out. Tinny or metallic tone comes from wornout hammers. The seasoning of years only adds to the sonorous quality of the wood in the sound board and case.

We have rebuilt over 800 Pianos of all makes throughout the States. Read names of a few leading music teachers and piano tuners, who have endorsed our honest work by testimonials.

ASKED FOR MONEY.

Mrs. Russell's Letters Have Go'
Her Into Trouble.

IT LOOKS LIKE BLACKMAIL

But She Says It Was Done to Cause Worryment.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—Mrs. Hattie M. Russell, who has figured prominently in a blackmailing case in Brockton in the past few days, was arrested for the second time by the United States authorities yesterday afternoon. She was brought before United States Commissioner Fiske, charged with mailing letters with intent to defraud L. A. Merrithew out of a certain amount of money. She pleaded guilty to sending the letters, but said that she did not intend to extort money from him.

When Mrs. Russell was arrested at Brockton it caused a decided sensation, as both parties are well known in that city. Mr. Merrithew is a prominent shoe manufacturer in Brockton and has the reputation of being an honorable, upright citizen. It is alleged that Mrs. Russell wrote two letters to him, the first one of which read as follows:

"If you wish some affairs of yours kept from your wife's knowledge, lend me $50. You insured my wife at Highland park. I will wait till Friday. If I do not get it from you then, I will have you and a certain lady arrested. Send bills—no checks—at once."

P. S. It will all remain a secret with me, if I hear from you at once.

"She Meant Business."

Saturday the first epistle was followed by a second, and the correspondence assumed a more confiding nature. The second letter read as follows:

"You can do as you like about sending the money. If I do not get it by Monday night your letter and an account of your intimacy with another woman will be in your wife's hands, and besides, it will cost you your wife more than $50. I swear you will not hear from me again if you send the money, and it will go no further. I mean business."

After Mrs. Russell pleaded guilty before the commissioner, United States District Attorney Casey asked Post Office Inspector White for the letters, and they were handed to him, and then to the commissioner to read. After he had carefully examined them they were handed to a reporter and an exact copy was taken by him. Commissioner Fiske asked her if these were the letters she mailed and she answered that they were, but she did not intend to extort any money from Mr. Merrithew, but wanted to worry him for insulting her.

Mr. Casey then showed her the letters and she again admitted she wrote them. Without further solicitation she proceeded and said:

Mrs. Russell's Story.

"He came to my house and insulted me, and I know he has followed other women around. A woman told me he followed her around one afternoon. I first met him about five or six weeks ago on one of the streets of Brockton. He stepped up to me and said that my face was familiar and asked what my name was. I told him my present name and then my maiden name and said I came from Farmington, Me. He said he came from that place. I then invited him and his wife to my house to call on me."

"He came to my house twice before he insulted me, and the third time we were in the parlor my daughter was with me. He wanted me to forgive him and not to say anything about it."

In answer to Assistant District Attorney Casey's questions, she said: "The first time he called at the house he was there about half an hour and the second time he stayed about the same length of time. The third time he was only in the house 15 or 20 minutes."

"I have never met his wife. On one of his visits he wanted to send my daughter out. I sent the letters last week, but did not realize I was doing anything against the law. My cousin had that postoffice box at Brockton and received the mail in it till he went away, and paid 65 cents a quarter. I don't know where my cousin is now. I hardly ever used the box, as all my letters came to my house."

"Did you ever use any other initial?" asked Mr. Casey. She replied she did not. "My husband died last June and I have a 15-year-old daughter attending the high school and have no one in the world to assist me." She then burst into tears.

Mr. Casey asked Commissioner Fiske what the sentence was in such cases, and in answering it Mrs. Russell caught it as it fell from his lips in a low voice, and she again wept bitterly. At Mr. Casey's request she was held in $1000 for her appearance before the United States district court grand jury in October.

Says She Is Innocent.

In an interview with a reporter she said that she would ask ex-Mayor Douglas of Brockton to go her bonds in this case as he did in the other at Brockton yesterday. She said her husband worked for Mr. Douglas for 15 years and up to the time of his death.

"I am innocent of any wrongdoing in this case, and it is just as I have stated. I only sent the letters to worry him for insulting me."

Inspector White says that Mr. Merrithew is a very reputable citizen, and he believes that it was a clear case of blackmail.

As she was leaving the courtroom yesterday afternoon she said: "I don't know what to do; I am getting desperate; this will kill me."

Mrs. Russell is a very respectable looking woman and was neatly attired in a black suit, and her appearance did not stamp her as a person that would resort to such means to extort money under false pretences. She has pleaded guilty, however, and confesses that she sent the letters.

IN THE NICK OF TIME.

A Determined Would-Be Suicide Rescued
From a Watery Grave.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—Three attempts to end his life in less than three weeks is the record of George W. Aulton, who was pulled out of the water of the Charles river at the West Boston bridge last night by Eugene McCarthy and James H. Mason, an employee of the Boston branch of the American Press association.

The two last-mentioned were crossing the bridge at 9 o'clock last night, when they saw a man leap into the water. Jumping over the rail of the bridge to the float alongside, the men went to the rescue of the would-be suicide. The man in the water, in an effort to prevent being pulled out, put his hands up under the float and pressed himself down under the water. His efforts were of no avail against those of McCarthy and Mason, however, and he was landed upon the float.

His hat was found in a boat near by, where he had placed it before jumping out, but he was unable to get it. The paper bearing these words: "Out of work, out of money, out of friends, out of sympathy with the world," and signed, "George W. Aulton."

Aulton was taken to station 3, where he was attended by Dr. Gilley, who pronounced him sane.

Aulton is 37 years of age. Both of his previous attempts at suicide were made in a hotel at 76 Green street, on Sept. 1, where he tried to suffocate himself by turning on the gas in his room. These attempts were both almost successful.

When looked at the station he told Lieutenant Kendall that he was disheartened and discouraged and not at all grateful to his rescuers for saving his life.

ROBBED OF $9000.

The Three Staple Brothers Thought That Banks Were Unsafe.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 21.—The Portland police received notification of a robbery at Limerick, York county, last night. The three Staple brothers are well-to-do farmers in that section. A short time ago they became scared on account of the financial stringency, and drew all of their money from the Limerick bank and placed it in trunks in their house. Most of the money, about $9000, was in gold.

While the brothers were out of doors robbers entered the house and ransacked it from top to bottom, taking the whole sum of money. Two men were seen loitering about the place early in the day.

The Dorchester Hoodlums.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—There is trouble ahead for the Dorchester bad boys who made such a savage attack on Charles Dockrell, Officer yesterday placed Charles Barnard under arrest for making a dangerous assault upon young Dockrell. The case came up in the district court, and was continued until Tuesday to await the result of Dockrell's injuries. The young man's condition is critical. He refused to leave the house of his father, Mr. Dockrell, and is being guarded by a number of men. Most of the money, about $9000, was in gold.

Got Over $5000.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Sept. 21.—A most daring burglary occurred at East Greenbush, when two men made their way into the residence of William Scubbing. They first searched his bedroom and took $13 from the pockets of a pair of trousers. Then they locked Scubbing in the room and went down stairs and partook of the contents of a bottle of whiskey that they found there. The burglars secured $5000 in money, which they found secreted in a trunk. They have not been apprehended.

Crime to Distribute Handbills.

HARTFORD, Sept. 21.—The first case under the new statute passed by the last legislature, which makes the distribution of handbills on the street a crime, was tried in the police court yesterday morning. Frederick Cummings was caught giving away bills announcing a lecture, entitled "Socialism Must Inevitably Supersede Capitalism." He pleaded ignorance of the law and was fined $10.

Bricklayers' Strike.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Sept. 21.—Work on the new Nichols shoe factory was stopped yesterday by the striking of the bricklayers, who protested against a non-union man employed on the job. The firm of Morse Brothers, shoe manufacturers, is waiting to occupy the building, and a settlement will probably be speedily reached.

Car Turned Over.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 21.—An electric car jumped the track in East Providence and, colliding with a watering trough, was thrown upon its side. There were 10 persons in the car, of whom all received injuries. One man, it is thought, had two ribs broken, and another was taken to the hospital in a badly bruised condition.

For Mutual Protection.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 21.—The indications are that the textile workers of Lawrence will soon be organized into a compact labor body, and a mass meeting of members advertised for Friday evening will be the beginning of a general effort to bring the members of the city into closer relations with one another.

A Bad Beginning.

EXETER, N. H., Sept. 21.—The football season was inaugurated yesterday afternoon, the game resulting: Phillips, 2; Exeter, 0. The contest was rather of fisticuffs than of football. Captain Daumer of Phillips was injured internally in the scrimmage and is still delirious, with alarming symptoms.

Lost to Sight.

RANDOLPH, Mass., Sept. 21.—Mrs. Catherine McMahon, whose home is on South street in this village, was an inmate of the Taunton lunatic hospital, her mind having become deranged soon after the death of her husband. On Sept. 13 she made her escape, since when nothing has been heard from her.

Beverly's Value.

BEVERLY, Mass., Sept. 21.—The assessors have today given out the following figures: Total number of polls, 3225; real estate valuation, $10,133,700; personal, $5,566,225; resident bank valuation, $155,828; total valuation, $15,855,753.

Held Without Bail.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 21.—Patrick F. Blake, charged with the murder of Joseph Heroux, had his examination in the police court and was committed without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

REED'S SHARP TALK.

Makes the Session of the House
Very Interesting.

SENATORS STILL DALLYING.

The Session Was Lengthy, but Nothing Was Accomplished.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The federal elections repeal bill has been reported and has been placed upon the calendar, but this action was taken only after a severe struggle, the Republicans seeking every parliamentary device to betray emity. But the Democrats were ready at every point to throw the obstruction of the track, and the way was finally cleared. Mr. Reed, in commenting on the vote, said that the Republican party in the Fifty-first congress had made certain rules. First impressions were the most powerful. The Republicans today occupied an unusual position. They stood to win in any event. The Democratic party had either to resort to everything they had or be beaten. The Democrats had their choice between humiliation and defeat, and they had chosen humiliation.

They had deliberately settled themselves into the traces that they had affected to despise. Now these gentlemen could look forward to the haven of rest. Not only had they violated all the precedents of 100 years, but had added a new zest to the occasion by violating all principles of parliamentary law. They had announced that committees could originate legislation. They had destroyed the sacred right of appeal, for which the present occupant of the chair had argued vigorously four years ago.

The Republicans had offered the majority, in good faith, an honest system, by which it could control the business of the house without acts of violence. Instead of that the majority wanted violence in each particular case. What a spectacle, the house representing the Democratic party was going through the valley of humiliation.

Mr. Catchings said that it was hardly worth while to say anything in vindication of the parliamentary rulings made by the speaker. It was cruel (sarcastically) for the Democrats that they were in a state of humiliation. He (Mr. Catchings) had not discovered it himself. He thought the Democrats were getting along pretty well.

The trouble with the gentleman from Maine was that he had discovered that there were other methods than those invented by him and his assistants in the Fifty-first congress by which the house could do business.

In the Senate.

The proposition for such a change of the rules of the senate as would establish the principle of closure was not made yesterday. Mr. Platt of Connecticut, who had given notice on Tuesday that he would propose that change, declined to do so, because he did not wish to state in the way of Mr. George of Mississippi, who wished to address the senate, but said that he would offer it at some future time.

Mr. George, although he had his speech prepared in advance, delivered it with all the impressiveness which he generally gives to his off-hand speeches. He did not seem to trouble himself as to whether senators did or did not derive any instruction from his efforts, for once. When Mr. Call of Florida indicated an intention of calling the notice of the presiding officer to the fact that there were but few senators in the chamber, he was prevented by Mr. George himself, who told him he was indifferent whether senators listened to him or not.

Nevertheless, as he went along, the absence of senators became too evident, and he required two rollcalls to get a sufficient number of them into the chamber to constitute a quorum. The quorum soon melted away again, but Mr. George took no heed of the fact, and he was allowed to go on with the reading of his speech without further interruption. Much of it was given to attacks upon the national banks and a denunciation of the circular sent out from New York to states whose senators were opposed to the bill, recommending that "pressure be applied to them."

An interruption, however, finally did come. It was from Mr. Quay. He said that he noticed that while one of the strongest speeches was being made in the interest of the silver states there was not a single senator from one of those states present.

"That makes no difference to me," Mr. George interposed resignedly.

"It seems to me," Mr. Quay insisted, "that a suggestion should be made that there is no quorum present."

Fun Continued.

The vice-president directed that the roll be called. But 41 senators responded—two less than a quorum. Just then, however, Mr. Dubois of Idaho entered the chamber, making the number 42. Mr. Teller also came in and his name was called, but he did not respond. Mr. Voorhees then rose and said:

"There are but two laws under the constitution by which compulsion can be used in the senate of the United States. The one is to compel the attendance of absent senators; the other to keep order on the floor of the senate. I ask that the sergeant-at-arms be directed to enforce the attendance of absent senators."

Mr. Dolph suggested that the rule was to direct the sergeant-at-arms in the first instance to request attendance of senators, and that there seemed to be a very great diversity of opinion whether, if the request were not complied with, there was power to compel attendance.

The vice president directed that the rule be read. In the meantime, other senators came into the chamber, and asked that their names be called, and they responded. The number present was then announced as 47. Mr. Voorhees withdrew his motion as to the sergeant-at-arms requiring the attendance of senators. After further debate he admitted that the senate had done a good day's work and said that he would not ask it to sit later, that he might ask it to sit later on Thursday. The senate then adjourned.

A Well-deserved Award.
The Treasury Department at Washington, after receiving bids from the largest and best-known carpet manufacturers and dealers throughout the country, has awarded to the old and trustworthy house of John H. Pray, Sons & Co. of Boston, the contract for furnishing Brussels carpets for government use throughout the country for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894.
This contract amounts to about 20,000 yards, more or less, and is for Brussels of the firm's own manufacture, having as a guarantee of the quality the firm's name woven on the back of every yard of carpet that is delivered, so that the house cannot fail to be well known in all government buildings and offices throughout the United States wherever the carpets are seen.
Messrs. Pray & Co.'s reputation for selling only standard and reliable goods seems to have been well maintained, and the government standard is a high one, and the tests are most severe.

BOSTON WITH its large police force does not check the work of hoodlums, and it would seem from the Herald that the police don't make much of an effort. A short editorial is to the point:

"Such an outrage as that perpetrated in the Dorchester district by a lot of hoodlums, who attacked a private residence with brickbats, and injured the occupants as well as the property, is not an uncommon occurrence right here in the centre of the city. The injury done is not always so serious as it was in this case, but it is of sufficient proportions to alarm peaceable families and to injure the localities thus affected as places of residence. When the police authorities are appealed to they reply that the offenders are small boys, and that they cannot be interfered with. It would be interesting to know why."

THE MOVE by several well known Wollaston gentlemen in prosecuting the young miscreants who have been stealing and wantonly destroying property, is in the right direction and is commended by all citizens interested in law and order. Matters have finally reached such a crisis in that peaceable ward that the boys have practically run the place. This refers to those boys from ten to fifteen years of age. Glass has been smashed in houses, one house having twenty-four panes broken; boats have been stolen; money has been stolen in small sums from one of the grocery stores; the stained glass windows in the churches destroyed; fruit and vegetables stolen and destroyed; streets lights broken and fences torn down and burnt.

For the past six months a scene of lawlessness has been going on in this ward which can only be rivalled by the North End of Boston. Now the strong hand of the law has been invoked and it is probable that the hoodlumism will be stamped out.

SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Field Celebrate Their Twenty-fifth Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Field, formerly of this city, celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary at their new home, corner of Park and Everett streets, Harrison Square, Wednesday evening. Seventy-five friends from Quincy and West Quincy help to make the occasion one of pleasure. After the usual custom of hand shaking and offering congratulations, they repaired to the dining-room where a bountiful collation was served.

The couple were the recipients of many useful and ornamental articles consisting of:

A banquet lamp from Maple Lodge Knights and Ladies of Honor 313.
A silver tea service from Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corp, 103 of this city.
Six silver tea spoons from Mrs. L. R. C. French and Charles Field.
Soup ladle, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Allen.
Salad spoon, Mrs. J. O. Safford.
Butter knife, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Calnan.
Jelly spoon, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Carr.
Berry spoon, A. S. Fryer.
Pickle jar, Mrs. Jane Carr.
Salt and pepper set, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ross.

Six tea and two dessert spoons, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Porter.

Two dessert spoons, Mrs. William Field.

Sardine fork, Miss A. E. Lawson.

Vase, Arthur F. Porter.

Vase, silver standard, Mrs. John L. Faxon.

Patch work quilt from Mrs. Field's mother, Mrs. Burnham of Stoughton.

Six fruit knives, from Baby Corrine Tinkham.

Two bronze plaques from the Henry Bronze Bonnard company, New York city.

Letter of congratulations were also received from General Sickle, house of Representatives Washington, D. C., Maurice J. Powers and William J. Kemp of New York city.

A special car conveyed the party home at eleven o'clock.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Linquist of Quincy pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness. His Honor asked if he had any money and he replied in broken English, "no money." His Honor therefore let him off easy imposing a fine of $3. John stepped to the clerk's desk to pay up and handed out a $20 bill. Besides this he had a hand full of small bills. As he took his change and walked out a peculiar smile illuminated his face.

Home Testimonials.

L. H. Battalia & Co., expect to find owners of pianos a little shy of their work at the outset, but they have made a good start and will let their work speak for itself. Here are two strong testimonials which should have weight:

HANCOCK COURT, Sept. 20, '93.

I take great pleasure in recommending Mr. L. H. Battalia to any one who may require their piano rebuilt, regulated, revoiced and tuned, as the above work done on my piano has given me great satisfaction.

FRANK WIGLEY.

I am happy to say that Mr. Battalia's tuning and overhauling on my piano is perfectly satisfactory; and any one needing work done in their line can entrust it to them with entire confidence.

CUT PRICES IN RANGES.

Tireless perseverance tells the story of our wonderful success in the Stove business.

We broke the combination that existed for years, and as the originators of mighty low prices we continue to illustrate to the public True Economy.

Our Standard Ranges.

The Glenwood, The Magee,
The Bay State, The Waverly Grand,
The Colonial, The Union,
The Hub.

Facts are stubborn things, and all our endeavors would amount to nothing if not backed up with convincing reality.

The Only Store in New England

That handles ranges from all the leading foundries.

You know, if you have ever purchased a stove, that you found one dealer with one make, another dealer with another make and so on, each one trying to convince you of the superior quality of their certain brand. As usual we differ, and show you all the above ranges side by side, and you choose for yourself.

We furnish water fronts and couplings if desired and make all connections.

Now for the Funny Part.

We guarantee every range that leaves our store, and give you a liberal discount from the very lowest Boston Price.

Repairs Furnished for any Stove Manufactured.

HENRY L. KINCAIDE & CO.,

ECONOMY HOUSE FURNISHERS,

Tirrell's Block, Hancock Street.

Quincy, Sept. 18.

MURDER

All the flies, mosquitoes and other noxious pest in and around the house with Dalmation Powder, 35 cents a pound; 10 cents 1-4 pound. Atomizer's, 7 cents each. Tanglefoot Paper, 3 cents a sheet.

WILL

You remember that our purchases and sales of best brands of Flour, such as Pillsbury's Best, Corrugated, Northwestern, Bridal Veil, White Lion, etc., is probably larger than any other house in Norfolk County; that we receive direct from the mill, saving in freight and jobbers' commissions, and that we can and will give our customers the benefit of this saving; also that in our opinion the present low price on flour will not continue any longer than the straightening out of the present financial difficulties and that purchases made soon will be the means of saving money.

OUT

Of our large stock of Groceries any family can make selections equal to any New York or Boston first-class establishment. We handle only straight Groceries, Teas, Coffees, and Flour, and our assortment is worth an inspection by any family in Quincy or vicinity.

Women Must Sleep.

If they only could sleep eight hours every night and one hour every day:—

Their freshness and beauty would continue to the end:—

Years would be added to their lives.

All derangements of the Uterus or Womb, Ovarian or kidney troubles, uterine tumors, spinal weakness, irregularity, indigestion, exhaustion, or "displacement," drives the nerves wild with excitement, and sleep is impossible.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one sure remedy. It has saved thousands, and will save you. It strengthens the womb, removes all pain, and you sleep like a child.

No testimonial or ladies' name is ever published without the full permission of the person.

Representatives.—John H. Rooney, John W. Burke, Morris Driscoll, Patrick J. Kelley, John McGilvery, John J. Lyons, Cornelius Crowley, William F. Powers, John D. Sullivan, Dennis Shugrue, John F. Cole, Richard Walsh, William H. Coughlin, William D. Burns, Louis Lanceli, James F. Rooney, John Hetherston.

WARD FIVE.

The Ward Five caucus was called to order by Mr. Wm. P. Chase Jr., who was elected chairman, and Mr. Martin Burns was elected secretary. The following delegates were chosen:

State.—Charles T. Baker, William B. O'Connell and County.—Edward T. Mitchell, Wm. P. Chase Jr.

Senatorial.—George W. Brown, Martin Burns.

Representative.—T. J. Stone, W. H. Brase, George W. Brown, Martin Burns, Wm. P. Chase Jr., T. J. Savery.

Political Notes.

The term of County Commissioner Wiggin expires in December.

The Register of Probate is elected for the term five years.

Governor Russell's plurality in this city last year was 170, he carrying all but Wards One and Five.

The work of the election officers in counting the ballots will be easier this year, as there are less offices to fill.

Taber Fined at Dedham.

The sentences in the Superior court at Dedham Wednesday were: James D. Taber, Quincy, violation of the Lord's day, a fine of $25.

Robert King, Hyde Park, simple assault on Ewing Cameron, a fine of $25.

John W. O'Brien of Weymouth was acquitted on a charge alleging an assault on Michael E. Carroll at East Weymouth, May 29, with intent to kill.

The Abington Electric Light Company at a meeting Tuesday evening voted to increase its stock to $75,000 that power might be furnished to run electric cars to East Weymouth.

Musicians, Attention.

L. H. Battaglia & Co., who renew old pianos and make them as good as new, are to open a factory in this city in a few days. Meanwhile orders may be left with Mr. C. F. Pettengill, the jeweler. Mr. Battaglia has first-class testimonials from musicians and newspapers where he has been located. The Stamford, Conn., paper says:

We take pleasure in introducing Leo H. Battaglia to the people of Stamford because he is highly recommended to us by the most famous piano factory and tuners of the United States. Mr. Battaglia is not simply a repairer of pianos. He renews all worn-out parts of piano hammers, actions and felts without removing the instrument from the house. They simply remove the action of the piano to their factory, where the old hammers, felts and actions are duplicated with new ones, so as to insure durability, mellow tone and firmness of keys at a trifling expense. They have renovated hundreds of instruments of all kinds of makes, and have received numerous testimonials throughout the States for their fine work. A personal inspection of his work is all that is necessary to inspire confidence.

FIVE MEN KILLED

And Many Injured In a Serious Fight Between a Mob and Militia.

ROANOKE, Va., Sept. 21.—Robert Smith, a negro, yesterday assaulted and nearly killed Mrs. Henry Bishop, wife of a well-to-do farmer of Botetown county. Mrs. Bishop was at the market with a load of produce and Smith bought a box of grapes. He asked her to go with him to get the money, and taking her to a house near by, locked the door and bound her. Then, drawing a razor, he demanded her money. She gave it up and, while doing so, jerked the razor from his hand.

The negro then choked her, threw her down and pounded her head with a brick, leaving her for dead. Mrs. Bishop shortly afterward regained consciousness, and, returning to the market, told of the outrage. Detective Baldwin soon arrested the negro.

An excited crowd attempted to take Smith away from the officer and lynch him, but Baldwin, with his prisoner on a horse, dashed away at full speed and soon had him behind the bars.

A crowd gathered around the jail and kept increasing as night approached. At 5 o'clock the Roanoke light infantry marched to the jail by order of Mayor Trout. Guards were posted and the streets in the immediate vicinity cleared. About dark the crowd increased by 100 men from the vicinity of the woman's home, headed by Mrs. Bishop's son, a fireman on the Norfolk and Western railway.

At 8 o'clock portions of the mob battered at a side door of the jail, where the militia were stationed. The door was opened and the mob rushed in. The shooting was commenced by the mob and the mayor was shot in the foot. The militia were then ordered to return the fire, and a volley from 25 rifles was poured into the mob. It is thought that about five men were killed by this fire and as many were wounded, some of them fatally.

During the excitement caused by the volley the negro was taken from the jail by an officer and secreted. The dead and wounded were removed to a drug store and to the offices of nearby physicians. The militia were then dispersed and left the scene as quietly as possible.

FIRE AND TORTURE

The Fate That Awaits the Murderer of Judge Estepal.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21.—The leading colored men of the city held a secret meeting and have furnished the press with the resolutions passed. A committee has been appointed to call on the governor at once and ask for troops for protection against the reign of terror existing in Jefferson parish, on the outskirts of the city. A mass meeting of all the colored citizens of the state has been called for Monday in this city, and from the indications serious trouble may be expected.

Jefferson parish has been declared under martial law by its residents. The sheriff, judges, state senators and representatives are the leaders of the regulators, together with all other white officials. All newspaper men were conducted outside the lines and ordered to remain away in the future.

It is impossible to learn what is now going on, or whether the murderer Julian has been captured or burned at the stake. The line of sentinels along the city boundary fired several shots about midnight at persons who would not halt.

It is believed that state troops will be called out today. Many of the white women and children from Jefferson have come to the city for refuge. Bloodhounds from the penitentiary were let loose in the swamps where it is thought the murderer is hiding. A correspondent

The Eyes I Love.

Posts may sing of woman's eyes—
The black or the brown or blue;
They may rave and go into ecstasies
Over each different hue.
This one may prize of his favorite,
And others be lauded by some.
But I love the eyes that watch for me,
And grow brighter when I come!

I have never found out, and I do not care,
Whether hazel or blue or gray
Is the color of those I prize the most,
And I do not know today.
But they're those of my charming little wife,
Who keeps my humble home,
And hers are the eyes that watch for me
And grow brighter when I come!

SHOTGUN ARGUMENT

Prevents Negroes From Taking the Places of Striking Kansas Miners.

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 21.—A carload of negroes arrived yesterday from Alabama at Coal Hill to work in the mines, six miles west of that place. They were met at the depot by several hundred miners and farmers, all of whom were armed with shotguns and Winchester. They took the negroes from the cars and marched them to Altus, the nearest station, and putting them on the regular passenger train, sent them through to Coffeyville, Kan.

Another carload of Alabama negroes passed through Little Rock last night, but when told of the reception the others received at Coal Hill requested that they be taken to Kansas. The depots at Coal Hill and Altus are guarded by armed men, who are determined not to allow the negroes to stop at that station.

Presidential Nominations.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The president asked to the senate the following nominations: Joseph W. Nicholson of Iowa, deputy second controller of the treasury;
William H. Bracken of Indiana, collector of internal revenue for the Sixth district of Indiana; William Lea Chambers of Alabama, to be land commissioner in Samos, vice E. J. Ormsted, resigned.

Honored by the Kaiser.

GUEN, Hungary, Sept. 21.—At a banquet here last evening Emperor William spoke in terms of high praise of the precise maneuvering of the great army of 140,000 men. The German emperor thereupon presented the decoration of the order of the Black Eagle upon General Beck, chief of the general staff.

A Violent Rooster.

REDBANK, N. J., Sept. 21.—Percy, the 3-year-old child of Samuel Wood, was attacked by a game rooster belonging to Alex Kingsbury, a neighbor, and nearly killed. The rooster was being chased, when it jumped on the child's head and sent its spurs into the right temple, piercing an artery.

Clark of Philadelphia has instituted suit against Alfred Fidler, a well-known conveyancer of Philadelphia and standing high in business circles. The action is in trespass and said to be based upon an assault. Miss Clark claims $10,000 damages.

The Good Work Goes On.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Treasury receipts during the past few days have increased so largely that they have overtaken the expenditures by $10,000. The receipts so far this month aggregate $17,000,000.

A WRANGLE BEGUN

As to Where Corbett and Mitchell
Will Fight.

CHARLEY SAYS CHICAGO.

Jim Wants It to Come Off at Coney Island.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Charley Mitchell, the British pugilist, between whom and Jim Corbett negotiations are pending for an encounter with gloves, was with Corbett on the Teutonic, which reached her dock soon after 10 o'clock yesterday. He was accompanied by Jack McAuliffe, America's lightweight champion, and Harry Darrin, the English sprinter, who is training Mitchell.

Mitchell and McAuliffe occupied steerage 3 and 4 and were registered on the saloon list as C. Emmet and J. Emmet.
Mitchell was neatly attired in a dark blue suit, with a white flannel shirt and white tie, in the center of which blazed a diamond horseshoe. He was toying with a glass of champagne in the saloon when a reporter called him. The most important things the Englishman said were:

"I shall give the Columbian A. C. of Chicago the preference in this affair, even if it does not offer the highest purse. As for the Crescent City A. C. of New Orleans, I wish to say that I signed the very first articles of agreement ever drawn by any club for the contest with Charley Noel, president of the Crescent City. That was in March last before I sailed, and at that time the Crescent City A. C. was the only recognized athletic club in the country where an affair of the kind could be pulled off. The articles I signed with Noel were binding on me only in the event that he offered as large a purse as any other organization and, of course, if he secured Corbett's signature.

"The Coney Island Athletic club does not appear to consider me a factor in this affair, but they'll find out I'm a good bit of a factor before they get through. I received articles from O'Malley of the Columbian Athletic club this summer.
I do not know O'Malley, but I shall give his club the preference. I never heard a word from the Coney Island people until five weeks ago, and that was three weeks after I signed the Columbian club's articles. I never heard officially of Corbett's signing with them for a $40,000 purse. I expect to meet Corbett, and want to meet him, and if I get beaten it's all right. I shall not ask him to appear at my benefit.

A Shot at Brady.

"If I find the Coney Island club is the only available club where the bout can occur, of course I shall appear there, but I will not be dictated to by Corbett or Brady. I do not recognize Brady at all in this matter. He is only Corbett's mouthpiece. He has struck a piece of luck in getting hold of Corbett and running a show. Let him stick to his 'Gentleman Jack.' I do not wish to insult him, but he is lucky to be with a good man. The speeches I have read that Corbett has made from the stage convince me that he does not need anybody to talk for him."
To one of the party Mitchell expressed himself to the effect that if Corbett persisted in saying he would appear only at Coney Island, why he (Mitchell) would refuse to meet there.

His professed preference for the Columbian A. C. is regarded by pugilistic experts as all folly. The state authorities have put a quietus on O'Malley and his club. Indictments are out for O'Malley and several fighters who have already contested there.

Corbett, as champion of the world, is entitled to dictate to a marked extent. He wishes to be assured that he will get his cash after he has won it.

Corbett's End of It.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 21.—Immediately upon Charley Mitchell's arrival in New York a reporter visited James J. Corbett on his farm here. The champion, when notified of Mitchell's arrival in America and his open declaration to the effect that he would not fight Corbett at Coney Island under any circumstances, but only before the Crescent City or the Columbian clubs, smiled and said:

"Well, it's only what I thought."
"Don't you think he is sincere?" was asked.

"Can any sensible man," replied Corbett,
"think he is sincere when he prefers fighting in a bankrupt club in preference to a club such as the Coney Island organization, which has always paid up its purses and always had its contests take place without interference?"

Corbett was then asked what he contemplated doing in the matter. He answered: "I am simply going to keep on training, and will be on hand at the set date to fight Mitchell. If he flunks, any man in the world can take his place, but none. That is all I desire to say concerning the matter. The public can judge for themselves."

A Triple Tragedy.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—A tragedy which resulted in the loss of three lives occurred here early this morning. Daisy Montague, a dancer at the Empire theater, was walking to her residence in Regent square, accompanied by a gentleman, when a man overtook them and, without a word, fired several shots at them from a revolver, inflicting fatal wounds. Then he turned the weapon upon himself, fired and fell dead.

Navahoe Coming Home.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The American yacht Navahoe is preparing to leave Southampton for New York, and is getting up a jury rig for the voyage. Her owner, Mr.
Carroll, will return to New York by steamer.

Yellow Fever Leaving Brunswick.

BRENSWICK, Ga., Sept. 21.—The feeling here is much easier and strong hopes are now entertained of an early suppression of the yellow fever. There have been no cases in the last 24 hours, and physicians declare that all the cases now under treatment are convalescent.

A Twenty-Eight-Rounder.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21.—The prize fight here between VanHeest and Napier at the Olympic club, for a purse of $3000, was won by VanHeest in the 28th round by a knockout blow in the stomach.

Fair to Close Oct. 31.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—The executive committee of the World's fair directors met tonight and decided to promptly close the fair Oct. 31. This practically settles all talk of extension.

DURGIN & MERRILL'S BLOCK.

Our method is a great success for restoring mellow tone and firmness of keys. We do no repairing or patchwork whatever. We duplicate the wornout parts of Hammers, Actions, Felts, and Strings with new ones, so as to insure durability and fine tone. Remember the Actions, Hammers and Felts are the only parts that wear out. Tinsy or metallic tone comes from wornout hammers. The seasoning of years only adds to the sonorous quality of the wood in the sound board and case.

We have rebuilt over 800 Pianos of all makes throughout the States. Read names of a few leading music teachers and piano tuners, who have endorsed our honest work by testimonials.

POTTER NOT GUILTY.

Famous Maverick Bank Case Comes to an End.

INADEQUACY OF STATUTES

Made It Impossible For the Government to Convict.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—The case of the United States against Asa P. Potter was brought to an abrupt conclusion yesterday, just after the members of the jury had taken their seats at 2:30, by Judge Putnam, who instructed them that the government had failed to connect the accused with the crimes that were committed in the administration of the affairs of the Maverick National bank, and that they must return a verdict of "not guilty." This they accordingly did without leaving their seats.

There were no demonstrations and little surprise was manifested, as it had been rumored about the courtroom during the recess that the district attorney and his associate, ex-Governor Robinson, had become so discouraged by the adverse rulings of the court that had met every attempt to connect Potter with the crime, they had made to abandon the case as a "lost cause," which it was hopeless to try to save.

When the court came in at 2:30 Judge Putnam read from the stenographic report of the case extracts from the testimony of Cashier Work, by which it was ascertained by the strict attorney to show that Potter had authorized the falsification of the reports of the bank to the clearing house. The court then said that the evidence so far produced in the case failed to show any connection between Potter and the paying teller who made up the reports to the clearing house.

"The evidence of Cashier Work," the court continued, "has not connected the accused with the acts of the paying teller, and so far as I can see, from information that the district attorney has given me, what it is possible for him to prove, the accused cannot be connected with the matter."

A Free Man.

This disposes of the last indictment against the accused, and if the exceptions taken by him at the trial at which he was convicted and sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and serve three months in the house of correction are sustained by the supreme court at Washington Mr. Potter will probably never receive punishment for any of the offenses which have been charged against him.

The failure of the prosecution is in no sense due to neglect or inefficiency of the government's attorneys. The indictment was as good as one could be drawn under the statute, and all the law that could be found favoring the government's side of the case had been found out and presented to the court.

The failure is due to two things at least. First, there is no statute adequate to meet the case in any particular respect, and second, it was impossible to produce proof that Mr. Potter himself actually ordered the false entries to be made in the books. Of course, no one ever contended that Mr. Potter himself actually took a pen and tampered with the books.

Proof Was Insufficient.

The question of the admissibility of evidence which would tend to show a direction by Mr. Potter to have the false entries made was argued for more than an entire day by counsel, and Judge Putnam decided late Wednesday that the prosecution might introduce evidence of conversations between Mr. Potter and Mr. Work relative to changes in the government's side of the clearing house which would make the reserve "look better" or "look well," the court saying that, in order to make such evidence of value, it must be followed by proof which would connect Mr. Potter with the orders given by Cashier Work to the men who made the false entries.

After trying all the forenoon to get anything out of Mr. Work which would meet the requirements of the court's decision, District Attorney Hoar said that he could not produce proof to meet the requirement, and would submit to any verdict that the court might see fit to order.

Judge Putnam then said that the government had done all that it could; that it had been diligent and faithful; but it could not supply evidence or make law, and that under the circumstances he must order a verdict for the defendant, which he did.

A verdict was therefore returned for the defendant and Mr. Potter went out of the court a free man.

Going Out of Commission.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The U. S. S. Alert arrived at San Francisco yesterday from China. She will be immediately put out of commission.

Brief Mention.

Governor's day at the Rhode Island fair drew 45,000 people.

Morrill, the runaway cashier of Manchester, N. H., is not yet indicted.

The board of arbitration is to give a hearing in regard to the strike at Lynn, Mass.

The basket factory at Northampton, Mass., has closed for the first time in 40 years.

TRIAL DELAYED.

Jurors Eat Canned Green Peas For Dinner and Are Taken Sick.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 22.—One of the dishes which the jurors in the Trefethen trial had for dinner Wednesday evening was canned green peas, and yesterday when the court opened several of them were unable to appear, and one of them, Timothy E. Flarity of Townsend, was found to be seriously ill.

The court waited in the lobby for awhile until he felt well enough to take his seat, when the trial was resumed.

It appears that, besides the jurymen and the court officers who have them in charge, two of the court stenographers were also suffering from the same complaint.

Dr. Harris, after a careful examination of the case of Juror Flarity, said that he was suffering from an irritant poisoning but did not think the case was one of arsenical poisoning, as some of the jurors who were suffering from a similar attack, did not eat any of the peas, but did eat some frozen pudding and the doctor believes that this might have made them ill.

Two witnesses—Mrs. Annie F. Kempton and Mrs. Hattie E. Shaw—were examined, and then the court adjourned until the afternoon.

The condition of Juror Flarity was improved in the afternoon, but he was still feeble from the effects of his sickness and the loss of a night's sleep. When the court adjourned the jury retired to its room, and there Mr. Flarity fell asleep and was still asleep when the court came in at 2 o'clock. The court waited until 2:30 o'clock for him to awake, and then adjourned to enable him to regain his strength.

CLERGYMAN ARRESTED.

Taken From Brockton to Portland to Answer to a Serious Charge.

BROCKTON, Mass., Sept. 22.—Rev. Delbert G. Donnocker, late pastor of the Free Baptist church in this city and a few days since appointed superintendent of schools in Sandwich, was quietly arrested at his home in this city yesterday on the charge of felonious assault, and is now in custody in Portland, Me. Several months since the Lewiston (Me.) Journal gave publicity to serious charges, said to have been made against Rev. Dr. Donnocker by a young girl residing in the town of Scarborough, Me., where the minister formerly preached.

Rev. Mr. Donnocker at the time denied the stories and expressed a willingness to face his accuser. The matter was brought to the attention of the Free Baptist association and that body passed a resolution declining to believe in his guilt on the evidence submitted. A short time since he resigned as pastor of this church and accepted the superintendency of schools in Sandwich.

Mrs. Donnocker is confined to her bed, having given birth to a child within a week.

Dr. Lee's Defense.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 22.—Dr. Lee, one of the physicians under arrest, was put on the witness stand by the defense in the S. Scholander murder trial yesterday. He testified that the jury would probably have died of blood poisoning in three days unless he had performed an operation on her, and explained that his reason for demanding such large prices for his services was that he was obliged to give up several other important cases to attend this. He then described in detail the operation performed.

Wants $2000 For Broken Bills.

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 22.—Pawnee Bill's Wild West show was attached here for the sum of $2000, at the instigation of L. J. Boynton, a policeman of Lynn. Boynton, while in the performance of his duty at the circus tent which was exhibiting in Lynn last week, was run down by a buffalo belonging to the show, and had two of his ribs broken. He demands for his injuries the sum of the attachment.

Filed a Bond For a Million.

TAUNTON, Mass., Sept. 22.—A bond for $1,000,000 was filed in the office of the probate court here by Samuel Carr of Boston and Oliver Ames, 23, of Taunton as principals and Rebecca C. Ames and Mary S. Ames of Taunton as securities. Messrs. Carr and Ames are the executors of the estate of Frederick L. Ames, the will provides that no bonds be asked for, so the act is a voluntary one.

Greenhalge Still Leads.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—Returns received last night would indicate that ex-Congressman Frederick T. Greenhalge will be the Republican nominee for governor. It seems like a regular stampede to him. He seems to be favored in all sections of the state alike. This is how the field now stands: Greenhalge, 487; Pillsbury, 194; Hart, 30.

Claimed to Be an Accident.

WATERBURY, Conn., Sept. 22.—An Italian boarding house on Canal street, Nicola Sula, an Italian, 23 years old, shot and instantly killed Francesca Rossa, 37 months old, and Mrs. Jose Rubbo, the boarding mistress, who was in the room, says Sula was cleaning his pistol when it accidentally exploded.

Youthful Robbers.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 22.—Michael Scully, Fred Clark, Charles Orcutt and George Dupont, four small boys from Worcester, Mass., were arrested yesterday for robbing a man named Rafferty in Worcester. They will be returned.

Not Seriously Hurt.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 22.—Young Cornelius Vanderbilt was thrown from his horse while following the hounds, and remained unconscious for a long time, but the surgeons report that they find no bones broken, and that the young man has no serious injuries.

Declines to Run.

MELROSE, Mass., Sept. 22.—In the Republican caucus last night Speaker William E. Barrett of the Massachusetts house made a speech declining to be a candidate for renomination as reported.

One More Victim.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Robert J. Sholter of Ripley, O., died here yesterday from the effects of injuries received in the Big Four wreck at Manteno, Ind., several days ago.

Methuen Cotton Mills to Start.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 22.—The Methuen cotton mills will be reopened on Monday next. It is possible that there will be a reduction of wages.

PLATT IS THANKED

For His Effort Toward the Establishment of Closure.

FLAWS IN THE JOURNAL

Give Reed a Chance to "Get Back" at Crisp.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The first of the day's session of the senate was occupied in a discussion of the resolution offered by Mr. Platt (Rep., Conn.) for the establishment of a closure rule. Mr. Platt made such a strong and clear argument to show the necessity for such a rule that Mr. Voorhees (Dem., Ind.) felt called upon to express the debt which the senate and the country owed to him for it.

Mr. Lodge (Rep., Mass.) also supported the proposed rule, although he foresaw that it would place in the hands of the Democratic majority the power to pass bills changing the tariff and repealing the federal election laws. Amendments to Mr. Platt's resolution were offered by Mr. Hoar (Rep., Mass.) and Mr. Hill (Dem., N. Y.) and the resolution went over until today.

The repeal bill was then taken up and an argument against it made by Mr. White (Dem., Cal.), who spoke for over four hours. Mr. Voorhees made a motion to lay on the table Mr. Peffer's amendment to the bill. The motion was opposed by the minority, who resorted to filibustering. After an hour or so spent in that way Mr. Voorhees withdrew his motion, but the general discussion went on until 7:30, when the senate adjourned.

The journal of Wednesday's proceedings in the house was not approved yesterday until the hour of adjournment. Mr. Reed discovered some flaws in it and called the speaker's attention to it. They were attributable to the journal clerk, the speaker not having had an opportunity to examine the journal, and placed the speaker in rather an awkward position. Thursday, in his decision, he studiously refrained from declining to recognize motions, not because they were "dilatory" motions, but because they were "motions."

Mr. Reed thought that the entries of the clerk were proper, even though they might not be accurate ones. The question of approving the journal was postponed, but later in the day was agreed to. In the meantime the committee on rules reported a resolution providing for the consideration of the federal elections bill on the 26th of September, the debate to continue till Oct. 10, when a vote should be taken. After a brief discussion the resolution was adopted.

On a Crowded Docket.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The docket filed by W. C. P. Breckinridge to the suit of Miss Madeline W. Pollard against him for $50,000 damages for breach of promise of marriage and seduction, was overruled in the district court yesterday. The court directed the case to be set for trial on its merits. The condition of the docket is such that it is not expected the case will be reached in two years.

The Louisiana Lynching.

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 22.—Governor Foster has written to the district attorney of the 31st judicial district calling his attention to the necessity for prompt and vigorous action in the enforcement of the law in Jefferson parish and taking proper steps to bring to justice all the guilty parties involved in the murder of Judge Estopinal and the lynchings of the Julians.

Deserters Lost Their Share.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The last of the $75,000 obtained from the Chilean government for the assault on the Baltimore's sailors in Valparaiso was yesterday paid to John W. Freese, a fireman, who received $1300. Two seamen, who were to receive $300 between them, have deserted from the navy.

Five Years to Settle Up.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 22.—The receivers for the Loan and Investment company say that the business of the firm will be closed as speedily as possible, and it will then go out of business. Five years will be probably required to accomplish this. The company has nearly $30,000,000 invested in farm lands.

Robbed the Company.

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—An evening paper says that Sydney M. Flynn, an accountant herein the office of the Waterbury (N. Y.) Agricultural Insurance company, is a defaulter to the extent of several thousand dollars, which was lost in real estate speculation.

Escaped Burglar Captured.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Simon S. Dunbar, who ran away from the county jail in New London, Conn., Oct. 24, 1892, was captured here and held to await the arrival of the New London authorities. Dunbar was sentenced for one year for burglary.

Referred to the President.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22.—Suspended silver mines in Colorado, Utah and Montana owe San Francisco powder companies upward of $300,000, which it is impossible to collect. Requests for payment are answered with "Go see Cleveland."

Six Minutes Clipped Off.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—W. Burgess and F. Cole have broken the tandem safety record for 100 miles. They rode from Hitchin to Peterborough, a distance of 50 miles, and return, in 5h. 39m. The best previous record was 109 miles in 5h. 36m.

Bad Railroad Wreck.

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 22.—A Santa Fe passenger train was wrecked a few miles this side of Montgomery. One was badly injured by jumping and a woman and her two children are believed to have been fatally injured.

Finished For Their "Zeal."

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Judge Teed sentenced Otto Liebe and Albert Hanson to four months' imprisonment each for attempting to rescue Emma Goldman, the anarchist, when she was arrested here on Aug. 31.

Wollaston Entertainment.

The entertainment given under the auspices of the Ladies' Social Circle at the M. E. Church, Wollaston, Thursday evening was a grand success, large number being in attendance. The several selections given by the Merrimont orchestra were rendered in a masterly manner, while the recitations given by Mr. John T. Kelley, Charlestown's young elocutionist, called forth much applause. Special mention might be made of the singing by Mr. Powers of Milton, and Mr. Thomas H. Donovan of Charlestown, both being obliged to respond to an encore. Miss Mary E. Donovan of Charlestown also rendered two very fine selections on the piano. At the close of the entertainment ice cream and cake was served, of which a goodly number partook.

Violently Insane.

John Hughes residing on Pleasant street became violently insane Thursday afternoon and attempted to do himself bodily harm. He first jumped through a window and landed on his head in the cellar. He then rushed into the house and stabbed himself in the neck with a knife. The police were notified and after a sharp struggle succeeded in securing him to a bed. This morning he was taken to Taunton. Mr. Hughes has been sick for some few weeks and this is supposed to have been the cause of his insane freak.

Ladies at Work.

The Ladies' Benevolent society held its annual meeting Wednesday afternoon in the annex of Memorial church. Plans for the coming year were made and it was decided to hold a harvest concert and supper October 8. The following officers were elected:

President.—Mrs. Harry Read.
Vice President.—Mrs. C. L. Coe.
Secretary.—Mrs. G. A. Waterhouse.
Treasurer.—Mrs. Roger H. Wilde.

Children's Fair.

A three days' fair by the children of the St. Paul's Swedish church and Sunday School opened Thursday evening in Plummer's hall with a good attendance. The hall was draped with American and Swedish flags, the pillars and arches with bunting, and the booths were tastefully arranged. The programme included addresses, poems, and vocal and instrumental music. There will be an entertainment each evening.

Political Notes.

A SHAM BATTLE.

Next Thursday to be a Holiday at Braintree—5th Regiment Field Day.

The annual fall field day of the 5th Regiment, M. V. M., which will be held in Braintree, on Thursday, Sept. 28th, promises to be a grand affair. The residents of that town are making preparations to give the "Dandy Fifth," a hearty welcome, business in general being suspended on that day.

The earlier part of the day will be devoted to a sham battle between opposing factions of the regiment, and the latter part of the day to street firing and marching. Dress parade will end the day's work, after which the troops will leave for home. Following is a brief account of the day's work to be performed by the regiment:

A special train of 13 cars, which will convey the command to Braintree, will leave the Kneeland street station, Boston at 9 A. M., arriving in Braintree about 9:30. Fatigue uniform with cap will be worn during the earlier part of the day. The troops on disembarking at Braintree will be met by Capt. Morrison with his company and the regiment will then march to the armory of Co. K, where they will leave their knapsacks.

About eight men from each company will then be selected to act as the defensive force which will be under the supervision of Lieut. Col. Frost, with Lieut. Kincaide of Co. K as senior officer and Lieut. Bray of Co. A as junior officer.

That detachment will proceed to Whitmarsh plains where they intend to lie in ambush and make it warm for the enemy upon its appearance. The balance of the regiment with the 1st and 31 battalions as the firing line and the 24 as the reserve will then move against the enemy. The attacked force will make a firm resistance but by a superior show of force they will have to retreat. Lieut. Kincaide and his men will then execute the retreat by echelon from position to position as far as Dr. Symonds' farm, when they will commence to fight back again to the field used as a target range by Co. K, where a halt will be made and the troops will eat their rations and rest for a short time.

Officers, honorary members and invited guests will partake of a light lunch at the armory.

The line of march will then be taken up Cherry street, across Capen's bridge to Cedar street and thence to Elm street, practicing street firing on the way.

The regiment will then march to the armory where a change will be made to dress uniform with black helmet. Dress parade will take place in the large field opposite Mr. N. E. Hollis' residence. A large steel engraving offered by citizens of the town will be given to the company (with the exception of Co. K.) performing the best marching, which will be decided by the inspecting officers.

The formation of the regiment and the roster of officers is as follows:

Colonel.—William A. Bancroft.
Lieut. Colonel.—George F. Frost.
Staff.—Lieut. Harry P. Ballard, Adjutant; Major Charles C. Foster, Surgeon; Lieut. H. Lincoln Chase, Asst. Surgeon; Lieut. Albert C. Warren, Paymaster; Lieut. Robert B. Edes, I. R. P.; Samuel J. Barrows, Chaplain.

3d battalion, W. H. Oakes, Major.

Co. K.—W. E. Morrison, Capt.; H. L. Kincaide, 1st Lieut.; F. N. Benson, 2d Lieut.

Co. D.—W. C. Butler, Capt.; A. W. Harlow, 1st Lieut.; E. A. Dunton, 2d Lieut.

Co. H.—F. Meredith, Jr., Capt.; F. McDonald, 1st Lieut.; H. G. Gilson, 2d Lieut.

Co. A.—W. W. Stover, Capt.; W. S. Tolman, 1st Lieut.; R. W. Bray, 2d Lieut.

The black kings of the African coast press your middle finger three times as a sign of salutation, the Japanese takes off his slipper, while the Laplander pushes his nose vigorously against you. In Hindostan they salute a man by taking him by the beard, while the people of the Philippine islands take your hand and rub their face with it. The king of Ternate rises to receive his subjects, and they sit down to salute him.—F. H. Stuffer in Kate Field's Washington.

A dime fell down behind one of the bolts in the big safety vaults of the City National Bank of Plainfield, N. J., on Monday night, when it was locked, and the vault could not be opened Tuesday morning. Two expert safe openers from New York worked 12 hours before the doors could be opened, and had to cut a big hole in one of them.

—Old English silverware is much in demand in the United States just now, and genuine pieces, especially those of historic interest, fetch high prices.

Home Testimonials.

L. H. Battalia & Co., expect to find owners of pianos a little shy of their work at the outset, but they have made a good start and will let their work speak for itself. Here are two strong testimonials which should have weight:

HANCOCK COURT, Sept. 20, '93.
I take great pleasure in recommending
Mr. L. H. Battalia to any one who may require their piano rebuilt, regulated, re-voiced and tuned, as the above work done on my piano has given me great satisfaction.

I am happy to say that Mr. Battalia's tuning and overhauling on my piano is perfectly satisfactory; and any one needing work done in their line can entrust it to them with entire confidence.

A MINER'S CARELESSNESS

Results in an Awful Explosion and the Loss of Five Lives.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 22.—By an explosion of gas in the Lance colliery, No.
11, of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company at Plymouth yesterday afternoon, five men were instantly killed and five others seriously injured.

The accident was caused by Joshua Golgightly, who entered a body of gas with his naked lamp. A terrific explosion followed. The deadly flames swept from one end of the gangway to the other, carrying death or injury to every living being in its path. The concussion was awful; props came tumbling down, cars were lifted off the road and dashed with fearful force against the pillars; loose coal was caught up and sent through the chambers, only to be ground into powder by its impact with the rocky walls.

As soon as the explosion occurred word was sent to the surface, and in a few minutes thousands had gathered at the mouth of the shaft. Great excitement prevailed among the friends of the doomed men. A rescuing party was at once organized, and a large party went down into the shaft to bring up the victims. After a short absence they reappeared bearing the blackened bodies, and there was enacted one of those scenes which is calculated to bring tears to the eyes of those accustomed to the saddest of sights. All the injured will recover.

The damage to the mine is not extensive and it will resume work tomorrow.

HIS CHILD RAVISHED.

A Business Man Takes the Life of a Vicious Brute.

GRAND FORKS, N. D., Sept. 22.—Grand Forks is intensely excited over a murder which occurred shortly after daylight yesterday. The man who did the shooting was M. F. Murphy, president of the State bank of Reynolds, and King yesterday business man of this city. Charles Link had attempted to rape Murphy's 6-year-old daughter about three weeks ago and again three nights ago.

Wednesday the identity of the ravisher became known from facts stated by Murphy's children. About 3 o'clock yesterday Murphy called in Chief of Police Hennessy, asking him to go with him to identify a certain person. Link was found coming out of his home at the Windsor hotel. He was then taken to Murphy's house, where he was fully identified by the child and others.

As the officer with Link turned from the house to go to the city jail Murphy stepped back, allowing them to pass; then he drew a revolver from his pocket and fired, sending a bullet through Link's body, killing him instantly.

Murphy gave himself up and is under arrest, but at liberty on his own recognition.

A SCENE OF DESOLATION.

Property and Human Lives Sacrificed to Prairie Fires.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 22.—The scene of the recent terrible prairie fires on the Pawnee reservation is one of devastation.
Scattered all over the prairie are partially burned wagons, burned camp outfits and charred remains of household goods, and here and there the body of a horse.

For miles and miles, as far as the eye can reach, it is a black waste, and to add to the horror of it all, in a number of places are found blackened and burned human trunks. There is no clue whatever to the identity of these unfortunate.
The dust storm continued all day with unabated fury, and hundreds are leaving every town of the strip, unable to stand the hardships any longer. At Perry the dust is thickest, and all business is suspended. Yesterday the suffering inhabitants sought refuge from the blowing sand in tents and under wagons.

Bridegroom in Jail.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Sept. 22.—George F.
Parsons, a stonecutter at West Berlin, and Della J. Ayers, daughter of H. B.
Ayers of Berlin, drove to Montpelier and were married by Rev. G. O. Webster of the Baptist church. The bride is only 15 years of age. Parsons, by false statements, procured a marriage license from Town Clerk Perry of Barre. Parsons was owing Mr. Ayers, father of the girl bride, a large sum for board, and as he was preparing to leave the state he was arrested and lodged in jail. The girl was sent home to her mother.

Military Called Upon.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Striking miners are rioting at Hednesford. They have piled up and are burning coal trucks. The police, who tried to break up the mob, have been driven off. The police officers have been attacked and many of them have been obliged to flee before the rioters. The mob now has full possession of the town. Military have been summoned to restore order.

Marine Landed but Two Rounds.

MISSISSAUGA, Sept. 22.—Billy Maher,
the Australian, put George LaBlanche, the "marine," to sleep last night in the second round before the Twin City Athletic club. The act was accomplished with a neatness and dispatch that challenged admiration. The men were to box 10 rounds.

To Save His Life.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—An operation was performed at Hedgesford. Plunkett yesterday afternoon. Senator Plunkett, who has been suffering from kidney trouble and disease of the bladder, suffered a relapse, and Dr. Crosby decided that to save his life an operation must be performed.

Misused the Mails.

BUFFALO, Sept. 22.—Emma J. Waters, a young woman of Albany, pleaded guilty to the charge of misusing the mails. She was sentenced to pay a fine of $25 and to be imprisoned in jail for four months. She had been engaged in the matrimonial agency business.

Insurgents Gaining Ground.

BREXID AVES, Sept. 22.—The national troops in the long-disturbed province of Corrientes have gone over to the insurgents. The iron gunboats Bermejo and Republica, stationed in the Parana river, have joined the anti-government forces.

Probably the Arbelia.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Sept. 22.—The bottom of the unknown bark previously reported as towed into Southport is now supposed to be that of the Norwegian bark Arbelia, which sailed from Pensacola, Fla., Aug. 13 for Leith.

Brunswick's Yellow Fever Cases.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 22.—One death

The Next World's Fair.

The next international exhibition will be held in Antwerp and will be inaugurated May 5, 1894. It will be a small affair as compared with the Columbian exposition, but strenuous efforts are being made to insure its financial and artistic success.

Instead of an Eiffel tower or Ferris wheel it is proposed to have at Antwerp a veritable castle in the air, the conception of an engineer named Tobiansky. It will be constructed of steel and bamboo tubing, covered with silk and sheet iron, and will be 90 feet long and have a floor space of 200 square feet. It will be suspended from a captive balloon at a height varying from 600 to 1,500 feet, according to the strength of the wind. The weight of the entire structure, including the balloon and all accessories, with that of 150 persons, will be about 16 tons, and it can be lowered to the ground in about 30 minutes.

The balloon will be anchored to the earth by four great vertical cables, and a large number of guy ropes are relied on to prevent its escaping from control.
It will consist of two hemispheres of triple silk, divided into three cylindrical compartments. Its surface measurement will be 9,311 square meters and its volume 74,079 cubic meters. The balloon elevators, each capable of accommodating 10 or 15 persons, will connect the air castle with the ground.

The French Minister to Siam.

M. Pavie, French minister to Siam, whose name has recently been so prominent in the press dispatches, has had considerable experience in Asia, though he has only held his present position since the beginning of last year. His full name is Auguste Jean Marie Pavie, and he was born in Dinan, France,
May 31, 1847. He went out to the French colony of Cochinchina as a volunteer in the marine infantry and advanced rapidly until 1889, when he was placed at the head of the commission charged with the exploration of the country about the Me-kong—the commission whose conclusions were the real cause of all the trouble between France and Siam. Then he was made consul general and minister resident.

Looks Quite English, You Know.
Bret Harte, the popular author, has lived abroad since 1878 and frankly admits that he should probably not have visited his native land for another 15 years but for the Columbian exposition. He was born in Albany
in 1841 and lived there till he was 10 years of age,
when he removed
to New York city.
Three years later
he came away from home and school
and crossed the

he made his great reputation. He is no longer popular in the United States, but earns $10,000 per

October Magazines.

Walter Blackburne Harte, the vigorous and critical essayist, whose papers under the heading of "In a Corner at Dodsley's" have hitherto been a noticeable feature of the New England Magazine, will hereafter contribute these essays exclusively to Worthington's Magazine beginning in the November number under the heading of
"In a Library Corner." Mr. Harte's brilliant pen always provokes criticism, and no other magazine articles have recently attracted more attention. The October Worthington is an unusually bright and interesting number.

"The Real Tom Brownson" is the title of the complete novel in Godey's for October, and it is strong in coloring, treatment and plot, and is brightly told by Sophie Frances Baker.

Signs of Youth.

When your mind is on the future,
And the woodroos things you'd do,
And you think the world revolves around
For no one else but you,
Although you may not know it,
Yet all the same it's true,
It's a sign—you're rather young.

When you will not even listen
To suggestions or advice
From those who've stumbled over the road
And slipped upon the ice,
And you're bound to buy experience
At the highest market price,
It's a sign—you're rather young.

When you brag about your smartness,
And how sharp you've always been
In getting best of every trade
With all the boys and men,
And how you've beat most other folks
In muscle and with pen,
It's a sign—you're rather young.

When you think a man at thirty
Is going fast to seed,
And one who reaches forty
Is very old indeed,
And a man who's really fifty
Is a withered, broken reed,
It's a fact—you're rather young.

BADLY FRIGHTENED

Five Lynn Shoe Workmen Receive a

Heavy Shower of Stones.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 22.—Five of the employees in the shoe factory of Thomas G. Plant & Co., on Washington street, were followed by 500 men and boys to their boarding house on School street last night. They were hooded, and the cry of "seab" was kept up by the crowd until the five men reached their destination.

As they reached the head of School street they were met by a shower of stones, and everyone of the five was struck. The stones came from the crowd, but it is claimed they were thrown by boys.

The men were not seriously injured, but they were badly frightened. After they got into the house the boarding house keeper informed them that they would have to get a new boarding place, as he could not have scabs living in his house. There were no police present.

All the stitichers in the factory are still at work, and by a vote they have refused to take part in the strike. The state board of arbitration is in this city trying to adjust matters. The Knights of Labor have presented their side, but it is understood that the firm refuses to have anything to do with it.

A Hot Day Episode.

"Met old Drylee on the street 'tother day," said Oldboy, "an I says: 'Hello, sport, where hev you been for the last while? Haven't seen you for quite a period of space.'"

"'Been under the weather,' says Dry-lee."

"Well, why don't you get out from under?" says I. "It's high enough now."

"'Can't do it,' says he; 'it's got the drop on me,' and he mopped a few large ones off his brow."

"Talking 'bout drops," says I, "come on."

"We went into Spieler's and called for two full grown men's doses of beer. Spieler can push more wind into a schooner than any other man on earth. An old chap in there, with a seersucker coat on a back number plug hat, held his glass of lather up on a level with his eye, squinted critically at the scant half inch of amber color that lay beneath the foam and declaimed as follows:

"Well, gents, I ain't no fool. Nor yet I ain't no scholar. But I'd like to know how beer keeps cool. With such a darn high temperature, and occasionally birch, and costs $1 a cord standing in the forest. The tree is cut down and sawed into short lengths, and the logs are then plunged into a hot water bath, where they stay 24 hours. Then they are taken out, the bark stripped off, and the wood split by curious machines into veneering thicknesses, which are then run through various other complicated machines until they emerge completed fruit baskets. The men who make them are paid a cent a basket, and if expert they turn out 250 a day. When the basket is finished, it is still damp from its hot bath, and it is dried thoroughly before shipping to prevent mildew."—New York Times.

Peach Baskets.

Peach baskets in a few weeks will become a nuisance to be got rid of as quickly as possible. Just now they are in great demand, and huge trees are being gnawed up by the insatiable machines that are being run to their full capacity in the making of them. The wood used is poplar, gum and sycamore, and occasionally birch, and costs $1 a cord standing in the forest. AFLOAT ON A KEEL.

The Awful Experience of Three Shipwrecked Sailors.

CAPTURED A FEW BIRDS

Which Kept Life Within Them For Nine Days.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—Seldom is a more fearful story told of the sufferings of shipwrecked sailors than that related when the Spanish steamer Palentino, Captain Guericca, from Matanzas, Sept. 15, brought to this port three survivors of the British schooner Windmere, of Port Medway, N. S., Captain John G. Charlton, which left Key West on Sept. 4, in ballast, bound to Mobile, to load lumber for Port Spain, Trinidad. On the seventh the vessel was struck by a sudden squall and capsized. She was then 180 miles off Mobile.

There were eight persons on board and five were drowned. These were the captain, and his wife, of Port Lorne, N. S.; First Mate Truman Holman, 25 years of age, of Annapolis, N. S.; Steward Henry Sands, a native of Norway, 42 years old, but a resident of Nova Scotia; Seanan Daniel August, a Frenchman, 20 years of age.

The Windmere was built at Port Medway, N. S., last January. She was 299 tons register and was valued at $16,000. She was partly insured and the managing owners were John S. Hall & Co. of Boston.

The three surviving seamen were rescued on the 16th about 130 miles from Matanzas, the steamer being out about 12 hours from that port. The survivors are Second Mate Charles LaCain of Annapolis, N. S.; James Clark of Yarmouth, Eng., and John Mattox of Birmingham, Eng.

A Story of Suffering.

The story of the wreck of the schooner was written by the second mate on the day of Sept. 17, the day after they had been picked up by the Palentino. It is signed by the three men who were rescued, and tells every detail of their awful struggle with the elements. On Sept. 7 all was as usual on board the boat, and they were skimming along under a good breeze, with a clear sky overhead. The mainsail and mizzenmast were set when the port watch went below, leaving John Mattox, James Clark and Charles LaCain on deck.

The captain's watch began at 8:50, and just before he came up a squall appeared to the windward and seemed to be traveling toward the ship at a terrific rate of speed. When the sailors saw it some of them went to the main hatch and called to the captain that it was coming and that he had better come on deck and take a look. The captain was busy with his books at the time and did not respond readily, and at about 9:30, just as he did really come up, the squall struck the ship broadside, beyond the mainmast.

As she was going over the captain called out to take in the mainsail, but there was no time even to begin executing the order before the ship was lying bottom up and rolling about at a fearful rate. When the ship went over LaCain was standing near the main hatch and a quantity of loose spars knocked him into the sea. How he managed in his weakened condition to climb over the side of the craft and get on his feet he does not know. He was badly hurt, but he found the other two survivors, one sitting on the stern and the other on the bow.

Drifted Helplessly About.

At this time the captain was sighted on the box drifting in the wake of the ship, and the three men heard someone calling for help forward and underneath the ship. Of course they were powerless to do anything, and soon the shouting ceased. Two of the seamen were seen swimming in the immediate vicinity of the ship, but there was not the slightest chance for them to remain on top of the water without something to float them for a very great length of time. The captain was in sight of the ship for perhaps half an hour, and then he disappeared, calling as he went out of sight for the men to save his wife if they could. A dog, which was the pet of the crew, escaped from under the wreck and swam alongside of the ship for more than an hour, when he became exhausted and sank.

For the rest of the day the three men, clinging to the wet and slippery bottom of the schooner, experienced bitter weather. The rain came down in torrents and the wind blew a gale such as is seldom seen, even by seamen who are used to all kinds of weather and expect the worst. They kept a sharp watch out for a sail, but saw none, and when the sun went down they huddled together in the middle of the craft to watch out the night.

Friday, Sept. 8, brought no change in weather conditions; during the day the men managed to catch a little water in their clothing, which they drank. There was some salt water in it, however, and it made them slightly ill, besides increasing their thirst. On Saturday, Sept. 9, there was a slight rainstorm in the morning, about sunrise, and this gave them an opportunity to get a little more water. Later in the day the sun came out with a terrible heat, and the men took off their clothing and dipped it into the sea to protect them from the heat.

Rays of Hope.

On Sunday morning, when the sun rose, the first hope came to the half famished sailors, when they sighted a bark off their bows and tried to signal her. One of the men took off his jacket, and then they took turns in waving it, until the craft passed out of sight without having seen them. Towards noon on that day they managed to capture two small sea birds, which they ate. The wind increased toward night, and on the following morning, Monday, the weather was raw and cold again, with the sea dashing up over the ship under a squall. On Tuesday a steamer was sighted in the distance, but she was so far away that the men could do nothing to attract her and she passed out of sight. On this day one of the men caught another sea bird.

On Wednesday, Sept. 13, the shipwrecked men saw several vessels, both in the forenoon and afternoon, and at about 11 o'clock in the evening they saw the green light of a steamer very near to them, but no one had strength enough to call out loud enough for those on board to hear.

On Thursday, Sept. 14, one or two ships were sighted, and on Friday night the men could discern the shore lights. At 5 o'clock on the morning of Saturday, Sept. 16, the steamer Palentino came alongside and took them on board.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22.—There was a disgraceful scene on the ball field just before the game between the Reds and the champions began. Tucker, Duffy, Stivers and Staley were drunk and Tucker insisted on playing. He abused Manager Seale and was taken from the field by police officers. The game was won by the Reds, who made three home runs and a three-bagger in the seventh inning.

MITCHELL COOLS DOWN.

He Will Fight Corbett Before the Coney Island Club After All.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—John P. Eckhardt, the official referee of the Coney Island Athletic club, has authority for the statement that Charley Mitchell signed articles last night at the Hoffman House to fight Corbett at Coney Island the third week in November. Eckhardt stated positively that Mitchell had signed.

Beloved by Veterans.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—Fresh from a reception at the Soldiers' Home in Chelsea yesterday afternoon, Captain J. G. B. Adams journeyed to meet a host of Grand Army friends who had arranged to do him honor in old Faneuil hall last evening. It was the grandest reception of the many that have fallen about him since his return from the west, where the Grand Army had conferred upon him the highest honor in its gift. Faneuil hall was a bower of loveliness with its bewildering array of bunting and flags. To describe it is almost beyond the power of words, and when the cheers of the veterans rang out a thrill of patriotism shot through every vein and tissue. Through it all "Captain Jack" sat as calm and apparently as unconcerned as an ordinary observer. Many notable men gave their testimony of esteem for Captain Adams.

Poet and Historian.

NEW LONDON, Sept. 22.—Thomas S. Collier, the poet and historian, died suddenly from hemorrhage at his home here. Deceased was retired as boatswain in the United States navy several years ago. Since then he has devoted his spare moments to literary pursuits. He had traveled all over the world and was possessed of a fund of valuable information. For the past 10 years he had been secretary of the New London County Historical society. He was also a prominent member of the Sons of the Revolution.

A Disgraceful Scene.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 22.—While the Salvation Army was holding a service on State street last evening it was assailed by a crowd of young hoodlums. Fruit baskets, rotten fruit, vegetables, sticks, etc., were thrown, and Miss Jennie Edmunds, the lieutenant, was struck several times, receiving injuries about the head and bruises on the body. The police did not arrive until the damage had been done and the army was back in its barracks on Munroe street. The disgraceful scene was witnessed by fully 500 people.

Glasgow granaries are choked with American grain. The Leeds (Eng.) central market was burned; loss $300,000. Cochran, the bullion thief, waived examination and went to jail.

Spain has declared a quarantine against Hamburg, Hull, Eng., and Jersey City. On an accident on the Baltimore and Ohio at Havre, O., one man was killed. The Guens manuremen would seem to show that large armies must be operated in the field in small sections. Joseph Chamberlain, leader of the Liberal-Unionists in the house of commons, will sail on Sept. 27 for New York. The Chicago southbound express train was held up at Centerville, Ills. After a battle, in which the engineer and fireman were both injured and one robber fatally shot, the outlaws withdrew.

ELEVEN ARE DEAD.

Awful Result of a Railroad Smashup in Indiana.

BRAKEMAN BLAMED FOR IT.

Death List Will Be Swelled to at Least Twenty.

KINGSBURY, Ind., Sept. 23.—By the criminal thoughtlessness of a freight brakeman, Herbert Thompson, a terrible wreck occurred on the Wabash, and 11 people were killed. There was a freight on the siding head east, and the first section of the Toronto and Montreal express had just gone by.

This brakeman proceeded down to the switch, and opened it, without first getting orders from his conductor, with the intention of letting his train out. Just as he did so, the second section of the express came tearing up, and before he could close it, the heavily loaded train dashed into the siding and crashed head on to the freight.

The express was going 55 miles an hour, and the engineer had no time to apply the brakes when he saw the open switch. There were a dozen cars completely wrecked, and the debris was spread for yards around.

The Dead.

J. H. McKenna, Hyde Park, Mass.
Harry French, 18, member of orphan bell ringers, London.
Charles Berbo, San Francisco.
Miss Alice H. Reed, East Boston.
Miss Nellie B. Tucker, Newton, Mass.
Conductor James Coulter of the passenger train.

Engineer John Green of the passenger train.
Warren G. Ryder, Phenix, Ari.
P. D. Zell, Berlin.

Baggage-master Lyons, passenger train.
James D. Roundy, Lamolite, Ia.
The list of injured consists of 20 names, seven of whom will die.

The Masonic hall here was turned into a morgue, and drays and farming wagons were kept busy for two hours hauling the dead and wounded to the village, a mile distant from the depot, where medical help and nurses were summoned.

There were two sleepers on the train, the Marion and the Kansas City. The former escaped injury, but the front half of the Kansas City was smashed into kindling wood by the day coach, which smashed into it. Two bodies were taken from the sleeper—those of Harry French of London and Charles Berbo of San Francisco.

Smashed to Pieces.
The smoking car was twisted into a mass of splinters, and few of the passengers escaped death or injury. The day coach which followed was also entirely wrecked by being hurled against the sleeper Kansas City.

Division Superintendent Gould admitted that the freight brakeman, Herbert Thompson, was to blame for the accident. He turned the switch in the face of the express and let it go on the side track where the freight train was standing.

Conductor Parks was in charge of the freight train, and was in the caboose. He was not harmed. The engineer of the passenger train, John Green, met an awful death. He had no time to jump and was thrown from his cab forward clear over the freight engine, a distance of several car lengths.

His conductor, James Coulter, was taken from beneath the wrecked smoking car with his spine broken. He died as soon as he was taken into the depot.

James B. Woolley and Henry Aaron, with a company of boys from Dr. Bernardo's orphanage in London, were aboard the train bound for Chicago. One of the lads, Harry French, was killed, and several others were badly injured.

It is the worst wreck the Wabash road has ever had. To add to the horrors of the terrible collision the boiler of the passenger locomotive blew up, scattering things in all directions.

Physicians and surgeons came from all directions in response to the summons of the railway officials.

A special train came in from Peru and carried 15 of the injured persons to Chicago.

Mexican "Sport."

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mex., Sept. 23.—At a bull fight at Cerritos yesterday one of the bulls caught the matador, Julian Lopez, and gored him to death, while the crowd cheered. The bull then chased all the banderillos out of the ring and jumped the highest board fence which enclosed the arena, alighting in the midst of the spectators, several of whom were injured in attempting to make their escape.

Crazy Anarchists.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The East Side anarchists broke loose again last night, and the result was that there was almost a riot in the vicinity of Pike street and East Broadway. It required the aid of 18 policemen to restore quiet. Several arrests were made. Showers of stones fell in the street, and many persons received slight injuries.

A Peculiar Sale.

ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 23.—Charles Fueslin, a chemist, got water in a cup and poured into it some hydrocyanic acid, and drank the mixture. He then pulled out a revolver to shoot himself. Just as he raised the weapon the acid took effect, and he fell to the sidewalk, the pistol going off as he fell dead.

Charged With Smuggling Chinese.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Chu Song, the manager and part proprietor of the Chinese theater on Mott street, was arrested, charged with aiding in the smuggling of Chinese into the United States. Three other wealthy Chinamen are implicated in the warrant.

CHURCH READY FOR HIM.

Dr. Briggs Has Friends Who Believe In His Doctrine.

BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 23.—The Princeton presbytery of the Cumberland church recently purchased the church edifice of the Remsen Avenue Baptist church in Brunswick. The ostensible object of the move was the building of a church of the Cumberland faith in Brunswick.

PROFESSOR BRIGGS.

Reliable information now shows that the main purpose of the move was to place Rev. Dr. Briggs, who has been reduced from preaching in the regular Presbyterian pulpits, in charge. It has been understood for some time that some of the leading lights in the Cumberland Presbyterian church are leaning toward Briggsism, and it is evident from certain articles in their denomination paper that overtures have been made by the denomination to Professor Briggs to come with all followers to the Cumberland Presbyterian church.

IN CONGRESS.

Colorado Senators Will Fight Against Repeal to the End.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The cloture resolution, which was introduced by Mr. Platt, was taken up soon after the senate met and discussed until nearly 2 o'clock, when it went over in order to give Mr. Turpie (Dem., Ind.) an opportunity to speak on it. The only two speeches on the resolution were made by the Colorado senators—Messrs. Wolcott and Teller. Mr. Wolcott said that he would vote against it, but that he would make no prolonged opposition to it, and that he thought it could be soon brought to a vote. As to the repeal itself, if his associates should deem it best to contest that measure inch by inch, he would cheerfully and cordially join with them. Mr. Teller asserted that he would resist by every method, obstructive and otherwise, the adoption of a rule which would limit debate.

The repeal bill was taken up at 2 o'clock, and Mr. George (Dem., Miss.) and Mr. Hansbrough (Rep., N. D.) and Mr. E. A. Tamm (Rep., Va.) took part in the debate. An agreement was proposed by Mr. Voorhees, and assented to unanimously, that from Monday, and until further orders, the daily sessions shall be from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m.

The session of the house was without incident. The report of the committee on accounts assigning clerks to committees was adopted. A resolution calling for information relative to the enforcement of the Geary exclusion law was agreed to, and the house, without a quorum, adjourned.

FURNISHED $4000 BAIL.

Rev. Mr. Donnocker Is a Free Man For the Present at Least.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 23.—Rev. Delbert G. Donnocker, the Brockton (Mass.) minister, appeared before the superior court, charged with felonious assault upon Miss Ella Gilman of Scarborough early last spring. District Attorney True appeared for the prosecution, and Hon. Hiram Knowlton represented Donnocker. Mr. Donnocker pleaded not guilty, and the reading of the indictment was waived.

The district attorney asked for $5000 bail, but this was opposed strenuously by the counsel for the defense. The court placed bail at $4000. It was procured, and he was at once a free man.

The Brockton Enterprise says the charge is a more serious one than is alleged in the court before which he was tried.

Gladstone's Thanks.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Mr. Gladstone has sent a circular letter to his supporters in the house of commons, in which he says: "We are aware of the self sacrifice entailed by such devotion to the public service, and in expressing much gratitude I can but add my belief that efforts so unsparring for purposes of such high importance will meet the warm approval of the country."

Pugilists Do the Sprint Act.

INTELLAKEN, N. J., Sept. 23.—Jack Dempsey, Jim Corbett, Billy Delaney, Jack Oliver, Seward Smith and Solly Smith were participants in an eight-mile foot race here yesterday. Corbett and Solly Smith finished close together, the latter winning by 40 yards, about a mile ahead of the third man, Dempsey.

A LOSS OF $175,000.

How One Firm Suffered by a Great Swindling Scheme.

MANY BANKS INVOLVED.

Prominent Bostonian Turns Out to Be a "Confidence Man."

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—Thomas O. Richardson, formerly of the firm of Richardson & Dennie, the well known leather dealers at 307 Congress street, and for years a prominent member of the First church (Unitarian), is wanted by the police. His servants say his wife is at Newport, but they positively refuse to say where Mr. Richardson is. This is because there is a warrant out for his arrest, which charges him with securing by means of false pretenses, from one firm alone, the enormous sum of $175,000.

The total amount of Richardson's stealings amounts to half a million or more. This announcement, according to the statements of many business men of this city with whom he has had dealings, much to their discomfort, but mildly tells the story of an alleged swindling scheme that he has been guilty of for some time.

During recent years he has, through his church connection, been associated with such wealthy men as the late Fred L. Ames and S. Ediecott Peabody, president of the American Loan and Trust company. It was largely through his associations with these well known financiers and the fact that he lived in grand style on Commonwealth avenue that he was so successful in his swindling, which some people claim was nothing more or less than a gigantic "confidence game."

The charges of securing wrongfully the enormous amount of $175,000, according to well-known banking concerns, does not anywhere near cover his misrepresentations. His Victims Were Numerous. The immediate complainant in the case is the firm of J. S. Morgan & Co., the London bankers, who are represented in this city by Jacob C. Rogers as attorney. This firm is the heaviest loser by the crookedness of Richardson, but there are many other well-known banking firms in the vicinity of State street who are heavy losers among them being such well-known houses as Kidder, Peabody & Co. and Baring Bros. of London. Besides the above named, there are many national banks who are affected by the disappearance of the leather merchant.

The first revelation of Richardson's crookedness did not come until some time after the failure of the firm of which he was the head, which occurred early in May of the current year. Meetings of the State street who are heavy losers, and then it was learned that the firm had the assets of the concern which was rated at $300,000 to $350,000 were almost nothing, while the liabilities were found to foot up to $400,000 in round figures.

Until within a few weeks the losers and victims of the firm said nothing, while Richardson with his wife are known to have been spending the summer apparently happy enough at Newport and later at York Harbor, Me. Finally Jacob C. Rogers, representing J. S. Morgan, decided to take legal steps in the matter, and with the assistance of his lawyer and a police inspector they laid their case before District Attorney Stevens and the grand jury. A police inspector made a trip to Newport and also to York Harbor, but he failed to find Mr. Richardson.

How It Was Done. According to the information gleaned by the City Press reporter he is charged with securing money from J. S. Morgan & Co. by means of false pretenses amounting to the sum of $175,000. The transactions by which he secured the money were somewhat peculiar. He secured it for no other reason than that he was thought to have money, and he did all in his power to make people think that he was among the richest men in the city, and he was looked up to as a bright, energetic and most successful leather merchant.

According to the best sources of information and according to the transactions that have come to light since the failure, the defunct firm started in, in 1881, with a capital of just $2000. Their capital has not increased one unit since then, and, according to some people, they have not even been worth so much. However, when they failed they owed $640,000, and it is alleged that since the firm started in business they have drawn out for their personal use $440,000.

It appears that in recent transactions with the Morgan firm and with Baring Bros. & Co. and Kidder, Peabody & Co., he was more than daring. It is alleged that in most of the cases he went to the above named firms and represented to them that he was going to receive a large number of hides and skins, etc., and by this means secured large amounts, on the strength of which he promised to pay the firms the money just as soon as he had sold the skins and hides, and in some cases for the collateral he gave orders to the bankers, by which it was thought that they could secure the property on its arrival.

But it is alleged that they then were generally disappointed, and for some reason or other there was difficulty in getting the hides through the custom house. It was then that it is alleged that the orders were returned to him, and that he then sold the skins and failed to return the money thus secured. By these transactions he not only secured the amounts advanced him, but also the sale of the property.

Many of the banks were victimized in this way, and there are hardly any that have anything to show for security.

FIRE AT WOLLASTON.

The Bates Manufacturing Damaged About $500 This Morning.

The first alarm for a fire in this city for nearly two months was rung in from Box 54 at 10:13 this morning, for a lively blaze in the soap and flavoring extract manufactory of Charles F. Bates & Co., situated on Standish avenue Wollaston.

The fire was discovered by some boys who saw flames on the roof near the chimney. The boys shouted to the men who were at work on the street floor who pulled in the alarm.

The department from the Central station made a quick run, but the fire had such a headway before discovered that the rear end of the roof was a mass of flames.

The steamer was located on Old Colony avenue and in a short space of time two powerful streams were being thrown onto the building, one from the roof of the L. of the building, and one into the front second story window.

House 2 of Wollaston had now arrived and they soon had a hydrant stream on to the flames from the south side. Thus it will be seen that the fire was all surrounded and it was not many minutes before it was under control although the water was kept on the building until every particle of fire was extinguished.

The upper part of the building or attic was used as a store-room and here there was a small quantity of furniture, boxes, etc., all of which were more or less damaged.

The loss of the building and contents will be somewhere in the vicinity of $500 on which there is an insurance.

The cause of the fire is supposed to have been a defective chimney, as the only fire in the building was in the furnace in the basement.

The Atlantic chemical was on hand but her services were not needed.

It seems almost absurd to think of buying Holland window shades with pulls and fixtures complete for 25c, a tint cloth for 50c, or an English Lonsdale for 50c. These are our prices.—Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

"I Owe my Life to You."

That is a strong statement.
Yet exactly what Miss Gertrude Sickler, of Wilton, N. J., has written to Mrs. Pinkham.

She says:—

"I suffered terribly with suppressed and painful menstruations. Doctors could only keep me from having fits each month

by giving me morphine. This continued until I was completely prostrated.

"My father at last got me a at once gave me relief. It did what the doctors could not—cured me. I never have any

An Exciting Democratic Caucus—The Ward
Two Voters Bolt—Delegates Chosen.

The Democrats held an exciting caucus last night, the old feud existing between the factions over the South Weymouth post office, coming to a crisis. Both factions were largely represented. The first excitement was when a motion was made to nominate John W. Hart by acclamation for presiding officer. Mr. Torrey said he understood there was more than a ballot to be taken. Mr. Dwyer offered a substitute motion that Major Hart be nominated by acclamation, which was carried by a vote of 190 to 85.

A request for a ballot signed by ten voters was ruled out of order. This caused great excitement and the greatest confusion pre-valled.

A. P. Worthen was elected secretary by acclamation.

A committee of ten was appointed to bring in a list of delegates to the conventions and a town committee.

C. J. McMorrow objected to Edward F.

Cullen and J. Lawrence Connor, two of the members from the Ward Two nomination committee. He said there had been an understanding previous to the caucus between the gentlemen named and the town committee. At this point the speaker was ruled out of order and about 150 of the Ward Two delegation left the caucus.

The bolters stated that they should hold another caucus, claiming that the caucus had been illegally organized.

The next surprise was when the nomination committee reported the members of the town committee as follows:

F. A. Lewis, D. H. Benson, D. M. Kid-

der, W. J. Coleman, J. R. Orcutt, P. F.
Hughes, J. L. Lincoln, T. F. Egan, E. F.
Cullen, W. G. B. Beveridge, John W.

mond, W. F. Connor, Edward Howley,
John Melville, James Moore, J. C. Howe,

W. T. Riley, W. A. Howe, Minot Tirrell,
D. C. Sullivan.

Four members of the committee declined to serve, J. Clarence Howe, James

L. Lincoln, W. Abbott Howe and J. R.
Orcutt. Matthew O'Dowd was elected in place of Mr. Howe, and the town committee was authorized to fill vacancies.

The delegates elected were:
State, John W. Hart, F. Torrey, John

A. Holbrook, J. L. Lincoln, P. F. Hughes,
M. W. Lynch, A. P. Worthen, J. B.

DIED.
WHITE.—In Braintree, Sept. 20, Mr.
Jeremiah White, aged 54 years.

BRAintree.

Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. John Long of Factory Hill, East Braintree celebrated the 25th anniversary of their marriage. It does not require a long stretch of memory, but we remember well when the couple were married. A great many changes have taken place in East Braintree since that time, and not a few with Mr.

and Mrs. Long.

The Allen Fan Co. of East Braintree has begun active operations again, with excellent prospects of business.

There will be services in Mayflower Park

Chapel by Rev. Wm. Hyde, of Weymouth, on Sunday Sept. 24th, at 3.30 p. m. All are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Foss and Miss Foss of South Braintree, returned Wednesday from a very pleasant visit paid to friends in the state of Maine.

Mrs. Frank P. Hill of Shaw street, who has been seriously ill for a week past, we are pleased to say is improving. Dr. Tinkham was the attending physician.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Holman have returned home from a two weeks' visit to friends in the State of Maine that being

Mr. Holman's native place.

Jeremiah White died Wednesday noon
at the family residence on River street, after a severe sickness of only a few weeks, aged 54 years. The predisposing cause of death was a thorough shaking up which Jeremiah received when arriving at Brain-tree railroad station, from Boston.

The funeral took place yesterday morning. The remains were interred in the Catholic cemetery, Quincy.

We met Harvey Page, accidentally, in Boston one day the present week, who carried on the druggist business in South Braintree for a number of years. He looked fine. We scarcely knew him. He carries on the same business in Pittsburg and is prosperous.

Next Sunday, the Sunday School of the Braintree Baptist church will observe its "Roll-call day," and all former and present members, and all others who are not connected elsewhere, are cordially invited to be present. An interesting feature of the afternoon service will be the reception of new members where those who have been received by letter, and those who join the church by profession, will receive the hand of fellowship. This will occur in connection with the regular service and all are cordially welcomed.

Democratic Caucus.
Last night the Democrats of Brain-tree held a caucus at the Town House.

Albert E. Avery presiding and John N.
McDowell acting as secretary. The following nominations were made to the various conventions:
State—Edward Avery, John V. Scollard, Daniel Potter, John Cavanaugh, Peter D.
Holbrook.

County and Councillor—Ansel O. Clark,
Elisha Thayer, Daniel Galvin, Albert E.
Avery, Andrew J. Bates.

Senatorial—John V. Scollard, A. E.
Avery, Ansel O. Clark, Daniel Potter,
W. H. Harrison.

Republican Caucus.
The Republicans held a caucus last night at the Town Hall for the purpose of choosing delegates to the various forthcoming conventions. Mr. B. H. Woodsum, chairman of the town committee, occupied the chair and Mr. W. H. Shaw acted as secretary. The following delegates were elected:

State.—James T. Stevens, Charles C.

Mellen, T. H. Dearing, Horace R. Drinkwater, John Kelley.

Councillor.—W. H. Shaw, Henry M.

Storm, B. H. Woodsum, William L. Gage, L. M. Hobart.

County.—R. Porter, J. Franklin Bates,
R. F. Randall, Geo. D. Willis, Frank C.
Allen.

Senatorial.—Chas. A. Belcher, Edward
A. Fisher, Chas. G. Sheppard, Henry A.

AN INTERESTING DAY.

Gist of the Testimony in the Tena Davis Murder Case.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 23.—Juror Flarity, as well as the other people connected with the Trefethen case who were ill, have recovered. There was a larger crowd present than on any previous day. Trefethen does not appear to be specially affected by the ordeal. Mary J. McNellis, Ralph A. Eustis, Charles L. Davis, a brother of the dead girl; Bertha E. Smith and Mrs. Susan Peake were examined yesterday.

Charles Manser, the postmaster of Everett, and John W. McGrath, foreman of the mailing division of the Boston post office, were examined about the collection and stamping of letters, in connection with the one received by Mrs. Davis, purporting to come from her daughter.

Bertha E. Smith, in the course of her testimony, said that one day, when she was in the Davis store, Trefethen and Delaney were sitting on the floor, and she saw the counter, writing on a piece of paper, Delaney picked up one of the pieces and asked Miss Smith if she knew whose writing it was. The witness continued: "I said it was hers. She laughed and said it was not, but Bert's. She then picked up another piece of paper and asked me whose writing that was. I said it was the other was Bert's, that must be hers. She said, 'Yes, don't they look an awful lot alike?' I said yes, that I never could tell the difference between them."

The other witnesses who testified were Benjamin E. Morris, a special police officer; Frank B. Nichols, his brother; Walter H. Nichols, Carrie M. Boyce of Waltham, Henry A. Hosmer, a policeman; Franklin Fox and Annie Vaughan.

Miss Clara Dares came direct from Nova Scotia, where she had gone to visit friends, to give her evidence. She substantially corroborated the testimony of her aunt, who saw Tena Davis at the corner of Ferry street and Broadway, Everett, the night that she disappeared. This witness also testified to seeing a buggy standing at the corner, and when she last looked at Tena she was moving in the direction of the buggy. She identified the buggy as Trefethen's.

Mrs. Isabella Pierce, a business medium, is a buxom woman, dark featured and 55 years of age. Her testimony was, in substance, that Trefethen, whom she had never seen before, called at her place, 43 Pleasant street, Boston, between 12 and 3 o'clock, D.C. 23, 1891, and told her that he had "got a woman in a scrape" and wanted her to help him out of it. Her reply was: "I am in no such business."

Ex-Governor Lowell, highly cross-examined this witness. He closely questioned her about her acquaintances and places where she lived for several years past. He succeeded in finding out that a large number of those who knew her or had business dealings with her are "now dead."

But One Survivor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—News is received here that a black sailor, who was picked up adrift on a plank and two oars 50 miles southeast of Port Piment, said that he came from the Alexandre Petion, a Haytian warship, two days out. He said when she was off Cape Tiburon she went down bow foremost. He said he was the only person not drowned. There were about 90 souls on board.

The Argentine Revolution.
BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 23.—The Tucuman insurgents are invading the adjacent province of Santiago del Estero and are attacking the government troops wherever opportunity offers. The premier has ordered the governor of Santiago del Estero and Tucuman to fight for every inch of ground and to hold out at any cost until the arrival of General Pellegrini.

To Strengthen the Pacific Fleet.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Secretary Carlisle has decided to send the revenue cutters Grant, now at New York, and the Perry, now at Erie, Pa., to the Pacific coast to strengthen our fleet in the Pacific. They will go around by way of Cape Horn. The voyage will occupy three months.

Greenhalge's Big Majority.
BOSTON, Sept. 23.—The stamped still continues to the Greenhalge camp. His tenants are in a joyous frame of mind. They claim that the nomination of their candidate is a foregone conclusion. Following are the latest figures: Greenhalge, 135; Pillsbury, 365; Hart, 131.

Broke Four Records.
TORONTO, Sept. 23.—At the Rosedale Athletic grounds W. A. Rhode of Chicago broke the Canadian bicycle records for one, two, four and five miles. His riding was applauded by the largest crowd that ever witnessed the sport.

Bismarck Is Declining.
KISSING, Sept. 23.—It is reported that Prince Bismarck has been suffering from inflammation of the lungs. He has lost 14 pounds in weight in the last two weeks and his waist measure has decreased 11 centimeters.

Emma's Imaginative Power.
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Emma Goldman being out on bail, The Evening Post has resumed publication, and has an article in it saying that the "capitalistic bloodsuckers are trembling in their boots."

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—In the fifth night's play of the International match at English billiards between Roberts and Ives, Ives won.

DARK DAYS PASSING.

Great Improvement in Trade Throughout the Country.

AN ABUNDANCE OF MONEY

Has Enabled Manufacturers to Start Up Businesses.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: There is no longer only a microscopic or sentimental improvement that cannot be measured. Some increase is seen both in production and distribution of products. True, it is small at present, but after the worst financial blizzard for years it is not expected that all roads can be cleared in a day. But all conditions, except at Washington, favor gradual recovery. Business goes on with the unquestioning confidence that the desire of the people will in some way prevail.

Money has become abundant and easy at 3 per cent here on call, and stagnant speculation fortunately favors greater freedom in commercial loans. Stocks and products are dull without serious fall in prices, the industries are rapidly rallying to make good the scarcity of supplies caused by weeks of inaction, the vitality of demand for goods shows that the wonderful consuming power of the people if less fed for a time has not ceased, and the shrinkage in the record of commercial disease and mortality shows progress toward health.

Everything Looks Bright.
Monetary conditions favor the revival of trade and industry. While the revival is as large as ever, commercial loans are no longer unknown. Foreign trade grows more favorable. Stocks have been extremely dull, having so far discounted improvement expected from the situation. The volume of domestic trade is still below that of last year. In clearings outside New York the decline is 26.7 per cent, against 27 per cent at all cities last week. Better indications are appearing in railroad earnings. The indications are giving strong proof that consumption of goods was not as much arrested as many feared, and when the collapse of trade and manufacturers came.

While manufacturers show extreme caution, and decline to start work without orders, piling up goods at their own risk, improved financial conditions enable them to accept many orders which would have been or were refused weeks ago, and actual orders are rendered frequent by the extension of retail supplies in many directions.

But Few Shutdowns.
The number of works resuming this week has been at least 50 wholly and 24 in part, against only 15 concerns mentioned as having closed, and eight reducing force. The gain has been greatest in cotton, where some goods touched the lowest prices ever known. But it has been in woollen manufacture this week, many concerns having orders not only for dress goods and specialties, but some for men's goods.

The manufacture of boots and shoes also improves, with urgent demands from dealers, and shipments from the east show a decrease of only 13 per cent against over 50 per cent for some weeks past. The industry which shows least actual gain is the manufacture of iron and steel, where the only changes in price are downward, and, in spite of the great decrease in production, the consumption seems to have shrunk even more.

Failures for the week number only 319 for the United States, against 188 last year, and in Canada 40, against 23 last year.

THE PLUCKY VALKYRIE

Was Either Beheaded or In a Hurricane During Her Entire Voyage.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The Valkyrie arrived at quarantine yesterday after a voyage of 29 days and 18 hours, and was immediately towed over to her anchorage at Bay Ridge, where she swung to her moorings just opposite the dock of the Atlantic Yacht club, lying inside of the schooner Sachem. She had a much longer voyage than had been expected.

Her delay was due to a series of gales, and heavy seas. When the weather was clear it seemed to be calm, and when it was not calm there was a succession of gales or of cross seas, in which the yacht labored so heavily that speed was impossible. Time and again she was forced to run before the wind, and on one long reaches up of her course, and was thus kept off, so that she was unable to get in as early as she expected. Many seas were shipped and considerable damage was done, but none of it serious enough to cause any delay in the race. Mr. Kersey said that the boat would be ready for the race on Oct. 5.

All Quiet at Roanoke.
ROANOKE, Va., Sept. 23.—The intense excitement over the unfortunate occurrences of the past three days has subsided and the city is now quiet. The acting mayor, R. A. Buckner, has entire control of the executive department of the city government and the officers are performing their duties without any attempts at intimidation.

In Behalf of Veterans.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Mr. Holman of Indiana offered in the house a resolution providing that all persons who are drawing pensions on account of loss of limbs shall be entitled to receive arrears of pensions from the date of discharge or disability covering all the time up to the passage of the law authorizing their pensions.

Solomon Declared Sane.
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The sheriff's jury, which has been trying the question of the mental condition of David J. Solomon for the past two weeks, determined that he is sane. Solomon was placed in the Broomfield asylum at the instance of his brother on Aug. 18. He was to have been married the following day.

Depew Will Speak.
ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 23.—At the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the opening of Cornell university on Oct. 6, 7 and 8, Chauncey M. Depew is to deliver the oration and Bishop Doane of Albany the memorial sermon.

THE CHESTER ACCIDENT.

Railroad Commissioners Place the Blame Upon Daniel Belville.

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—The board of railroad commissioners has completed its report on the Chester accident and published its findings and recommendations through its chairman, John E. Sanford. The report recites the history of the bridge and the terms and conditions of the contract under which the work of strengthening the bridge was being done at the time of the accident. The report next comes to the day of the disaster and describes what took place.

The board finds that the bridge on the day of the accident, in its normal condition, was of adequate strength for all the engines and trains which were at that time in use on this section of the road, including the wrecked engine and train.

That the collapse of the bridge was caused by the unnecessary and dangerous weakening of the top chord of the south-western truss of the bridge, in the manner which has been described, by the workmen who were engaged in the work of strengthening the trusses.

That the immediate responsibility for the disaster rests upon Daniel Belville, the foreman, who had the charge and direction of the work, and who on this day recklessly allowed the work to be done by improper methods and the bridge to be left in an utterly unsafe condition, and heedlessly neglected to warn the coming train.

That no blame attaches to the conductor, engineer, or other trainmen of the wrecked train.

That the speed of the train was not the cause nor (properly speaking) a contributing cause to the collapse of the bridge.

A DEFECTIVE CHIMNEY

Responsible for the Destruction of Many Large Buildings at Machias.

MACHIAS, Me., Sept. 23.—The business portion of Machiasport was burned yesterday. The fire was caused by a defective chimney in Hanson's store. The losses and insurance are as follows: Hanson's store and goods, loss $2,000, insurance $1,000; building owned by Captain Wright, loss $250, insurance $100; Harmon's store and goods, loss $500, insurance $250; steamboat wharf, owned by the Pennell heirs, and the buildings by the Portland, Mount Desert and Machias Steamship company, loss $300, no insurance; Mrs. George Sawyer's loss on goods $500, no insurance; the granite company's wharf and building, loss $150, no insurance; Wat's store and goods, loss $200, insurance $100; T. D. By's goods, loss $50, insurance $20; Leighton's building, etc., loss $120, no insurance; Cates' store and goods, loss $350, insurance $250; Seaside hotel, loss $250, insurance $50; Sanborn's blacksmith shop, loss $400, insurance $50; other losses make a total of about $5,000, insurance $11,000.

Postmaster Harmon saved the stamps and books in the postoffice. Steamer Frank Jones will make a landing at Mitchell's wharf for the present.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 23.—Five new projectiles for Ericson's destroyer arrived at the torpedo station yesterday afternoon. They are each 17.2 feet long and weigh 160 pounds. Trials with them will begin as soon as they can be assembled and balanced—some time next week in all probability. These new projectiles will be used in testing guns under an increased charge over that used in the Erie basin, while the old projectiles will be used at the torpedo defense next trials.

Long Vacation Ended.
LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 23.—The wool sorters at the Arlington mills were called to work yesterday. The resumption of work by the sorters is regarded as an indication that the worsted department of the mills is to resume as soon as a sufficient supply of assorted wool is obtained. The employees have been out of work since Aug. 12.

Shooting Was Accidental.
NEW HAVEN, Sept. 23.—Deputy Coroner Pond has returned from Waterbury where he had been investigating the death of the Rossa child, who was shot and killed by Nicola Silla. The coroner is of the opinion that the shooting was accidental. Silla is still at large, but the police are searching for him.

Going Back to Halifax.
LYNN, Mass., Sept. 23.—Mrs. Lizzie Dodge Bent of the Helping Hand society received a commission from the state yesterday to take Miss Tressie Hysen, the virtuous thrower, now at the Danvers lunatic asylum, back to her former home in Halifax.

Amesbury Mill to Start Up.
AMESBURY, Mass., Sept. 23.—The Hamilton Woolen company, which has been working its mills every other week, will begin running on full time on Monday, Oct. 2, at a reduction of 10 per cent in wages. This company employs 500 hands.

Thought He Was a Chicken.
SEEKONK, Mass., Sept. 23.—John Hoyle, a lad, was accidentally shot and probably fatally hurt by Edward Greene, a farmer, who is very near-sighted, and took the lad to be a trespassing chicken, a stone wall separating him from the boy.

Reasoned by Eating Oysters.
SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Sept. 23.—Many of the people of this town who attended the fair given by the Sons and Daughters of Rebecca are seriously ill, and it is thought that they were poisoned by eating scalloped oysters at the fair.

Iron Works Attached.
NORWALK, Conn., Sept. 23.—The Richardson & Morgan iron foundry at South Norwalk has assigned for the benefit of creditors. The firm's property had been attached by Boston and New York parties.

A WEEK OF DEBATES

Stewart's Latest Plan For Heading Off the Repeal Bill.

FEDERAL ELECTIONS BILL

Promises to Hold the Attention of the House.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—There is a reasonable certainty that congress will spend the entire week in debates.

The first business in the senate will be the resolution offered Saturday by Mr. Stewart declaring for the independence of the great branches of the federal government. Stewart will make it the text for an attack upon the administration on the ground that it has trespassed upon the constitutional powers of the legislative branch of the government in the case of the pending repeal bill.

Notice of formal speeches has been given by Senator Bates of Tennessee for today, by Senator Perkins of California for Tuesday, by Senator Pascoe of Florida for Wednesday and by Senator Dabois of Idaho for a later day in the week. These speeches will not fill all of the time, as the lengthening of the sessions by the addition of an hour will give several full hours for debate each day. But the list of speakers will doubtless be increased, and there are half a dozen senators who stand ready to take at any moment they may be called upon.

A Lively Week Promised.

The house will tomorrow enter on the two weeks' debate of the bill to repeal all statutes relating to supervisors of elections and special deputy marshals, reported by Mr. Tucker from the committee on the election of president and vice president and representatives in congress. According to the terms of the order reported by the committee on rules, the house will proceed to its consideration tomorrow morning, or, if said second morning hour shall not have sooner ended, then at the hour of 2 o'clock p. m.

And it further provides, "That the consideration of said bill will be resumed immediately after the second morning hour of each legislative day thereafter up to and including the 9th day of October next. That at the hour of adjournment on said last named day the previous question shall be considered ordered on all pending amendments on the bill to its engrossment and third reading and to its final passage. That on the next legislative day, to wit, the 10th day of October next, at the hour of 1 o'clock p. m. the house shall resume consideration of said bill and shall proceed, without further debate and without intervening motions, to vote, first, on the pending amendments if there be any, then on the engrossment and third reading of the bill, then on the final passage thereof, and then on motion to reconsider and lay on the table should such motions be made. If from any cause this order shall not be fully executed on the last day mentioned herein, then this order shall continue in force and be operative each legislative day thereafter until said bill shall be fully disposed of."

Tucker Will Start It.

Mr. Tucker, whose name is attached to the measure on the calendar, will open the debate in support of the bill. He has given notice that in the course of his remarks he will have something to say about the cost of executing the laws sought to be repealed, especially the allowances made to John I. Davenport, the chief supervisor of elections in New York. Messrs. Davenport and Lawson, members of the committee, will follow Mr. Tucker for the bill, but further than this no details of the debate on that side have been arranged. Doubtless some of the New York members will speak more fully than Mr. Tucker of Mr. Davenport's connection with the election machinery in that city.

In opposition to the bill Mr. Dooliver of Iowa will have the opening, followed by Mr. Johnson of Indiana. Both these are comparatively young men and members, but they are among the most aggressive debaters on the Republican side, and it is expected that much vigor will mark their speeches.

There are several bills on the calendar which may occupy the house in the morning hour each day. Among these are the bill reported by Mr. Oates from the committee on judiciary to repeal a portion of the laws covered by the Tucker bill, and which, in a general way, may be said to represent the views of the conservative members of the majority.

They believe that certain provisions sought to be repealed by the advocates of the Tucker bill should remain in force, but they will doubtless vote for that measure, although preferring the Oates bill. However, the consideration of any other than the bill set forth in the pending order will be desultory, and final action is not anticipated on any one of importance until the election repeal bill is out of the way.

Big Steel Plant to Start Up.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 25.—A week from today five of the largest mills of the Illinois Steel company plant at Bayview will resume operations. They will give employment to from 1200 to 1500 men.

Was $190.00 short.

TRINITY, Tex., Sept. 25.—An express package, supposed to contain $500, when opened here yesterday contained only one cent and a lot of brown paper. Detectives are at work on the case.

A DIABOLICAL DEED.

Non-Union Sailors Killed by an Explosion of Dynamite.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—Two people were killed and six seriously injured by an explosion which took place on the sidewalk in front of John Curtis's non-union sailor boarding house, and is supposed to have been an explosion of dynamite perpetrated by union sailors, three of whom were arrested on suspicion.

The scene after the explosion was appalling in the extreme. One man had his face blown off, another both legs, and all of them were completely stripped of their clothing and covered with blood, smoke and cinders.

Even the firemen in the engine house next door were dazed at the sight and waited for the patrol wagon, while the wounded men, with shattered limbs and torn faces, screamed and writhed in their agony on the bloody ground.

Shortly after the bodies had been removed from the scene of the explosion, three union sailors, John Tyrell, James Woods and Terence Tracey, were arrested on suspicion of having caused the explosion, and were hurried off to jail. They were identified by Mrs. Curtis as the men who said to her a few days before, "Your days are numbered; we'll fix you," or words to that effect. John Curtis, Jr., is in a critical condition and suffering terrible agony.

Charles Bernard, a boarding house employee, aged 25; William T. McKenzie, box-maker, aged 25; and Edward Murphy, sailor, aged 25, died of injuries received in the explosion soon after they were removed from the wrecked buildings. This makes the number of dead five.

IN FINE CONDITION.

The Dixon-Smith Battle Is Expected to Be a Good One.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—That part of Coney Island which is a rendezvous for the followers of pugilism is the scene of more excitement than usual. The arrival at the island of George Dixon and Solly Smith, the two principals in tonight's great fight, added not a little to the important incidents. Both men seem to be in fine condition, and both are prepared to make a game fight.

That Smith is stronger than Dixon, there is no doubt. The colored lad can never whip him in a rough and tumble fight. Dixon will have to rely solely on his classiness, and Smith also knows a thing or two about boxing and ring tactics, a great battle is assured.

A host of Boston sporting men accompanied Dixon. He came direct from Haggerty's Pond, Mass., where he has been training. He is determined to render a good account of himself, for he realizes that a defeat by Smith, following so closely after his experience with Billy Plimmer, would do him an irreparable amount of damage and that the $20,000 a year he has been making would be lost to him.

The Boston sports who accompanied Dixon said that they were prepared to "go the limit" in backing him, and the local judges of pugilistic form, after looking him over, were unanimous in the opinion that giving odds about his chance was not much of a risk.

BRUTAL DOUBLE MURDER.

An Aged Couple Hacked to Death by Unknown Persons.

NEWTON, Pa., Sept. 25.—An inoffensive old couple, Samuel Rightly, aged 54 years and his wife, two years younger, who lived alone on their farm in Northampton township, were foully murdered. The perpetrators of the deed afterward set fire to the house to cover up the crime. A neighbor discovered that the house of the Rightlys was on fire. With the assistance of the neighbors he extinguished the flames.

The charred remains of the aged couple were found lying on a bed. Mr. Rightly's skull had been fractured by a hatchet or ax, and Mrs. Rightly's head and face were hacked to pieces. Nothing is known as to the motive, as the old people were known to be in indigent circumstances. The victims were much respected.

Riot in a Brooklyn Street.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—There was a fierce battle between two big gangs of Italian laborers who were laying tracks in Brooklyn yesterday afternoon. Pickaxes, crow-bars, shovels and bricks were used with freedom and blood stained the street. No one was killed. Nine persons were badly injured. Twenty arrests were made. The row was caused by one of the foremen ordering his men to do some work which the others had already commenced. The other gang pounced on them.

Friends Once More.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The Berlin correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says: I am enabled to assert positively that the friendly relations between the emperor and Prince Bismarck will be completely restored. While journeying to Friedrichsruhe the prince will be received at Berlin with all the old symbols of affection.

Man and Wife Sent to Prison.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 25.—John McGuire and his wife Eva, who were found guilty of criminal assault upon Katie Roach, a 16-year-old girl, were sentenced by Judge Woodward. The former was fined $500 and sentenced to imprisonment for five years. His wife was sentenced to serve six months in prison.

Strike Impending.

MATTOON, Ill., Sept. 25.—The six consolidated orders of the Big Four railroad held a secret meeting here. It is understood that the meeting, which was largely attended by prominent brotherhood men, was for the purpose of deciding the fate of the Big Four system, and it is rumored that a strike was decided upon.

Call Withdrawn.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 25.—The leaders who had called a meeting of the colored people for Sunday to protest against the late lynching in Jefferson parish withdrew the call at the suggestion of those whites who are opposed to lynch law. They took the position that it would arouse a race prejudice.

Dunraven Resting Himself.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The Earl of Dunraven, who arrived in America Saturday, spent Sunday resting himself from the fatigue of his journey. With his two daughters he took a ride up the Hudson as far as West Point.

ATTEMPT AT MURDER

Mrs. Wood Received Letters Threatening Her Life.

PLAN ALMOST CARRIED OUT.

Awoke From Sleep to Find a Stranger In Her Room.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Sept. 25.—An unsuccessful attempt was made to murder Mrs. Stanford Wood of this town last week, the details of which the police have just given out. They also say that the man who attempted the murder will soon be in custody.

The details of the case, as far as can be learned, are as follows: About 2 o'clock Thursday morning Mrs. Wood was awakened by a sensation of suffocation and by the pressure of a man's hand on her throat, and discovered that there was a white cloth saturated with some sort of solution being held to her face. The man who stood over her was rubbing the inside of her mouth with a portion of the cloth.

Mrs. Wood screamed for help, and her husband, who was sleeping in another part of the house, was awakened by her cries and ran to her assistance, thereby frightening the man away.

Mrs. Wood was partially dazed when her husband arrived, and was only able to describe to him her experience, as related above.

Was Premeditated.

The house was searched, and in the dining room, behind a box, a two-ounce vial of chloroform was found, with a white handkerchief, soaked with chloroform, wrapped around it. When Mrs. Wood learned of this she became unconscious, and remained so until morning, when she was taken to the hospital, where she received medical attendance. It was found that her mouth had been badly burned, and that her eyes were much inflamed.

Deputy Sheriff Brown was informed of the facts and he is now on the track of the person who is said to have committed the deed.

Mrs. Wood had received several anonymous letters telling her that before long she would be killed. The neighborhood in which she lives is not a very good one, and there has been more or less trouble among the families which compose it.

To a reporter last evening Mrs. Wood said she does not know why any attempt on her life should be made, although she has lived in fear for some time lest something should happen to her.

No door or window was open in the house last Thursday morning, and how an entrance was made by the assailants is unknown.

Late last evening the police announced that they had located the would-be murderer, and that he would be in custody before the lapse of many hours. Sheriff Brown said last night that the attempt to murder Mrs. Wood was the result of a coolly devised plan, and that the fellow who had made the attempt must have been concealed in the house before Mr. and Mrs. Wood retired to bed. The sheriff also states that robbery was not part of the man's design, but that he had attempted the murder with the sole purpose of putting Mrs. Wood out of the way.

Mrs. Wood is 24 years old and has two children. She is the daughter of Eber F. Miller of Attleboro.

THREATS OF LYNCHING

If the Cattle Thieves of Niobrara Range Are Not Convicted.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 25.—A dispatch from Verdigris, the nearest railroad point to Niobrara, says the excitement growing out of the arrest of cattle thieves is subsiding. Farmers all over the country formed a lynching party and lacked only a leader to carry out their threats of vengeance on the thieves. In all, there have been seven arrests, many of the accused being prominent in the county.

Isaac Levi, a hireling of the bigger thieves, has confessed and tells a story of systematic stealing covering a period of five years. Three of the accused went into court at Niobrara, secured a continuance and change of venue to Pierce county and were released on bonds of $500 each. The other four were held and their trial will probably occur about the 10th of October. The farmers declare there will be a conviction or a lynching bee.

Satelli Acts.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.—Archbishop Kenrick has been deposed by Mgr. Satelli, and his coadjutor, Archbishop Kain, has been vested with all power in the premises. Twice in his career Archbishop Kenrick has almost denied papal authority. He refused to promulgate the Baltimore decrees in his diocese, and for a long time vigorously combated the dogma of papal infallibility.

Patterson Has Amendments.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Representative Patterson of Tennessee has introduced in the house a bill to amend the interstate commerce law. The measure is similar to the one prepared by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce of the last congress and passed by the house.

One More Victim.

PERU, Ind., Sept. 25.—Another name has been added to the list of those killed in the Wabash wreck at Kingsbury. Willie Hoskins, one of the London orphan bell ringers, died yesterday after two days' suffering.

Charged With Malpractice.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Dr. Stanislaus L. Wyszynski was held by the coroner's jury to the grand jury, charged with being responsible for the death of Ludwiga Turek, who died, it is alleged, from a criminal operation.

Charged With Poisoning.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 25.—Mrs. Maggie Woods of Kingsland was put on the Hackensack jail charged with giving Mrs. Margaret Flanagan a dose of carbolic acid, which caused instant death.

OLD PIANOS MADE NEW.

L. H. Battalia & Co.

DURGIN & MERRILL'S BLOCK.

Our method is a great success for restoring mellow tone and firmness of keys. We do no repairing or patchwork whatever. We duplicate the wornout parts of Hammers, Actions, Felts, and Strings with new ones, so as to insure durability and fine tone. Remember the Actions, Hammers and Felts are the only parts that wear out. Tiny or metallic tone comes from wornout hammers. The seasoning of years only adds to the sonorous quality of the wood in the sound board and case.

We have rebuilt over 800 Pianos of all makes throughout the States. Read names of a few leading music teachers and piano tuners, who have endorsed our honest work by testimonials.

BICYCLES ON SIDEWALKS.

It is Allowed in Some Western Cities Under Certain Conditions.

Many bicycle riders can see no objection to riding on the sidewalks in unfrequented parts of the city, yet object very much to be classed among the law breakers simply because of riding on said sidewalks a few feet to avoid bad spots in the road. They note in the city a marked improvement in the many of the streets since the inauguration of the city government and prefer streets in good condition to sidewalks. If the city ordinance could be modified so as to permit bicycle riding under certain conditions on sidewalks not curved it would be appreciated by bicyclists who respect the law.

The exception in italics above is not that made in some western cities but seems most desirable for Quincy, and would net the city treasury quite a sum for licenses. The bicycle ordinances of Elkhart, Ind., provides:

It shall be unlawful to ride a bicycle upon any sidewalk bordering upon that portion of any street in said city which is paved.

It shall be unlawful to ride a bicycle upon the streets or sidewalks of said city at a speed exceeding six miles per hour.

It shall be unlawful to ride a bicycle upon any sidewalk or footpath in said city unless such bicycle is provided with a brake. It shall be unlawful to ride a bicycle at night in said city, unless the same carries a lighted bicycle lantern.

It shall be unlawful for a mounted cyclist to pass or meet a pedestrian upon any sidewalk or footpath in said city without giving such pedestrian notice of his approach and requesting permission to pass. And in case such pedestrian refuses to grant such permission, such cyclist shall dismount and pass on foot.

It shall be unlawful to ride a bicycle upon any sidewalk or footpath in said city unless the same has been registered with the City Clerk and shall have attached to it in a prominent place the registry tag and number issued by said Clerk.

Any person who desires to ride a bicycle upon the sidewalks and footpaths bordering upon the unpaved streets in said city shall first obtain from the City Clerk a license, registry tag and number, said license to date September 1st, and to be renewed annually, for which he shall pay a fee of $2.00 per annum for the use of the street improvement funds of said city. The cyclist shall also be required to make affidavit that he has used a bicycle for at least two months.

The circumstances which led to the passage of said ordinance are about as follows:

A paragraph in the ordinance regulating the movement of vehicles, etc., recited that it would be unlawful to ride or drive a vehicle upon any sidewalk or footpath in said city, except in the necessary act of crossing the same. This ordinance was never strictly enforced upon bicycle riders except in the paved district, owing mostly to the fact that the unpaved streets are sandy and not the best for bicycle riders. There were between 300 and 400 wheels in the city, many of them owned and used by citizens in a business way, as a necessary means of transportation rather than a luxury; but the new Police Commissioners saw fit to enforce all valid ordinances, and the riders were driven from the walks.

The said riders then presented petitions numerous signed by themselves, also a petition largely signed by business men and others (not riders) asking the passage of an ordinance which would embody all the points mentioned in the above, which had the desired effect. The wheelmen greatly appreciate the same, and are rapidly having their machines supplied with a tag.

Norfolk Conference of Churches.
Tomorrow, Tuesday, Sept. 26, the sixty-second semi-annual meeting of the Congregational churches in Norfolk County takes place at Whitman in the Congregational church of that town. The proceedings begin at 9.30 and continue till 4 o'clock, with an hour's intermission for collation.

Quite a Temptation.
The Sunday Globe published fifty "ideas" from as many men. Henry H. Faxon of this city contributed the following: "I am going up on Beacon Hill this winter as in the years past, and fight for my liquor measures. I shall continue to do this until I am so feeble that I cannot climb the hill, or until my last dollar is expended. I have made the offer that I would give any man $100,000 who would continue the work after I am gone, in the same manner in which I have begun it. I have tried several, but they are all after the money, and will not act in good faith."

GREENHALGE THE CHOICE.

Quincy Republicans Almost Unanimous in His Favor.

Republican caucuses were held in all the wards of the city Saturday evening, and were all largely attended and harmonious. The first choice of nearly all of the State delegates chosen is Hon. Frederick T. Greenhalge of Lowell for Governor.

Ward One.

Ex-Mayor Porter was chairman and Wilson Marsh secretary.

There was in this ward what the chairman was pleased to call "an experience meeting." As nominations were made from the floor for State delegates they were by vote requested to express their preference for Governor. Messrs C. A. Howland, Theophilus King, E. W. H. Bass, Charles H. Porter and E. W. Adams were for Greenhalge; Wilson Marsh was for either Hart or Greenhalge, and James F. Merrill favored Pillsbury; Mr. Southworth was placed on the list after the marking begun. The result was: King, 39; Porter, 34; Howland, 32; Bass, 29; Adams, 14; Southworth, 7; Marsh, 5; Merrill, 2; and Messrs. King, Porter, Howland and Bass were chosen.

Messrs. John F. Merrill, Edward Southworth, Joseph C. Morse, Thomas Butler and Clarence Burgin were appointed a committee of five to complete the nominations.

The committee reported the following list of delegates which was adopted: Senatorial—Christopher A. Spear, Eben W. Sheppard, W. T. Babcock and Joseph C. Morse.

Councillor—Charles H. Porter, John F. Merrill, Clarence Burgin and W. W. Ewell. County—John O. Holden, Frank A. Spear, John O. Hall and H. W. Gray.

Representative—C. O. Young, N. B. Farnall, George L. Gill, George O. Langley, A. W. Stetson, L. S. Anderson, Wilson Marsh, Edgar Cleaves, Thomas Butler, John McGowan, E. W. Adams, James F. Merrill and W. W. Osborne.

Upon motion of H. H. Faxon it was voted as the sense of the caucus that George W. Wiggins of Franklin be renominated for county commissioner.

Delegates were authorized to send substitutes and delegations to fill vacancies.

Ward Two.

Councillor Charles H. Johnson was chairman and Harry L. Whitton, secretary. The following delegates to the several conventions were then elected:

State—John H. Graham, John Shaw and Charles H. Johnson. County—H. O. Souther, George Crane and Samuel Crane.

Councillor—T. H. Newcomb, John Shaw and John R. Graham. Senatorial—Joseph L. Whitton, Rufus Foster and Edwin W. Newcomb.

Representative—Harry L. Whitton, John Shaw, John R. Graham, Horace O. Souther, Edwin W. Newcomb, Joseph L. Whitton, T. H. Newcomb, George Crane and Charles H. Johnson.

Ward Three.

The caucus organized with James Thompson as chairman and James Copland as secretary.

A motion prevailed to nominate the several delegates from the floor. The following delegates to the several conventions were then made:

State—J. Q. A. Field, Warren H. Rideout and James Thompson. County—Charles H. Grindell, John N. Kelley and Frederick L. Jones.

Councillor—Warren H. Rideout, Abel Nutting and William J. Williams. Senatorial—Frederick L. Jones, Price Morris and George O. Shirley.

Representatives—Charles H. Glines, George A. Cameron, William H. Whitney, Charles H. Grindell, Horace E. Spear, Arthur C. Merritt, Price Morris, James W. Pierce, James Copland and Warren H. Rideout.

Ward Four.

Representative Charles L. Hammond was chairman, and Nathan Ames secretary of the Ward Four caucus.

State—Charles L. Hammond, Jonas Shackley and Arthur E. Barker. County—Tobias H. Burke, William J. Hammond and Joseph Walker.

Councillor—Tobias H. Burke, J. W. Dunn and J. Warren Nightingale. Senatorial—J. E. Sprague, Nathan Ames and Alex Shirley.

Representative—Nathan Ames, Arthur E. Barker, W. J. Hammond, Ernest Gould, William H. Teasdale, John Williams, William B. Donald, Joseph Prairie and Alfred Gilbert.

Ward Five.

The Ward Five Republican caucus was held in Perry's hall on Saturday evening. The caucus was called to order by Charles R. Sherman, who was elected chairman. James S. Whiting was elected secretary.

The following list of delegates was chosen to attend the various conventions: State—Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks, Walter J. Wellington and E. H. Sprague. Councillor—Sylvester Brown, James S. Whiting, and George F. Pinkham. Senatorial—Walter F. Nichols, R. R. Freeman and W. G. Cortwell. County—H. T. Whitman, W. S. Pinkham, George A. Loring. Representative—Charles P. Hutchins, I. W. Faunce, A. G. Olney, A. L. Baker, Benjamin King, N. G. Nickerson, Walter M. Hatch, Henry E. Gifford, W. J. Battison, Chandler W. Smith, N. O. Parker and George E. Thomas.

Ward Six.

Many of the Republicans of this Ward gathered at Music hall, Saturday night to nominate delegates to the several conventions. The business of the evening was transacted in short order, the whole time occupied not being over twenty minutes. In the absence of the chairman of the Ward committee, the meeting was called to order by Frank E. Badger, and Stephen O. Moxon was elected chairman and B. F. Thomas secretary.

Upon vote of the caucus, the following delegates were nominated from the floor: State—Roger H. Wilde and Louis Rinn. County—Charles L. Carter and Charles A. Hall. Councillor—B. Frank Thomas and Joshua E. Drew. Senatorial—J. W. Woodward and Thomas H. Kingston. Representative—Edward H. Richardson, Frank E. Badger, Stephen A. Bennett, Alonzo Priest, Henry S. Weymouth and Wilson G. Hammond.

CITY CHIT CHAT.

Items of Interest from All Parts of Quincy.

The last week of September.

Mr. W. S. McFaul and family of Wollaston Park, have moved to Lynn.

Some of the taxpayers may expect their tax bills from the collector tomorrow.

A daughter of Mr. E. H. Sprague of Wollaston is sick with the scarlet fever.

The Squantum Yacht club has a sail off, next Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

Master Carroll Bates, son of Mr. James C. Bates of Wollaston, is down with the scarlet fever.

Handsome new gilt signs have been placed on the front and rear of the Hancock House.

"The Only True God" was the subject of the Christadelphian lecture Sunday evening.

The Wollaston Sunday Schools have begun to make preparations for their annual harvest concert.

A good reliable married man wanted to run the boiler in new Hotel Greenleaf, see ad in another column.

The Rev. Edward A. Robinson of Wollaston and the Rev. Edward Norton of Quincy, exchanged Sunday.

The Board of Registrars added 19 new names to the voting lists at their meeting Saturday evening. Another meeting will be held on Wednesday evening.

Early Sunday evening, Paul Bergeron of Weymouth drove to the residence of Charles Bigness on Quincy street and while he was in the house making a short call some thief stole his robe and blanket.

The Council Committee on Fire Department has taken the proper steps to find out the sentiments of West Quincy as to location of the proposed new hose house. They advertise a public hearing for Wednesday evening.

The three days' children's fair of the St. Paul's Swedish church last week was a good success. The exact amount cleared is not known yet. Rev. and Mrs. Paulson feel indebted to all who contributed toward the success of the fair.

Cards are out for the marriage reception of Mr. Moses Lang Stevens of Newton and Miss Marcia Hall Sylvester, formerly of Quincy, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 4th, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Eliza F. Sylvester at Newton Centre.

The brick block on Chestnut street is being completely overhauled to be rented. In spite of some prejudice about it, the drainage is good and it has been much improved lately, especially in the rear. The trimming out of the vines makes it a desirable location.

Those registered at The Greenleaf Saturday and Sunday were: J. W. Jewett, George F. Fischer and Maurice D. Connor, Boston; E. F. Porter, South Braintree; W. E. Hayes, Wellesley; A. E. Lewis, E. E. Chandler, C. D. Craig, Plymouth; J. F. Connor, Portland, Me.; G. P. Spafford, Brockton; Rufus Foster, Miss Mary Foster, Dr. and Mrs. G. R. England, Mrs. W. F. Whitney and Charles C. Hearn of Quincy.

Morse Has Got Home.

The Wollaston Trap club's weekly shoot attracted several Quincy gentlemen. Mr. Morse, who has just returned from a trip to Chicago, came off No. 1, as usual. Councillor Foderhen, with his sixteen bare gun, made a remarkably good score.

The next shoot will be on Saturday, the 30th, at 4 p. m. sharp. A special invitation is extended to Quincy shooters. The score out of a possible 25:

J. C. Morse,	19
H. T. Whitman,	15

Tremont Theatre.

Tonight begins at the Tremont Theatre the annual engagement of the eminent English actor, Mr. E. S. Willard, supported by his own able company, which includes the charming artist, Miss Marie Burroughs. The repertoire this week will be Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, and Saturday matinee, the intensely strong play by Henry Arthur Jones, "Wealth." During Mr. Willard's engagement at the Tremont, he will appear at an extra matinee each week, on Wednesday afternoons. The first matinee Wednesday, September 27, will be of "The Professor's Love Story," which will also be given on Saturday night. During Mr. Willard's engagement the curtain will rise at 8 p. m. evenings, 2 p. m. Matinees, precisely, and it is earnestly hoped that the audience will find it convenient to be seated at that time.

Diamond Tips.

Cooley of St. Louis seems to be an excellent general player.

Shindle of Baltimore made his first home run of the season last Sunday. St. Louis wanted to exchange Wenden for Boyle, but Harry Wright did not see it.

The Fall Rivers and New Bedford seem to be invincible on their own grounds.

Milligan drove the ball outside of the city limits on the Louisville grounds last Wednesday.

Billy Hamilton, who is fast recovering from typhoid fever, has signed with Philadelphia for '94.

Buffalo and Providence would like to get into the league in place of Louisville and Washington.

Umpire Mahoney of the New England league is to engage in business in Lowell, Mass., this winter.

The Philadelphia and St. Louis are to play fall week in St. Louis, after the season is over, on the co-operative plan.

Few changes will be made in the Cleveland club for next season. Efforts will be made to strengthen it in the pitcher's position.

With Philadelphia playing at Pittsburg and at Cleveland the coming week the chances of the latter club for third place are not bad.

"Denver" Smith, formerly baseball writer for the New York World, is now one of the forces of George Dickinson's Daily America.

Laroque was tried at first base by the Fall Rivers Wednesday, but muffed the first two balls that came to him and was taken out of the game.

Captain Nash writes that the Boston team misses Tommy McCarthy, and thinks it a lucky thing that Mac was not injured early in the race.

In order to save railroad expenses, the Philadelphia will be sent off at Cleveland on Sept. 30, and the Washingtons at Cincinnati on the same date.

Burkett of the Cleveland caught three fly balls off Carroll's bat in Cleveland last Tuesday, while in the same game Carroll caught three balls hit by Zimmer.

Pitcher Nichols is carrying a few scars as the result of the last game at Pittsburg, where the hoodlums threw stones at the Boston's coach on leaving the grounds.

After the championship season is ended next Saturday, the Boston will make a tour the west, playing a team managed by Jimmy Manning, to include Kitzinger and Grim catches, Russ and Stein pitchers, Beckley, Manning, Davis and Dahlen for the infield, Elmer Smith, Tom Brown and Wilmot for the outfield.

WALKED FIFTY MILES.

Remarkable Work of a Man Supposed to Be Mortally Wounded.

TOPEKA, Sept. 25.—John Brown, who was shot five times by a posse of officers while attempting to arrest him at a farm-house on Walnut creek last Tuesday for stealing poultry, and who made his escape Thursday morning, although supposed to be mortally wounded, was recaptured yesterday afternoon, seven miles north of Manhattan. With seven bullet holes in his body and arms Brown laid himself down from the second story of the house in which he was confined. He traveled on foot across a rough country for nearly 50 miles before being overtaken. He was placed in jail at Manhattan last night. Although physicians pronounced his wounds fatal before his escape the chances are that he will now recover.

In Olney's Hands.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Secretary Carlisle has written a letter to Attorney General Olney, stating in effect that the treasury will pay all expenses incurred for deporting Chinese under the Geary law as far as its means will permit. The execution of the law is thrown upon the department of justice.

Batch of Anarchists Bagged.

VIENNA, Sept. 25.—The 68 members of a secret society in Bruenn were arrested yesterday. Conclusive proof that they were implicated in anarchist plots is said to have been obtained. The police seized a printing press and a great mass of seditious literature.

Clergymen Object to the Fight.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The proposed international prize fight between Mitchell and Corbett has caused the most intense feelings of indignation in Brooklyn. Dr. Talmage and many clergymen are united for war and say the fight must not take place.

Sheriff Gets Krug.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 25.—Adolph Krug, ex-city treasurer of Seattle, Wash., who, it is alleged, had misappropriated over $300,000 during his term of office, was yesterday turned over to the sheriff of the county in which Seattle is situated.

Two Boys Killed.
A shocking fatal accident occurred on the railroad at Neponset, about 5 o'clock, Saturday afternoon. Eben T. Bridge, aged 14, and Charles B. Gillies, aged 11, and other boys had been playing about the freight cars, but they attempted to cross the main track behind one train and were run down and the two named killed by a freight. Death came instantly to one and the other died on the way to the hospital.

A BRIGAND LOVER.

Why do you look at me so, Germaine? Why is that glare in your scornful eyes? Troubles we must have, you know, Germaine. Then you're a fool to let temper rise. What though your hair be a crown of flame, Need you enkindle my hate to fire? Love her! Yes, and love's long came, So you may stifle your futile fire.

Deep are her eyes as the dusk, Germaine, Deep as the dusk and of mournful brow, Smiles like the faintness of musk, Germaine, Brows like a queen's, but too soft to frown. After your passionate love and hate, Sweet, full sweet, will her mildness be, Like cooling winds when the day dies late, Like harbor after a stormy sea.

There, will you never be still, Germaine? Strange that you're woman enough to cry. What! you would strike me to kill, Germaine! Taste my good blade for your pains—and die! Here ye are, men, with the other one, Yes, dead is Germaine, as ye see.

There wasn't room enough 'neath the sun For the old love, the new love—and me! —R. G. Welsh in Springfield Homestead.

TWO OF THEM.

Early in the winter of 1893 I was ordered to report at Benton barracks, St. Louis, to assist in organizing new regiments.

It looked like snow when I left Philadelphia, and it did snow worse and worse as we speeded farther west. By the time we reached Terre Haute, Ind., things looked very blue for getting on.

Anxious not to lose a chance to reach my station, I "held the fort" in the cars, the conductor assuring me that the engine and mail car would go ahead anyhow, and that I could be thus "put through."

I was awakened by the brakeman, who informed me that the conductor had gone to the hotel, leaving him to wake me and say that there was no hope for anything on wheels going out that night. My disappointment rendered me angry and unreasonable. I rose up in my wrath and anathematized the road and all connected with it, high and low. As he advised me to stay in the cars, I determined not to do so.

I had been for some eight months at my home, recovering from an ugly wound in the face received in our first advance against Richmond. This was not entirely healed, and my head was "in a bag"—a large covering inclosing my face and head, leaving only the left eye and mouth visible—and this, while it appealed to the patriotic, made me a queer looking figure.

In the baggage car, chained to my trunk, was Mac, my dog, a large English greyhound, a pet I had brought from home through a feeling of sentiment. Once determined to sail forth, I went to the baggage car, untied Mac, opened my trunk, exchanged my dress overcoat for one of rough blue, drew on long boots outside my trousers, and strapped on a belt with two six shooters in holsters. Receiving information as to the direction of the hotel from the brakeman and calling Mac, we plunged into the storm. On and on and on we blundered and stumbled, the poor dog keeping close to me and whining piteously.

Suddenly I heard a noise, and forcing my way against the wind and snow toward it came "bang up" against the side of a house. Under this partial protection I looked along and was cheered by the sight of a gleam of light which came from an open door. I quickly found the door of the house, and with Mac entered the dingy barroom of a third rate lager beer saloon. It was about 11 o'clock at night. The proprietor was a rough, surly German. He stared with astonishment as we burst in upon him.

"Can I stay here tonight?" "Naw!"

"Why not? Look here, old man, I look pretty rough, but I've got money to pay for everything I want or order," and I showed him a large roll of greenbacks. "If you can't give me a bed, make up your fire here so it will keep all night, and I'll pay you well to let me sleep on chairs in this barroom."

"Well," he replied, with hesitation, "I haf von room got, unt int' two bed is, bad der is von man dare already."

"I don't care if there's an elephant in the one bed, so I get the other," said I. "Let's have it right off."

"Der dog he will here stay, eh?" "No, sir-ee. That dog goes where I do. I'll pay for him like any other Christian. Put it in the bill."

With a grunt and a shrug the heavy old fellow lighted about half an inch of tallow candle, and telling me, "Come on, then," led the way out of a side door and up dirty, rickety stairs to what might be called the "front attic."

As we passed a door on the second floor a woman's voice called to the man. I suppose she asked him what he was doing, as he answered that he was only going to show "dis feller to be."

The room in which he placed me was mean in every way, one strip of rag carpet in the middle, a poor bed under each slope of the roof. He placed the candlestick on a rude shelf, and with a grunt took his departure.

I looked around—and did not like the appearance of things. I saw a lot of rough clothing piled on a broken chair by one bedside. I took the candle and went quietly over to survey my roommate. I was not prepossessed in his favor. He was a sallow looking chap, with a big black beard and tangled hair. The outlines of his figure, curled up under the blankets, seemed to indicate that he was about 7 feet high, and I could see that he was feigning sleep and watching me.

I determined to "bluff it through," if possible. Placing the candle again on the shelf, I unbuttoned the overcoat and drew forth my big "navies," putting them on half cock, I twirled the cylinder around and looked carefully into each chamber; then with a sigh of relief, and as if to say, "That's good for six shots anyhow," I laid them on the bed I was to occupy. Then I pulled the old slouch hat as far over my ears as possible, turned down the blankets, and with boots, overcoat and hat on, turned into the bed.

The pistols I placed one on each side of me; the knife I laid under my back. I awakened Mac, who, totally exhausted, was asleep on the floor, made him jump in and lie down close to me, and then pulled the blankets over us both. I quickly dropped into a half sleep. A movement from the other creaky bed awakened me. I opened my eyes, and by the dull snow light which struggled through the single window could see the outlines of the man in the other bed, and he was sitting up.

In an instant I was on the alert, but made no movement. He leaned forward and seemed to listen. Then he dropped down again. In about five minutes he once more raised himself and for a time was motionless. Then one leg was put outside the cover, then the other, and he stood erect. With the utmost caution he invested his long legs in their proper garments, and then gathering up his other clothing and boots in his arms he stole quietly as a robber out of the room.

I heard him descend the stairs and knock lightly on the door of the landlord's chamber. Several times he knocked. Then the doors opened, and I could hear the dull muttering of the big German, the shrill whispers of a woman, and earnest though low tones, which must be those of the stranger. Then the two men went down into the barroom, and I decided that I was "in for it."

I crept out of bed and went to the door—no lock or catch was there. I looked for something to brace against it. Nothing could be found. One of the two chairs had only three legs, and neither had any back. I was caught in a trap.

I had fought my way through every grade from private to captain, in the field, and done every line of duty from picket to pitched battle, but I never had such trying hours as I passed in that bed. I could recognize the shuffling of stockings shod feet on the first floor and could hear a steady conversation for about 15 minutes. Then all was quiet for a time. Next I heard a heavy, but cautious tread, ascending to the landlord's room, and the woman's whispers were renewed.

The guest room door was opened just a crack. There I fastened my gaze. To that point I directed the barrels of my pistols. I heard the stairs creak and the wind howl.

I watched and waited and finally I fell asleep. When I awoke, Mac was licking my face and broad daylight was streaming through the window. My pistols lay where they had fallen from my hands. I felt in my pockets. There was my money all right. Quickly I made my way down stairs. In the barroom, which seemed rather cozy by morning view, was the host, who now looked an honest, sturdy fellow. "Can I have breakfast for myself and dog?"

"Well, I guess so; after a bit."

And all the time he was crying me most curiously. I took a seat by the hot stove. He came and rattled it a little with the poker, and at last said:

"Say, vat mit dat other feller you do last night dot you so much him skeer?"

"Do!" said I. "I didn't do anything, and as to 'skeer' I'll bet a horse he wasn't half as much 'skeered' as I was—the thundering big border ruffian!"

"By shimmity! dot a good one was. He comes down all mit der drimbels und vakes my wife, und sho myself vakes, und he say to me, 'Wot fer you sent to mine petroom dot feller mit a vite mask his face on, unt two pistols unt dot pig plookhont dot? I shay unt der room in mit no such plookhont unt nunturion endurot!' I haf de chairs in de kitchen fer him fix, unt he at de daylight leit mitout his breakfast wot for he der last night paid."

In spite of its very tame, though decidedly satisfactory ending, that was as trying a night as ever I passed in my life.—Romance.

Fanny Kemble and the Shopman.
I went out shopping with Fanny Kemble one spring morning when she thought her room would look the brighter for muslin curtains to admit the light. She carried a long purse full of sovereigns in her hand. We drove to Regent street to a shop where she told me her mother and her aunt used both to go. It may have been over a century since that the classic "Will it wash?" was uttered.

The shopman, who had assuredly not served Mrs. Siddons, or he would have learned his lesson earlier in life, produced silken hangings and worsted and fabrics of various hues and textures, to Mrs. Kemble's great annoyance. I had gone to another counter and came back to find her surrounded by draperies, sitting on her chair and looking very serious. Distant thunder seemed in the air.

"Young man," she said to the shopman, "perhaps your time is of no value to you; to me my time is of great value. I shall thank you to show me the things I asked for instead of all these things for which I did not ask."

And she flashed such a glance at him as must have surprised the youth. He looked perfectly amazed, seemed to leap over the counter, and the muslin curtains appeared on the spot.—Mrs. Ritchie in Macmillan's Magazine.

A Ghost Story of the Victoria Disaster.
A ghost story is told which hinges upon the disaster to the British warship Victoria. It takes the familiar form of the ghost on the stairs and is as follows:

At Lady Tryon's party, given on the evening of the fatal collision between the Victoria and the Camperdown, well known lady saw the figure of Sir George Tryon on the stairs and watched it pass down into the refreshment room. Lady was surprised, and coming across a friend told her what she had seen, adding, "I must go and tell Lady Tryon what a pleasant surprise she has given us all, and I must find Sir George to speak to him."

Upon this the second lady, who is also well known in society, said: "Do not say anything to Lady Tryon. I saw Sir George, too, and I spoke to her, and she seemed annoyed. She says that Sir George is not here. He is with his ship."

WON BY MULLANE.
He Shows Mcintosh the Way in the 100-Yard Dash on Quincy Avenue.

There was considerable excitement on Quincy avenue Saturday afternoon the occasion being a running race of 100 yards between William Mullane and John McIntosh, two local sprinters of considerable fame. The race was for $100 a side.

It was announced that the race would take place at 4 o'clock and for half an hour before that time a large number of men and boys began to make their way toward that part of the street near Eldridge's woods and at 4:30 the sides of the street were lined with a crowd of several hundred, besides those who were in teams.

A gentleman from the Boston Globe office officiated as starter and Mike Horgan of this city as referee.

It was nearly 5 o'clock when the starter shouted "get on your mark" and a moment later came a pistol shot and the men were off.

Mullane took the lead and held it, finishing with a lead of about 6 feet. The exact time of the race is not known but was about 10 1/2 seconds.

Admiral Tryon's Successor.
Vice Admiral Sir Michael Culme-Seymour, who succeeded the unfortunate Tryon in command of the British Mediterranean squadron, comes of what the English call a naval family. His grandfather, Michael Seymour, captured the French frigate La Thetis in 1803 after a gallant encounter with his vessel, the Amphyst.

For this he was made a baronet and subsequently attained the rank of admiral. His third son, also named Michael, adopted the profession of his father, rose to the same rank and obtained the distinction of a G. C. B. The present admiral is therefore the third of the family to achieve commanding rank in the navy.

A New Statue to Burns.
Scotchmen in Chicago expect soon to unveil in that city a monument to Robert Burns the model of which has long been on exhibition there. The statue of the poet will be 10 feet in height, and it will stand on a Scotch granite pedestal 12 feet high. On each of the four faces of the pedestal will be a bronze panel in bas-relief depicting a familiar scene from one of Burns' poems. The statue will cost $15,000, and has been subscribed by the various Scottish societies in Chicago. W. Grant Stevenson of Edinburgh is the sculptor.

Love's Glasses.

He said: "How beautiful, my love,
From earth beneath to heaven above!
There's not a rock with helens browned,
And not a field with sunshine crowned,
And not a note of nature through,
From whispering pines to ocean blue—
Not even a mote which swings in air
Up toward the bending heavens there
That is not beautiful."

WHAT SHE SAID.
"There's not a thing the landscape through
From sands we beat
Beneath our feet
To where the mountains heave in view,
That is not beautiful,
And all for you."

WHAT I SAW.
A scene almost made up of blanks,
Nothing but rocks and sands,
A dull brown waste,
Over which the crew himself makes haste,
And yet, I mused, "Perhaps 'tis wise
To look abroad through lovers' eyes,
If they may show that round us lies Beauty like that of paradise."
—Myron Beayard.

Chief Naval Constructor.

In the present constructive period of our new navy the position of chief naval constructor, to which Philip Hichborn was recently appointed, is a very important one. Mr. Hichborn was born in Charlestown, Mass., and has all his life been a shipwright, having been apprenticed at the navy yard in his native town. In 1884 Mr. Hichborn was sent to Europe by the secretary of the navy for special duty. His report of his investigations in European dockyards was more complete and exhaustive than anything of the kind ever before published and is said to have caused the manifestation of no little concern by foreign powers. It has become a textbook among naval architects.

HAWKESBURY, N. S., Sept. 25.—The schooner Fernwood of Gloucester, Mass., from Bank Bradley with a cargo of codfish, reports having lost two seamen while preparing to leave for the sail home. Their names were Nickerson and Norton of Gloucester, Mass.

Government Gaining Ground.

BUEEN AYRES, Sept. 25.—The government continues making arrests. General Mansilla is one of the last batch of prisoners. New precautionary measures are being taken almost incessantly by the government in the hope of crushing the revolution.

Carroll Wants to Try It Again.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—It is rumored that R. P. Carroll, owner of the Navahoe, has accepted a challenge from the Earl of Dunraven, owner of the Valkyrie, to sail a race for the Brenton's reef cup in American waters next month.

Perhaps He Is Crazy.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 25.—Frank S. McBeth, cashier of the grand lodge Knights and Ladies of Honor, who disappeared when the grand lodge met here two weeks ago, leaving a shortage of nearly $10,000, was located yesterday in Decatur, Ill. It is believed that his mind has been unbalanced.

A Capsize Drill Record.

In just 25 seconds from the time they were plunged into the water and their boat lay keel up the crew of the Evanson life saving station was seated again at the oars. Yesterday morning the crew gave its annual exhibition capsize drill off the Evanson station, and about 800 spectators upon the piers and breakwaters and along the shore watched the men as they overturned the boat and righted it again. Four times it was capsize at intervals of several minutes, and the time of righting it again varied not more than three or four seconds. The boat used was 19 feet long, with an eight foot beam, and weighs 1,500 pounds. It is a surfboat and is a self hauler. It took about 65 seconds to right the boat when the crew first learned. The crew is composed of students of Northwestern university.—Chicago Tribune.

Miles of Silk.

In honor of the celebration of the sixtieth birthday of the queen regent of China 1,300,000 pieces of red silk, each 40 feet long and 1 1/2 feet wide, were ordered to be made in the imperial mills of Nanjing, Soo-Chow-Foo and Hang-Chow-Foo. With these the streets of Peking are to be decorated for a distance of 40 miles. The queen regent has also decreed that the customary birthday gifts annually presented by the provincial mandarins be omitted this year and the money devoted to the relief of the poor, who have suffered much from the unusually severe winter season.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A BLOW IN THE NECK

Caused the Instant Death of Young Daniel Cronan.

ROW IN A BOSTON SALOON

Which May Eventually End In a Murder Trial.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—A party of young men from Cambridge, becoming excited during a heated argument over politics in a saloon at 13 Cambridge street late Saturday night, got into a quarrel, and during the row Daniel Cronan, 23 years of age, was struck on the neck and died almost instantly.

Captain Watts, assisted by other officers, began a search for the principals in the case, who, according to all accounts, were Harry Angus and Charles Duddy of Cambridge. These men had disappeared and the officers took into custody as witnesses four young men. They are Edward F. Daniels, William Duran, John L. Mulverhill and Arthur F. Hackett.

One of the witnesses tells the story of the affair as follows: "Cronan was having some hard words with Joan Flanagan, when Duddy and Angus came into the saloon, and Duddy told Cronan he had no business to talk so to Flanagan, at the same time striking him. When he struck Cronan the friends of the latter made a rush for Duddy, and were making it pretty interesting for him when Angus interfered and struck Cronan the blow which knocked him down."

Captain Watts was informed that Duddy and Angus were but a short distance away. He soon caught up to them and attempted to take them into custody. Both were larger than the captain and both fought against arrest. Captain Watts was obliged to let Duddy escape, but Angus was locked up.

Duddy gives himself up. Duddy could not be found. Fearing arrest he had gone to Beacon park where he slept all night. When he at last started for his home in Cambridge he learned that the officers were making a search for him and meeting Officer Stevens of Cambridge he gave himself up at 7 o'clock last night. That officer turned him over to Captain Watts.

Having both of the principals in the supposed murder under lock and key, the witnesses were asked to look at them and Angus was identified by them as the man who struck the blow, which is supposed to have caused Cronan's death.

Both Angus and Duddy are powerful men and are stone cutters. Angus belonged in St. Louis, and has been here but a week or two. Duddy made his acquaintance in that city and both came here together and were employed in Cambridge. Cronan, the dead man, was a teamster, and lived in Cambridgeport.

Angus and Duddy will be charged with murder.

NOW FOR THE DEFENSE.

Verdict In the Trifthen Case Looked For by Thursday.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 25.—There were not a few long-drawn sighs of relief in the courtroom when Attorney General Pillsbury announced that the government rested its case. With the exception of the frozen pudding interruption of Thursday, they had been listening all the week to the long story of the troubles produced by the prosecution to establish the guilt of James Albert Trifthen.

The closing of the government's evidence renewed the gossip concerning the probable outcome of the case. Trifthen had a goodly contingent of sympathizers before the trial commenced, and the number has not diminished by the testimony of the prosecution. The sympathetic persons have great hopes of his acquittal, and they are confident that nothing can happen worse than a disagreement of the jury.

In support of their belief they point to the fact that the cases have been exceedingly rare in the history of the country where a defendant has been convicted for the second time for a capital offense. No such instance is recalled here in New England.

The government's evidence is not a source of alarm to Trifthen's friends, although it is practically the same as that which convinced him before. On the other hand, the government's allies are equally sure that a verdict of guilty will be brought in against Trifthen.

The defense commenced its testimony today and Mr. Sullivan finished his opening, which he commenced Saturday, and two days will probably be consumed. Another day will be taken up by the closing arguments and the judge's charge. A verdict is looked for by Wednesday night or Thursday morning.

Cheated Church Folks.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 25.—Borneo Mosko was arrested last night. He is charged with obtaining money under false pretenses from Calvary Baptist Sunday school and the Methodist Episcopal church. He spoke in those places yesterday for the alleged purpose of obtaining funds to send home for a missionary cause and was about to speak in Zion A. M. E. church for the same purpose when arrested. All the pastors of the above churches have been summoned to appear as witnesses. Mosko admits his guilt.

"Shady" Stole $3000.

KEENE, N. H., Sept. 25.—Three thousand dollars stolen from A. S. Whitcomb Thursday afternoon has been recovered. Walter Kibbey, a "shady" Whitecomb, grandson of the robbed man, was found hiding in Whitcomb's barn. He confessed and returned all the money. He had been wandering about the country, selling rides whenever he could, but finally returned home, and will probably not be arrested.

Concerning a Cutdown.

WATERVILLE, Me., Sept. 25.—About 200 members of different orders of the Maine Central employees met in Thayer's hall behind closed doors. It is reported that it was decided to consolidate the orders into one organization, also that a committee was appointed to wait on the officials to secure a statement of the conditions which necessitated the late cutdown in the wages of employees.

President Is Too Busy.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 25.—President Cleveland will not be able to attend the Williams celebration, which is to be celebrated at Williamstown Oct. 2, 3 and 4. The situation is such that he cannot leave Washington. President Carter has received a letter expressing the reluctance of Mr. Cleveland to abandon the trip.

A Bad Man.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 25.—Thomas Boderick, living on Howe avenue, during a drunken family row yesterday, thrashed his wife, jumped on her chest and cut her badly on the head with a knife. The police were called in, but Boderick could not be found.

BOMB FOR A GENERAL

One Man Killed and Five Fatally Wounded at Barcelona.

BARCELONA, Sept. 25.—An anarchist tried to kill Captain General Martinez de Campos with a bomb here. There had been a review of all the troops in this district early in the morning. Shortly before noon the general and his staff took their place on one side of the large square, and the march past began. A large crowd had gathered near the officers, but, as no trouble was thought probable while the military filled the streets, only four gendarmes were at hand to preserve order.

The head of the column had hardly passed the captain general when a bomb was thrown from the crowd. It struck near the captain general and exploded with tremendous force. A soldier of the civic guard was killed and five others were wounded and will die.

Martinez de Campos was thrown to the ground by the shock. He was picked up by officers of the staff and carried to his house. Aside from a wound in his arm and a few bruises, he was found to be uninjured.

The man who threw the bomb was caught and was delivered to the police. He belongs to the gang of anarchists who have caused many explosions here in the last year.

AN OCEAN HORROR.

Loss of the Monitor Kosakaka, a Coast Defense Vessel.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 25.—The iron monitor Kosakaka of the Russian navy is believed to have gone down in a storm in the gulf of Finland while on her way from Revel to Helsingfors.

Made up wreckage, apparently from her, has been washed ashore and the body of a Russian marine was picked up yesterday on the coast almost opposite the point where she must have been during a high gale several days ago.

The Kosakaka put to sea with 12 officers and 160 men. The vessel was built 25 years ago, and was classed as a coast defense ship.

Body Turned Blue.

ALLENSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 25.—Robert Wagner, aged 27 years, and Harvey Allen, aged 23, were found dead in the potato pile of H. Le's barn on the outskirts of this city. The men were on a terrible debauch Saturday and wound up their drunk by wandering into the barn to sleep. Poisonous fumes from fodder curing rooms suffocated the men. Wagner's body, when found, was a bright blue in color.

Drought Too Much For Them.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Sept. 25.—Cattle are being driven out of Uvalde county by thousands. The range has at last succumbed to the long continued drought. Stockmen who have been ranching for 40 years and never before had to move their cattle on account of scarcity of grass and water are now compelled to take them to places that have been favored with rain.

A Mother's Love.

HAZELTON, Pa., Sept. 25.—Charles Snyder, aged 3, fell in a well 50 feet deep, and containing four feet of water. His mother appealed in vain to a number of neighbors to go down and rescue the child. The frantic mother did not wait, but slid to the bottom of the well and seized the child. The latter was unconscious when drawn to the surface, but soon revived.

May Not Wait For Trial.

PICKENS, Miss., Sept. 25.—Willis Williams, a wealthy and influential colored citizen, was assassinated by Frank Goldsby and Carrie Stubblefield, also colored. The murderers were locked up in jail. The negroes threaten to lynch the prisoners.

Horse Ran Away With Him.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Jack McAuliffe, the lightweight champion pugilist, had a narrow escape from death last night in Brooklyn. While driving in a light wagon, the horse took fright and ran away. McAuliffe and a young woman were thrown out.

MURDER OF PHILPOT.

The Trial of an Interesting Case Begun at Dover.

OUTLINE OF THE TRAGEDY.

Victim Was Well Known by the Sporting Fraternity.

DOVER, N. H., Sept. 26.—The case of the state of New Hampshire against William A. Levy of Somersworth, charged with manslaughter in the killing of Hiram J. Philpot at Somersworth on Feb. 9 last, was taken up in the supreme court before Judge Wallace yesterday, and while the trial is likely to be brief, it will arouse the most intense interest throughout this section of New Hampshire, and in the nearby section of Maine.

Philpot was well known all along the Piscataqua river and had a great many friends among sporting and sportsmen. He was equally well known throughout the state as the proprietor of the Sherman House in Somersworth, a saloon and restaurant which many men of sporting proclivities frequented.

The Tragedy. On the evening of Feb. 9 Philpot entered the saloon and ordered supper, and while it was being prepared he had several drinks. Later he is said to have bothered the cook, a young woman, until Levy took up the matter. Hard words followed, the men being on opposite sides of the bar.

Levy finally pulled a revolver from a drawer under the bar, and taking quick aim, fired at Philpot. The ball took effect in the man's neck, and he expired in a few minutes. Levy was immediately arrested, and he was indicted for manslaughter.

On the plea of sickness he was allowed to go on bail. When the day set for the trial came, Feb. 27, his counsel claimed that he was ill to appear, and the case was continued to this time.

The Trial. Immediately upon the coming in of court yesterday, by agreement of counsel, the jurors drawn from Somersworth and Rollinsford were excused. The work of getting a jury then began and consumed the balance of the forenoon.

After the jury had been drawn, Judge Wallace gave the usual admonitions, and the 12 men then left for Somersworth to view the scene of the shooting.

The jury returned from Somersworth at 4 o'clock, and County Solicitor Nason outlined the case for the state.

Towle's Testimony.

Frank Towle, the first witness, testified that he left Dover with Philpot Feb. 8, and visited several places where they had drinks. Stopped that night in Barrington. Got back to Levy's the night of Feb. 9. Went in about 6:30. Philpot paid for drinks twice for the crowd and ordered steak suppers. The girl was cooking them when Philpot went into the kitchen, but the girl ordered him out. He came out, but went back, and Levy ordered him out; he came out again and had some words with Levy, saying: "I don't care a— for her or you, Dolph." Levy said: "I don't care a— for you either." Philpot reached to strike Levy, who opened a drawer, pulled out a revolver, put it to Philpot's neck and fired. He then came from behind the counter, saying: "Poor Hippy, I didn't know it was cocked." Philpot stood beside the counter when I went for Dr. Newcomb; when I came back Philpot had fallen to the floor dead.

Frank L. Jenkins of Berwick, Me., corroborated Towle's story as to the trouble and shooting, and court was then adjourned.

THE CHESTER DISASTER.

Medical Examiner's Report on the Death of the Victims.

WESTFIELD, Mass., Sept. 26.—Medical Examiner Shepard filed last evening with Judge Stevens of the local district court his reports on the death of 13 victims of the railroad wreck at Chester. Among these named in the documents as witnesses are the men employed in repairing the bridge at the time of the accident, several of the train hands and two or three Chester people who were early at the scene of disaster.

No opinion is expressed by the medical examiner as to whether the 13 victims met their death by negligence, criminal or otherwise.

No date has yet been fixed for the judicial examination. It will not be held earlier than next week, and may be deferred even longer. Judge Stevens seeing no occasion for haste in the matter, especially as it is too late for action by the grand jury of the present term of court, which began its sitting yesterday.

Both the magistrate and the medical examiner are much annoyed by the "false" accounts of filing of reports and presumed action thereon recently published in two or three newspapers.

IN TREFETHEN'S DEFENSE.

Counsel For the Accused Attempt to Prove an Alibi.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 26.—Several witnesses were upon the stand in the Trefethen case yesterday. The testimony of the day may be summed up as follows:

Mrs. Rose A. Lindsey said that Trefethen was at her store on Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, about 5 o'clock p. m. Dec. 23, 1901; her son said he met Trefethen at this place at 5:30 and that he left at 5:40 p. m. Miss Mary Worcester of Everett testified she saw Trefethen at his store about 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Nellie M. Trefethen, mother of the defendant, saw him when he arrived home about 7:15 p. m. with the delivery wagon and a bundle.

and saw him again at 9:30 p. m., after which last arrival he remained in for the night. Joseph A. Trefethen brother of the defendant, said he was at his mother's store that night and saw his brother at about 9:15. Mrs. Lucy A. Smith, sister of defendant, testified that she was at her mother's store in Everett and saw her brother there at 9:35 p. m. Mrs. Hattie Peck said that she went to the Trefethen store that night about 10:10 to make a purchase and she then saw the defendant. Mrs. Trefethen further said that she and her son, the defendant, were engaged till some time between 12 and 1 o'clock that night in fitting up the window for Christmas.

In regard to the whereabouts of William H. Smith that night, Miss Alice M. Smith testified that her brother came on a train with her from Boston, and he arrived at her mother's house at about 5:40; that she left the house at 6:30 for Boston, and left her brother dressing a turkey. Miss Clara M. Smith substantially corroborated her sister, and said further that her brother left the house at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Helen M. French testified that she called at the house of the Misses Smith at Maplewood and at about 6 p. m. saw W. H. Smith. Joseph A. Trefethen, who was staying with Smith, who is his brother-in-law, said that Smith arrived home that night about 8 o'clock. Mrs. Smith testified that she left her husband at home that night about 8 o'clock, minding the children, while she went to her mother's at Everett, and that when she came back from her mother's, which was near 12 o'clock, her husband was at home.

Colburn's Trial Begun.

DEDHAM, Mass., Sept. 26.—The case of George Colburn of Needham, charged with manslaughter in the alleged killing of Fisher Ayers at Needham on the night of Jan. 22, was called for trial yesterday. The defendant, aged 76, has lost the sight of his right eye and his right arm is missing to the shoulder. His right leg has been broken twice and his left once, and the old man is a physical wreck. The weapon used in the killing is supposed to have been a club. The indictment charged that Colburn caused Ayers' death by inflicting four mortal wounds upon the head.

Belville Not Afraid.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 26.—Daniel Belville, the foreman of the gang at work on the Chester bridge when it gave way, whom the railroad commissioners make immediately responsible for the accident, is still employed by the R. F. Hawkins iron works. He says he shall not make any attempt to escape, but await developments and defend himself, if arrested, as best he possibly can. He says the work was done according to orders given by Superintendent Reed of the bridge company.

The Providence Tank Mystery.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 26.—A searching investigation will be had into the death of Miss Annie Bradfield, the young girl who was found floating in a tank a week ago yesterday in the natatorium. The report that the officials engaged on behalf of the case had found no marks upon the body of the girl, when it was known by many persons outside of Medical Examiner Keefe that marks were found, caused a fresh sensation here yesterday.

No Strike.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 26.—There will not be the strike among the Pacific mill mule spinners, as was feared. The union has decided that it is impracticable to order a strike, and the Pacific employees were thus left to carry on the battle themselves. They concluded finally to adopt the reduction and went back to work. The mule spinners at the Atlantic mills also returned. The reduction averages 10 per cent.

A Mother's Mistake.

HARTFORD, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Sanders of 11 Beaver street, New Britain, accidentally shot her son Edward, 15 years old. He had a revolver to keep for a playmate, and his mother did not intend to let him carry it. He showed her how apparently harmless it was, and then she took it, and pulled the trigger. The ball entered the boy's chest. He cannot recover.

The Advance Taken Off.

ADAMS, Mass., Sept. 26.—The Berkshire Cotton Manufacturing company have announced that there will be reduction in the wages of the 800 employees, to take effect the first week in October. Last fall the company voluntarily increased the wages of their help, and it is probable that the cutdown will not exceed the advance made at that time.

The Cronan Case.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—In the municipal court Judge Hardy held Henry Angus and Charles Duddy in $10,000 each for further examination next Friday on charges of manslaughter in killing Daniel Cronan at McNamee's barroom on Cambridge street, Saturday night.

Naumkeag Mills Start Up.

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 26.—The operatives in the Naumkeag cotton mills went to work yesterday on a cut of 10 per cent in their wages. There was no apparent dissatisfaction at this and the employees seemed pleased to get work at any price "just now."

Brief Mention.

The annual convention of the Universalist society of Massachusetts began at the North Adams Universalist church.

In the Milford (Mass.) court, William Corbett and Mrs. Alice Turner were found guilty of illegal liquor keeping and fined $50.

The spindle department of the Saco (Me.) water power machine shop has shut down indefinitely, throwing 35 men out of employment.

James McFigue, 60 years old, was struck by the Boston express while crossing the railway tracks in Stamford, Conn., and instantly killed.

At the meeting of the Lowell (Mass.) city council committee on streets it was voted to call for plans and bids for a new iron bridge on East Merrimack street.

Two boys, Charles and Walter Bigley, aged 10 and 8, were struck by a work train at Springfield, Mass., one being killed instantly and the other fatally injured.

There is no truth in the report sent out from Milford, Conn., relating to the mysterious disappearance of a young woman traced from bloody clothing found on the beach at that place.

Martin Dillon, who has acquired a reputation in Brockton, Mass., as an 8-year-old horse thief, having driven into that city with teams taken without permission, is in the police station there as a truant.

STILL UNCONQUERED

Dixon Sustains His Reputation as a Champion.

A HOT SIX-ROUND BATTLE

In Which Solly Smith Comes Out Second Best.

CONEY ISLAND, Sept. 26.—The sporting fraternity came in droves to the Coney Island Athletic club last night to see the much-talked-of prize fight between George Dixon and Solly Smith. The fact of Dixon having knocked out Johnny Griffin recently at R. I. by, Ind., gave him many supporters. This match has attracted more widespread interest than any fight that has been held at Coney Island since the club has been in existence. Prominent sporting men were here from all parts of the country, and the attendance was very much larger than had been expected. Dixon was the favorite in the betting.

The Boston sporting men were well represented. The preliminary bout between Jim Burge and Fred Morris for a $500 purse was won by Morris in the 10th round.

P. J. Donohue had scarcely rendered his decision in the preliminary bout when George Dixon made his appearance in the ring, accompanied by his second, Tom

GEORGE DIXON.

O'Rourke, George Godfrey and Jack Havin. Solly Smith was a few minutes later in making his appearance. His seconds were Billy Delaney, Seward Smith and Jack Oliver.

They fought to a finish for a purse of $5000, of which the winner got $3000 and the loser $1000. The bout was refereed by John P. Eckhardt.

The Battle.

Round one—Smith rushed in on Dixon and did some very vicious fighting. Dixon found he had a hard nut to crack, and he had some hard work during the remainder of the round. Both men fought hard, and their work was clean-cut. Smith was not the least bit afraid of Dixon.

Round two—Dixon was short with his left, and Smith planted a stinging left on the nose and fought Dixon to the ropes. Dixon tried his left, but Smith crossed him. Dixon planted his right on Smith's ear and then did the same thing to his jaw. Smith tottered and clinched, when the bell rang at which appeared to be the critical point for Smith.

Round three—Dixon went right in and forced the fighting. He knocked Smith down three times and had him almost out. Dixon kept swinging his left with great force, and Smith's stomach, until he had him much exhausted.

Round four—Dixon led on the chest and clinched. Then came a sharp rally and hard fighting, of which Dixon had all the best of it. Smith appeared worried, while Dixon was smiling. Dixon landed his left twice in succession. This was clearly the colored lad's round.

Round five—Smith came up strong in this round. Dixon forced the fighting, and Smith succeeded in making the blood flow very freely from Dixon's face. Dixon was still doing the majority of the landing, but not fighting quite so rapidly.

Round six—Smith put his left hand on Dixon's nose and drew blood, which ran freely. Dixon tried his left and was counted out by Solly. The bell rung when what appeared to be the most evenly contested round of the battle.

The Knockout.

Round seven—Dixon landed a stiff left-hander on Smith's jaw, and, as Smith staggered backward, Dixon sprang upon him like a tiger and planted a right and left with rapid succession. Smith sank to the floor under this punishment and took advantage of nine seconds. He rose to his feet only to be sent to the floor again and came up very much weaker. Dixon stood over him, knowing full well the value of every second at so vital a stage of the game.

Smith never got a chance to recover, as Dixon uppercuted him with tremendous force, sending him to the floor on his face. Smith was game and tried his utmost to rally, but was only able to get up to his feet and sink to the floor again from exhaustion before Dixon could get over to him. Referee Eckhardt then declared Dixon the victor.

The time of this round was 2m. 42s. The crowd cheered Dixon for his victory, and Smith for the game fight he had put up. It looked at one time during the early part of the seventh round as though Smith might be able to last for at least half a dozen more rounds.

Unlucky Camperdown.

VALETTA, Malta, Sept. 26.—The British battleship Camperdown grounded yesterday at the entrance of the harbor. The Camperdown is the vessel that recently ran into and sank the battleship Victoria, causing great loss of life. The Camperdown's repairs had just been completed, and yesterday she started out on a trial trip, and had proceeded but a short distance when she struck bottom.

A Well-deserved Award.

The Treasury Department at Washington, after receiving bids from the largest and best-known carpet manufacturers and dealers throughout the country, has awarded to the old and trustworthy house of John H. Pray, Sons, & Co. of Boston, the contract for furnishing Brussels carpets for government use throughout the country for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894.

This contract amounts to about 20,000 yards, more or less, and is for Brussels of the firm's own manufacture, having as a guarantee of the quality the firm's name woven on the back of every yard of carpet that is delivered, so that the house cannot fail to be well known in all government buildings and offices throughout the United States wherever the carpets are seen.

Messrs. Pray & Co.'s reputation for selling only standard and reliable goods seems to have been well maintained, as the government standard is a high one, and the tests are most severe.

PASTOR CALLED.

The Wollaston Unitarians Invite Rev. James E. Bagley to Become Pastor.

At a meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian parish, held on Monday evening, a call was unanimously extended to the Rev. James E. Bagley of Boston.

The Rev. Mr. Bagley is a "Green Mountain boy," having been born in a rural district in the northern part of Vermont, in the beautiful old town of Craftsbury in 1838. At the age of five years he moved with his parents to Colebrook, N. H., a picturesque village north of the White Mountains.

His early education was received at home and later he took a full course of study at the Lancaster Academy. After graduating from that institution, Mr. Bagley taught school for a year and then entered the Meadville Theological school, taking a course of three years.

In 1880, Mr. Bagley was settled over All Souls Church of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, where his wife, a graduate of the Meadville Theological School, and he were ordained together and installed as joint pastors, probably the first instance of the kind in the history of the world, a veritable returning to the old custom of sending the disciples two by two.

The following year he accepted a call from the First Parish of Haverhill, Mass., where he remained until last January when he went on an extended European tour from which he has but recently returned.

The Rev. Mr. Bagley was born and bred a Unitarian having preached his first sermon when but eighteen years old, although he was only a student at the time.

A sketch of Mrs. Bagley's life can be found in a volume recently published, called "A Woman of the Century," edited by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore and Miss Frances Willard.

Mr. Bagley's relations with the churches over which he has been settled have always been pleasant and it is with regret, as well as pleasure, that he enters upon his new field of labor.

A Treat for Music Lovers.

All who appreciate good music,—and who does not—have a treat in store at the Brockton Fair of October 4, 5, 6 and 7. On all four days there will be music of the best obtainable quality. The names of Reeves' American Band, of Providence, R. I., and Martland's Band, of Brockton, are in themselves a guarantee of excellence.

These two famous musical organizations have been engaged. Martland's Band will play at the band stand, in the grand stand enclosure, all four days, while Reeves' Band will be heard every day except the first, alternating with Martland's near the hall and at the grand stand.

At certain hours of the three days there will be concerts by a consolidated band of fifty-two pieces, composed of these organizations. The concerts will be given in front of the grand stand, where they will be heard to the best possible advantage. Last year this was done to the evident enjoyment of thousands of listeners. It is not necessary to say that the choicest bouquets of popular arts will be plucked by Martland's and Reeves' Bands.

The "rocking stone" in Sullivan county, New York, weighs 40 tons, and is so evenly balanced on a table of rock, that it can be easily set in motion by the pressure of a finger, yet so solidly laid, that the combined strength of 100 men without artificial appliances, could not displace it.

The work performed by the human heart each 24 hours, is equal to the lifting of 120 tons to a height of one foot, in the same length of time.

A local democrat the other day was complaining because President Cleveland's new baby was a girl. "That's twice the same thing has happened," he said, "and I'd like to know what good it does the party. Girls can't vote." His friend scratched his head a moment and then replied: "Well, Mrs. Cleveland can tell the president, after the style of the wife of the famous Roman general who regretted that his child was not a warrior, 'not a democrat, Grover, dear but the mother of Democrats.'—Enterprise.

The candidates for representatives must be nominated on or before Oct. 19.

CITY CHIT-CHAT.

Items of Interest from All Parts of Quincy.

School Committee tonight.

The voting lists will be printed next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Faxon are at the World's Fair.

The grade of Winthrop avenue at Wollaston is being changed.

P. H. Gavin who has been quite seriously sick is reported as much better.

The steamship Arizona, George Panton of this city a passenger, arrived at Queens-town Sunday.

It is expected that John R. Graham's new electric yacht will be launched at the P. in this week.

After this week the street railway will furnish its own power from its new station at Quincy Point.

The first assembly of Quincy Court, M. C. O. F., will be held at Hancock hall, Wednesday evening.

C. C. Hearn's new drug store in the Faxon block continues to be as popular as ever with the ladies.

Work has begun on the widening of Adams street, for which the Council made a special appropriation.

Miss Carrie Hardwick of Spear street has accepted a position as assistant teacher in the Cohasset High school.

Washington street between Temple and Canal streets is being picked up by the steam roller, and will be resurfaced.

Mayor Fairbanks will present plans of the new High school to the School Committee at their meeting this evening.

Work has been commenced on Mr. W. M. Wight's new house at the corner of Prospect and Lincoln avenues, Wollaston.

Capt. C. N. Hunt was bit in the wrist by a dog Monday. The dog was immediately killed and no danger is expected from the wound.

The evening cars to Houghs Neck at 8.30, 9.30 and 10.30 have been discontinued, also the 11.30 A. M. The last car to Houghs Neck will leave at 7.30 P. M.

The steam roller will go to West Quincy in a few days and Copeland street between Centre street and the depot and a part of Willard street will receive attention.

The sham battle of the 5th Regiment at Baintree on Thursday will have attractions for many. The war correspondent of the DAILY LEDGER will be on the scene.

Mrs. Jeremiah Sweeney, mother of Mrs. H. E. Stuart of Atlantic, died in Concord, N. H., Monday night, aged 49 years. A husband, seven daughters and two sons survive her.

C. O. Whitmore, the real estate agent of East Milton, fractured his right thigh by falling down his attic stairs Monday evening. Dr. Eastman was called and dressed the wound.

The Assessors have valued the Brierley estate, 27,630 feet of land at the corner of Hancock and Granite streets, for $26,500. It comprises quite a little back land, but is all valued at nearly $1 per square foot.

Commissioner Ewell has done a good job on Canal street and the Chestnut street hill near Faxon hall. It was a bad spot and took over 200 loads of stone, but is now rounded up, and "Jumbo" has rolled it, so that the streets are in good condition.

Rev. George B. Lawton, a former Quincy pastor, preached his farewell sermon at Brockton on Sunday. During his pastorate of six years, 121 members were added to the church, and an edifice costing $17,000 built, on which the indebtedness is but $2000.

Officers Shackley and Hunt, the dog catchers, are creating quite a little excitement. They made their first appearance Monday afternoon in an open wagon, in which was a large crockery crate, and in this they soon had six dogs who were given their last ride. They are out again today and expect a much larger haul.

HE STILL LIVES.

Henry H. Faxon Has a Narrow Escape at Quincy Depot—The Old Trick.

Mr. Henry H. Faxon, the well known temperance advocate, had a narrow escape from a serious injury this morning at the Quincy Depot. Just as the 9.55 inward train pulled into the depot Mr. Faxon was seen coming up the yard on the run with a bundle in each hand. When he reached the depot platform the train had started.

Mr. Faxon rushed across the track and attempted to get onto the rear platform of the last car, but the bundles were in his way, and instead of getting onto the car he was thrown on to the platform.

Mr. James H. Slade who was near helped Mr. Faxon to his feet and brushed the dirt from his clothes.

Aside from a tear in Mr. Faxon's pantaloons, there was no visible injury, although he must have been bruised somewhat, and his lower extremities will doubtless be sore or a few days. He lost his train.

Political Notes.

Democratic state convention tomorrow. Young man, are you registered? The last meeting of the board of registrars previous to printing the lists will be held tomorrow evening.

BIG LAND DEAL.

Henry M. Faxon Reported to have Purchased

THE CHAS. F. ADAMS ESTATE

And Other Property on President's Hill and Adams Street.

It has been rumored for some weeks that Hon. Charles Francis Adams was soon to remove from Quincy, and that considerable of his estate on President's Hill was in the market.

The LEDGER cannot state the removal as a fact and hopes the city is not to lose so distinguished a citizen, but it is a fact that Mr. Adams has bought an estate of about 100 acres in the small town of Lincoln.

Another straw in the report today that all his estate on President's Hill, including his pretty residence delightfully situated, had been bought, by Henry M. Faxon and others.

The price paid is said to have been upwards of $70,000.

Mr. Faxon is in Chicago, and it was too late to see Mr. Adams to verify the report.

It is also reported that Mr. Faxon has secured the estate occupied by Judge Bumpus on Goffe street, and the Huntington estate off Adams street.

Mr. Adams is chairman of the Quincy Park Commissioners and also chairman of Board of Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library, and a very valuable member of both boards, and has served the city on the School Committee and in other positions. He gave the city Merrymount park and is now active in securing a playground in each ward.

Again let us express the hope that Quincy is not to lose so valuable a citizen, whose ancestors have honored the town, his grandfather and great-grandfather, both having been President of these United States.

Councillor Candidates.

The Journal says, "The campaign for Councillor will be a hot one, and which every party wins, the official adviser will probably come from the home of the Adamses. There are two candidates mentioned by the Democrats, ex-Senator William N. Eaton and Mr. William B. Rice, who was defeated last year by David Hall Rice.

The name Colonel 'Ben' Lovell of Weymouth has been mentioned by the Republicans as being entitled to whisper into the official ear of the Commonwealth. Colonel 'Ben,' as he is familiarly called, will probably have to do some hustling, as the Republicans of Quincy have in mind Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks, the energetic and well informed young Mayor of Quincy."

TODAY'S COURT.

Felix Marion of Quincy was arraigned for non-support of his family. Case continued one week.

George P. McLane of Quincy was arraigned for non-support of his family; discharged for want of jurisdiction.

Charles Smith of Randolph for drunkenness was fined $5.

Charles E. Boucher of Quincy for drunkenness was fined $5.

Mentioned for Mayor.

A new name was heard on the street last evening in connection with the Republican nomination for mayor this fall. The gentleman is not seeking the position and his name is used without his authority, but recognizing that a knowledge of finances is very important in an executive, particularly when the other qualifications are combined, they suggest John O. Hall, the present City Auditor, for the position.

Handkerchiefs were first made for the market at Paisley, Scot., in 1743, and sold for about $1 each. Last year it is computed that 80,000,000 dozen were sold in the United States.

IN CONGRESS.

The Senate Hears Stewart Severely Lecture President Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—President Cleveland was the object of a prolonged personal attack in the senate on the part of Senator Stewart (Rep., Nev.). Mr. Stewart spoke for nearly three hours on the resolution which he had offered as to the relative independence of the three co-ordinate branches of the government.

That independence he charged the president with disregarding in many ways, but particularly in not causing the silver purchase law and the Chinese expulsion law to be faithfully executed. But worse even than the non-execution of these laws, appeared to be in Mr. Stewart's opinion, the contemptuous allusions to congress which he found in some of Mr. Cleveland's letters and interviews. He was particularly embittered at the president's allusion, in one of his letters, to "Having congress on his hands."

This was an indignity beyond endurance. And then, in retaliation, the Nevada senator scoffed at the president for his want of a collegiate or any other liberal education that would fit him for his high office, and read the president's brief biography in the congressional directory, laying much stress on, and seeking to extract humor from, the points of Mr. Cleveland's career as assistant teacher of the blind clerk, sheriff, mayor and practicing lawyer.

Speeches against the repeal bill were then made by Mr. Cameron (Rep., Pa.) and Mr. Bate (Dem., Tenn.). After those speeches Mr. Stewart occupied the remainder of the day's session.

The session of the house was uneventful one without a quorum. After the roll was called it attempted to consider the printing bill. Without final action on the measure the house adjourned.

LOSS REACHES $1,000,000

Dynamite Found Necessary to Check Fire's Progress at St. Joseph, Mo.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 26.—Several of the finest business houses of this city are in ruins and $1,000,000 worth of property has been destroyed. The fire originated in the eight-story department store of Townsend & Wyatt. Before the fire department could get the engines in working order, the entire building was in flames, with no chance to save it.

A strong wind from the north soon carried the flames across the street to the magnificent commercial bank structure, and it was soon destroyed. The Central Savings bank went next and then followed the Center block. The Regnier & Shoup Crockery company's new house was next to succumb, and $75,000 worth of goods dropped into the cellar. The Carbery block was next attacked and then Binswanger & Co. The Hong Kong Tea company, the Spencer Cigar company, and a dozen smaller institutions went up.

At this time dynamite was resorted to, and a number of buildings were blown up and the progress of the fire checked. With the help of the Topeka and Kansas City fire departments the fire was gotten under control.

But a few accidents occurred during the progress of the fire. When one of the buildings was blown up a boy named Haslam was struck by a flying brick and badly hurt. Allen Laird and Oliver Knapp, two firemen, were precipitated from a ladder into a burning building and both badly hurt. Knapp probably fatally.

Chief Kane of the fire department was badly burned, and a young man named Charles Hunter fell three stories into a cellar, two ribs alone being broken. Several people were hurt by falling walls, but no fatalities occurred during the fire.

MANY PERSONS KILLED.

Bombardment of Rio Janeiro Renewed by the Insurgents.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The World this morning has the following copyrighted cable dispatch:

MOSBY, Sept. 23.—The insurgent squadron renewed bombardment of Rio de Janeiro yesterday. The first opened fire upon the warships, which thereupon ceased shelling the city. Many persons were killed. The government of Brazil has appropriated $3,000,000, it is stated, for the purchase of a cruiser from the United States.

A Wonderful Invention.

TACOMA, Sept. 26.—George P. Corlies, a pattern maker of this city, has invented a machine for making gas from wood. Besides 17,000 cubic feet of gas, it will produce from a cord of firewood, worth $20 here, 13 sacks of charcoal and two gallons of tar, worth altogether $48. A patent has been granted the inventor.

The Rent Thief.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—Chief of the Secret Service Drummond examined the private effects of Henry S. Cleburn, the chief of the mint, and found checks, promissory notes and small mortgages which will materially reduce the $25,000 shortage. The exact amount that will be realized is unknown.

Dr. Knott's Discovery.

ATLANTA, Sept. 26.—Dr. J. K. Knott of Alabama believes that he has discovered the true cause of yellow fever and the remedy for it. He says it is nothing more nor less than phosphoric poison. He has left for Washington to ask to be sent to Brunswick to test his theory on the yellow fever sufferers there.

The Czech Disturbances.

PRAGUE, Sept. 26.—Proprietor Gregr and Editor Janito of The Narodni List, one of the largest Czech dailies in this city, have been arrested and will be tried by a special court for inciting the Czechs to a breach of the peace.

Mortgagee's Sale.

BY Virtue of and pursuant to a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Charles E. Jenkins, Jr., of Quincy, Massachusetts, to William L. Morer, dated April 18, A. D. 1893, and recorded with N. York Deeds, Lib. 691, folio 182, which mortgage has been duly assigned to Charles S. Judkins, will be sold at public auction on the premises for breach of the conditions of said mortgage, on Friday, the thirteenth day of October, A. D. 1893, at three o'clock P. M., all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed as follows, to wit:

A certain piece or parcel of land, together with the buildings thereon, situated in said Quincy, bounded and described as follows, to wit: beginning at a point on Billings street, by the northeast corner of land owned now or late by Charles Cox, and running easterly on said Billings street eighty-two and one-half feet, to land of one Kendall; thence turning and running southerly on land of said Kendall, one hundred feet, to a point on land of one Larkin, eighty-two and one-half feet, to a point by land of said Cox; thence turning and running northerly by land of said Cox, one hundred feet, to the point of beginning, containing 8,257 square feet of land, more or less. "The Charge of the Fourth Cavalry."

Dedicated to those who fell on the 6th of April, 1865, and published by request of a Quincy veteran.

[The Fourth Massachusetts Cavalry, or rather a small portion of its rank and file, but with most of its field and staff officers, led by its colonel, Francis Washburn, formed part of the advance which, to use Gen. Grant's words in his last report of the war, "heroically attacked and detained the head of Lee's column near Farmville, Va., until its commanding general was killed and his small force overpowered." Less than a thousand men, all told, with-out any artillery, held in check for a considerable time, when every moment almost was worth an empire, a rebel force outnumbering them ten to one. Of the twelve Fourth Cavalry officers who went into the fight eight were killed and wounded, including their gallant leader. He lived to reach his home and die in his mother's arms.]

Onward they dash:
It matters not the tollsome march,
The foe's cannon crash;
Their souls were in their swords,
Their steeds beneath them throb,
The graves disdain to rob!

Many or few?
"Six hundred?" nay; that were a host Beside this band so true.
Four score of trusty arms
Against an army lined.
Ah! weep with us
The comrades left behind!
I see them still:
Down dead ravine, then up "to form"
On battle shaken-hill;
One word is all enough,
One waving blade their light
Into the hordes
Of rebel-rag'n' fight.

He at their head
A knight, a paladin of old,
A hero,—honor led,
And firmed with the faith
Of ages won by God,—
O what to him
The soaked and waiting sod!
O sweet is it
For love of land to do or die!
The heart-strings heaven knit,
Relaxed from tenet strain,
Upon his arms to rest,
In whom alone
Is earthly conflict blest!

And shall not we—
Survivors of the martyred brave,
By tears and blood made free—
Give what they gladly gave?
Yes by the loved and lost,
Most sacred hold
Our country's priceless cost.

Tyler Bags a Goodly Sum in Prizes at the Scanton Races.

SCANTON, Pa., Sept. 25.—H. C. Tyler, the Springfield (Mass.) flyer, was the hero of the international circuit bicycle races held in this city. He won prizes valued at $750, a place valued at $600 and a diamond valued at $150. In the one-mile international he defeated Sanger by a foot in one of the prettiest finishes ever seen on any track.

Sanger gave a splendid account of himself in the one-mile handicap, he being the only one of the race kept prominently in the scratch. In this contest he made the best time of the day, covering the mile in 2:19 1-5.

The two-mile handicap was somewhat easy for James Willis of Westfield, N. J., Sanger again failing to estimate the ability of his most dangerous opponent. Sanger made the two miles in 4:47 1-5, two seconds faster than Zimmerman's time in Philadelphia on Saturday.

Considerable dissatisfaction was expressed over the flunk of Zimmerman, who up to the race had kept prominently in the telegraph that he would surely contest on the Scanton track. The impression was prevalent among the wheelmen that Zimmerman in his present condition feared to meet Sanger and Tyler and avoided them on a half mile track.

Corbett Adds His Name to the Agreement Signed by Mitchell.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 25.—When Judge Newton of the Coney Island Athletic club came to Corbett's training quarters Sunday he had with him the articles of agreement for the coming fight between James J. Corbett and Charles Mitchell. When he returned home the agreement was in the champion's hands.

Corbett refused to sign the articles because the day was Sunday. But he attached his signature to them yesterday in the presence of William A. Brady, his backer and manager; William Delaney and James McVey, his trainers, and Professor John Donaldson, his boxing partner.

Corbett made no objection to the articles, and to a reporter said he was satisfied that the whole business had been completed. Brady gave the agreement to Judge Newton last night at the Coney Island Athletic club.

A Blood-and-Thunder Manifesto.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The London nihilists have sent out a manifesto in which they appeal to French anarchists and socialists not to take part in the Russo-French celebration during the visit of the czar's warships at Toulon next month. The officers of the Russian fleet, says the manifesto, ought to be treated by the revolutionists as accomplices of the czar and criminals steeped in the blood of the people whom he has slaughtered.

HON. J. E. RUSSELL

Receives Democrats' Nomination For Governor of Massachusetts.

CARROLL IN SECOND PLACE

Brief Outline of the Provision of the Platform.

Boston, Sept. 27.—Today's Democratic convention is the largest that the party has ever held in the state. The increase in representation is due to the increased vote last fall.

Promptly at 11 o'clock Chairman Quincy called the convention to order. Mayor Matthews, in presenting the name of Mr. Russell to the convention, had them inspired by his best abilities and afforded him an opportunity of making a memorable speech.

The Ticket.
The slate as agreed upon is as follows:
For governor, Hon. John E. Russell of Leicester.
For lieutenant governor, Hon. James B. Carroll of Springfield.
For secretary of state, Hon. James W. McDonald of Marlboro.
For treasurer and receiver general, Hon. Eben S. Stevens of Dudley.
For attorney general, Hon. Charles S. Lilley of Lowell.
For auditor, Hon. Henry W. Lamb of Brookline.

Outline of the Platform.
The platform congratulates the country on the administration of President Cleveland, and calls on the United States senate to cease talking and vote on the silver bill. The tariff is treated as a closed question, pointing out that the elections of '90 and '92, giving the Democracy complete control of the national government, settled that question for the time being. Until some legislation is enacted there can be no issue on the tariff. The state issues are much the same as last year, calling for the abolition of the council, and demanding more power for the governor and a general denunciation of alleged Republican legislation in the last rests of corporations. It congratulates the country on the election of a Democratic president and endorses the national administration. It also endorses the administration of Governor Russell and wishes him success in all his future undertakings, whether they be of a private or public nature. The public schools are endorsed and the people are congratulated on the advances made in the line of manual and industrial training in the public schools. It takes strong grounds against the corporations demanding a tax for valuable franchises received. It calls for a collateral inheritance tax, the same as now in vogue in New York state. It favors the taking away the power from the legislature of the right to elect United States senators and lodging it with the people. It thanks the house for its prompt repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law in the Fifty-first congress.

TRIED TO KILL HIS WIFE.

Sanford Wood Is Rearrested Upon a Very Serious Charge.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Sept. 27.—Sanford L. Wood, who was arrested Monday upon a charge of assaulting his wife, Mary Wood, and given his liberty until Saturday upon furnishing a small bond, was rearrested yesterday afternoon. The second warrant served upon Wood alleges that he assaulted his wife with intent to kill. Arthur E. Pierce, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Wood, has taken considerable interest in the case, and presented the evidence gained to Judge Reed for his consideration, and asked for the issuing of a warrant charging Wood with a serious offense. Judge Reed considered the points brought out and issued the document. The prisoner was taken to Mansfield and arraigned before Judge Reed. He was held in $2000 for trial and was taken to Taunton jail. The case will be heard here Saturday.

WAS IT SUICIDE?

What the Defense in the Trefethen Case Are Trying to Prove

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 27.—The defense in the Trefethen case used its various witnesses in quick order yesterday. Dr. William H. Hitchens said he drove over the Wellington bridge between 7:30 and 8 o'clock on the night of Dec. 23, 1891. He returned about 9 o'clock and heard nothing unusual either time. W. E. Veltz testified to the muddy condition of the roads on the night in question and Christmas morning. John W. McDuffie testified that on Dec. 23, 1891, he was called to his sick home near the Wellington bridge. He left home at 7:45. Next one on the bridge was Louis Dorr, an instructor of physics at the Institute of Technology, thought that if a body entered the water at the Wellington bridge it would not go to the place where Tena's body was found. David Campbell, a New York expert in handwriting, testified that the person who wrote the anonymous letter was not Trefethen, but Tena. The writing was written quite rapidly, for the terminal lines end quickly. There was no deliberation. It was written carelessly. Charles A. French, chief clerk of the inquiry division of the Boston postoffice, announced that he came to the conclusion that the anonymous letter was not written by Trefethen and was written by Tena Davis. "Sadie Johnson, medium," testified that Tena Davis had given her a "sitting." Her testimony indicated that Miss Davis had hinted at suicide.

GENEROUS BEQUESTS.

Churches and Other Institutions Remembered by Rev. John Blake.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Sept. 27.—The will of Rev. John Blake, who died in New York last July, has been filed for probate in Middlebury. He left an estate valued at $101,000. Of this Middlebury college receives $5000, the American College and Educational society of Boston, $10,000; the Presbyterian Educational society of Philadelphia, $5000, and the diocesan fund of the Episcopal diocese of Maine, $30,000; the sum of $15,000 is given to the New York Protestant Episcopal Mission society, House of Mercy and the funds for the relief of widows and orphans, of clergymen and aged and infirm clergymen of the Protestant Episcopal church. A bonus of $20,000 to St. Ann's church for dead minutes in the original will was revoked by codicil. Mr. Blake was for many years a chaplain in the United States navy.

Two Women Killed.

GREENFIELD, Mass., Sept. 27.—Mrs. Henry L. Stevens and Miss Sophia T. W. Morton, each about 30 years old, were struck by a Boston and Maine train, driving and instantly killed. The horse was also killed and the carriage smashed into kindling wood. Allen street crosses the railroad at a grade and the view from the north is partially obscured. Both women were dressmakers, widely known and highly respected.

Milk Inspector Arrested.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 27.—William P. White, inspector of milk for the city of Lawrence, was arrested yesterday by Inspector Libbey, charged with threatening milkmen with arrest in an attempt to extort money. White denies the charge and says that the milkmen conspired against him because he would not agree to use his influence to quash a case secured by a former inspector against one of them.

Pleaded Not Guilty.

HARTFORD, Sept. 27.—The murder case of James McKeown, charged with the police court yesterday, John Fee, the barber, whose place is under McKeown's house, and Mrs. Mary McCoy, McKeown's housekeeper, were charged with the murder. They pleaded not guilty and the case was adjourned for one week.

Was Beloved by Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 27.—A permanent memorial fund is to be raised to the late Professor Edward T. McLaughlin of Yale. It will take the form of a scholarship in literature and probably a memorial tablet also. Preparations are being made to publish a volume of Professor McLaughlin's essays.

Yale's Popularity.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 27.—The entrance examinations for conditioned students began at Yale yesterday. The college year will open Thursday morning. The students of the university are arriving by hundreds. It is thought that the attendance will reach 2300 this year, against 1900 last year.

DEFICIT DISCOVERED

In the Accounts of the Old Colony Road's Treasurer.

HE MAKES A CONFESSION.

Officials Have Little to Say Concerning the Matter.

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—President Choate greatly surprised the Old Colony stockholders yesterday by announcing that since the printing and distribution of the annual report a discrepancy had been discovered in the accounts of the treasurer, John W. Washburn. According to his report there was $30,000 in cash in the treasury. It was found, instead that securities, stocks and bonds purchased by the company's money represented a part of this cash. The purchase was unauthorized. The treasurer's office has been vacated and the treasurer has made an assignment of all his outside property for the benefit of the corporation. "It cannot be told," said Mr. Choate, "how much the loss will be. These securities are not all worth their nominal value, which was represented to be so much cash." It will not affect the property; it will not affect the dividends. The matter will be further investigated and pushed. In other respects the books of the treasurer are all right.

Mr. Washburn has been the treasurer of the Old Colony railroad for more than 40 years. His reputation has been held unblemished. He is now 75 years of age, and quite feeble from the infirmities of years. He lives with his wife and daughter at 529 Beacon street. He is greatly broken in health. Doubtless his age will be a factor in determining what action the company shall take. Mr. Washburn has not been at his office for the past week. It was stated there that the shortage was a surprise to everyone. Mr. Washburn is assessed in Boston for real estate to the value of $4300 and no record of personal property appears on the books.

Washburn Speculated.

Washburn's speculations started in a small way at first a few years ago. He plunged deeper and deeper into the game of stocks until his losses made him despondent. He expected day after day fortune, if not good luck, would smile upon his investments, but they proved failures, and finally in despair he gave up. This was last Wednesday. He left his office at the Kneeland street station at the regular closing hour of 5 o'clock, ostensibly for home. The hours sped on, but the home of Washburn, at 529 Beacon street, was not entered by the old man. Instead, he wandered about the streets, hopeless although not friendless, and next morning put in an appearance at the door of his palatial residence.

The family physician was called in and the ex-treasurer was put to bed, which he has not since deserted. He said he had walked to Marblehead. He looked it, for he was footsore and a mental wreck. The family sent for Vice President Kendrick, a very near friend of the treasurer. His absence from the office was not thought to be of any consequence until Saturday, when the directors got ready for the annual statement. The secret of the man's peculiar financiering had been kept long enough. He was asked to resign, and E. G. Parker, corporation clerk, was placed in charge, pending the election of his successor.

Monday Third Vice President Kendrick of the Consolidated road, accompanied by the Old Colony counsel, J. A. Benton, Jr., called upon Washburn at his home, and to them he made a full confession.

He admitted his speculations and his using of the company's money, but he said he had no idea that such an amount as stated by President Choate was missing. Washburn annually gave a bond of $35,000 in two summes for the faithful performance of his duties, and they will be called upon to reimburse the Old Colony for the loss. The veteran treasurer has also offered certain stocks and securities, but many of them are of no value, and the loss to the Old Colony cannot possibly be made up, even though it makes the Washburn family homeless.

In regard to the discrepancy in the ex-treasurer's accounts, the Old Colony officials are as "mum" as oysters. They refuse to divulge the real inwardness of the ex-treasurer's affairs, because of the fact that he has been a trusted official and always has enjoyed the most explicit confidence of the other officials of the corporation. They admit, however, as a result of a premature investigation, that his wrongdoing extends back several years.

In his absence Saturday the auditing committee was forced to make an examination of the safe at the Kneeland street station, and it was then the real condition of affairs was demonstrated. Previous auditing committees never discovered any wrongdoing and do not know whether he covered up his Old Colony irregularities by the temporary use of the funds of the steamboat company or the funds of the Union Freight company.

MALDEN is rather late in naming its election officers. The law says Sept. 30, is the last day for appointing election officers, in cities. The names were sent to the aldermen Tuesday evening and laid over until Oct. 3 for confirmation. A point might be raised whether they were appointed until confirmed.

THE LAND DEAL.

A Denial That Mr. Henry M. Faxon Has Purchased, but Its for Sale.

The announcement Tuesday that all of the Adams property on President's hill had been sold to Henry M. Faxon was a surprise.

Mr. Faxon could not be seen as he was in Chicago, but Tuesday night an effort was made to obtain some particulars in regard to the deal.

A gentleman who is in a position to know, but who does not care to have his name used, said that he was positive that no such sale had been made. Mr. Henry M. Faxon and several others had looked the property over but had made no purchase. The property was, however, in the market.

The property of Charles Francis Adams which is situated on the west side of Goffe street, is one of the handsomest estates in this city, being situated on high land with a view unsurpassed. The estate consists of about 17 acres, and it is understood Mr. Adams' price for this piece of his property is $70,000.

It is true that Mr. Adams has purchased a farm of 300 acres in Lincoln, but it is not believed that he will remove there until his property on President's hill is sold or let.

Mr. Adams' removal will be a loss to every taxpayer. His real estate of course will remain, and if improved will be taxed more than at the present. It is now valued at $75,000 and taxed for $2,447.42 would be removed, and had it not appeared in the valuation this year the rate per $1,000 would have been fifteen cents larger. Taxpayers can figure up their individual losses from this and realize what the removal of Mr. Adams means. It would increase Henry H. Faxon's tax over $100.

BROGAN-FLYNN.

Married at St. John's Church this Morning Reception this Evening.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. John's church this morning, the contracting parties being Mr. James Brogan, the well known tonsorial artist, and Miss Nellie L. Flynn, of the firm of Misses Flynn.

The ceremony which was an impressive one was performed by Rev. Fr. Cuffe, in the presence of a large number of the friends of the popular young couple.

Mr. Stephen O. Pierce officiated as best man, and Miss Lizzie Flynn, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

The bride was becomingly attired in a costume of steel gray cashmere, trimmed with pink ribbons with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of bride roses in her hand and her hair was adorned with a pretty rose bud.

The bridesmaid's costumes was a light blue cashmere, trimmed with pink ribbons. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Thomas Elcock on Marsh street, which will be followed this evening by a reception from 8 to 10.

After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Brogan will take up their residence on Payne street.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Brogan unite in wishing them many years of unalloyed happiness.

STOLE HORSE AND BUGGY.

Edward LaMonte Arrested for Larceny at New Bedford—He Drove to Quincy.

Officer McKay arrested Edward LaMonte Tuesday night for Inspector Parker of New Bedford, upon a warrant charging him with the larceny of a horse and buggy valued at $300.

It is alleged that LaMonte with two others hired the team at a livery stable for a short ride Sept. 19, and that they drove to Quincy and put the team up at Penniman & Son's stable.

LaMonte formerly resided in this city and Inspector Parker came here two days ago looking for him. The Inspector learned that the team was at Penniman's stable and that LaMonte was somewhere in the city.

Tuesday evening while in the Square LaMonte was seen riding on a will team and was promptly arrested. He was taken to New Bedford this morning.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

Plans for New High Schoolhouse Submitted by Mayor Accepted.

ANNUAL ELECTION OF JANITORS.

Financial Report Showing Unexpended Balances—Other Business.

The school committee held its first meeting in the new rooms in the Faxon block, Tuesday evening, those present being Messrs. Crane, Corbitt, Gordon, Harlow, Hall and Porter.

Unexpended Balances.

The finance committee reported the following unexpended balances of the annual appropriation:

Salaries,	$20,923.03
Fuel,	277.14
Janitors,	1,478.00
Transportation,	355.00
Miscellaneous,	482.40
Books and Stationery,	1,051.53
Evening Drawing School,	330.51
Evening Common School,	1,058.10
Sewing,	128.83
Cooking,	38.05

High School Crowded.

The superintendent reported that the High school was so crowded that it had been necessary to hold two sessions.

Janitor's Elected.

The following janitors were elected: Adams—Samuel B. Turner. Wollaston—F. W. Burnham. Washington—William Caldwell. Coddington—Elijah S. Brown. Quincy—Nathan Churchill. Lincoln—George O. Shirley.

Owing to the absence of the sub-committee from the other schools, the janitors of the High, John Hancock and Willard schools were not elected.

Convention.

The teachers were granted permission to attend the Norfolk convention of teachers in October.

Plans for New High.

A communication was received from Mayor Fairbanks inclosing plans for new High school. These plans were after some discussion accepted by the committee.

The plans call for a brick building with a frontage of 112 feet and a depth of 72 feet. The building will contain 14 rooms including laboratories, teachers rooms, class rooms, etc., and will accommodate 400 pupils.

The committee then went into executive session.

WEYMOUTH.

Representative Worthen of this town is a member of the Committee on Resolutions at the Democratic State Convention today. Maj. Francis E. Bicknell has been elected chairman of the board of registrars of voters.

Rev. B. F. Eaton, who recently resigned the pastorate of the Universalist church to accept a call to Worcester, was tendered a farewell reception in the church Tuesday evening. A supper and a pleasant evening were enjoyed.

South Shore Commandery, K. T., has elected these officers:

Eminent Commander—T. John Evans. Generalissimo—Francis A. Bicknell. Captain General—Andrew J. Garey. Senior Warden—Frank H. Mason. Junior Warden—David J. Pierce. Treasurer—Edmund G. Bates. Recorder—Charles N. Marsh. Prelate—Charles H. Pratt. Assistant Prelate—Charles W. S. Seymour.

Standard bearer—William D. Fearing. Sword bearer—Howard Poole. Warden—William T. Rice. Guards—Bela P. French, Fred N. Bates and Eben H. Cain.

Assistant Guards—J. H. Packard, F. W. Baldwin and J. Ellis Gardner. Sentry—John Nelson. Armorer—Charles T. Humphrey. Organist—Herbert A. Newton.

Rev. I. J. Lansing has been talking about rich men. He did not believe in any reckless distribution of wealth. He thought that the rich men who founded and carried on great institutions of labor, in which honest toilers are paid honest wages, did good with a wise purpose. It was not altogether a calamity that a man lived in luxury, or that he built himself a million-dollar house; this was not necessarily a sin. But if in that house of luxury there lived a soul that was worth over a million dollars, the wealth of that man was a curse. Mere luxury was degradation. The rich man who pays good wages and provides a great number of people with steady employment is not to be denounced, according to Mr. Lansing, as a tyrant and an enemy to the public weal. In other words, capital, put to its proper uses, is a wise and beneficent agent, not to be disregarded and not to be looked upon as something to be trampled out of existence. The vast majority of wage earners will believe with Mr. Lansing.—Brockton Enterprise.

A Postal Proposition.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Mr. Compton of Maryland introduced in the house a resolution directing the committee on postoffices and post roads to inquire into and report upon the expediency of allowing the postal tablet or private postal card, the weight of which shall not exceed half an ounce, to pass through the mails at the rate of one cent postage.

Would-be Wreckers Foiled.

GREENCASTLE, Ind., Sept. 27.—An ineffectual attempt was made to wreck the Cincinnati express on the Vandallia line, near Skunkin. A rail had been removed and placed so as to throw the entire train down a 10-foot embankment. All the cars except the sleeper left the track. No one was seriously hurt, but many were severely shaken up.

Frigh May Kill Robbers' Victims.

BUTLER, Pa., Sept. 27.—Five masked men battered down the door to tollhouse No. 2 on the Butler plank road. They bound Mr. and Mrs. Duesla the keepers, who were 70 years of age, and took $300 in cash and other valuables. The aged couple are almost dead from fright and exhaustion and may not recover.

Helps to Confirm Fears.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—A telegram was received by Messrs. Pim, Forwood & Co., agents of the Atlas line of steamers, from Kingston, Jamaica, stating that the steamer Jason picked up a lifeboat marked Aivo and landed it at Montego bay. No other particulars were given in the telegram.

French Leaders.

In France it is the custom to have elections on Sunday, so as to save time for the workman. The custom would break up this republic speedily if an attempt were made to introduce it here.
Sunday or no Sunday, however, the French republic has been placed by the recent August parliamentary elections on a firmer basis than any republic in France ever was before. Royalism is dead, imperialism is dead, forever, and there are not enough mourners left for either to give them a funeral. The im-perialists only elected three members.

The principal parties in the coming chamber of deputies will be three—Moderate Republicans, Radical Republicans and Socialists. With the Moderate Republicans will act a large number of so called "Rallied Conservatives," original royalists who have given up the error of their ways and accepted the republic because a majority of their fellow countrymen pronounce for it. That they have done this must be attributed in no small measure to the influence of brave Pope Leo.

The Moderate Republican party will have an overwhelming majority. Under its wing will gather all the former factions of Republicans except the Radicals. Its leader will be Constans
—a white haired and leonine Constans—a picturesque writer calls him. He is the most powerful and determined public man in the Moderate Republican party, but not so popular as the polished, politic and even tempered President Carnot. Constans was minister of the interior under President Grevy. He is the one rival for the presidency that Carnot has to fear. If Carnot should be elected president for another six years, with Constans for his prime minister, the triumphant success of the French republic at home and abroad would be assured. The other leaders under Constans of the Moderate Republicans will be the ex-cabinet ministers De Freycinet, Rouvier, Ribot and Leon Say. Say is of Jewish descent.
Ribot, as minister of foreign affairs, conducted the interchange of communication with the pope, which resulted in bringing the Catholic royalists to the support of the republic.

The leader of the Radical Republicans is of course Clemenceau, fearless, lit-tling Clemenceau, who by mere force of his personality beat down the enemies that howled forth to the world his compromising connection with Dr. Herz of Panama scandal notoriety. With Clemenceau in the Radical party are Goblet and Floquet. In case of Goblet, Floquet and Clemenceau, all three, reballets are necessary to make them secure of election.

The Radical Republicans, as they call themselves, are more socialistic in their ideas than the Moderate Republicans, and the three leaders, Clemenceau, Floquet and Goblet, are endeavoring to entire to their support the votes of the outside and Social party, whose chief strength lies in the manufacturing cities and mining districts of France. The small farmers are almost to a man with the Moderate Republicans.

One fact which shows the utter dead-ness of imperialism is that the Bonapartist brigandage, Paul de Cassagnac, who has represented one district in the chamber since 1876, failed of election on the first ballot. As to the Panama scandal, except in the memory of the poor peasants who lost their money, it is a hollow phantom—nothing more. It seemed to have even a contrary influence in the elections. Delahaye, who made the accusation in the chamber of deputies, is beaten. So has fallen dead the last great boom of the enemies of France, the republic.

We have had and have permanently in America eminent Russian artists.
We are now to have permanently also a famous Russian novelist, Vladimir Korolenko, who has declared his intention to live hereafter in the United States.
Korolenko in his own land is second only in reputation to Tolstoy himself. He writes along the same lines in many respects and is an ardent enthusiast for liberty and the uplifting of the people.
For this offense he has been three times banished to Siberia. Perhaps these repeated banishments have at length become somewhat monotonous to the gifted writer, and for that reason he comes to America. He married a Russian woman physician of noble character and refining culture. It is a romantic incident in the history of the couple that they met and loved first while both were exiles in Siberia. Korolenko knows life from all sides. Though a gentleman born, he was so poor that he supported himself while a student at the university by coloring maps. Whether he writes in English or in Russian, his fine translated into English, this strong, fine author will be welcome to America. We are glad to have scholarly, cultured, manly literary men come and live among us, Vladimir Korolenko.

Most grown persons in America are familiar with the fact that there was a premium on gold during the war and for 13 years after. Many also remember when there was a premium on silver, but when in the experience of people was ever a premium on paper money in America before the month of August, 1893?

Ex-President Harrison continues to deceive the public to understand that he has no cousin named William Harrison or anything else in the poorhouse at Denver or in any other poorhouse.

HEAVY TAXPAYERS.

A Partial List of Those Assessed on Over $3000 and

PAYING OVER FIFTY DOLLARS

Henry H. Faxon the Prominent One in Today's List.

Today's instalment of the heavy taxpayers of the city includes the E's and F's in all the wards paying over $50. The name of Henry H. Faxon stands out prominently as a heavy taxpayer in four wards especially in Ward One. His total tax is over $6,800, representing a valuation of nearly half a million dollars. He is the largest individual taxpayer in the city; and the Adams Real Estate Trust is the only firm or syndicate paying a larger amount.

Congressman William Everett and James L. Edwards in today's list each pay over $1,000. Henry M. Faxon is assessed $703.13 in Ward One, and there are several others paying $200, $300 and $400.

Ingham Fair.

The annual agricultural fair at Hingham, opened Tuesday, and is one of the best of the society in recent years. There was a large attendance. There were bicycle races, trotting, base ball and other sports.
Prizes were awarded for fine arts, fruit,
butter, etc.

The Infanta's Husband.

The husband of Princess Eulalie, Don Antonio of Montpensier, is a son of that Duke of Montpensier who was a noble

both in France and Spain and was thoroughly detested in both countries for avarice, insincerity
and other faults.
Yet the rulers of both nations had to sustain him
because of his being the connecting link, as Darwin would say, between the dynasties. He was a son of Louis Philippe, king of the French from 1830 to 1848, and married the only sister of Isabella of Spain, Eulalie's mother, so Prince Antonio, as he is called, is a full cousin of his wife and a grandson of the last king the French had.
Still they say he is a real good fellow and knows more than one would expect.

PRINCE ANTONIO.

The New Rear Admiral.
By the retirement of Admiral D. P.
Harmony, Commodore Aaron Ward
Weaver is promoted to rear admiral.
He was born in Washington city
July 1, 1832, and appointed a mid-shipman from Ohio May 10, 1848. Since his graduation he has served in almost every sea. He entered on very active service
the beginning the civil war

REAR ADMIRAL WEAVER at its close was made commander in recognition of his services. He served in turn under Flag Officers Farragut, Porter, Dupont, Rowan, Stringham, Dahlgren and Golds-borough and in every part of the widely extended field of naval warfare. His services on the rivers were equally meritorious.

The Wife of a Pugilist.
Mrs. James J. Corbett, wife of the famous pugilist, is a lady of many accomplishments, and as her family are of the tolerably wealthy class she had to leave home to marry James,
who was then a clerk in the Nevada bank in San Francisco. They were married by a justice of the peace in Salt Lake City on

June 28, 1886, but the religious ceremony was afterward performed in San Francisco by a priest to satisfy the religious feelings of Mr. Corbett's family. She was born in Amsterdam, N. Y., in 1867, but was taken to Santa Cruz, Cal., in infancy and was reared in that state.

The Goal.

Viewed from the east more fair do seem the west,
Where on some towering tree clad hill's proud crest,
A gleaming crown of gold, the sun doth rest,
And from its jeweled rim fall myriad beads
of light;

The land is opulent with treasures rare—
We think, in our blind way, if we were there,
Some of the scattered light must be our share.
We leave the certain east, and westward go to find—"this night."

From life's bright morn of youth our eager eyes
Look longingly at noon's resplendent skies,
And visions of a future lit with fame arise,
When, childhood past, its joys we may attain;
We hasten through the days with speeding feet,
And pass, unheeding, flowers of a perfume
sweet;
And when our goals reached would fain retreat,
And soothe our tired eyes with youth's pure light again.

in the troubles at Homestead, he found himself unable to obtain

when he was acquitted in Feb-treason and riot, on which he had been indicted, he entered himself in labor journalism as the most agreeable means of earning the living he could no longer get as an iron worker. He has always been more or less interested in literary work, and besides some very creditable verse has written more or less for the magazines

Constable Weller's Case.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 27.—David Weller, the local constable charged with participating in the robbery of 400 cents in Brooklyn, had his case continued yesterday. He promises to go to Brooklyn and testify against the four Brooklyn men now in custody at his trial Oct. 5.

IN CONGRESS.

Peffer Gets a Set-Back From Sherman.
Perkins' Maiden Speech.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The Populist senator from Kansas met somewhat of a defeat in having a resolution of his laid on the table by a vote of 27 to 19. It was a call on the treasury for information as to the anticipation of interest on United States bonds since 1891—information which Mr. Sherman said the senator could obtain for himself in any public library. Mr.
Peffer intimated the treasury department was trying to withhold information to which the people were entitled, but Mr.
Sherman's view of the case was adopted by the senate.

After the repeal bill was taken up, Mr.
Perkins (Rep., Cal.) made a speech against it, in which he declared himself a sincere believer in the use and coinage of both gold and silver. It was Mr. Perkins' first speech in the senate (except a eulogy), and the impression made by it was very favorable to the new senator. The remainder of the day's session was occupied by Mr.
Stewart in continuation of his remarks began on the previous day.

The session was closed with a personal explanation by Mr. Morgan (Dem., Ala.)
denying the imputation of unfriendliness between the president and himself, and a short speech by Voorhees, eulogistic of the president and explanatory of why the Democratic side of the chamber had not answered Mr. Stewart's attacks during his two days' speech.

The debate in the house upon the federal elections repeal bill was not an exciting one, as was expected. Mr. Tucker of Virginia delivered a carefully prepared speech upon the question, devoting himself principally to the constitutional points involved, although he took occasion to make some reference to John I. Davenport and his methods. Mr. Brooks of Pennsylvania replied, defending the election laws.

FATAL OUTCOME LIKELY.

A Boston Lad Receives a Knife Wound
From a Boy of Fourteen.

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—Neil Canny, 17 years old, lies in his home in a critical condition from a knife wound just below the heart.
His assailant, 14 years old, Neil Callahan, is locked up on a charge of felonious assault. The affray occurred last evening in "Monroe square," so-called, a few steps from Canny's home.

Callahan and several kindred fellows were talking about a sparring match which had taken place on Monday night, when Canny walked by, and as he was passing Callahan is said to have addressed him in an insulting manner. Canny replied: "Oh, go along; you are too small to know anything about such things."

On this, Callahan, who is a little fellow, drew his pocketknife and made a lunge at Canny, at the blade entered his body between the eighth and ninth ribs, just below the heart.

A Big Fall.

QUINCY, Sept. 27.—Three workmen employed on the observation building at Hoffman island fell from the scaffolding over the well-hole of the upper floor, and one, Oscar Matson, whose skull was fractured, died shortly afterward.
August Peters was slightly injured and John Blunkvist had several ribs broken.

Modest Mr. Chamberlain.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Joseph Chamberlain, M. P., who sailed for the United States today, declined an invitation to address the Unionists of Liverpool last evening. He told the committee that he desired nothing more than to be treated both in England and America as a private person on a short holiday.

Not Ready for the Public.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Lord Dunsraven met the cup committee at the house of the New York Yacht club yesterday. The hour for the races, the arrangements for the start and finish and other details were amicably arranged. The committee declined not to make the arrangements public at present.

After Prize Fighters.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 27.—Governor
Matthews has issued four requisition papers for prize fighters, who are wanted at Crown Point to answer to charges of having participated in fights at Roby.
The requisitions were for Solly Smith,
John Griffin, Joe Chojinsky and Daniel Creedon.

Levy Testifies.

DOVER, N. H., Sept. 27.—Arguments in the Philpot murder case were begun today. William A. Levy, the defendant, testified yesterday, claiming that he shot Philpot in self defense. He said that Phil-pot struck him in the face; that it led to his firing the fatal shot.

Three Thousand Miners Go to Work.

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 27.—The Cour-

Tallow, 10¢ per lb. Hides, 75¢ each; lamb skins, 9¢ each; sheared skins, 25¢ each;
brandies, 10¢ per lb.

Northern and eastern beef cattle—The supply was very limited, but was fully equal to the demand. There were no very good cattle offered on the market. Buyers were few and trade was very dull. At the noon hour only a few sales had been recorded, and most of these were beef cows and young bullocks, which were purchased by the country slaughterers.
Much cows and springers. The supply was quite large and it greatly exceeded the demand. Trade was flat, and both drovers and buyers were complaining of the inactivity of the market. Speculators and jobbers were present, but were not willing to pay much over $3 per head. Drovers were not willing to let their offerings go at these values.

Veal calves—The supply was heavier than last week. The quality was about the same as that offered one week ago. Trade shows no change and values could not be said to have realized any material change during the week.

Sleep and lambs—The arrivals from the west were taken direct to the slaughter house.
The heavy receipts of one week ago flooded the market and caused the demand in the Boston market to be very light. Had a few very choice lambs been on hand in the morning, they would have brought fair prices. Prices were about the same as last week. The drovers who brought in this stock complained greatly at the tone of the market.

Western beef cattle—The arrivals were consigned to suppliers and exporters. Values were quoted by the drovers as being about the same as last week. A few head were sold to home slaughterers.

CONVENTION ECHOES

How the Democrats Received the Speakers at Boston.

LIVES OF THE CANDIDATES

Given In a Compact Form For Busy Readers.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Campaign banners have already been hung to the breeze in this city. Democrats today find the convention proceedings the popular topic for discussion.

Mr. Quincy made no opening speech.

This was a departure from the usual custom.

After the customary preliminaries in the way of reading the call and appointing the various committees had been observed, Congressman Joseph H. O'Neill was conducted to the platform to preside over the convention.

Mr. Quincy forgot to present him to the convention, or else thought he needed no introduction. At any rate the congressman began his address without any presentation, formal or otherwise.

Mr. O'Neill spoke his piece with effect.

He had boiled it down to a 30 minutes' effort. He first spoke long before the audience was tired of listening, a thing that has not happened in a state convention here for many years. The speech was liberally applauded, especially that portion of it which calls attention to the Massachusetts men who have been given office by the national administration.

The interest of the convention centered in the nominating speeches and in the speech of acceptance by the candidate for governor. Mr. Carroll was denied the pleasure of addressing the convention, owing to the number of cases he has before the supreme court, now in session at Springfield. It was said that the court would be obliged to adjourn if he came to Boston.

Mayor Matthews made the speech placing John E. Russell in nomination. He received a great reception from the convention. His remarks were brief, but strong and pithy. He was followed by Senator Fitzgerald, who also had a good reception, and who made an earnest and successful speech. Mayor Coughlin at Fall River was present in service at the last moment to follow Senator Fitzgerald, and he did his part well.

A Treat.

Then came George M. Stearns of Chicopee to present the name of James B. Carroll. It was a rare treat for the convention to hear him. He made one of his characteristic speeches—quaint, witty, scriptural and eloquent by turns. The convention either applauded or laughed at every sentence. Salem D. Charles of Boston seconded the nomination.

A committee had been sent out to find John E. Russell and escort him to the hall. He was brought in at the conclusion of the nominating speeches. The welcome he received from the convention must have touched his heart. It was generous, hearty, abundant. Mr. Russell said just enough to give the delegates a foretaste of what may be expected from him on the stump.

Following John E. came William E.
The governor was invited by Chairman
O'Neill to visit the convention and address the delegates. He was lustily cheered before he spoke, during his speech and after he had concluded.

The platform was read by George Fred Williams, who was greeted with prolonged applause earlier in the day when he rose to move the appointment of a committee.
There was scarcely a plank in the platform which did not evoke applause.

The State Committee.

Chairman Kennedy of the committee appointed to nominate members-at-large of the state committee reported the following list of names: Josiah Quincy, Boston; Pierre Bonvouloir, Holyoke; John H. Clune, Holyoke; Walter Cutting,
Fitchburg; John J. Donovan, Lowell;
Robert E. Burke, Newburyport; John F.
Fitzgerald, Boston; Nathan Matthews,
Jr., Boston; Eugene M. Moriarty, Worcester; Henry V. Cunningham, Boston; Nathaniel G. Robinson, Boston; Daniel
D. Sullivan, Fall River; John H. Sullivan,
Boston; James T. Wheelwright, Boston.

The committee recommended the election of five additional members, and named: Quincy A. Town, Lynn; Daniel F. Buckley, North Easton; P. J. Daley,
Boston; Henry R. Reed, Boston; Joseph L.
Sweet, Attleboro. The convention elected these gentlemen unanimously.

SKETCH OF THE CANDIDATES.

John E. Russell of Leicester was born in Greenfield in 1833 and received his education at a private school in Bridgeport, Conn. In 1856 he was married. Soon after he went to South America, returning in 1864, and settling in 1867 in Leicester. The next year he retired from business and entered upon that line of devotion to country life and study for which he is so well known. Before he was 25 years of age he was earning $15,000 a year as diplomatic agent of the Panama road and Pacific Mail Steamship company.

His relations with foreign countries and his representatives were close and confidential. For thirteen years he was in the employ of Ben Halliday, the overland mail magnate, representing his interests in the east. In 1880 he was elected secretary of the board of agriculture and held the office six years. In 1885 Mr. Russell was appointed chairman of the state board of examiners for clerical and prison service. In 1886 he was elected to congress from the Tenth district.

James B. Carroll of Springfield.

The candidate for lieutenant governor was born in Lowell, Jan. 10, 1856. He was educated in Worcester, graduating at Holy Cross college. He was admitted to the bar in 1880. Mr. Carroll then moved to Springfield and began the practice of law. He has served on the executive board of the Democratic state central committee and has been often on the stump.

His only public office was that of city solicitor of Springfield, under Mayor Maynard's administration.

James W. McDonald of Marlboro, for secretary of state, is a native of Marlboro and a member of the school committee and special justice of the police court and was a member of the house in 1880.
In 1892 he was a member of the senate and served on the committee on judiciary, probate and insolvency (chairman) and constitutional amendments. Upon the resignation of Colonel Coveney, he was appointed as state commissioner, and was prominently mentioned as a candidate for lieutenant governor.

Eben S. Stevens of Dudley, who is named for treasurer, was born in Dudley in 1818. He is a woolen manufacturer and has served in various town offices. He has been a member of the legislature since 1892.

John T. Wheelwright of Boston, who is upon the ticket for auditor, was born in Roxbury Feb. 28, 1835, and was educated in the Latin school there. He was graduated from Harvard university in 1856 and from the law school in 1878.
He was admitted to the bar in 1879 and has practiced law ever since. He has served on Governor Russell's staff for the past three years.

Charles S. Lilley of Lowell is the candidate for attorney general. He was born in Lowell, Dec. 13, 1851. He was admitted to the bar in 1877. He has held several offices in the Lowell city government and was a member of the senate in 1880, 1881 and 1882. He refused the nomination for mayor of Lowell. While in the senate he served on the committee on judiciary and was a member of the joint special committee which investigated the charges against Judge Day, and also of the commission to which was entrusted the revision and codification of the statutes of the commonwealth.

Pete Hackett located.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 28.—Pete Hackett, a notorious fugitive from this state, is in Greenville, N. Y. Hackett has just finished a one-year sentence in Massachusetts for robbery and went to New York upon being given his freedom. Hackett is wanted in this city for the murder of Waterman Irons, an aged merchant. He is under indictment for the crime.

Veteran Firemen Turn Out.

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 28.—Veteran companies from Peabody, Lowell, Milford, Wilton, Worcester and elsewhere attended the firemen's muster here. There was a large number of people in town to witness the exercises. The procession passed through the principal streets to Railroad square, where the playing contests for prizes took place.

Whole Town Without Water.

ROCHFORD, Vt., Sept. 28.—While workmen on the Central Vermont railroad were driving piles on a trestle bridge, one of the piles struck and severed a main pipe in the waterworks from the reservoir, and, in consequence, the whole town is without water and must remain so until the damage is repaired.

Knights of Labor Enjoined.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 28.—The superior court has issued an injunction restraining the Knights of Labor here from interfering with workmen at the shoe factory of Thomas G. Plant & Co. The papers were served on John Hughes, Charles Thetron,
A. B. Stevens, Edward Smith and M. H.
Healey.

Freight Hands Strike.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 28.—Fifty freight hands in the New York and New England yard here struck because they were ordered to go to work at 6 instead of 7 o'clock in the morning, although the superintendent agreed to pay them extra.

Bad Runaway Accident.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Sept. 28.—Mrs. Robert Woodworth of New York, while driving a pair of horses, was run away with and thrown from the carriage. Her leg and collar bone were broken and her face severely cut.

Miss McGuinness Is Free.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—After having been out 17 hours in the case of Mary A. Mc-Guinness, charged with assault and battery on William J. Lally by throwing vitriol on him, the jury disagreed.

Eight Years in State Prison.

DOVER, N. H., Sept. 28.—The jury in the Levy trial reported a verdict of manslaughter in the second degree. Levy was sentenced by Judge Walker to eight years at hard labor in the state prison.

Brief Mention.

The Boston and Maine railroad is to build a new station at Stoneham, Mass.
Sanford W. Brown was struck by a train at Lawrence, Mass., and seriously injured.

On Monday next work will be resumed on full time in the Lawrence mills at Lowell, Mass.

Fitchburg stockholders voted to issue
$2,500,000 bonds and re-elected the old board of directors.

Companies A and B, Eleventh New Hampshire volunteers, had a joint annual reunion at Epping, N. H.

Fred Cole, 25 years old, of Bellows Falls, Vt., was kicked in the head by a horse and probably fatally injured.

Daniel Creeden, aged 62 years, a citizen of Mansfield, Mass., became insane and jumped into the river, but was rescued.
Every town of the Tremont and Suffolk mills, employing 230 operatives, at Lowell, Mass., will be started up next Monday.

A 4-year-old son of Charles McNutt, who is employed on a farm in Sharon, Mass., was kicked in the head by a horse and probably fatally injured.

An insane woman, giving her name as Martha Burnett, was arrested in Springfield, Mass. No information as to where she belongs can be learned from her.

At the opening of the convention of the Maine Epworth league at Auburn, Me., Mayor Bolster welcomed the delegates to the city, and Rev. Dr. Brodbeck of Brookline, Mass., preached a sermon.

The annual convention of the Connecticut State Drum and Pipe association was held in New Haven. About 50 organizations from different parts of the state were present, including 500 members.

RUSSELL ---CARROLL.

The Nominees of the Democrats of Massachusetts.

CHAIRMAN O'NEIL'S SPEECH.

Mr. Russell's Speech Accepting the Nomination for Governor.

Gentlemen of the convention: I am deeply grateful for the honor conferred on me in being selected to preside over your deliberations today.

We have assembled in convention as the chosen representatives of the Democrats of this commonwealth to reaffirm our principles and to present our candidates to the people. The approval of those principles and the success of our candidates depend on the confidence of the people in the sincerity of our pledges and on the test of comparison our candidates may stand when our opponents have finally decided whom their next sacrifice shall be.

For the first time in almost half a century we meet as the representatives of the dominant party, both in the whole country and in our own state. We have Democratic presidents, to whom even our opponents concede honesty and sincerity of purpose and a disinterested patriotism never exceeded by any of his predecessors. We have a Democratic house of representatives and a Democratic senate. All these we have had before, but in addition we have now a Democratic governor in our midst. We have a Democratic work of this convention is over we will have nominated another Democratic governor for the commonwealth in hearty sympathy with the principles of his party in national and state affairs.

We meet today to nominate state officers and, yet the coming campaign must largely involve national issues. For three years the Democratic party of Massachusetts has been honored by the people with the choice of its candidate to the governorship of the commonwealth, and the people in choosing him have a keen new lustre to the glory of the old Bay state. His election has again raised the eyes of the country to be turned on Massachusetts.

CONGRESSMAN O'NEIL.

Under Democracy Massachusetts became one of the leading states in the Union in the Management of National Affairs.

Under Republicanism for the past 10 years she has been ignominiously swept aside and her councils resented.

With three years of William E. Russell's administration before the people, we challenge anyone to show a single act of his not guided by patriotic motives and unflinching loyalty to his native state. He is a true representative of his party in Massachusetts, and under the leadership of that party Massachusetts will again resume her proper place in the councils of the Union.

In Massachusetts, as in Ohio and everywhere else that an election is to be held this year, lesser issues must be swept aside and candidates become of minor importance in comparison with the great principles at stake. We have indeed state issues in the rights of labor, whose unflinching friend Democracy has ever been, in the right of the chosen governor of the commonwealth to control the officers through whom its administration is carried on,
in the demand for home rule for all cities and towns in the management of their local affairs, and in the contest of the people against the over-capitalization of both home and foreign corporations, to the end that exorbitant charges shall not be fled from the people themselves. These issues, vital in themselves, must, however, largely give way to national issues of even greater importance, which affect not only the people of the town, the city and the state, but the welfare and well being of all the people in all the towns, cities and states of the Union.

Let the Republican party of this state have no fear that there is the slightest disposition on the part of the Democratic party to dodge a single issue. We are willing to discuss them all in the full light of day, and now, as ever, we rely not on passion or on prejudice, but on the education and intelligence of the best educated and most intelligent community.

In the sisterhood of States.
We believe in, we trust in, and we rely upon,
the intelligence of the people of Massachusetts. The most vital and pressing question today is the silver question.

It is engrossing the attention of the whole people, for on its proper settlement rest the hopes, the aspirations, the comfort and the happiness of millions of our people in the coming winter. All sections of the country, with slight exceptions, demand the repeal of what is known as the purchasing clause of the Sherman silver law, passed in 1890 by a Republican house and a Republican senate, and signed by a Republican president.
Every atom of responsibility for that law rests on the Republican party. On it rests the responsibility, through that law, for the great loss of confidence from which we have suffered all through the present summer, with business at a standstill, with our mills and our factories idle, with great numbers of people unemployed at a time of year when they should have been most steadily employed, that they might make provision for the rigors of winter.

When this panic first appeared there was no division of opinion as to its cause. Republicans as well as Democrats admitted that it was caused by the lack of confidence brought about by the Sherman silver law of 1890.
People abroad began to dread the effect of the great purchases of silver made under that act, standing, as it did, as a menace to the currency of the United States.

They dreaded the effect of a policy based on the Farmers' Alliance plan of issuing treasury certificates on commodities, and were unable to see why a country that could buy silver and store it like junk might not extend the policy and issue certificates also on cotton, corn, tobacco and whisky.

The lack of confidence abroad, and the desire of foreigners to realize while they could, soon spread to this country.

A Well-deserved Award.
The Treasury Department at Washington, after receiving bids from the largest and best-known carpet manufacturers and dealers throughout the country, has awarded to the old and trustworthy house of John H. Pray, Sons & Co. of Boston, the contract for furnishing Brussels carpets for government use throughout the country for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894.

This contract amounts to about 20,000 yards, more or less, and is for Brussels of the firm's own manufacture, having as a guaranty of the quality the firm's name woven on the back of every yard of carpet that is delivered, so that the house cannot fail to be well known in all government buildings and offices throughout the United States wherever the carpets are seen.

Measure Pray & Co.'s reputation for selling only standard and reliable goods seems to have been well maintained, as the government standard is a high one, and the tests are most severe.

Mrs. Walker Swalkins of Keweenaw, Ill., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. George J. Jones of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sargent of Manchester, N. H., are at West Quincy for a few weeks.

The Quincy & Boston street railway will commence furnishing its own power Sunday morning.

Mr. J. Frank Merrill, who with his mother stopped to visit friends in Ohio on their way home from the World's Fair, is ill with pleurisy fever.

Mrs. George W. Jones and Warren H. Rideout were the successful competitors at the drive wheel party given by the Granite City Club on Wednesday evening.

Mr. C. F. Carlson has on exhibition in a show window at his store a varied collection of the money of Sweden and Finland in gold, silver and bills which is of interest.

Quincy Court, M. C. O. F., held the first of a series of assemblies at Hancock hall, Wednesday evening. There was a very pretty party present and a pleasant evening enjoyed.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Florence Gertrude Roberts, daughter of ex-Councilman Roberts of Wollaston and Mr. Clarence Ward Packard of Dorchester, which will take place at the Wollaston Congregational church on the evening of October 11.

Word was received by Chief of Police Langley that Michael Griffin of this city who was sent to the reform school at Westboro last summer, escaped from that institution last Sunday. Wednesday Griffin was arrested by Officer Ferguson and locked up. He will be taken back to Westboro.

Runaway Accident.

Wednesday evening as four young ladies were riding near the Stone church in Capt. Sturgis carriage, the pony became frightened at the electric car.

The young ladies were thrown out and Miss Sturgis and Miss Graham slightly injured. The animal ran down Washington street, some bicyclists having a narrow escape. He was stopped near the Universalist church.

WAR IN BRAINTREE.

The Fifth Regiment Discover Rebels in Ambush.

THE ENEMY DRIVEN FROM FIELD

A Sham Battle which Appeared Realistic—Interesting Manoeuvres.

It is a great day at Braintree, the annual fall field day of the 5th Regiment, M. V. M. Nearly 1000 men are participating in the manoeuvres.

A special train arrived from Boston at 9.45. It comprised four baggage cars and ten or a dozen passenger cars, and conveyed all the regiment except Co. K.

The Braintree company met the regiment at the depot and all proceeded to the Armory, where the knapsacks were left.

A "sham battle" was first on the orders of the day. The 1st and 3d battalions then fell into line and the 2d battalion acted as a reserve.

Upon Whitmarsh Plains the advance guard was surprised by a company of select men under Col. Frost, Lieut. Kincaide and Lieut. Bray, who made it hot for awhile, but were obliged to retreat from one position to another, and were on the run when the LEDGER went to press.

None killed and one injured was the last report. The unfortunate soldier broke his leg in jumping a ditch.

The programme this afternoon at the close of the battle includes a lunch, marching and street firing, and a parade. Full particulars of the day will appear tomorrow.

Large numbers are witnessing the manoeuvres.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS.

Considerable Doubt As to His Removal from the City.

Those intimate with Hon. Chas. Francis Adams deny that it is his present intention to give up his residence in this city, although the subject has received his consideration.

His new estate at Lincoln is occupied by his daughter. Mr. Adams is interested in securing playgrounds in each ward of this city, and it is further understood that he will become president of the Quincy Historical Society soon to be organized, which would indicate that he is still interested in Quincy.

It has been suggested that it was high taxes that was driving Mr. Adams from the city, but certainly a man who secured an appropriation of $50,000 from the City Council this year for a luxury, should have no complaint in this direction.

Probate Court at Dedham.

The following wills were allowed in the Norfolk County Probate Court at Dedham on Wednesday: Harriet G. Talbot, Canton, Peter Talbot, executor, bond $3000; G. E. Winslow, Quincy, W. H. Brasse, executor, bond $4000; Mary L. Knight, Cohasset, Winthrop Knight, executor.

Letters of administration were granted on estates of Elmira C. Jones, Foxboro; Eluthera Lovejoy, Canton; C. M. Johnson, Canton; Sarah E. Prescott, Randolph; Alton Pool, Hyde Park; Louisa T. Miner, Hyde Park; Hiram Jones, Foxboro.

Among the accounts allowed was the second of W. R. Dimmock late of Quincy for $690.94.

—Brockton is now employing 112 teachers in its public schools. Immediate accommodations are wanted in some districts for pupils.

—Henry L. Kincaide & Co., brokers of low prices on furniture and carpets.—Poor house business is mighty quiet just at present.—Furniture within the reach of everyone.

EVIDENCE ALL IN.

The Trefethen Case is Now Almost Ready For the Jury.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 23.—The defense in the Trefethen case has rested and the government has opened in rebuttal. The defense in the trial put in more evidence yesterday.

Albert H. Ward was the first witness examined. Other witnesses for the defense were Fred M. Ward, the first witness's son; Frank E. Farnham, a policeman of Malden; Arthur R. Richardson, a detective; Hiram I. Litchfield, James A. Coaway, Mary E. Goveall, Civil Engineer Stevens of Melrose and Lyman H. Richards, ex-chief of police of Malden.

That Trefethen bore a good reputation before this trouble was testified to by Fred H. Temple, a lawyer; Thomas Corey, formerly postmaster of Everett; John R. Ainsley, a dry-goods merchant; Albert H. Pratt, another dry-goods merchant, and John A. Nichols of Everett. The deposition of Eugene S. Wauf, the former draw-tender of Malden bridge, who has died since his testimony was taken, was then read. He deposed that on the night of Dec. 23, 1891, he noticed a woman on the bridge. He went into his house to get a match; heard a splash in the water; hurried out, and found the woman had gone. He looked, but saw nothing in the water.

Hugh H. McNeilan, the assistant draw-tender of the bridge, was next examined. Then the defense rested, and the government began putting in evidence in rebuttal.

Mrs. Emma L. Pierce and Mrs. Jane E. Bishop were recalled. The latter said that the young woman who came to see her with Mrs. Hubert was not Miss Davis, but a girl who is alive. Mary Leahy, the girl in question, was then examined. Other witnesses who testified were Franklin L. Mayo, Charles S. Gilman, Clarence E. Wauf and John E. Ormond.

At 3:45 Mr. Long began his argument for the defense, but at 5:15 it was interrupted by the adjournment of the court. He reviewed the testimony in the case, and his last words for the day were these: "The government has not shown that a murder was committed. And further than that, it has not shown that Trefethen is guilty of the offense charged here."

TROOPS IN READINESS

To Prevent the Proposed Lynching of a Negro Murderer.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 28.—Calvin Stewart, the negro who murdered a white man near Langley, a short time since, was captured in a swamp above Langley by Constable Augustine. The constable and a few friends started to bring the prisoner to Aiken. When they had left Langley about a mile in the rear, they were surprised by a mob of masked men. Before any resistance could be made the prisoners were taken from them and riddled with bullets.

Coroner Couch was notified and proceeded to the scene, where an inquest was held. The jury found that the deceased came to his death at the hands of a party or parties unknown to the jury.

Before being shot Stewart confessed to having murdered old man Carter at Langley, and implicated Stephen Dunbar, who, he claimed, had aided him in the murder.

Sheriff Alderman was notified that Dunbar had been captured and that there was danger of his being lynched. The sheriff went to Langley and brought the negro to the Aiken jail. The sheriff, fearing an attempt would be made last night to lynch Dunbar, telegraphed Governor Tillman for instructions. The governor wired Captain Oakley of the Palmetto Rifles to hold his company in readiness to protect the prisoner if called upon by the sheriff. The whole country is stirred up about the affair and trouble is feared from the negroes.

Newspapers Shut Out.

Boston, Sept. 28.—In the supreme judicial court, the breach of promise suit of Van Houten vs. Morse was opened yesterday. Reporters were present, and at the conclusion of the remarks of counsel Judge Barker arose and said: "Mr. Clerk, you may enter an order that no report of this case or comment thereon is to be made in any newspaper until the case is ended."

Arguments on Saturday.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 28.—The Schloss murder trial was continued in the city court yesterday. Three witnesses were called who testified to minor matters. Then both the counsel for the defense and Prosecuting Attorney Fox announced that all the evidence had been put in. The case was then continued until Saturday, when the attorneys will make their arguments.

Victim May Die.

Boston, Sept. 28.—"On my dying oath, that's the man who done me up." Thus spoke young Thomas Owens of Waltham as he lay at the Massachusetts general hospital this morning, and identified Joseph Signora as the man who an hour previously had thrust a stiletto into his abdomen, in a row at the West End over a bottle of whiskey. Owens may die.

Lynching Averted.

BEDFORD, Ia., Sept. 28.—Last Wednesday, John Crawford of New Market left a wife and five children and eloped with a 15-year-old girl. Yesterday he was arrested. A mob of coal miners marched here to lynch Crawford. The sheriff was warned in time and had militia head off the mob.

Crushed to Death.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Josephine F. Gardner, 21 years old, works in Rich & Co.'s factory. She was looking down the elevator shaft, when the descending car struck her on the head. She was crushed to death between the car and the wall of the shaft.

Contest Would Be Interesting.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Frank Leslie's Weekly, through its publisher, has offered a $1000 cup to the winner of a trial of speed between a crack locomotive of England, France and Germany and America, now on exhibition at the World's fair.

Bridge Fell Into the River.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The temporary bridge on South Halsted street fell into the river yesterday afternoon, dragging down with it a dozen people. One man was killed and the remainder were rescued uninjured.

In Receivers' Hands.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 28.—Judge Jenkins has appointed Henry F. Whitcomb and Howard Morris receivers of both the Wisconsin Central company and the Wisconsin railway company.

Flinging Up the Valkyrie.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The sails of the Valkyrie were cast yesterday. Lord Dunraven, Mr. Watson and Mr. Halsey spent a large portion of the day on board the Valkyrie.

A Woman's Back.

The mainspring of her life.

What can she do, where can she go, so long as that deadly backache saps both strength and ambition?

She cannot walk, she cannot stand; her duties are burdensome; she is miserable.

The cause is some derangement of the uterus or womb. Backache is the sure symptom.

The one unfailing remedy is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A woman discovered it and gave it to woman.

Mrs. T. W. Lane, of Holyoke, Mass., tells what a comfort it is to write to a woman about her peculiar troubles, and have a woman read her letters and give a woman's sympathy and help.

Thousands send Mrs. Pinkham letters, grateful for renewed life.

BUSINESS MAN DEAD.Mr. P. H. Gavin Passes Away After a Few Days' Illness.

Patrick H. Gavin, one of Quincy's well known business men passed away Wednesday afternoon at his residence on Pleasant street, after a brief illness. His death will be a surprise to many, as it was not generally known that he was sick, as he had been attending to his business up to last week. Sunday his condition was such that a physician from Boston was summoned and he after an examination said the only hope for Mr. Gavin was to perform an operation. This was done Sunday night and he stood it well, and his chances looked brighter, but there was a change and he continued to fail until about 3.30 Wednesday afternoon when he breathed his last.

Mr. Gavin has been a familiar character in and about the city for many years. Everybody knew him, and none knew him but to like him. He was generous to a fault and as one friend expressed it, his heart was too large, and there is hardly a business man in the Centre who will be more missed than "Pat" Gavin, as he was familiarly called.

Mr. Gavin was born in Quincy, in March, 1846, and has always resided here. His business was that of a plumber, and, at that he had no superior. When the war broke out he was one of the first to rally to the defence of the nation's banner and although but 16 years of age he enlisted in Co. D 37th Regiment as a private, but was promoted to sergeant. He served his country faithfully for three years, when he received an honorable discharge.

In social life he was an honored member of Post 88, G. A. R., and secretary of Co. D. 30th Regiment association, which regiment held its annual reunion in this city last month. On that occasion none worked harder to entertain the visiting comrades than did he. He was also a member of the Knights of Pythias being connected with Monatiquot lodge of Braintree and was an active member of the Quincy Yacht club, usually officiating as a judge at the races.

He leaves a widow and nine children.

LOCATION OF HOSE HOUSE.Some Opposition to the School House Lot—A New Site Selected.

The joint committee on Fire Department and Public Buildings held a public hearing at City Hall Wednesday evening on the location of the new hose house in Ward Four.

Councilman Feederhen presided and the other members of the committee present was Councilman Shackley, Drake, Barker, Badger, Williams and Brown.

Mr. Vogel announced to the committee that the Foresters had voted that if the city wished they would sell their lot for just what they paid for it, the city to pay this year's taxes.

The Foresters lot is located on the corner of Willard and Crescent streets and the price was $1,400.

Councilman Donahoe had heard a number express themselves against the school house lot as there was danger to the children at times of a fire, and then again the lot was little enough for the number of scholars.

Mr. Reardon was against the school house lot on account of number of children. Thought the Donnelly lot was naturally located. It would be only a few years before a steamer would be needed and this was the best location if the city has got to buy land.

Ex-Councilman James F. Burke, said he was a member of the Council at the time the Willard lot was purchased and he had no recollection of anything being said at that time about the use of the lot for any other purpose. The growth of West Quincy is toward Robertson's field. This land is to be put on the market, and when it is, the city will have to pay 25 or 30 cents per foot for the land. If you are considering it on an economical plan, it would be better to take the Donnelly lot. He had talked with a number of citizens and they all agree that the school-house lot was a dangerous one, for should a fire occur at recess there would be danger, no matter how careful the driver. The people favored no particular lot, but objected to the school-house lot.

Ex-Councilman Powers thought the citizens of Ward Four were against the school-house lot. They have no particular lot but would like some central location. If present location was to be changed, it should be toward the depot instead of moving it nearer the steamer. All of the lots mentioned are good ones with the exception of the school-house lot. There is danger anyway, and we should not increase it. He did not think it economical, as it would only be a short time before a new school would be wanted. Give us water mains and plenty of hydrants and we will not need a steamer in West Quincy for years.

Ex-Councilman Fallon had had interviews with several and they favored some other site than the school house lot. He, however, believed it a good location, one of the best to be obtained. The depot is more out of the centre than the Willard lot where we have a good wide street. The more you hide that end of the school building the more you will ornament it. The most dangerous fire trap was on Copeland street within half a minute's walk from the Willard lot. Did not think it more dangerous to children than a man with a fast horse.

Mr. McDavit said, we want a public library on the Willard lot and the land should be saved for that purpose. There is plenty of room near the depot and that is where the citizens want it.

These were all the gentlemen that spoke on the subject although there was quite an audience in the hall. The committee took the matter under advisement.

Mayor Trout Goes Home.

RICHMOND, Sept. 28.—Mayor Trout of Roanoke, who was forced to flee from his post during the recent riot in that city, has left for home.

SOME PERSONALITIESMake the Session of the Senate an Interesting One.*NEW COMPROMISE SCHEME*Presented by Jones of Arkansas For Consideration.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The debate in the senate was the most interesting and exciting of the numerous debates which have taken place in that body during the extraordinary session.

It began early in the day on the resolution introduced by Mr. Dubois (Rep., Idaho) for the postponement of a consideration of the silver bill, the tariff and the federal election laws until January next so that the vacant seats from Montana, Washington and Wyoming may be filled in the meantime.

After a speech from Mr. Dubois in favor of the resolution and one from Mr. Mitchell (Rep., Or.) against it, Mr. Chandler (Rep., N. H.) suggested the postponement for the present, stating that if it should become probable that the vote on the repeal bill would be so close as to be affected either way by three votes he would support the resolution, but that otherwise he would oppose it.

Mr. Wolcott (Rep., Colo.) followed Mr. Chandler. He advocated the resolution, protested against the cruel and unusual delay of the resolution, and from Mr. Mitchell (Rep., Or.) against it, Mr. Chandler (Rep., N. H.) suggested the postponement for the present, stating that if it should become probable that the vote on the repeal bill would be so close as to be affected either way by three votes he would support the resolution, but that otherwise he would oppose it.

The Outlook.

The fall work of the Young Men's Christian Association will open next Monday. The privileges which will be given the young men of the city this year cannot fail to interest the most fastidious, for there will be a great variety, suitable for social, physical, intellectual and spiritual enjoyment and a profit, free from all contaminating influences.

The Association seeks not first mere enjoyment, but the improvement of the social, physical intellectual and spiritual natures of young men. Many improvements are being made in the rooms. Through the kindness of the Women's Auxiliary, a handsome upright grand piano will grace the parlor. New papers and magazines will be found in the reading room, and a number of new books in the library. Everything will be cleaned and repaired and some new furniture supplied.

The gymnasium will be in better shape for the physical work, and the bath room greatly improved by twenty-six new lockers and other needed conveniences.

The Physical Department will be in charge of Dr. E. K. Johnson, who conducted the work so ably last year and who is one of the most promising young instructors in the city. During the summer he was offered the physical directorship of the gymnasium at Cambridge and at Brockton, but the local association succeeded in retaining him another year, and he will be greeted by a host of the young men next week.

The evening classes will open on Monday night at 7.45 o'clock and sessions will be held regularly on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday nights. The boys classes will open Wednesday, October 4th, at four o'clock and regular sessions will be held on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. If there is sufficient demand other classes will be arranged especially for the Academy boys, also those who attend the afternoon session of the High school. The Business Men's class, under the leadership of the General Secretary, will begin Monday afternoon at 4.45. The other session will be held Thursday or Friday to suit the majority. Arrangements will be made to take measurements for all those who desire it.

The foot ball team will play a number of matches during October and November. The first game will be next Saturday, at Campello, with last year's Brockton H. S. team.

Instead of the Star course of entertainments in Hancock hall, a series of entertainments for members and friends will be given in the Association rooms. In addition to this there will be a course of ten or twelve practical talks by prominent business men, for young men only. It is proposed to make the social work one of the strong features of the work.

Sentence Deferred.
DEBHAM, Mass., Sept. 28.—In the case of George Colburn, an old and crippled man, charged with manslaughter in killing Fisher Ayer at Colburn's house in the outskirts of Debham, in January last, the jury returned a verdict of guilty. lack of confidence produced lack of business, and lack of business produced lack of money in all branches of trade, and stagnation of business means cold, hunger and want for the people.

But the Republican politicians soon began to see that ruin stared them in the face unless they could stem the tide of public opinion and divert public attention from their heady act, and they began to declare that it was not the silver law but the proposed change in the tariff which was the cause of the depression. This, however, can be readily perceived when we remember that the whole cry of Republicans has been that the proposed reduction of tariff duties would be beneficial to the people of Europe. How then could the good news that such reductions are to be made shake confidence in Europe in so disastrous a manner?

Now, while Republicans disclaim in one breath the responsibility of the Sherman law for the financial stringency we are undergoing, in the next they say we were obliged to pass it for fear of the enactment of a free coinage bill. That fear, if it were real, is an admission that they could not at that time trust President Harrison to veto a free coinage bill that had passed the house of representatives of the Fifty-first congress.

It is true that the Democratic party, in its national platform, recommended the repeal of the tax on state bank currency, but no proposition to repeal that tax will be favored by that party in congress unless it be coupled with safeguards which will make state banks absolutely safe in the hands of a responsible holder. Any man who attempts to deceive the people by pretending that the Democratic party will ever favor an irredeemable currency is underestimating the intelligence of a Massachusetts audience.

The only issue on which the Republican party can appeal to the people is the condition of business which is predicted as a condition brought about by the pernicious legislation of the Republican party on both silver and the tariff. In the past it has pleased Republicans to "play politics" looking to the presidential election of 1892, and they threw the sop to the western states of the purchase of the great Iowa Republic, a move upon the understanding that they were to vote for the McKinley tariff, favoring the manufacturing industries of Pennsylvania and Ohio.

The bargain was made, and both bills became laws, but the people in their might rose up and repudiated the party of bargain and barter, and elected a Democratic president, a Democratic senate and a Democratic house to undo the work of Republican politicians.

Praise For Cleveland.

And what a difference between the two presidents! Benjamin Harrison, whom his party were forced to trust with a move upon the free coinage bill for fear he would sign it, and Grover Cleveland, trusted by the people and all parties to do what he believes to be right and whose position on every great public question the whole world knows.

In the senate chamber on the 15th of September, 1892, 12 days ago, Senator Allison, of Iowa, said he did not know whether Mr. Harrison would have signed a free coinage bill or not in 1890. Compare that with the estimate of any honest Republican of President Cleveland. Find a business man anywhere who does not believe absolutely in his honesty, ability and disinterested patriotism. There is no doubt where he stands on the money question, nor is there any doubt what he would do were a free coinage bill presented to him. Republican partisans may and should be allowed to say that the people can't be fooled as to where the responsibility for it belongs. And when they see the right, the people of this state are patriots before they are politicians.

But men are human, and parties are not infallible, and it might be claimed in view of the present apparent willingness of some of the Republican leaders to repudiate the law when the law was passed they did not know what its effect would be. The records of the discussion show that their attention was called to the viciousness of the legislation, and that every Democrat in both branches voted against it. In addition to that, one of the framers of that law is a distinguished representative from Massachusetts.

It is admitted by men of both parties that few men are better posted on questions of banking and currency than Hon. Joseph H. Walker. Democrats and Republicans alike concede his great ability.

Walker's Utterance.

He was one of the conferees who brought forth this bill, fraught with so much misery and suffering, and in view of his utterance it will not do for his party to plead ignorance of its probable effect, for in a speech made in congress one month and four days ago, Aug. 23, 1892, he said:

"That the purchase clause of the silver law of July 14, 1890, is a menace to the best economic conditions of our people, and that it is at once repudiated is practically unanimously agreed to by all. None sees its unbecoming provisions or are more earnest to wipe them from the statute books than those who framed it. They see them now more clearly than they did on the day they framed it and secured its passage."

The Republican party in this state cannot repudiate this utterance of Mr. Walker. The Democratic house and senate have been called in extraordinary session to relieve the distress of business, restore confidence, reopen the mills and the workshops by undoing the work of the Republican party, and contrary to the expectations, awe, and the hopes, of the Republican politicians, the Democratic majority in the house of representatives, without the aid of the repudiated rules of the Fifty-first congress, have passed the adoption of a code of rules, promptly passed the bill repealing the purchase clause of the Sherman act.

That measure has come to the senate, likewise a Democratic body, and it will be passed there as it was in the house, and the majority of the Democrats both in senate and house will be registered in its favor. That result would have been reached long before this were it not for the obstructive tactics of those men Republican senators with whom the trade was made which fastened on the country the present silver law and the McKinley tariff.

When this heavy weight on the people's confidence has been removed the Democratic party will proceed to carry out that other pledge so vital to all the industries of Massachusetts. On every hand we are besought by Republican politicians not to meddle with the tariff. Were we playing politics we might imitate them. But the Democratic party proposes to keep its pledges.

Reform the Tariff.

Not in the interest of Pennsylvania and Ohio, not in the interest of a few special manufacturers in a few favored localities, but in the interest of all the people everywhere in this great country. It will take the heavy hand of Pennsylvania and Ohio off our New England industries, and the pledges made to Massachusetts and the rest of New England, that our people shall have free wool, free coal and free iron ore, will be sacredly kept.

It is not now, nor ever has been, the policy of the Democratic party to destroy the industries of any section of the country, though that has been the effect of Republican legislation here in Massachusetts.

Free wool, free coal and free iron ore, free raw materials for our manufacturers, will come under this Democratic administration and the pledges of your representatives will be kept without any unnecessary delay. The next congressional campaign in this state will be fought not under the anti-New England McKinley tariff, but under the Wilson common people's tariff.

We do not fear the result of this issue, and we assure our Republican friends that we never strive to evade it. There is one other question on which the Democratic party is committed which is hardly a partisan question, but one on which honest men of all parties, regardless of past affiliation, agree that is, the reform of abuses and frauds in the Pension System.

The Democratic party believes in the payment of liberal pensions to those who need them. It believes that to the passage of the act of 1890 the laws were never too liberal to men who fought for the preservation of the Union; it stands now fairly and squarely in favor of giving pensions under all the old laws to those wounded or diseased in the line of duty, and it also believes in giving pensions, under the act of 1890, to those who are incapacitated from earning a living by manual labor and are in need, in accordance with its provisions.

It believes in maintaining the pension roll as a roll of honor, and it does not believe that this can be done by placing the men who left an arm or a leg, or spilled their blood in the field of battle, on the same plane as the men who deserted, or who never saw service. It does not believe that men who are able to earn their own living should, by an erroneous construction of the law, be paid higher pensions than the men who were crippled upon the battlefield.

No member of the Democratic party anywhere will attempt to increase the pension of a pensioner who is dependent on the pension. Patriotism is above price, and let not demagogues, for the sake of temporary political success, drag down the greatest inheritance of the people, the love of country, into the mire of bargain and sale.

One other question may be raised as a bugbear in this state to frighten off timid people, and that is the Re-establishment of State Banks.

It is true that the Democratic party, in its national platform, recommended the repeal of the tax on state bank currency, but no proposition to repeal that tax will be favored by that party in congress unless it be coupled with safeguards which will make state banks absolutely safe in the hands of a responsible holder. Any man who attempts to deceive the people by pretending that the Democratic party will ever favor an irredeemable currency is underestimating the intelligence of a Massachusetts audience.

RUSSELL ACCEPTS.

Mr. President and Delegates—I am informed by your committee that you have done me the great honor to choose me as your candidate for governor. I thank you for your confidence and for the kind reception you have accorded me. I accept the nomination with a full sense of the responsibility and I will do all in my power to secure success.

For three years we have been able to elect our candidate, but the fact that last year our national ticket was defeated in this state by a considerable majority admonishes us that if we now succeed we must continue to win our support from dissatisfied members of the other party, or rather from the growing body of independent voters.

Three years ago we had several advantages. A large number of Republicans revolted from the machine management of their party, and were alarmed at the growing corruption in legislation. We had also the advantage of the general disappointment and want of confidence in the administration of Mr. Harrison, which began with the announcement of his cabinet and continued to the end of his term, culminating in the overthrow of his party.

The acts of the Fifty-first congress were fresh in the public mind and there was strong opposition to the McKinley bill and the Sherman law, against which every Democrat in the house cast his vote.

The admission of several territories, with an aggregate population of less than this city, in order to pass the force bill, was resented by thousands of voters, who saw in this reckless partisan act dangers which are now more than realized. These conditions greatly assisted us and

A Democrat Was Elected Governor.

The result was entirely satisfactory to the people. At the succeeding election a desperate attempt was made by our opponents to recover their lost ground, but they broke down in all their attacks; the people felt that there was no valid reason why our governor should not have the customary compliment of a reelection and his conduct was so satisfactory that at the next year he was accorded a third term.

He has brought to the attention of the people the defects of our state government and has directed in favor of the increase of executive responsibility. While the executive branch is the only part elected by the people as a whole, the chief magistrate is practically without control over legislation or administration. He is surrounded by a body of men elected separately from himself, over whom he has no authority, each one of whom has Equal Power Over Appointments.

The people have seen the attention of the people to the abuse of government carried on by commissions which are beyond the control of the governor, the legislature or the people. They have seen the number of places to be filled by their partisans, and their success in this election would quench the spirit of reform that has been kindled by us in the commonwealth.

We have then a good record in state affairs; we have no internal dissensions, we are organized, united and confident.

If our opponents, leaving the state issue, make their light on the ground of the late scandalous election, we will not be deterred. Industries they will gain only the votes of the ignorant and unthinking, whose drift of late years has been to their side; they will show a majority for the first 35 years. In opposition to voter, and they will have to excuse the chief acts of their administration; they will be compelled to reveal the true causes of our troubles and the whole section of voters of almost every state have declared against them.

The people will remember the wise and prudent administration we gave the country; they will remember the campaign managed by Quay and Dudley and financed by Wanamaker, in which we were defeated; they will forget the pretense of a revision of the tariff, which meant raising the taxes instead of lowering them, and they have felt the effect of the bargain between the silver miners and the manufacturers in the first congress after our defeat.

Owing to Republican majority in the senate, which thwarted our efforts to reduce the burdens of the people and twice during Mr. Cleveland's term passed free coinage bills, we were unable to effect legislation, but we went out of power leaving the treasury full of coined gold, we had the respect and friendship of all nations, our securities based upon the industry of the country were favorite investments of foreign capital, our people were hopeful and confident.

Filled With Confidence.

The Sherman silver bill was a shock to foreign confidence in our financial system, and the McKinley tariff was the fulfillment of a bargain in which the right to lay and collect taxes, the highest act of sovereignty, the right conferred by the people solely for the purpose of revenue, was transferred to the need of government, was transferred to individuals and corporations; the people bore great burdens, but the golden stream of their taxes did not in their treasury; it was dammed and sluiced like a mill stream to the machinery of trusts and private business. The result was the utter depletion of the treasury.

More than a year ago the effects were felt in the refusal of London capital for several of our great enterprises and in the continuous policy and to pay the expenses of government. Such a negotiation was stopped by Mr. Harrison, and other means were taken.

Reduction of taxes below the working point and postponing all payments that could be delayed Mr. Foster carried his department to the 4th of March, dropped his load upon the shoulders of Mr. Carlisle and hastened to Ohio to lead a procession of bankrupts ruined by confidence in their own delusive system of finance, victims of speculation in inflated currency.

I have said the Democratic administration left a hopeful and confident people. I regret, as a citizen proud of my country, to say, what a citizen should be overlooked, that at no period in our history has there been such growing discontent in all parts of the country as during the last four years past.

There has been a ferment in the blood of the republic, a loss of the traditional conservatism of the agricultural class, a rise of the doctrine of the "free market," strikes and disorders among manufacturing operatives.

Have Alarmed the Whole Country.

Unequal combat between the armed forces of capital and the workingmen have shed blood which cries unavenged by law from the pitying earth.

I will not now enter upon a discussion of these matters, with only say that they are symptoms of that vice of government which, if not remedied, will shake the very foundations of the state; they point to the error, helpless, blindly forgetting that taxation unerringly falls upon the farmer and the laborer. We shall have an opportunity to discuss these questions later in the canvass.

The election of Mr. Cleveland by great majorities shows that the majority of the people, patient but persistent, demand change of policy and look to the Democratic party as the only means of restoring justice.

Now is the hour for the commonwealth to resume her influence with the country and to restore her old leadership. A triumph of the Republican party must be won on a platform falsely attributing the difficulties of the constitution, in a general election; this no thinking man can allow, for it is an impeachment of our system of government; or they will succumb to the pernicious legislation.

In this event they will array Massachusetts against the opinion of the country. It will proclaim to the mass of wheat and cotton and the free markets of the world that the corporations of Massachusetts do not care upon the skill of our people, upon enterprise, capital and industry, but upon power given by law.

To Tax Agriculture.

A Republican success will encourage Teller, Walcott, Stewart, Jones, Mitchell, Dolan,

HE KILLED HIS WIFE.

The Jury Finds George Thompson Guilty of Manslaughter.

HE ARGUED HIS OWN CASE.

Trial and Rendering of Verdict In One Day.

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—George Thompson has been found guilty of manslaughter in causing the death of his wife, Mary F. Thompson, on the night of Aug. 1 last at 33 Dundee street. His case was called yesterday morning in the superior criminal court. He had no counsel, and he conducted the cross-examination of witnesses personally.

The dead woman's aged mother was present, and during the questioning applied to her she dramatically exclaimed: "You had better stop now; you killed her and you know you did it."

Thompson is a tall, good-looking man, with bushy, black hair, slightly tinged with gray, and wears a black mustache.

The crime was committed in the evening at their home, where the couple, together with Mrs. Mary Murphy, mother of the deceased, resided.

Assistant District Attorney Sughrue prosecuted the case for the government.

The Testimony.

The trial was opened about 11:30 o'clock, and the government witnesses, 10 in number, were sworn.

Dr. William F. Warren of 113 Falmouth street was first called. He testified that Thompson called at his house and asked him to go with him to 33 Dundee street, as his wife was seriously ill and needed medical attendance at once.

He accompanied the man to 33 Dundee street, and Thompson led the way to the kitchen, where he pointed to a woman lying prostrate on the floor very scantily clad, whom he designated as his wife. The doctor felt the woman's pulse and found that she was dead. Suddenly he heard a voice exclaim: "You killed her, you know you did it!"

Turning around, he saw an old woman who had made the statement.

In reply to the woman's denunciation, Thompson exclaimed: "How did I kill her?"

The old lady, who proved to be the dead woman's mother, answered: "You killed her, that's all you know you did."

George Steinman, assistant medical examiner, corroborated this statement.

Dr. Draper also testified, and, when cross-examined by Thompson, said that the concussion on the woman's head could have been caused by a blow or a fall.

The Mother's Testimony.

Mrs. Mary Murphy, the aged and feeble mother of the unfortunate victim, was next called.

She said that on the fatal day she was lying on the sofa in the front room. Her daughter and Thompson were in the other room drinking, and soon they commenced to quarrel.

They had hot words, and soon Thompson commenced to beat his wife, she testified. She stayed in the front room a while longer; when the noise in the kitchen ceased, she went in and found her daughter lying on the floor dead.

She further testified that her daughter never touched liquor until after her marriage to Thompson.

At this point Thompson attempted to cross-examine the witness, who, after answering a few questions, exclaimed, "You had better stop now; you killed her and you know you did it."

Liquor Figures in the Case.

She, however, answered several questions further and admitted that she had liquor had been under the influence of liquor.

Captain William H. Pierce testified to an interview with Thompson in a cell, in which the latter said that he had been out all day on Aug. 1, and, returning in the evening, he found his wife in an unconscious condition; that he attempted to place her in a chair, but was unable to do so.

Patrolman Cleary testified to going to the house and seeing the body, as did Sergeant C. H. Denton.

Herbert J. Anderson, who resides at 25 Dalton street, lived next to the Thompsons on Aug. 1. He testified that there were frequent quarrels in the Thompson home.

On the Sunday before the fatal evening he heard Mr. and Mrs. Thompson have a bad quarrel, which ended in Thompson giving his wife a beating. He heard the woman cry, and could hear the sound of blows quite plainly.

The jury, at 4:25, returned a verdict of manslaughter.

TREFETHEN BROKE DOWN

During the Argument of Counsel Long In His Behalf.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 29.—Twice during the delivery of the argument in his behalf yesterday did James Albert Trefethen break down and weep bitterly. He had commended his self-possession well till the reference of his counsel, ex-Governor Long, to the interview of the day following Tena's disappearance between Trefethen and the grief-stricken mother, who accused him of spiriting away her daughter. He broke down again during the peroration.

Ex-Governor Long had taken five and one-half hours to sum up the case for the defense. He had concluded at 1:10, and an intermission of one hour ensued.

His peroration was a fine appeal for his client, and it thrilled the hearts of all who heard it. He had great stress upon the contention that murder had not been shown by the commonwealth.

He argued that the government had not proven that Trefethen was with Tena Dais that night, and he claimed that an ill had been established by the defense. Attorney General Pillsbury began his plea at 2 o'clock, and when the court adjourned at 5:15 he had not finished. He made plain and forcible statements.

He claimed the Malden bridge theory was absurd by reason of the fact that the hat was found, and also the location of the body when discovered a mile and a half away. He argued that it was Trefethen's buggy that was seen at the corner of Ferry street and Broadway on the night of Tena's disappearance; that it was the wheel tracks of this same buggy that were seen by Leahy and Wellington on Wellington bridge a few days after Tena's disappearance.

He contended that the scream heard that night by Goughman Fitzpatrick was the scream of Tena Davis, and that the foot-prints heard by Fitzpatrick were those of the defendant's horse, and he emphatically pictured to the jury the manner that Tena probably entered the water.

The case will go to the jury this evening.

DISAPPEARED JUNE 20.

Mrs. Olmsted Is Very Anxious to Hear From Her Husband.

NORTH WILTON, Conn., Sept. 29.—Mrs. William A. Olmsted of this place requests the aid of the press in her endeavors to discover the whereabouts of her husband, who disappeared on June 20 last. On that day Mr. Olmsted started for New York on business. A man answering his description was reported to have been seen passing through Bayonne, N. J., a few days later, but since then no trace of him has been discovered.

Mr. Olmsted had been working very hard and his health was somewhat impaired, and as the day of his starting out was one of the hottest kind for many years, it is thought that his mind may have become affected and that he may now be in some asylum. He was about 47 years old, 5 ft. 10 in. high, weighed about 150 pounds, had full beard and light blue eyes, had a scar on the center of the forehead, wore a black diagonal suit and carried an open faced watch. Mrs. Olmsted has spent all her money in her efforts to find her husband and is obliged to make a general appeal for assistance. Mr. Olmsted was a steady and industrious man.

USED A STOVE LINING.

A Boston Man Hammers a Friend In a Vigorous Manner.

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Up to last night Timothy McCarthy and Frank McDermott had been fast friends. Last evening the two men had a discussion in a saloon on Albany street, which ended in a quarrel, and they adjourned to the sidewalk to fight it out. As a result McCarthy is a cripple. The fact of McDermott's being so badly decorated with cuts and bruises, having his nose half cut off, a bad cut on the side of his face, another extending two-thirds of the way across his forehead and several cuts and contusions on his head. In reply to McCarthy's boast that he had a piece of stove lining in the assault.

A Newport Sensation.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 29.—Ex-Lieutenant Governor Samuel R. Hony created a sensation before the supreme court here in a motion to have set aside the list of jurors made recently by the board of aldermen. He contended that certain persons back of the board prepared the list and the purpose was to exclude certain citizens from a certain litigation. This he would show, he said, if given an opportunity. The court gave Mr. Hony an opportunity to place his authorities before them.

Quite a Treat.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 29.—Engineer Blood has completed the work on the electrical fountain on the common and last evening it was given its first public trial. For three hours the fountain was in operation and was admired by upward of 5000 persons. The colors were most exquisite, there being a variety far beyond description. The gift of Mr. Shute by his will is most heartily welcomed.

Tyler Is Swift.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 29.—H. C. Tyler made a new world's bicycle record for two miles from a standing start against time in Hampden park in 4:13.5, which is nine seconds faster than the record made by G. E. Osmond. The time by quarters was 33, 1:05, 1:37, 2:08 3-5, 2:39, 3:11, 3:45, 4:13 5-5.

CLEVELAND'S VIEWS

Please the Friends of Repeal, but Not the Silver Men.

HOAR REHEARSES A STORY

In Refutation of a Slander of a Former Congressman.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—President Cleveland's letter to Governor Northen of Georgia on the silver question and financial situation has caused much comment among senators and members in both wings of the Capitol.

The friends of the repeal bill are greatly pleased with the tone and temper of the language employed and believe it will have a most excellent effect throughout the southern states. The silverites in both houses do not like it very much. They construe it to mean that the president is opposed to any compromise or condition being attached to the pending bill. Accordingly they propose to force the fighting in the most aggressive form.

The senate was in a calm and quiet mood yesterday and there was only one instance in which there was a ripple on the surface of its proceedings. It was over a matter of ancient history, which Mr. Hoar (Rep., Mass.) brought up in the way of personal explanation on behalf of a former colleague of his in the house of representatives, now long dead, Mr. Hooper.

This senator was chairman of the committee on banking and currency at the time of the passage of what is commonly known as the silver demonization act of 1873. A story has been in circulation to the effect that Ernest S. Hoar, a French writer on finance, had had much to do with the passage of that act by the use of a corruption fund of $50,000, contributed by foreign capitalists. The absurdity and falsity of the story have often been exposed, but it always comes up again. A recent letter from Mr. Hoar's son asserting that his father had not been in the United States since 1856 was supposed to have given the slander its death blow, but it seems that even this statement failed of its purpose.

Mr. Hoar Gets Excited.

In order to contradict it, an extract from one of Mr. Hooper's speeches was published a few days since in the Peoria (Ill.) Journal (and a copy of the paper was sent to Mr. Hoar, in which a reference to Mr. S. Hoar was made and the words "Now here" were fraudulently interpolated. In denouncing the fraud, Mr. Hoar forgot his usual benignity of manner and language and characterized its author as belonging to the species of "falsehood" or the squabbling.

Mr. Callon (Rep., Ill.) came to the defense of the editor of the Peoria Journal, as a man who would not knowingly commit such a fraud and forgery. And it appeared, after much discussion, that the extract from Mr. Hooper's speech has been floating about (thus falsified) for the last 15 or 20 years.

The only speech made on the silver purchasing repeal bill was by Mr. Peffer (Rep., Kan.). His remedy for the financial trouble is the adoption of an amendment offered by him to restore the free coinage act of 1837. With that amendment, he said, the repeal bill could be passed in 25 minutes.

Skirmishes in the House.

The debate in the house on the federal elections repeal bill was productive of but little excitement. Mr. Beckwith of Kentucky and Mr. Johnson of Indiana became involved in a personal controversy, which at one time promised to become exciting, but finally hyped into insignificance. Prior to this time there had been a colloquy between Mr. Morse of Massachusetts and Mr. Fishback of Illinois, where in the epithet of "falsehood" was passed but this also ended amicably.

A $200,000 Fire.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The palatial residence near here of William A. Lawson was totally destroyed by fire last night. The fire was caused by a defective flue in a new open fireplace in which had been built a fire for the first time last night. The total loss is estimated to be $200,000.

Entertainment For Russians.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The Paris correspondent of The Times says: The cabinet has approved of the program that the Russian officers on their return to Toulon from Paris shall visit Lyons and Marseilles and witness the launch of the new war-ship Jaureguiberry at Toulon.

Alleged Train Wreckers Captured.

PASS CHRISTIAN, Miss., Sept. 29.—Deputy Sheriff Lazina arrested two men supposed to be part of the gang that wrecked the mail and express of the Louisville and Nashville at Gulfport. They are in jail to await an investigation.

Young Men's Christian Association.

On Tuesday, October 31, there will be a reception and supper given members of the Young Men's Congress. Later in the month there will be a committee's tea, followed by receptions to members, stonecutters, Scotch young men, Swedish young men and others. It is proposed to have some interesting event at the rooms nearly every Thursday evening from October to April. More time, thought, and money will be spent on the religious department. First class speakers will be secured for the Sunday afternoon meetings and the Bible class will be more interesting and thorough. Evangelist John M. Dick has been engaged for the week of prayer for young men, commencing the second Sunday in November. Special attention will be paid to the temperance cause.

The Young Men's Congress, which meets on alternate Tuesday evenings, will continue to be an attractive and helpful educational feature. Another new educational feature which will be introduced, provided enough interest is manifested in a class in mechanical drawing.

The boys between the ages of twelve and sixteen years will be organized into a regular junior department with various departments similar to the senior work. It is probable that a special room will be set apart for their use.

The work of the Women's Auxiliary has started off with much interest, and will prove very helpful in the social work, also in making the rooms attractive. There will be interesting Bible readings given at each monthly meeting.

On the whole, the outlook is exceedingly good for a prosperous year's work, and every citizen who is interested in the rising generation, cannot but be thankful that there exists an institution which has for its purpose the care of the young men and boys during their leisure hours.

Funeral of Mr. Gavin.

The funeral of Patrick H. Gavin, who died Wednesday, was held this morning from St. John's church, high mass being celebrated by Rev. Fr. Cuffe, assisted by Rev. Fr. Connorton, with special music by Mrs. Ewen of Dorchester, who sang a beautiful solo entitled, "Angels ever bright and fair."

Messrs. Maurice Cantill and John W. Walsh officiated as ushers at the church. The services were very largely attended by the many friends and business associates of the deceased, including delegations from the 39th Regt. association; Paul Revore Post, 88, G. A. R.; Monatiquet lodge, K. of P.; and the Quincy Yacht club. There were many handsome floral tributes.

After the services at the church the remains were taken to West Quincy for interment, the bearers being Mr. Thomas Elcock, Mr. Henry McGrath, Mr. Eugene W. Connors, Mr. John Cavanagh, Mr. James H. Webb and Mr. Edward Lennan.

MILTON.

Messrs. Kemp & Tisdale, who were recently burned out, have decided to discontinue business.

About fifteen of the members of the Baptist church attended the South Baptist convention at Hingham on Wednesday. The contract for the building of the new Baptist church has been awarded to George E. Thomas of Wollaston. The new edifice will cost about $8000.

Mr. C. C. Whittemore accidentally fell down stairs Wednesday night and broke his leg.

BRAINTREE.

The selectmen have voted not to call a special town meeting as petitioned by Hon. Edward Avery and others. If the petitioners still mean business they can have a meeting called by a justice of the peace, but perhaps the selectmen are the wisest, and recognize a meeting would be fruitless.

PREFERS COUNTRY.

A Reported Interview with Charles Francis Adams.

SAYS HE IS GROWNED OUT.

He Likes the Town Form of Government—Quincy to Remain the Family Home.

The Boston Advertiser of today has an interesting letter from Quincy relative to the removal of Charles Francis Adams from this city. Although it has been denied that he will remove, and it may not be a fact, we reprint the letter in full:

QUINCY, Sept. 28.

There are very many good people, who have imagined, in all their simplicity that no town or city, save Quincy alone, could properly include an Adams among its inhabitants. The term "Adams," here used, is not to be regarded in a generic, but in a specific sense. There are Adamses, and then, there are Adamses. But when one speaks of the Adamses of Quincy all the country knows to what particular branch of the descendants of the original father of us all, allusion is made. And those good people who have maintained a belief that no true Adams could sleep o' nights out of the old town (now, alas! city), of Quincy, now may awake from their delusion. For it is announced, and announced on good authority, that Charles Francis Adams—if not the eldest, certainly the most prominent representative of the present generation of the Adams name—has left the city of Quincy, as a place of residence, for good and all, and taken up his abode in the town of Lincoln.

Indeed, Mr. Adams himself confesses that he has become a citizen of Lincoln.

"I wanted to get Into the Country," explains Mr. Adams to his friends who venture upon expressions of surprise at his action. "I spend much of my time in Boston, and when I go into the country I want to go into the country. Now, when I was a boy Quincy was a country town. I knew everybody there and everybody knew me. But now Quincy has grown to be a city, and a city of 20,000 people; and I was right in the heart of it. It is not getting into the country to go from the centre of one city into the centre of another, if the second does happen to be a little smaller than the first. To tell the truth I am crowded out of Quincy, just as many another man has been crowded out of a place where he was born and brought up, by the influx of a dense population. I wanted a real country place and so I have found it in Lincoln. Then, too, I like the form of town government; I am fond of it. And Quincy has become a municipality; and this is another reason, perhaps, for my having taken the step. What does it matter if our family has lived there for 250 years? My going elsewhere does not dissolve the connection of the family with the place. I am not the head of the family; my brother John is older than I; and my brother Brooks still lives at Quincy, in the old homestead that John Adams bought of an old royalist family and made his home. So the family is still there, you see, and my going to settle in Lincoln does not do away with any of the traditions."

But, nevertheless, the removal of Charles Francis Adams from Quincy

Makes an Episode. He was born in the old homestead on Adams street, where John Adams and John Quincy Adams, the Presidents, and his father, Charles Francis Adams, the diplomat, lived. He has lived there and near by, in his own house, for many years, and he has written a notable history of the old town of Quincy, in his fascinating two-volume book, recently published "Three Episodes of Massachusetts History."

When Sidney Dillon out-voted Mr. Adams and his friends in the Union Pacific directorate, he did for good letters a notable, if unconscious service. For he made it possible for Mr. Adams to devote himself to literature, with the result of two books already—the one just mentioned, and the biography of Richard Henry Dana—and still a third is promised by his publishers at an early day.

In his "Three Episodes" Mr. Adams, here and there, notes some pleasant thoughts concerning his own family, which it is useful to recall. "In the year 1791," he writes, "Miss Hannah Adams, the historian, in writing to John Adams, made reference to the humble obscurity of their common origin. Her correspondent, in reply, while acknowledging the kinship, went on energetically to remark that could he ever suppose that family pride were any way excusable (he) should think a descent from a line of virtuous, independent New England farmers for 100 years was a better foundation for it than a descent through royal or noble soundrels ever since the flood."

John Adams, afterward the second President of the United States, thus declared his Pride of Ancestry.

Of the connections of the Adams family with that of Quincy, a word may be said. It was Col. John Quincy, for years a respected citizen of Braintree, after whom, when the town was divided in 1792, the new town of Quincy was named.

"Col. Quincy had two children," writes Mr. Adams, "a son named Norton, in honor of his mother's family, and a daughter,

Won by the Mab.

There is now no doubt as to the championship of the third class of the Quincy Yacht club, the Mab, ex-Commodore Shaw's cat, showing the way to George F. Maybury's Imp.

The sail-off took place Thursday afternoon in a northeasterly breeze. The Imp was slightly in the lead at the start, and was four lengths ahead at Raccoon ledge buoy, but Skipper Pfaffmann of the Mab shook out a reef and on the beat to the barrel off Sheep island overhauled and passed the Imp and gained steadily, beating her rival over seven minutes by actual time and nearly six minutes corrected time over a seven-mile course, as will be seen by the summary:

Name and owner.	Sailing length.	Actual length.	Cor'd length.

The house of Henry A. Richards on Commercial street Weymouth Landing, was damaged $2000 by fire at midnight Thursday night. The fire started in the room beneath the sleeping apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Richards who had a narrow escape. Mr. Richards was awakened by the dense smoke which filled the chamber, the fire having made considerable headway. They managed to escape in scanty clothing, only having time enough to wrap a garment about them. The fire is supposed to have caught either from an open fire place or an electric light wire.

A Fine Road to Travel.

In this great Columbian year, when all eyes are turned towards Chicago and the great exposition, it is comforting to know that the railroads leading thither are prepared to handle the immense traffic and carry it expeditiously to its destination. One of the roads that is winning golden encomiums by the excellence of its service is the Nickel Plate. The line is through a fine section of country, a great distance of it in view of Lake Erie, and passing numerous cities and towns. Its new passenger service is superb. The dining cars cannot be spoken of too highly, while the sleeping and day coaches are models in their way. Quick time is made going and returning and the service is in all respects first-class. What more can be asked—cheap rates; courteous attention; luxurious sleepers; magnificent day coaches; faultless road bed; unexcelled dining cars. Can any thing be added to make the Nickel Plate Road more popular? It runs three trains daily in each direction. Its station in Chicago is central and easily accessible from all directions. If you are going anywhere at any time, don't let the fact sid your memory that a magnificent new passenger service has been established on the Nickel Plate Road. You who have not yet done the World's Fair, try the Nickel Plate and know what it is to enjoy the luxury of first-class travel.—Clipped from Allentown, Pa., Chronicle, August 22d.

THE SHAM BATTLE.

A Bloodless War at Braintree, but Two Injured.

A HOLIDAY FOR THE TOWN.

Marching, Street Firing, Dress Parade, etc., of the Fifth Regiment.

Braintree had an exhibition Thursday of what war is like, and although no lives were sacrificed, there was considerable noise and quantities of powder burned.

The occasion of all this was the annual field day of the 5th Regiment which was held with Co. K.

The regiment arrived on a special train which reached Braintree shortly before 10 o'clock and as they alighted from the cars they were met by Co. K., and escorted to the armory, which is located near the depot.

The strength of the regiment as reported was: Field and staff 58; Co. A, 44; Co. B, 58; Co. C, 49; Co. D, 46; Co. E, 41; Co. F, 42; Co. G, 40; Co. H, 39; Co. I, 61; Co. K, 57; Co. L, 57; Co. M, 49; total 641.

Besides the regiment there was Col. Fred G. King, assistant inspector general; Col. F. B. Vogan of the 9th Regt; Lieut. A. B. Frye, Engineer of Naval brigade; Lieut. H. W. Sprague of the 2d brigade Signal corps and Lieut. A. W. Clark of the 2d brigade, Ambulance corps.

Arriving at the armory the full dress uniform was changed to the fatigue uniform after which the command marched up to Washington street where a halt was made and preparations commenced for the fight which was to follow.

Eight men were detailed from each company and placed under command of Lieut. Col. Frost, with Lieut. Kincaide as next in rank. Ammunition was then distributed and shortly before noon the enemy left for the woods.

They marched by a round about road and finally emerged at the sand hill at the mouth of the reservoir of the Quincy water works. The enemy then turned their coats inside out the white linings of the sleeves serving as a distinguished mark.

When all was in readiness the ambulance wagon was sent ahead and skirmishers sent out in all directions. The enemy were now in possession of the sand hill, and all that was needed for the fight to begin was for the opposing force to appear.

In a few moments the skirmishers of the attacking force were seen in the distance crawling on their hands and knees among the bushes, of which the place abounded.

It is only for a few moments, however, for the sharp crack of a rifle gave warning that they were seen and the firing became general on all sides.

Col. Frost with his command began to fall back as the firing commenced and they were soon hidden from sight. Meanwhile a squad of the attacking party had by a circuit through the woods, got into position at the rear of the enemy's skirmish line that was on the bank, and they were making it hot when they found themselves penned in and they were obliged to retreat. Col. Bancroft and his main command now appeared in sight and it was while they were advancing down the hill that Sergt. Robert Cahill of Co. K fell over a fern tree and broke his left leg below the knee.

Surgeon Chase was near at hand and after bandaging the leg, the injured man was placed on a stretcher and carried to an ambulance wagon and thence to his home.

The enemy made a strong resistance but by superior force they were obliged to retreat. This they did by echelons from position to position as far as Dr. Symond's farm, when they commenced to fight back again to the field used as a target range where the fight ended.

Rations were served here to the men, who also had an opportunity to rest. Meanwhile a committee from the honorary members of Co. K, consisting of Col. A. C. Drinkwater, Col. C. N. Wallace, Judge Asa French, Hon. J. T. Stevens, Hon. George D. White and Hon. C. H. Porter entertained the officers and invited guests at the armory with a light lunch.

It was well that these arrangements were made to supply eatables, as otherwise many would have gone hungry, as the day was observed by the citizens of Braintree as a holiday and all of the stores were closed.

Of the sham battle, as far as can be judged by one not familiar with military tactics, it was a success, although it must have been a surprise to many old veterans, as the tactics are entirely different from those formerly used. The method now used is what might be called the German movements.

The close order movement is a thing of the past. The main thing seems to be to get there, and get there quick, and in doing this the beauty of the movement is lost, and while it may not look so pretty to the eye, it may be more effectual.

The only other accident reported besides that of Sergt. Cahill, was to Priv. Faxon Billings, also of Co. K, who accidentally got too near the gun of one of the enemy, and a piece of his left sleeve was blown off and his fl-sh blistered somewhat.

After rations the command returned to the armory via Cherry street over Capen's bridge, through Cedar and Elm streets, where an exhibition was given of street firing. It was here that the usual quietness of Braintree was disturbed the most, as the noise was continuous until the men had exhausted all of their ammunition.

Arriving at the armory a change was made to full dress uniform, and a march taken to the large field opposite the residence of N. E. Hollis, where dress parade was held.

As the command marched past after the dress parade they were reviewed by Col. Vogan and Lieut. Frye, who were the judges to award the prize for the best drilled company. The ground here was very uneven, and the troops were thus prevented from making their best appearance.

The judges found two companies whose march past was equally good, but they decided that the prize should go to Co. I of Attleboro as they appeared with full ranks.

The prize was a large picture entitled, "Retour De L'Ile d'Elba," which was handsomely framed.

This concluded the exercises of the day, and shortly after 5 o'clock the special train pulled out of the depot.

Over Two Centuries

remained in the hands of his descendants.

In 1637 a son of Deacon Bass, John by name, married Ruth Alden, the daughter of John and Priscilla Alden, of Plymouth and Mayflower fame. By her he had a daughter, Hannah, born in June, 1667. This Hannah Bass presently married Joseph Adams, of Braintree, and on the 8th of February, 1692, she gave birth to John Adams, afterward in his turn deacon of the North Precinct church.

This John Adams was not the John Adams of history, but his father, and the grandfather of John Quincy Adams. John Adams, the president, then, was the third in descent from Priscilla Mullens and John Alden who "spoke for himself" so effectively.

The first John Adams, his great-great-grandson writes, "was in his turn a typical New England yeoman. He lived on his farm through which ran the main street of the town, dying in 1701, 'beloved, esteemed and revered by all who knew him,' having had seven children, the oldest of whom, also named John, he had sent to college. The life of the elder John Adams well illustrates what has been called the Sturdy Unostentatious Democrat of those who filled the minor places of usefulness in early New England. For nearly 40 years his name regularly appears in the records of the town. He passed through all its grades of office; for in 1722, he then being by occupation a 'cordwainer' or maker of shoes, was chosen sealer of leather; in 1724 he was tithingman, and in 1727 constable or collector of taxes; in 1734 he was an ensign in the militia and also Selectman; and a little later, having become lieutenant, he volunteered to take care of the town powder, providing a chest for it in his own house, which he thus converted into a magazine."

Years after his death, his grandson, President John Quincy Adams, while discussing in his diary the difference in fortune in life between those of his kindred who were educated at Harvard College and those who had not enjoyed that privilege, wrote of his grandfather:

"If my grandfather himself had received the same education, he would have been distinguished either as a clergyman or as a lawyer.

But knowledge to his eyes her ampler page with Rich the spoils of time, did ne'er unroll, 'And the summit of his Political Distinction was the office of a selectman of Braintree."

It may be when John Quincy Adams murmured in the cloak room of the house of representatives at Washington: "This is the last of earth," his last moments were those of more truly peaceful than were those of old Deacon John Adams, the selectman of Braintree.

Such was the origin of the Adams family of Quincy as recorded by its most prominent living representative. It is an origin of which any family in the world might well be proud. And yet no people in our great country are more democratic than are they. If one looks for snobs, he must look elsewhere than here. A family of sturdy New England yeomen has given birth to two Presidents and one diplomat, all famous in the annals of our country, and yet the old adage, as to the decline in mental vigor in distinguished families, meets with a signal refutation here.

Mr. Charles Francis Adams' devotion to letters bids fair to give him a name as distinguished even as those of the three generations that have preceded him; and the coming generation of the family, it is said are in full possession of all the strength of mind and vigor of intellect which has characterized even their remote ancestors.

HEAVY TAXPAYERS. PREFERS COUNTRY.

A Partial List of Those Assessed on Over $3000 and

PAYING OVER FIFTY DOLLARS.

Many Hardwicks Among the Wealthiest in Today's List.

The name of Hardwick occurs no less than a dozen times in today's instalment of heavy taxpayers, which includes the H's paying over $50 in any ward. The tax of Charles H. Hardwick in Wards One and Two amounts to over $1,000, and the granite firms of C. H. Hardwick & Co., and George H. Hitchcock will pay nearly $1,000. Hon. William A. Hodges, the well known baker and large real estate owner is assessed in two wards for nearly $500. Among other large ones are Charles A. Howland, Franklin Hardwick, Edwin A. W. Harlow, the estate of the late Edwin Hewitson and Henry E. Hardwick.

Over Two Centuries

remained in the hands of his descendants.

In 1637 a son of Deacon Bass, John by name, married Ruth Alden, the daughter of John and Priscilla Alden, of Plymouth and Mayflower fame. By her he had a daughter, Hannah, born in June, 1667. This Hannah Bass presently married Joseph Adams, of Braintree, and on the 8th of February, 1692, she gave birth to John Adams, afterward in his turn deacon of the North Precinct church.

This John Adams was not the John Adams of history, but his father, and the grandfather of John Quincy Adams. John Adams, the president, then, was the third in descent from Priscilla Mullens and John Alden who "spoke for himself" so effectively.

The first John Adams, his great-great-grandson writes, "was in his turn a typical New England yeoman. He lived on his farm through which ran the main street of the town, dying in 1701, 'beloved, esteemed and revered by all who knew him,' having had seven children, the oldest of whom, also named John, he had sent to college. The life of the elder John Adams well illustrates what has been called the Sturdy Unostentatious Democrat of those who filled the minor places of usefulness in early New England. For nearly 40 years his name regularly appears in the records of the town. He passed through all its grades of office; for in 1722, he then being by occupation a 'cordwainer' or maker of shoes, was chosen sealer of leather; in 1724 he was tithingman, and in 1727 constable or collector of taxes; in 1734 he was an ensign in the militia and also Selectman; and a little later, having become lieutenant, he volunteered to take care of the town powder, providing a chest for it in his own house, which he thus converted into a magazine."

Years after his death, his grandson, President John Quincy Adams, while discussing in his diary the difference in fortune in life between those of his kindred who were educated at Harvard College and those who had not enjoyed that privilege, wrote of his grandfather:

"If my grandfather himself had received the same education, he would have been distinguished either as a clergyman or as a lawyer.

But knowledge to his eyes her ampler page with Rich the spoils of time, did ne'er unroll, 'And the summit of his Political Distinction was the office of a selectman of Braintree."

It may be when John Quincy Adams murmured in the cloak room of the house of representatives at Washington: "This is the last of earth," his last moments were those of more truly peaceful than were those of old Deacon John Adams, the selectman of Braintree.

Such was the origin of the Adams family of Quincy as recorded by its most prominent living representative. It is an origin of which any family in the world might well be proud. And yet no people in our great country are more democratic than are they. If one looks for snobs, he must look elsewhere than here. A family of sturdy New England yeomen has given birth to two Presidents and one diplomat, all famous in the annals of our country, and yet the old adage, as to the decline in mental vigor in distinguished families, meets with a signal refutation here.

Mr. Charles Francis Adams' devotion to letters bids fair to give him a name as distinguished even as those of the three generations that have preceded him; and the coming generation of the family, it is said are in full possession of all the strength of mind and vigor of intellect which has characterized even their remote ancestors.

TREFETHEN IS FREE.

Jury Finds That He Did Not Murder Tena Davis.

DELIBERATION WAS BRIEF.

Crowd Within and Without the Court-house Received the News With Cheers, While the Freed Man Broke Down and Sobbed—A Large Throng Greets Him Upon His Arrival at His Home, Where He Accomps Newspaper Men an Interview—Was Ready to Go Upon the Stand If Necessary—Outline of the Last Scenes in the Trial.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 30.—At 5:15 yesterday afternoon James Abbott Trefethen, surrounded by all the ponderous pomp of law, in a most solemn manner, was declared "not guilty" of the murder of Tena Davis.

The last few hours that came between Trefethen and the decision of his fate were accompanied by all that is bleak and dismal. When he came back to his old red chair in the cage yesterday morning, realizing that the case of a brief while would find him bidding it goodbye, for better or for worse, his face was treacherous, and betrayed the anxiety which, as he afterward admitted, was almost overpowering.

JAMES A. TREFETHEN.

All day long, through the concluding arrangements, and the eddy indecisive charge of Judge Dunbar, Trefethen sat motionless. One leg he kept crossed on the knee of the other, with his hands folded in his lap, his eyes almost constantly turned to the floor. Occasionally his head fell a little forward, or he raised it as if to relieve his neck, but beside that and a frequent twitching of the muscles of the jaw, he gave no evidence of nervousness.

Hardly a ray of sunshine entered the courtroom during the whole day. It was chilly outside, and early in the afternoon rain began to fall.

Judge Dunbar ceased addressing the jury shortly before 3 o'clock. Trefethen shifted a little, as the paraphernalia of the case, photographs, bonnets and other articles were collected.

An official dragged in a bag, from which were produced some old articles of female apparel. Trefethen watched all this overhauling with no change.

The jury went out at nearly 3 o'clock. As it came close to 4 o'clock Trefethen was led back to the jail. When the handcuff was snapped upon his wrist he laughingly replied to a joking inquiry from one of the reporters: "Yes, I should catch cold if I didn't wear it."

The crowd drifted out after this and not many remained. But suddenly there was a sharp ring from the jury room. A sudden tumult was observed from that vicinity, and a deputy ran out, calling for the prisoner. A minute later every seat in the courtroom was occupied, counsel for both sides were seated and an intense quietude betrayed the impressiveness of the moment.

A Moment of Suspense.
Trefethen was led in; then the judges and jury came in. As each filed in Trefethen looked anxiously at him, as if endeavoring to read the verdict. Then the tedious counting, and Trefethen was ordered to stand up. When requested to hold up his right hand, he did so with a brave effort. The clerk faltered a moment before demanding the verdict. When it came, it was in a clear, steady voice: "Not guilty!"

After the verdict there was a crash of stamping feet, clapping hands and loud cheers, which was brought to a stop in a full second. When the silence came again, Trefethen lay upon the railing, covering his face with his hands and sobbing, but, even as the presiding judge issued a rebuke to the too demonstrative spectators, a wild cheer from outside drowned his words.

The mob who had failed to get entrance had been a quieted with the verdict, and young disciples of Mercury sped down the street shouting out the news. A few minutes later the formal discharge was issued by the clerk, ex-Governor Long stepped to the cage and grasped Trefethen's hand. When the cage was unlocked, and as he stepped out once again free, men and women pressed up and shook his hand heartily. A most affecting incident was Trefethen's greeting of his mother and other relatives. The jail officials, whose strong regard he has won, were given an opportunity to bid him goodbye, and he rode away in a carriage with his mother, speeded with a hearty cheer from the crowd.

An Interview With Trefethen.
EVERETT, Mass., Sept. 30.—The happiest man in Everett last night was James Albert Trefethen, and the happiest woman, no doubt, was his mother, who has been his unforgotten friend all through his trouble. His little store on Nichols street was more like a throne room, where friends came to rejoice over his acquittal. When a reporter called Trefethen was the center of a throng, who simultaneously proffered congratulations, asked questions and otherwise embarrassed the happy man.

A most significant matter was the coming of many who knew Trefethen only by his connection with this celebrated case, but it would be safe to wager that there was no genuine unbotched good feeling in that little emporium on Nichols street than anywhere else in the same space, no matter where.

Trefethen's spirits were at the topmost pitch. No man could have laughed more joyously. He found cause for mirth in everything said. He discussed the evidence in his case, argued against the possibility of his guilt and quietly asserted his innocence.

He said: "My actions have all been misconstrued and surrounded with suspicion. Some of those who testified against me know in their hearts they were not doing right."

"How do you feel on the outcome of your trial?"

"I must say that I have felt very confident of being acquitted. I feared very much that Pillsbury's argument might have prejudiced the jury, for it appealed to prejudicing, but I felt as an innocent man must, and, having been told that my jury was made up of capable men, had not much fear."

TENA DAVIS.

"I was prepared to go upon the stand in my own defense. In fact, my instructors were to be in my mind in readiness to testify, and I had expected to be called Wednesday or Thursday morning. But the evidence in my favor was so strong that it was deemed not necessary. And then, had I gone on, the trial would have been prolonged."

"There are several things which would have made me glad to go on the stand. I did not fear Pillsbury. I don't know whether I could have borne the strain, and I think I could have endured it. I am innocent, and my story could not have hurt me. I have been anxious to have only the most reputable witnesses in my behalf. I told my counsel that I did not want anyone to testify for me who was not reliable and honest. My counsel have worked hard for me. I realize that; not for money, because I am a poor man. I don't think that Mr. Long would have taken my case if he had not thought me innocent."

Worcester's Festival Ended.

A MICHIGAN HORROR.

Water From a River Floods a Mine Without Warning.

TWENTY-EIGHT MEN KILLED

But Eighteen Managed to Escape From Death's Jaws.

CRYSTAL FALLS, Mich., Sept. 30.—With a terrific rush the water of the Michigan river broke through a bed, weakened by mining, into the Mansfield mine between 9 and 10 o'clock Thursday night, drowning 28 men, who were at work directly under the cave-in. There were 46 men in the mine when the accident occurred, but 18 of them, who were working in the lower levels, managed to escape.

None of the bodies have been recovered and it is believed that it will be necessary to divert the channel of the river before they can be secured. The news was slow in reaching the outside world. The nearest telegraph office is at Crystal Falls, six miles away, and though a railroad track runs into the Mansfield camp, it was only used to haul out ore and bring in supplies.

A courier carried the news to Crystal Falls late Thursday night, but not until yesterday was the news sent abroad. It is the worst disaster that ever occurred in this iron region. When the night shift went on duty it was noticed that more water was coming into the mine than usual, but no alarm was felt by the men at the pumps, as they managed to keep the "drift" free.

The miners pursued their work as on every night when they started in to pass the 13 hours under the ground earning bread for their families. Suddenly, a few minutes after 9, there was an overpowering rush of water and the men felt themselves being overwhelmed by an avalanche of mud, ore and water. So fast came the flood that it is doubtful whether the men on the upper levels had time to drop their tools and run for their lives to the old shaft.

Shaft Collapsed.
Had any of them reached the perpendicular opening, however, it would have availed them nothing, for the shaft collapsed as soon as the water reached and undermined its base.

This occurred at precisely 9:30, and it was then known to those in charge of the mine that the men in the upper level had been trapped and drowned like rats by an accident which had long been expected.

The news of the disaster sped on swift wings throughout the little hamlet, and a wild cry of alarm was voiced by the inhabitants as they rushed from their homes, gathering about the shaft just as the last one of the 18 men was brought to the surface.

When the cause of the accident was explained to the anxious inquirers, a cry of horror went up as they realized that the long-expected and much-dreaded accident had taken place at last, and brought with it the results so long feared by the wives and brothers.

There was a call for volunteers, which was at once answered, to descend the only available shaft, and, sooner, if possible, any miners who might possibly be found alive. But the courage and strong intent of the hardy miners were of no avail, as the waters had already reached the lower level shaft, and the angry roar which greeted the would-be rescuers as they peered over into the dark channel at once precluded all hope of rescue, and the 28 men were given up.

All night the water poured into its new found bed, and not until 9 o'clock yesterday morning did it resume its natural course, after having effectually filled every cavity and crevice of the great mine. The death of these 28 men marks the end of the Mansfield mine, for unless the river can be forced to seek another channel the bodies cannot be secured nor can this rich deposit of iron ore be worked again.

Already talk of suits for damages against the operator by relatives of the dead men is being heard. The mine was being operated by the receiver of Corrigan, Ives & Co. of Cleveland. The money loss will be $600,000.

It Means a Lynching.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 30.—Some days ago a negro prisoner named Dansey persuaded Deputy Sheriff Binnicker to allow him to dig for gold, which he had buried in the woods. The negro, by strategy, possessed himself of the deputy's pistol and shot him. Binnicker died yesterday of blood poisoning. The woods are being scoured by bodies of armed men for the escaped prisoner.

They Think the Rumor False.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 30.—The directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford in this city declare that they have received no notice whatever of a bill filed in the court of equity at Boston, alleging that the lease of the Old Colony to the New York, New Haven and Hartford was illegal, and thought the rumor must be a false one.

Speedy Trials to Check Lynchings.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 30.—Lynchings are breaking over barriers here as elsewhere, and the recklessness in lynching is increasing. Governor Tillman is in favor of speedy trials as a remedy. He has urged this on the state legislature.

Ex-Senator Macken Dead.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 30.—Ex-United States Senator Willis D. Macken died at the Western asylum of exhaustion incident to extreme old age. He was in his 84th year and was committed to the asylum about three weeks ago.

A Fight on the Tapis.

WAGONER, I. T., Sept. 30.—Dill Dalton, Frank Cheney and Bill Doolan, the noted train robbers, are now camped near this place. There are now 25 United States marshals in town, waiting to make a raid on their camp.

Fever on the Increase.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 30.—Thirteen new cases of yellow fever were reported yesterday. There are almost 75 cases of malarial fever in the vicinity of Brunswick daily reported to the health board.

THE JOINT special committee on taxation of the Legislature advises two more hearings next week which are worthy of attention.

TREFETHEN NOT guilty, Asa Potter not guilty, Lizzie Borden not guilty. It seems to be epidemic. They got the benefit of the doubt, evidently.

MANY of our exchanges speak of Mayor Fairbanks as a Republican candidate for councillor. Had his friends made an active canvass he would have stood a good chance for the nomination, and he may as it is.

A MAJORITY of the Adams family will continue to reside in Quincy. Her fame is still secure.—Herald.

But they say the name of Brooks Adams will not appear on the voting list. John Quincy Adams, however, is a strong minority, and he has some promising sons, one of whom may represent the city in the Legislature next year.

In the modern stream of population to the cities there are some counter currents. Charles Francis Adams is to move from Quincy in order to get into the country. But the half-and-half life—that is, life in the city in the winter, and in the country in the summer, is the ideal one.—Globe.

Quincy is attractive summer and winter. All the pleasures of Boston can be enjoyed in winter and yet escape its objectionable features.

WAS IT ILLEGAL?

A Question as to Consolidation of Old Colony and N. Y., N. H. & H.

Mr. Theodore R. Glover of Milton and others have filed a bill in equity in the clerk's office of the supreme court, setting forth that the consolidation of the Old Colony Railroad with the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. was illegal, which is set forth at length. In concluding the complainant prays:

That said lease from the Old Colony railroad to the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad be declared null and void, and that the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad company may be required to restore to the Old Colony railroad all of the road, property and franchises of every description possession of which it has acquired from the Old Colony railroad under the lease.

That the shares of capital stock heretofore issued by the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. company, in exchange for stock of the Old Colony railroad in compliance with the terms of said lease be declared void and that the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. company be required to return to the parties entitled to receive the same all the shares of the capital stock of the Old Colony railroad which have been received by the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. company, under the exchange of stock provided for in said lease.

That the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad company be restrained from paying any further sums on account of rent, dividends or otherwise in performance of said lease.

A subpoena was issued and served on the defendants yesterday afternoon.

The bill is returnable on the first Monday in November.

Musical Recital.

Mr. F. Wrigley, Quincy's well known organist and professor of music, gave a recital in Chelsea Thursday evening which proved to be an excellent entertainment, attended by a large audience. The most pleasing selections were those on the organ by the professor, who was the first one to play on that new instrument, and who carried home a beautiful basket of flowers as significant of the appreciation of the members of the church.

Those present from Quincy were Prof. and Mrs. Wrigley, Mrs. Edie Rhines, Miss Lucy Tarbox, Mrs. George Thomson, Mrs. Charles Rice, Mr. Osborne, Miss Grace Cain, Mrs. Gibson and others.

On an Outing.

Twenty of the cutters and stitchers of Whitcher & Co's factory, Quincy, visited Fort Point, Tuesday, and were the guests of Mr. N. O. Smith of the Bay View cottage.

The day passed away very pleasantly and was spent in smelting, playing base ball, etc. An appetizing chowder with smelts caught by the party was prepared, after which Mr. Smith was presented with a huge bouquet by Mr. Charles Bearse of East Weymouth.—Gazette.

Mrs. Mary Ranlett has built up an extensive business in a sailors' shipping office. She furnishes seamen in any desired number.

CITY CHIT CHAT.

Items of Interest from All Parts of Quincy.

Decidedly cold.

Squantum yacht race this afternoon. If this kind of weather continues heavy overcoats will be in order.

A number of our citizens are attending the Weymouth fair today.

Robert Garden of South Quincy sails today from Boston on the Pavia for Glasgow.

Arthur Parsons of this city took first prize at the bicycle race at the Weymouth fair Friday.

"The one practical thing in life" will be Mr. Theophilus King's subject at the Y. M. C. A. meeting tomorrow afternoon.

On and after Monday next but four round trips will be made on the Manet Street railway as will be seen by notice.

Mrs. W. Austin Winslow and Miss Anna Goodridge arrived home last evening after a three weeks' visit to the World's Fair.

Mr. Wesley W. Walsh, the obliging meat cutter at Wilson's market, has another smart boy in his family, a new arrival this morning. Congratulations.

The Quincy Cycle club hold a special meeting this evening to take action in regard to changing their rooms from the Adams building to Granite street.

The ministers of the city who will have charge of the teaching, etc., of the Woodward institute are quietly looking around for a principal. It will probably be a gentleman of experience and success.

In laying the water pipes on South street, the hydrant has been placed directly in the centre of the sidewalk. It is in a very dangerous position and may yet be a cause for damages for injuries received in coming in contact with it.

The China Reception of the Y. M. C. A. will be held on Wednesday evening instead of Thursday evening. There will be readings by Miss Grace Mae Lamkin of Dorchester, singing by Mrs. N. S. Hunting and violin solos by Mr. Moorhouse and several other interesting features.

Dr. C. O. Young left his team standing on Granite street for a few moments this morning while he made a call leaving a small boy in charge. Suddenly the horse became frightened and dashed up the street. He only got as far as Goffe street before he was stopped but in that distance he had injured his legs, smashed part of the buggy and bruised the boy about the legs.

BRAINTREE.

Mr. and Mrs. Will W. Mayhew left the first of the week on a short visit to friends living in the state of Maine.

Stevens & Willis, tack manufacturers, are running their factory only four days in the week. The way things go, this is doing pretty well.

Last Monday, George A. French was drawn to serve as a juror during the civil term of the Superior Court, beginning at Dedham, on Monday next.

Next Sunday evening will occur the regular missionary concert in the Town Hall, at 7 o'clock, and this month the programme is arranged by Mrs. L. B. Hatch.

The joint convention of the Boards of Selectmen and School Committee, for filling the vacancy in the latter board caused by the resignation of Rev. Oliver Huckel, takes place Oct. 9th.

People who are annoyed and grieved over having their fruit stolen had better communicate with Officer James R. Qualey. He has the knack of stopping this kind of business pretty quick, and not at all tyrannical about it either.

Rev. L. B. Hatch, pastor of the Baptist church, with his wife, leaves for Chicago next Tuesday. He will be absent two Sundays from his church, during which time he will secure supplies for his pulpit, and will resume his labors on the fourth Sunday in October.

Col. Bancroft told his men Thursday, not to fire at the "enemy" when less than fifty paces distant. Different this from what Col. Prescott told his men, "not to fire until they saw the white of the eyes of their enemies." But then there was no "sham fight" about Prescott or his men!

A good deal of sympathy is felt for Serg. W. P. Cahill of Co. K, in his mishap. Cahill is the only support of his mother, and is well liked, all round. But then he'll get over it. He's got friends enough. "Better" it's said "be at the end of a 'sham fight' than the beginning of a 'fight' even a 'sham fight' as it turns out.

The stone crusher has been running the past week pretty steady and the result is, and is well liked, all round. But then he'll get over it. He's got friends enough. "Better" it's said "be at the end of a 'sham fight' than the beginning of a 'fight' even a 'sham fight' as it turns out.

Candidates for representative for the General Court, on the Republican side of the fence, come thick and fast. The following have been mentioned up to date: Brainerd Bates from the north, Charles G. Sheppard and John Kelley from the east parts of the town. All good men and true!

NEW TIMETABLE.

A Change on the Old Colony Next Monday—New Trains.

A new timetable will go into effect on the Old Colony system on Monday. The Boston trains to and from Quincy are as follows:

QUINCY FOR BOSTON—6.10, 6.54, 7.26, 7.53, 8.09, 8.40, 9.17, 9.57, 10.38, 10.55, 11.40 A. M.; 12.04, 1.01, 1.29, 2.32, 3.03, 4.00, 4.04, 4.47, 5.51, 5.57, 6.21, 6.35, 6.42, 6.53, 7.15, 8.12, 9.05, 10.19, 10.24 P. M. SUNDAY—7.35, 9.09, 9.14, 9.30 A. M.; 1.45, 4.41, 5.53, 6.15, 8.14, 9.15 P. M.

BOSTON FOR QUINCY—5.45, 6.30, 6.45, 7.35, 8.00, 9.45, 10.15, 11.02 A. M.; 12.00 P. M.; 1.10, 1.55, 2.30, 2.55, 3.12, 3.52, 4.18, 4.50, 5.15, 5.33, 6.00, 6.07, 6.25, 7.00, 7.55, 8.15, 9.10, 10.00, 10.45, 11.15 P. M. SUNDAY 8.15, 8.30, 9.30 A. M.; 12.30, 12.45, 5.00, 5.30, 5.45, 7.00, 10.00 P. M.

It will be noticed that the marketmen's train will be discontinued. The 6.10 A. M. will leave a minute later, arriving at 6.33. There will be an extra evening train at 6.21, which, like the 6.35, will make a stop at South Boston only, making the run in 19 and 17 minutes respectively.

Of the trains from Boston the handy 8.35 A. M. will be dropped and there will be none from 8 to 9.45. The 8.30 should stop. The evening train will leave at 10.45 instead of 10.50.

The greatest change is in the Sunday trains. The new early inward train at 7.35, stopping at every station except Savin Hill and Crescent Avenue and arriving at 8 will often be handy. Instead of the 9.19, there will be expresses at 9.09 and 9.14, the former stopping at Wollaston. There will be a new afternoon train at 4.41 and the 6.01 will leave at 6.15. The 9.15 will be the latest train to Boston, as the 11.05 will be dropped.

Outward the 9.15 A. M. will be dropped but it will scarcely be missed. There will be a new train at 12.30 and another at 5.30, and the late train will leave at 10.20 instead of 10.

The Electric Stalled.

For the want of power last evening the cars of the street railway were stalled for about two hours between 5 and 8. The greatest inconvenience was probably on the Houghs Neck route, the car leaving Manet Beach at 5 o'clock, standing for over two hours just this side of the crossing, with eight ladies and five children as passengers. The car was not lighted and were awfully cold and the passengers were chilled through. A cracker wagon brought them to the Centre, and they left for Boston at 8.14 instead of 5.31.

Held for Larceny.

The Boston Journal reports Eugene Kierman of South Braintree, who was arrested Thursday by officers of Station 4, Boston, and turned over to Brockton officers, charged with the burglary of L. M. Reynolds' shoe factory, to have been given a hearing in the court Friday.

Later developments caused him to be bound over to the Grand Jury in $2400 bonds, $800 each for the burglary of L. M. Reynolds, Jenks & Thomas' and Miles & Wilbur's shoe factories.

IN CONGRESS.

Senators Harris and Morgan Make Speeches Against Repeal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Two of the most distinguished senators on the Democratic side of the chamber, Harris of Tennessee and Morgan of Alabama, made vigorous attacks in the senate on the silver purchase repeal bill.

Mr. Harris asserted that the repeal of the Sherman act would be the last recognition of silver as money, and that the Republicans who were now aiding Mr. Voorhees would desert him as soon as they accomplished their purpose, and would oppose any measure that might be presented to utilize silver in any way or to any extent. Mr. Harris expressed his readiness to accept any fair and reasonable compromise and his determination to vote against unconditional repeal.

Senator Morgan ridiculed the proposed international agreement as "an idle dream, only to be realized by the fevered imagination of every enthusiastic statesman," meaning Mr. Allison (Rep., Ia.). He also characterized it as "a tub thrown to the whale," and spoke eloquently of the failure of the struggle for American independence, if this country could not establish its own financial system without the consent of Great Britain. He opposed the bill and argued for the constitutional right of the free coinage of silver. At the close of his speech he developed a good deal of animosity against President Cleveland and intimated that the Democrats would not love him for the friends he had made.

Senator Cameron (Rep., Pa.) presented a petition bearing the signature of probably more than 1000 business men of Philadelphia asking the senate to preserve the protective character of the tariff and the integrity of silver as a money metal.

Instead of the interest in the discussion of the federal elections repeal bill increasing, it is rapidly diminishing. At no time in the house yesterday after the bill was taken up were there more than 100 members present, and the average attendance throughout the debate would not exceed 25.

Gillette of Massachusetts was the chief speaker. He spoke against the bill, as did Lacey of Iowa; and Blair of New Hampshire and Deamond of Missouri and Wheeler of Alabama advocated the repeal. But the surroundings were depressing and none of the gentlemen could do themselves justice.

GOT THE MITTEN.

A Newark Politician Forsaken on the Eve of His Wedding Day.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The Recorder this morning has the following: Assistant City Counsel Samuel J. McDonald of Newark, N. J., was a very much embarrassed man yesterday when a telegram from Cincinnati announced that his bride that was to have been thrown him over and secretly wedded another man. As soon as the news became generally known, Mr. McDonald went into retirement. He was to have left Newark today to go to Cincinnati, where he was to have been married on next Tuesday.

The bride, who preferred the other man, was Miss Anna Harper. Invitations to the wedding had been freely circulated in Newark, and all of the Cincinnati Four Hundred had received them. The assistant city counsel was sitting in his office in the city hall yesterday when he received the following: My Dear Mr. McDonald—I am pained and mortified beyond expression to inform you that Anna was secretly married yesterday afternoon to a Mr. Hunter of Wyoming. Mrs. Harper is completely prostrated.

Mr. McDonald is about 30 years old and is well known in Newark. He is a prominent Democrat and has a local reputation as a dabbler in poetry and as an after-dinner speaker.

HIS "MASTER'S" POWER.

Bismarck Defined It in an Interview With the Kaiser.

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—The Zukunft, a periodical of Bismarckian tendencies, edited by Maximilian Harden, published an article concerning Bismarck and the emperor. The writer spoke of the "Collapse of the hopes of a reconciliation," and closes his comment thus: "The words exchanged by the emperor and Prince Bismarck in their last official interview continue to indicate the relations between them. In that interview the emperor said: 'You refuse, then, even if your master commands?' 'Prince Bismarck replied: 'My master's power ends at the threshold of my wife's drawing room.'"

Harden has had several interviews with Prince Bismarck in the last two years, and is supposed to receive inspiration occasionally. It is not believed, however, that in this case he speaks with authority.

Sunk Off Cuttyhunk.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Sept. 30.—The weather bureau at Gay Head reports having sighted a large steam yacht ashore on the west end of Cuttyhunk island, apparently bilged. A strong, northerly wind was blowing, causing a rough sea. The steam tugs started to her rescue, but before reaching her the yacht apparently sunk in deep water.

Instruction In Forestry.

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 30.—The forestry commissioners have voted to participate in the general agricultural meeting to be held in Keene the last week in December, and to co-operate with the faculty of the State Agricultural college in having a course in forestry instruction given during the winter term.

Crooked Bankers Indicted.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 30.—The grand jury returned true bills against Peter Lazarevit and Isaac Schaffer, the Russian Hebrew bankers, who recently made an assignment, charging them with embezzlement. Lazarevit is in jail. Schaffer is missing. G. P. Tillman, an Italian banker, was also indicted on a similar charge.

Short of Funds.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The Northern Pacific railroad will default the interest on its $19,325,000 worth of second mortgage bonds, due Oct. 1. The bonds bearing 6 per cent interest, payable semi-annually. The receivers have not in sufficient to warrant them in paying the interest.

Murder in Second Degree.

MEDIA, Pa., Sept. 30.—Thomas Rogers, accused of killing his father and shooting his mother and sister in Chester last January, was found guilty of murder in the second degree.

A Deputy Sheriff Drops Dead.

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 30.—Deputy Sheriff Daniel R. Marshall, a prominent resident of this city for more than 50 years, dropped dead at his home last night.

October Magazines.

The October number of McClure's Magazine opens with a paper, by Robert P.
 Porter, on that incomparable wit, orator and United Statesman, Thomas B. Reed, of Maine and the country at large. Mr.
 Porter has written of Mr. Reed in a straight English sort of way, that goes right to the spot. He tells us many hitherto unknown interesting things of Mr. Reed. "The Psychological Laboratory at Harvard," by Herbert Nichols, Ph. D., instructor in Psychology, Harvard University, will fascinate and interest the thoughtful. It is illuminated by a round dozen first-class illustrations.

The opening paper in the October New Peterson, "The Land of the Dawning," by M. McCarthy O'Leary, is the most interesting account of Queensland that has ever come under our notice, and is illustrated by effective photographs. Another delightful illustrated article is "Daughters of the Revolution," by Gilberta S. Whittle.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The Press this morning has the following: A business associate of John J. Van Allen, Mr.
 Cleveland's chosen ambassador to Italy, said last night that Van Allen had written to the president declining the mission to Rome. No explanation was given. But the refusal, it was said, was positive and final and would relieve the president of the present embarrassment and scandal of
 Mr. Van Allen's nomination.

MR. ADAMS' TAX.

A Little Misunderstanding as to the Valuation by Assessors.
 The Assessors may have been unjustly criticised by some who did not understand the LEDGER story of Tuesday as to Mr.
 Adams' price of $70,000, and the reported valuation of $75,000. The former, we understand, does not include all the property, while the latter includes all his real estate in Ward One, wherever situated.
 A transcript from the Assessors' books for 1893 reads:
 House on Goffe street, $16,000
 Stable, 2,500
 Land of same (17 1/2 acres), 40,000
 Land Presidents hill 11 3/4-100 acres, 4,000
 Barn and sheds on Private way, 500
 Land of Bass 1 acre, 300
 Land on Goffe street—(Prescott), 2 acres, 12,000
 Total real estate Ward One, $76,000 Certainly, Mr. Adams, whose land is the most valuable in the city for residential purposes, can find no fault with the above valuation on his land. Some residential lots in this city are taxed at 25 cents per foot, but his homestead of 17 1/2 acres is taxed at about $200 per acre or a little over five cents per foot. The lot of 11 3/4-100 acres is taxed at only $50 per acre or less than a cent per foot, and the other acre is taxed less.

 Lull of the public schools, and Mr. F. P.
 Lull, the well known musician, who for 20 years was an employee in Chickering & Sons piano manufacturing and is competent to judge. Battalia & Co.'s prices are so low that it would be profitable to employ them even on a piano worth only $10. Their factory is in Durgin & Merrill block. The testimonials:

 has been a good friend to me.

In the Spring of 1892 I cured Me of Gastritis, from which I had been a sufferer for over a dozen years and had vainly sought relief both from the medical profession and various remedies.

When I began taking Kickapoo
 Indian Sagwa I was all run down.
 After using "the medicine a short time
 I grew Stronger, Regained my Appetite, and increased my Weight, gaining over Thirty Pounds in a few months, and I have never had any recurrence of my troubles. It not only cured the Gastritis, but improved my General Health.

It gives me great pleasure to say a good word for Kickapoo Indian Sagwa and endorse its Curative
 Powers. THOS. P. FLANAGAN,

Deeds of Aspiration.
What though your lot in life seems poor and small?
What though in great accomplishment you fail?
Let not the thought of this your soul appal.
Nor think your days are spent without avail.
A noble aspiration is a deed.
Though unachieved, and He who judges man
Upon His lofty throne will give it heed.
And all will be rewarded as they plan.

Goldwin Smith's New History.
In his "Outline of Political History" Professor Goldwin Smith attempts to revise our accepted estimates of Washington, Jefferson, Webster, Clay and other great Americans, and to rearrange the status of those characters in the annals of statecraft war, and politics. In this task, which he clearly finds more congenial in purpose than easy of execution
he is less instructive than entertaining, and vastly more ambitious than effective.
It need not disturb our admiration for Goldwin Smith to discover that he refuses to place Washington among the great generals of history. Our British brethren have always stuck to that notion and are entitled to all the comfort they can get out of it. Nor need we distress ourselves that he regards Jefferson as a man who might have developed into an anarchist if the temptation had presented itself. That is merely an assumption which pleases Mr. Smith without any impairment of Jefferson's historical status.

This author's estimate of Hamilton, whom he regards as "a born aristocrat," of Aaron Burr, "a local Catiline," of Madison's "prima mediocrity" and Clay's "fingering" are interesting and sometimes amusing. We know Goldwin Smith too well to take him as seriously as he takes himself.
One striking thing about this work seems to be that the history it contains is not new and that its new things are not history. —New York Herald.

Chicago's Sham-Rock.
There is in the Irish village at Chicago a stone which Lady Aberdeen said was a genuine and historical article from Blarney. In this belief it has been kissed by tens of thousands of visitors, but it now turns out that the Countess of Aberdeen was mistaken. Sir George Colthurst, on whose estate the Blarney stone lies, threatened Lady Aberdeen with an action for libel for asserting that the stone at Chicago was the genuine article.

Whether there was any ground for a libel action may be doubted, but Lady Aberdeen had, of course, no desire to maintain in the face of a positive statement to the contrary that the stone at Chicago was the genuine article. She has accordingly agreed to withdraw the statement and publicly intimate this in the United States.

The truth is that though the Blarney stone is not at Chicago there is a stone from Blarney in the Irish village at the exhibition. The real Blarney stone lies, though not near transportation to America, but in this case probably one stone from Blarney is as good as another.—

Scotland's Mole Plague.
The mole plague in the southern counties of Scotland, which for a time proved a terrible scourge to farmers, has now all but disappeared. This is due to the fact that owls were preserved by the gamekeepers and became extraordinarily plentiful.

California-Nevada Boundary.
Professor George Davidson, head of the coast survey on the Pacific coast, is working with a party of scientists near Carson City, Nev., making observations to determine the disputed boundary between California and Nevada. The task will take two years and perhaps longer.

THE SENATE'S DELAY

Has Had Much to Do With Refard-ing Business.

FINANCIERS ARE UNEASY.

Exercising Greater Caution In Making Loans.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s
Weekly Review of Trade says:
A complete statement of failures for the quarter which closed last night is not possible, but the number thus far reported is about 4000 and the aggregate of liabilities about $150,000,000, greatly surpassing the record of a previous quarter.

For the past week the failures have been $29 in the United States against 177 last year, and in Canada 34 against 31 last year.

"Hope deferred" explains the past week in part, and it is doubtless true that many indulged unreasonable hopes, but business has not entirely answered expectations. A feeling of disappointment is commonly ascribed to delay of action on the silver bill in the senate. It is also true that many works which have resumed operations do not find orders as vigorous as they anticipated, and with some it is a question whether they will not close again. While money on call has been abundant and cheap, and about $4,000,000 clearing house certificates have been received, there is perceptible greater caution in making commercial loans here and some western points.

Wheat receipts decrease again and fall far behind last year's, but stocks are not heavy, and the price for December fell nearly 1 cent. Corn continues to come forward freely, and crop reports are not more unfavorable, but the price fell 13-8 cents. Cotton declined about 3-16, with no great change in the movement or in crop prospects, and with increasing work by the mills in this country. When stocks are unusually large their very weight at times overbalances all other considerations.

Cotton Sales Are Larger.
The cotton manufacture is gaining more than ever, and there is a stronger market for print, cloth and prints, while some reduction has helped to stimulate trade in other goods. The enormous decrease in production for the past two months begins to be felt and sales are larger, though much below the usual quantity.

Trade in woolen dress goods is better, and there is a little more demand for men's woolens, though not enough to keep employed the increased number of mills now running. Clothiers are cutting up more goods, it is said, but the change is not greater than preparations of samples for another season might cause, and there are noted attempts to clear off old stocks by opening retail stores and selling at manufacturers' prices.

While to manufacturing concerns are reported as at times wholly, or in part, against closing or reducing force, more than a third of the increase has been in cotton mills and another third in machine shops, nail mills, manufactures of stoves and hardware, tools and cars, while in the iron manufacture proper only seven concerns have started against 39 that have stopped, and the outlook does not seem brighter.

Chicago is adding to her marvellous buildings, and in structural and some other forms at the demand at that point is clearly increased. But the closing of the largest iron mine in the country, the Norrie, indicates the limited character of the business.

The return of money from the interior continues large, and plainly reflects on activity than usual in this season in domestic trade and industry.

Declines the O. R.
BOSTON, Sept. 29.—Colonel John T.
Wheelwright announced yesterday that he had formally declined the nomination for auditor on the Democratic state ticket.

He fully appreciates the honor conferred upon him, but for professional reasons he feels unable to elect to attend to the duties of the office, and, under the circumstances, he does not think it proper to remain a candidate.

Backbone of Strike Is Broken.
LOUISVILLE, Sept. 29.—A number of the striking switchmen and brakemen on the Louisville and Nashville railroad have gone back to work. Those in the East Louisville yard all went back, concluding that they had nothing to do with the shop-men's strike. This was a blow to the shopmen and brakemen, as it was unexpected.

One Killed and Many Injured.
STREATOR, Ill., Sept. 29.—A collision
four miles north of this city on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy resulted in one death and the injuries of many people.
Two freight trains came together head on.
The caboose of one of the trains contained several passengers, and they were all more or less hurt. Both engines were a total wreck.

A Baltimore Tragedy.
BALTIMORE, Sept. 29.—Julia Storr, colored, is lying at the city hospital with a bullet wound through her abdomen, which will prove fatal. She was shot by Fitz A. C. Clark, a private in battery L, United States artillery. Clark then attempted to shoot himself, but the revolver was knocked out of his hand.

"Minister to the Vatican."
LONDON, Sept. 29.—The Rome correspondent of The Central News says, "The report is confirmed that the Vatican has instructed Archbishop Salotti to influence Catholic members of Congress in Washington in favor of America's sending a diplomatic representative to the Vatican."

Widow Golditz's Lucky Find.
PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 29.—While examining a bed on which her husband died a few weeks ago Mrs. Adolph Golditz found $3000 sewed in the mattress. Golditz had not lived happily with his wife for some time.

PRAQUE, Sept. 29.—An infernal machine with a lighted match attached to it was found last night on the sill of a basement window in the central police office.

London's New Lord Mayor.
LONDON, Sept. 29.—The election held to select a successor for Lord Mayor Knill resulted in the choice of Alderman George Robert Tyler.

FUN FOR OUR GIRLS.

They Must Go Shooting and Wear Stunning
Costumes—Stylish Wraps.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—There was a time when if a woman of this country took a gun it was to shoot some prowling wildcat or chicken hawk, and that woman did not need a special outfit, from gaiters to alpine hat, to do her shooting in. She simply wiped the soapsuds off her hands, took the old shotgun from behind the door and generally had a catskin to make a rug of or a bird to nail up on the barn door as a warning to others. It is different now. Our girls can row boats, sail yachts and shoot things, but they can't do it offhand any

A SHOOTING COSTUME.

more. Maybe it is because they don't know anything about shooting. They have shooting costumes, coaching gowns, rowing vests and bicycle outfits, and when they go gunning they must have a suitable and pretty costume, or else what's the use?

So for the girls who enjoy taking the field there are special costumes. One is a checked cheviot, heavy and thick, made with a skirt short enough not to impede the wearer's movement when she sees a cow's husband, or hears some one say "snake," or she comes across a field mouse's nest. Then she has a stout pair of boots with gaiters. Her dress is not too full, nor is it scanty, and it has two rows of souchette around it. Then she has a double breasted jacket, made with plaits in the back, for there might be some one looking after all, and so there are a velvet yoke and belt, and part of her sleeves are of velvet too. The upper parts are rather large and apt to make a gun dangerous to any one in front of her, but you surely wouldn't wish to see her have no style at all.

This jacket has the visible pockets in front, and these hold handkerchief, smelling bottles, powder puff, a small mirror and seven or eight cartridges. She doesn't often need more. An alpine hat with a tiny tuft of black cock's plumes adorns her head. To be sure, they do not grow here, but it is to be supposed that she has hunted elsewhere.

Her companion is like her as regards boots and gaiters and short skirts, but she wears a gown of striped cheviot, with narrow white braiding. She has a basque with a skirt and cape and a snug belt, to which hangs a little bag of necessaries, including the two kinds of powder. They both wear suede gloves. This Diana wears a sailor hat with a white and gray pigeon wing, very suggestive of her prowess. It is noticeable that the outfit of a girl hunter never includes a game bag. The soap-suds woman would need one.

Let us leave the play day huntress to make up her new hunting gown and look at some new wraps for the cool weather so near us. One really handsome wrap is in the form of a formless sack coat, made of heavy ribbed black silk, lined with maize colored quilted satin. There is a simulated yoke formed by frills of rich purple lace, and two stole bands down the front, embroidered in chenille.
The sleeves are loose flowing, the first of this style presented since no one knows when, faced with black satin and ornamented with a fringe of upturned lace.
The yoke is the same in the back, and there is a waistcoat plait down the center embroidered like the front. This is made up in changeable wool to form part of a woolen costume. The one I saw can be worn with any costume, and was made to wear over a dress of black satin duchess.

For a stylish autumn coat for a young lady there was a redingote of large wool plaid in dull blue and gray with white and black line, and with tufted white spots where the squares meet. This lightens up the whole and makes it richer than one could imagine. The coat was cut close princess in the back and straight in front. It is double breasted and fastens with large, frosted steel buttons. It has two lines of heavy tailor stitching all around it. There are two ruffles which form caps to sleeves and a cape across the back. The garment itself has no sleeves. There is a handsome pointed gray velvet collar.

This garment is a model from which perhaps hundreds of other redingotes will be made. It can be copied in tweed, cheviot, cloth or plaid of any kind. It should entirely cover the dress beneath, with the exception of the sleeves.

A pretty hat to wear with this would be to take the pieces left of the velvet and make a high turban and set mercury rings of gray or scarlet, one at each side, or blue if blue is more becoming.

Latest Outrage of Chinese on Missions.

The latest collision between foreign missionaries and the Chinese populace may serve as a typical example of these regrettable incidents. Two inexperienced men, beginning to learn the Chinese language, find themselves planted in hostile district, acquire land and erect buildings in a style notoriously offensive to the native people, and it is fair to assume do other things in keeping therewith. The popular hate, which needed no fostering, simmers awhile and at a given moment breaks out in a murderous explosion, the poor missionaries becoming martyrs, not to Christianity, but rather to their own deplorable lack of judgment.

Of course the rioters deserve to be severely dealt with. It is dangerous to leave them unpunished. Yet we know they will not be punished, for the Chinese government will do neither good nor evil that it can avoid, and moreover,
though it may not approve of mob violence,
its sympathies are naturally and necessarily with its own people, and not with the intrusive and always hateful foreigners. As for the western powers, the diplomatic fiasco of 1891 afforded conclusive proof that none of them has a clear enough conscience to coerce the Chinese in such a matter. —A. Michie in London Times.

Carp Peeling the Bark Off Trees.

For some months past farmers whose fields touch the Darby creek near Ardmore, Pa., have noticed that the bushes and small trees along the water's edge were dying. An investigation showed that the bark had been peeled off the trunks near the ground. Only bushes and trees that overhang the creek are affected. The farmers thought it must be the work of rabbits, and as the depredations extended for three miles a whole safari was planned for the bushes. The herbivore A. Enoch says that a timely and startling discovery thwarted the farmers in their crusade. With loaded gun a farmer sat by the stream to watch for the shrub destroyers when he beheld a large carp leap from the water and catch at the bushes. It was after a fly that had lighted there, but in its endeavor to get it tore off a considerable chunk of bark. Then another carp was seen doing the same thing. They had actually girdled all the bushes on the banks for miles in catching flies. —Philadelphia Record.

The Era of Speculation.

In these days of speculation and of tremendous fluctuation in Wall street prices it is not surprising that weak human nature yields to great temptation.
The wonder is not that a cashier, a paying teller, a president, a custodian of trust funds, yields, but that so few among the large number of comparatively poor men, handling hundreds of thousands of dollars and in many instances securities valued at millions, fall by the wayside. It stands to reason that where one is detected half a dozen escape disgrace, a lucky turn in speculation enabling them to recoup the strong-box and to replace the borrowed assets.
It may be doubted if any of the long list of defaulters intended at the outset to defraud their employers or their customers. It's the old story. The unexpected happened, the money was lost, the hypotheated securities were sold, and the inevitable discovery brought ruin upon the defaulter and shame upon his family and friends. —New York Recorder.

The Tramp Nuisance.

The tramp fraternity has made itself unusually obnoxious during the hard times, and hence measures have been resorted to for the purpose of suppressing it. In San Francisco the tramps that infested and robbed the docks were driven out by ducking them in the sea.
In Boston it seems that the sacred common had literally fallen into the hands of tramps before the police could be aroused to a sense of their duty. Pedestrians were accosted at all hours of the day and night, and if they did not give were cursed and even struck, according to the hour and the loneliness of the locality. Women were bullied and insulted and children robbed of their pennies. Finally the police decided to raid the common and rid it of its banditry. Twenty-five arrests were made, the prisoners were sent "to the island," the common is now safe for travelers, and children may sail their boats in the frog pond without fear of molestation. —New York Evening Post.

African Explorers Fighting Duels.

There seems, as a rule, to be no love lost among explorers. Lately we had the affair between two officers in west Africa, one of whom lost his life by some mysterious means which the Senegal authorities are endeavoring to elucidate. Now, two gentlemen who were connected with the Maistre exploration party on the Atlantic side of the dark continent have been quarreling over their rights in the matter of the publication of scientific notes, plans and photographs.

These rivals, MM. Brunache and de Behaghe, have had two duels with one another within a week. The first met a few days since on the Grande Jatte island and had a pistol encounter without any serious result. They afterward selected rapier, and after a brisk bout both were wounded. M. de Behaghe in the forehead, his opponent in the right little finger. —London Telegraph.
